BRITAIN'S NEW FLEET EQUALS ITALY'S NAVY

Ships Carrying 18 Inch Guns Be Unable To Pass Through Panama Canal Lecturer Says

Great Britain At Present Has Million Tons Fleet In Commission

"Has air power revolutionized sea power? this has been one of the problems of naval critics and particularly retired admirals until very recently," said Dr. G. S. Graham, professor of History at Queen's University, in his lecture on "The Problem of Naval Rivalry" to the Women Teachers' Guild in the Y.W.C.A. on Friday evening.

The speaker pointed out that though the power to do damage of the aerial bomber is great, and complicates the matter of naval defence, it cannot transport troops or supplies, or guard merchant shipping against attack by sea. So battleships are needed and the principal arguments at the present time have to do with their size. Also, the future of the battleship is tied up with British foreign policy, based as it is on the extent of British power to command the seas.

The key to the whole business is in the size of gun used. Guns of larger calibre need larger ships. In 1900 the British navy had the 12 inch gun, weighing 50 tons, and the 15,000 ton battleship to carry it. Twenty-five years later it had been replaced by the 16 inch gun weighing 104 tons and the 35,000 ton battleship. "At present," said Dr. Graham, "Great Britain has a million ton fleet in commission, and is rapidly building another fleet which will equal the whole Italian navy."

Japan Refused

An attempt to stop the costly race in naval armaments was made in the spring of last year, when England, France and America agreed on the 14-inch gun as the largest to be used, and tried to put pressure on Japan to agree also. Japan refused, and perhaps because Russia is supposed to be experimenting with 18 inch guns. "If Japan and the other powers should decide to build 18 inch guns," said the speaker, "it would be a serious matter for the United States, as the ships needed to carry them could not pass through the Panama Canal." Rear Admiral Phelps suggests that the problem may be solved by building mammoths no wider but longer than at present, and Admiral Stanley says, "The sky's the limit," as to size.

Sir John Fisher, who became First Sea Lord in 1904, was the "mad architect" of the modern British navy. He was one of the most curious figures in history," said Dr. Graham. King Edward VII was fond of him, but he was unpopular with his equals though his subordinates liked him. His religion was of the Old Testament kind, and he was convinced that on the Day of Judgment cabinet ministers, such as Lloyd George and Winston Churchill who opposed his naval building scheme, "would get their just deserts," along with all the retired admirals.

In 1905 fear of the new German navy was showing itself in England, but in 1906 Fisher's first Dreadnought was launched after 18 months high pressure work. "It converted the Kiel Canal into a useless ditch until the summer of 1914," said Dr. Graham. It give Great Britain 19 months head start over other nations in the construction of the modern battleships.

Far Distant Dream

"At present the experts cannot agree as to what size of battleship is most useful," declared the speaker, "and 'Collective Security' on the oasis of naval equilibrium seems a far distant dream."

Up to 1916 Britain was predominant on the seas. Now she controls the North Atlantic and the Mediterranean; the United States controls coasts of North and South America; and Japan is predominant in the China Seas. "It would take fleets three times the size of the present British and U.S. ones to go to Japan and fight with success so far from their source of supplies, was the contention of Dr. Graham. For the same reason, Japan would find it exceedingly difficult to invade the coast of this continent.

The president of the Women's Teachers' Guild, Miss Hel n Staples, spoke briefly at the beginning, and called on Miss Vera Burgess to introduce the speaker. In her introduction, Miss Burgess mentioned that Dr. Graham was but recently appointed to Queen's having returned from Harvard. He obtained his Master's degree at Queen's University, and his Doctor's degree at Cambridge, where "he was famous for the two H's, History and Hockey." A vote of thanks was proposed by Dr. J. A. Bannister.

Eggs Firm In Price Chickens Plentiful

Eggs firmed in price on the Farmers' Market this morning to sell again above the 40-cent mark, some farmers asking 45 cents a dozen for their offerings. Low mark in the price range was 35 cents a dozen for smaller specimens.

Chickens were still in large volume at 20 to 25 cents a pound and ducks sold at 22 to 24 cents. Butter was inclined toward a higher price at 28 to 32 cents a pound.

A truckload of potatoes went for 60 cents a bag early in the morning but the retail price was still firm at 70 and 75 cents a bag. Apples were plentiful at 25 to 45 cents a peck.

ERIC W. HOWE IS LAID TO REST

The funeral of Eric W. Howe, well known young Peterborough man, was held on Friday afternoon from the residence of his father, 288 Park street. Born 26 years ago, Eric Howe died very suddenly following an operation. He was well known as a hockey player, having played with the old St. John's Juniors, later with the Peterborough intermediates and also the City Hockey League.

A member of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, his pastor the Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr had charge of the service. Hundreds of friends gathered at the home to pay their last respects to the deceased. Members of the staff of the Prudential Life acted as flower bearers, carrying out the great array of floral wreaths and sprays. Fellow employees of his father from the Canadian General Electric Company turned out in large numbers as well as representatives of the City Hockey League and members of various teams on which he had played.

A member of Corinthian Lodge A.F. & A.M., the Masonic part of the service was in charge of Rt. Wor. Bro. R. F. Downey, Rt. Wor. Bro. J. F. Allin and Wor. Bro. Charles Ray.

The pallbearers were Wor. Bros. Charles Ray, and W. C. Hughes, and Bros. Cyril Crowe, E. R. Shirley, Donald Loucks and G. Wilson Craw.

Interment was made in Little Lake Cemetery.

Surviving are his wife, formerly Margaret Jean Warne; one son Robert Eric; one brother, Ronald Howe, of Halifax, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Howe.

E. VINCENT GIVES PALESTINE TALK

"The earth is the Lord's," and one section of it, bounded by the Rivers Nile and Euphrates, was given by the Lord to Abraham and his seed for ever under an unconditional covenant. This was the point stressed by E. Vincent of Toronto, speaking to a capacity audience in the Paragon Hall on Friday night, under the auspices of the local branch British-Israel World Federation.

The speaker pointed out that the possession of Palestine has been in the hands of Abraham's seed from the day of the gift up to the present time. Israel entered and possessed it, and when driven out was followed by the Saracens, the Arabs and the Turks, all descendants of Abraham.

Israel, taken captive in 721 B.C., by the Assyrians, migrated to "the Isles of the Sea" and manifest themselves to-day as "a nation and a company of nations" — the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Israel-Britain drove out the Turk in 1917, and in doing so fulfilled the prophecy of Christ that "Jerusalem should be trodden down by the Gentiles until the times of the Gentiles [illegible] commenced in 604 B.C. when the Kingdom of Judah was carried captive by the Babylonians. This treading down process was to continue for a period of seven times or 2520 years—604 B.C. plus 2520 years—1917 A.D.

The speaker quoted Scripture showing that only a remnant of the House of Judah returned to Palestine under the edict of Cyrus. These were the Jews—the Yehudin or remnant of the House of Judah. They formed the nation of the Jews which existed until A.D. 70 when they were destroyed, as a nation, by Rome.

Quoting Jeremiah 19, the speaker showed that God ordained that they the Jews, should never again become a nation; [illegible] modern Jewry for a Jewish State in Palestine can never be granted. According to the speaker the Jew can only go back under the aegis of Israel-Britain in accordance with prophecy, "one of a family, two of a city," and as Christians. They can never again come under covenant relationship with God except in this manner.

The Arab has a Divine charter (Genesis 16 and 17) granting him perpetual domicile in the land, therefore he can not be driven out.

The only solution to the question of the ownership of Palestine is that it shall be made a Crown colony or a Dominion, with King George VI. crowned as King of Palestine, as he is crowned King of other British Dominions. The Israel-British throne must hold rulership until He comes whose right it is.

STARTED IN BUSINESS 50 YEARS AGO.

Just 50 years ago this morning, former Mayor T. H. G. Denne started in the flour, feed and grain business in Peterborough, his store being located on Charlotte street just about where the beverage room of The Empress Hotel is now located. Recalling the event today, Mr. Denne remarked that it was just another such morning as today, foggy and mild that he threw open his doors to the public for the first time. The Peterborough of that day was a very different place, there were no cement sidewalks and of course no pavements and the river steamers used to land at the foot of Charlotte street. Mr. Denne saw the old market disappear and a new one take its place.

Peterborough's street lamps are being turned on progressively earlier these afternoons as another season of the long nights advances. A few days ago they flashed on about six minutes to five o'clock, and the operator at the sub-station at the corner of Aylmer and Sherbrooke Streets who is entrusted with that community duty turned them off about seven o'clock.

Records for the last twelve or thirteen months down at Ross L. Dobbin's headquarters show what everyone would naturally expect that the street lights are kept burning longest when the days are shortest, and the illumination period is shortest when June is lush and lovely and the days are the longest of the year.

On January 8 last the lamps were kept alight fifteen hours, and the operator's notation mentioned that it was a dark morning. So was January 14, when the lamps glowed 14 hours and 55 minutes. That was in the period of winter solstice, when the sun reaches its southerly limit at the tropic of Capricorn. At the other extreme the city's light bill should have been easiest on the public purse on June 22 last when the period of street lighting was only 7 hours and 56 minutes, at the summer solstice when the sun halts at its northern limit and slowly turns south again.

Street lights were turned on earliest during the year on December 20 at 4.45 p.m., and the latest was at 8.10 p.m. on June 22. With daylight saving in effect, or simply summer time, according to rural industrial practice, that hour would have been 9.10 p.m.

The latest they were turned off was on January 14, at 7.45 a.m. and the earliest was 4.05 on June 22.

The city's street lighting system is wired in five circuits, controlled by five circuits, which can be separately controlled.

COUNCIL OF YORK ENDORSES ROAD

Approval was given by York County Council Thursday to the scheme of the Central Ontario Highways Association for a cross-country provincial highway connecting Peterborough and Orangeville.

D. W. Bowes, secretary of the Highway Association, showed council an illustrated map of the proposed route of the new highway. "It would be the last connecting link in a direct highway across Ontario from Goderich to Montreal," said Mr. Bowes. "Such a highway would cost about $2,000,000, while the dual highway being constructed between Windsor and Montreal is costing in the neighborhood of $200,000,000."

CHILDREN'S AID PLAN IS SHELVED UNITED COUNTIES

NAPANEE, Ont., Nov. 27 (CP).—Lennox and Addington County Council concluded its final session of the year by deciding yesterday the Peterborough County resolution regarding representation on the Children's Aid Society be tabled until the January session.

Reeve T. D. Creighton of Ernestown Township suggested council pass a resolution refusing to pay more than 50 cents a day per child to the society, because so many foster homes were available in the county to care for children at 40 cents a day.

Finance committee reported estimated expenditures would exceed the appropriations by $6,000, administration of justice in connection with the Robert Woodman murder trial being a $5,000 item that had been foreseen. Woodman was acquitted of the murder of Aubrey Sedore, after a lengthy trial.

Arrears of taxes on Amherst Island were reduced by $3,000. It was recommended $100 be appropriated towards the erection of a memorial tablet in Kingston General Hospital jointly by the hospital and County of Lennox and Addington in recognization of the bequest of the late Reuben Daniel Schermerhorn, a former resident of Richmond Township.

Council went on record as being opposed to the Provincial Government taking over county roads, of which there are 135 miles in Lennox and Addington. 65 miles being paved. Erection of four miles of snow fences is about to begin.

Turkey Dinner Most Successful.

The annual turkey dinner served by the Women's Association of St. Andrew's United Church was a most successful event of Friday evening.

The Rev. E. W. Young welcomed the guests, and long before the appointed hour for dinner to begin, crowds were waiting in the Sunday School Hall, and the many ladies assisting in serving were kept very busy for some time.

The long tables in the dining-room were most attractive with their snowy cloths decorated with long red streamers, and at intervals, ferns and red poinsettias, and red candles glowing in silver candelabra and junior holders. Cedar boughs and poinsettias were prettily used as wall decorations.

The president, Mrs. G. H. Roper, and Mrs. F. L. Robinson were general convenors, and were very ably assisted by a large number of members of the association.

A delightful musical program while dinner was in progress added to the general enjoyment. It included solos by Miss Isabel Weddell, song by ladies' trio, Mrs. R. Williamson, Mrs. J. Johnston and Miss Margaret Weir; solos by H. C. Tremeer, playing his own accompaniment; piano duets by R. B. Harle, A.T.C.M. and Gordon Harle; solos by Adam Hawley. Mr. Harle, organist of St. Andrew's, arranged the program and was the accompanist for the vocal solos.

Caledonians Scottish Evening.

With F. J. A. Morris as guest speaker, and a splendid musical program of Scottish songs, Caledonians spent an enjoyable "St. Andrew's Night" in their club rooms at the Woodmen of the World Hall on Friday evening.

J. Miller was chairman, and the meeting opened with a medley of Scotch airs, played on the piano by Miss Edna Borland, who was also accompanist for the evening.

Mrs. A. H. Radford, playing her own accompaniment, delighted with two song numbers, "Comin' Through the Rye" and "Robin Adair." John Anderson received great applause for old favorite numbers, "Cam' ye by Athol" and "Jessie, the Flower o' Dumblane." Mrs. O. Sugden was well received in her rendering of "My Ain Folk" and "Over the Sea to Skye." Alick Milne gave two humorous Scotch readings. W. May sang "We are a' Jock Tamson's Bairns" and "The Road to the Isles."

The audience received a great treat when Mr. Morris spoke on Sir James Barrie. A brief sketch of the author's life, with excerpts from his works, given in the speaker's own inimitable style and true to the dialect of Barrie's part of the country, was very charming to Scottian ears. Two chapters from "A Window in Thrums," though well-known to such an audience, had the power to cause gales of laughter. This charming, informal talk will linger long with those who were privileged to hear it.

A vote of thanks to Mr. Morris and all the other artists was proposed by A. D. Clark. Refreshments were served, and a pleasant evening brought to a close.

The hall was beautifully decorated, as was also the table, and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, wore an ankle-length gown of turquoise blue velvet, made on princess lines, with jacket. Her off -the-face hat was also of velvet of the same shade as her dress and with it was worn a nose veil. Her shoes were blue suede and she wore a corsage of pink roses and carried a white prayer book and rosary.

The bridesmaid was the groom's neice, Miss Veronica Murphy, of Ennismore, who wore a dress of brown lace over taffeta with brown hat, shoes and accessories. She also wore a corsage of roses and carried a prayer book and rosary.

The ceremony was performed and the Nuptial Mass said by Rev. J. J. McCarthy, Rev. Fr. Gilliogly of Ennismore being present in the sanctuary. The wedding march was played by the organist, Mrs. T. Kennedy and during the Mass the choir sang hymns. The Mass was served by Gerard and Stephen Leahy, brothers of the bride. The wedding dinner was served to some forty guests at the home of the bride's parents, Rev. Fathers McCarthy and Gilliogly being among the guests.

The groom's gifts to bride and bridesmaid were dainty wristwatches and to the groomsman a watch and chain.

A reception was held in the evening attended by about one hundred and fifty guests. Many splendid gifts were received by the young couple.

For travelling the bride wore brown crepe trimmed with brown satin, brown hat and shoes and navy coat with wolf collar. The honeymoon will be spent in Niagara Falls and Detroit. On their return they will reside on their farm in Ennismore.

Brackenridge-Rowland.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 27.—A very pretty late fall wedding was solemnized in St. Andrew's United church on Wednesday, November 24, at 2.30 p.m., when Sadie Elizabeth, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Rowland, was united in marriage to Norman James Howard Brackenridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Brackenridge, the Rev. A. L. Sisco performing the ceremony.

The church was beautifully decorated with mauve and gold chrysanthemums and ferns, the guests pews being each marked off with a single 'mum caught with a bow of white satin ribbon.

The bridal party entered the church to the strains of the Wedding March from Lohengrin, played by Miss Hetherington; the bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looking lovely in her wedding gown of white satin, made in jacket style, the latter of Chantilly lace bound with satin; veil of white embroidered net held in place by a three-strand coronet of orange blossoms, and of finger-tip length; white gloves and slippers, and carrying an arm bouquet of ping Talisman roses tied with wide white satin ribbon.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Anna Rowland, who wore a becoming dress of brown triple sheer, floor length, with semi-coronet of small gold roses in her hair, and carried a bouquet of large 'mums shading from pal mauve to cream and gold, and tied with wide gold satin ribbon.

The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Arthur Brackenridge, and the ushers were Mr. Johnston Rowland and Mr. Ernest Brackenridge. Following the ceremony at the church, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, the bridal party standing under a large white bell, with streamers of fluted pink forming an arch. Mr. and Mrs. Brackenridge were assisted in receiving by the parents of both the bride and groom, Mrs. Rowland wearing burgundy crepe with corsage of 'mums in a matching shade, and the groom's mother navy triple sheer, with corsage of roses.

The dining-room was done in a color scheme of pink and white, with large wedding-bell over the centre of the table, pink streamers carried to the four corners, pink candles burning in silver holders, and the handsome three-story wedding cake having the place of honor by the central reflector. The guests numbered approximately sixty, and later in the evening, amid showers of confetti, the bride and groom left by train for their wedding trip to Ottawa, the former travelling in a becoming dress of navy crepe, with brilliant clips and buckle, navy hat, and matching accessories; her top coat was in gray-blue shade, collared in gray fur.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Brackenridge will reside on the groom's farm, Second Line, Cavan.

Included among the many beautiful wedding gifts of which the young couple were the recipients, was a pair of silver candle sticks from the bride's Sunday School class; the contents of two showers; a walnut dining-room suite; two occasional upholstered chairs, with walnut frames; Kenwood blankets, fine table linen; mirrors, china, silver, and a host of other both lovely and useful articles.

Fun to Read Palms—Easy to Know How

In no time you can know enough palmistry to read your palm—and your friends' palms, too. And how they love it!

See the Heart Line running across the top of your palm? If it branches where it starts, much love comes your way. If you've a little horizontal line close to the Heart Line where it ends — you'll probably marry early. But a break on the little line implies a separation some day.

Luck? A star on your palm says Fortune has her eye on you. Money? A strongly developed third finger promises plenty of it.

But beware! Don't contradict a lad with a very long second finger. He's a Saturnian and must be "yessed." As for the girl with wide spaces between her fingers—be cagy, she's much too curious.

Easy to remember these and other pointers in our 32-page booklet on palmistry. Fun at parties, picnics, evenings at home.

Trinity Y.P. Club Presents Group of Three Plays

Almost every one loves comedy, and it's a stodgy person who doesn't glory in a farce! That is just the reason why the large audience was so delighted with the group of plays presented by Trinity Y.P. Club last night in Reid Street Hall.

These two snappy one-act comedies entitled "Peter" and "A Little Fowl Play," were a decidedly welcome change from the usual trite offerings in three acts. While entirely different in character, each of these little plays kept the audience in waves of laughter from the first word to the drop of the curtain.

Undoubtedly, much of the success of the effort was due to the inimitable characterization of the actors, who were exceptionally well-chosen. Evidence of efficient training was shown in the perfect ease with which the productions were carried out, as directed by Edna Forster in "A Little Fowl Play" and George Nicholls in "Peter."

Malcolm Latimer of the Y.P. executive was the genial chairman of the occasion, announcing the cast of characters and the splendid intermission numbers. These included a group of solos by Jimmy Sands, a favorite entertainer, who sang "Willie, Willie, Willie," and "How long have you been married?"

In different vein the quaint songs by the club quartette were in fine harmony as they sang "In the Gloaming" and "Love's Old Sweet Song." The members of the quartette were John Weir, Viola Sexsmith, Clifford Cruickshanks and Lyle Leckie.

The trials of Abe and Ike were recounted in a farcical story told with realistic gestures and mirth-provoking diction, by George Nicholls who also acted as accompanist for the singers. Working the whole audience into the spirit of the evening the chairman invited them to join in the enthusiastic sing-song during intermission.

In thanking all those present for their patronage, Mr. Latimer explained the financial objective of the club, which is a very worthy one. To augment the funds, some girls of the club sold dainty boxes of candy, and Christmas cards were also on sale.

Just three characters enacted the first merry skit, of which the hero is Peter, who paradoxically never appeared. As the curtain rises, all is in darkness and a figure with flashlight in hand crept in the window, producing an atmosphere of thrilling suspense. An overturned chair brought an investigator in the person of "Jenny," a daring, independent type of girl, who apprehends the burglar, Charlie, and holds him at bay with her own gun. However, she relents when she finds he is just stealing the house cat, "Peter," whom she thoroughly detests. In the midst of their more-friendly intercourse, Jenny's aunt, Miss Eastman, Peter's fond owner, appears on the scene with hair curlers and negligee. Explanations and complications follow in rapid succession. Charlie vanishes through the window as he came, and the two ladies take turns in swooning.

Peter alone remains unperturbed having been bought back by his mistress in mistake for the pedigreed Angora Charlie claimed him to be. The swooning act was put on when the truth came out. This delightful comedy of errors was splendidly played by Marie Kearns, as Jenny, Margaret Weir as Miss Eastman and George Nicholls as Charlie.

In "A Little Fowl Play" originally put on in the coliseum, London, is a fine scope for dramatic ability, to which the actors last night did full justice. Aside from the clever play on words, the plot was a comparatively simple one, the comedy depending for its success upon the histrionic skill of the cast.

This story is told by five characters, namely: Gilbert Warren, Bill Panjoy; Sybil Warren, Gwylda Pakenham; Mr. Tolbooth, Charlie Huffman; Mary, Mary Thompson; the Boy, Clegg Hall; and the whole enacted in the study of Gilbert Warren's apartment at 13 Balfour Mansion's, at Balham. Here the story centres about a certain fowl that met with foul play and nearly wrecks the domestic happiness of a home.

Gilbert Warren whose part was so excellently portrayed by Mr. Panjoy, was a struggling young author, who when asked if he were interested in literature, said "yes," and pointing to a pile of manuscripts—"Here's the litter." In trouble with the butcher through lack of funds there was no meat one day. When by a curious coincidence a fowl was sent to No. 13 by mistake, which Gilbert considered a God-send of which he took instant advantage. This brings about a multiplicity of deceptions with their attendant punishment. But Gilbert with suave eloquence proves himself equal to every dilemma, even making an effort to borrow "four and sixpence" from the owner to pay for his own chicken.

Both major and minor characters, though amateurs came very near to professional perfection. The promoters, as well as the directors of the plays are to be congratulated upon their splendid success and it is hoped they will give repeat presentation of them at some future time."

Branch Notes

St. John's Branch

The meeting of St. John's A.Y.P.A. on Wednesday evening, was devotional and was in charge of Miss Doris Davis and her group. It was opened with prayer and the singing of one of the A.Y. hymns "The Church's One Foundation". An outline of the life of the author of that hymn by the (Rev T. J. Stone) was ably given by Viola Clark. The speaker for the evening, Mrs. Cridland was introduced by the president, Gordon Clegg, and her talk was on a chapter from the A. Y. Study Book "The Way of Witnesses" by Edward Shillito, based on the New Testament and characters concerned therein, which was very interesting. A vote of thanks was moved to the speaker for preparing such a fine address by Norma Pammett and seconded by Doris Davis. "If" by Rudyard Kipling and "Abu Ben Adhem" by Lee Hunt were two poems given by Ed McDonald.

Two guessing contests were held guessing the first lines of hymns and also the tunes after a few notes had been played. Ed McDonald led the members in a few games, which ended a very successful evening. Members of St. John's who have gone to the provincial conference in St. Catherines are Helen Rosell, Florence Hutchinson, Rev. R. T. P. Brain and Gordon Clegg. A business meeting is planned for next week. The bowling dance is to be held in the Paragon Hall on Tuesday evening with Jack Marshall's Orchestra.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

READ HIS HOLDING

IF YOU TRY to do a bit of card reading on your partner's hand, you sometimes can tell almost exactly what he has to hold in order to have made some particular bid. This can then indicate a clear cut line of defense whereby, perhaps, you should give him a discouraging signal in the suit he has led and thereby cause him to shift to another suit in which you and he have the damaging pasteboards.

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

After two passes, the bidding on this deal was started by East with 1-Diamond, North called 2-Clubs, East 2-Diamonds, South 3-Hearts and North 4-Hearts.

When the diamond K was cashed, East played the 8 and when the A was played East continued the signal by playing the 4. Following his partner's instructions, West led another diamond, which South ruffed. Two rounds of trumps were now drawn and three spades were discarded on North's setup clubs. The declarer therefore made five on a contract in which he should have been set.

Even though West's third hand bid might have been rather weak, it was logical to assume that he held some cards outside of the diamonds. Hearts and clubs were accounted for, so any side strength held by West was evidently in spades. East's correct procedure, holding four diamonds himself, was not to encourage diamond leads but to hope that by playing a discouraging card West would switch to a spade. Played in that way three spades and two diamonds could have been taken before the declarer gained control.

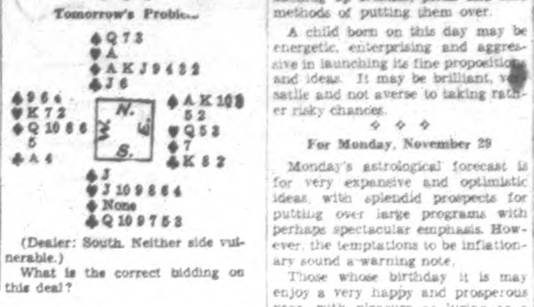
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

What is the correct bidding on this deal?

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"Did you ever think of the man on the hill,
The man who can pay every one of his bills?
You judge him with envy, you wish you were he,
And yet he's as lonely a man as can be.
His house shows the world what ambition can do,
His cars and his raiment all prove the fact true.
And still he's the loneliest man in town,
For once he's climbed up, he must never step down."

—Roberta.

Dear Friends:)

Don't hold it against me for writing the verse above, but I could not find a quotation to fit so I had to make one. I have no idea of competing with real poets, so that's that.

Yet I had a letter from just such a man the other day. He says in part: "Altho' you do not know me I know you, and read your articles every time they appear. You have written about many things, but did you ever think of writing about fellows like me? I would like to see how you would handle it." . . . "Please let it appear in an early issue of the Examiner."

So, when you are wishing you were a big man in the business world, do not forget that altho' the cream rises to the top, there is always more milk than there is cream.

Don't forget either that once you have risen you must stay up, else you will be more severely criticized than the fellow who stayed on a lower level.

Your big house can be just a lonely as a small one, and where the poorer person can give a quarter, the other must give a dollar, or maybe ten, else be called a tight-wad.

When you live in a small place, friends do not fear to drop in, but when you live in a mansion they wait to be invited, and sometimes your wealth overpowers them so much, they are not comfortable when they do come.

Then too, when you have riches or power, everything you do is noted, whereas the poorer man is never even noticed. If you try to be friends with those you knew earlier in life before success overtook you, they think you are patronizing them.

If you do succeed in breaking down the barriers, someone is sure to say the other fellow is only currying favor with you for all he can get from you, so that there is no real permanence in this friendship.

Again, you will find those who will try to use you for your influence, those who expect you to hand over to them some of the fruits of your labor, and are indignant when you don't. Oh, it's a cold lonely place sometimes, this house you have built for yourself on top of a hill.

If you are a boss, you mustn't be too friendly with those under your jurisdiction, for then someone is sure to say you are only using him as a spy, and your friendship will turn his mates' mind against him.

Of course it isn't all bleak by any means, for you can meet friends who have climbed the hill also, yet if they are your competitors you must be eternally on guard. What you must realize is, that there are more followers than leaders, and that if you are a leader you must pay the price, and that it often is worth it.

But loneliness, and misunderstanding, and seekers after what you have acquired, and wonder about sincerity, are some of the things you must pay for your exalted state. But carry out you destiny for only in that way will you ever be truly happy. Even the poorest of us must put up with all of these things, so do not let the thought of them corrode the pleasure in your success. How do you like my handling of it, "Mr. Man?" Let me know. More later? Maybe. Your Friend, ROBERTA.

Neat Sum Raised By Annual Supper

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Nov. 27.—Mrs. J. M. Armstrong entertained the Ladies' Aid of Grace Presbyterian church for its November meeting at her home, Eighth Line, Cavan, on Thursday at 3 p.m., when thirty-three members and visitors were in attendance.

The chair was taken by the president, Mrs. J. R. Thompson, the lesson for the worship period being the Twenty-third Psalm recited in unison., with prayer by Miss Agnes Johnson, who also gave a reading, 'Hear the Truth." Miss Ruth Thorndyke read a paper, "Thoughts on Friendship", and the treasurer, Miss Jean Syer, gave an up-to-date financial statement, including the satisfactory report that a total of $209.30 was taken in at the recent fowl supper, with $148.07 cleared. The president voiced her appreciation of the loyal support given throughout this annual undertaking, and the remainder of the business period was taken up with arrangements for the annual bazaar and hot supper, which will be held in the Waverly club rooms on the first Saturday in December.

Convenors for the tables at the supper will be Mrs. Mervan Kinsman and Miss Ruth Thorndyke; Mrs. H. Ball, and Mrs. S. E. Eakins; Mrs. N. Belch and Mrs. Suttle Pritchard. The fancy work booth will be largely furnished with aprons and towels, Mrs. A. S. Hall, Mrs. H. A. Kerr, and Mrs. Z. Seaton to be in charge.

The "general store" will again be a feature of the sale, Mrs. R. J. McKnight, Mrs. H. C. Lord, and Mrs. T. C. Ingram acting as saleslades. Mrs. J. D. Armstrong brought a quilt top for Thursday's meeting, beautiful in design and workmanship, which she donated to the Aid, Mrs. Belch's group to look after supplies for completing the quilt, which when finished will be put up for sale.

Owing to intervening events, the next meeting will be on the first Wednesday in the new year, when annual reports will be received and the election of officers will take place. Convenors of the several groups were asked to have all their money in before that date that the treasurer may balance her books, and close the year's accounts.

Mrs. N. Belch's group served dainty refreshments at the close of the meeting, when the usual social hour was enjoyed, Mrs. Ingram moving the votes of thanks which were unanimously endorsed with a hearty handclap.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLLE

For Sunday, November 28.

Sunday's horoscope is an excellent one for the affairs of church, state the philanthropy, as well as all cultural pursuits. All should flourish. Yet, amusements, sports, all manner of social and domestic functions, and "sentimental journeys" may lure from commonplace activities.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of excellent prospects for the expansion of their affairs and fortunes by constructive and definitely aggressive policies, backing up brilliant plans and bold methods of putting them over.

A child born on this day may be energetic, enterprising and aggressive in launching its fine propositions and ideas. It may be brilliant, yet natural and not averse to taking rather risky chances.

For Monday, November 29

Monday's astrological forecast is for very expansive and optimistic ideas, with splendid prospects for putting over large programs with perhaps spectacular emphasis. However, the temptations to be inflationary sound a warning note.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a very happy and prosperous year with pleasure as luring as a big opportunity. In business affiliations, the openings are excellent for large coups, but there is danger from inflation and overexpansion.

A child born on this day may be notable for its "excellent parts" both in business and in its personal popularity and social graces. It may have a sympathetic, congenial, convivial nature with much allure, and may demand more than its share of the limelight.

Notre Dame To Continue Their Schedule With Star Gridders

Schedule For Next 3 Years Gives Lie To Rumors Of De-emphasizing Of Irish College

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—Notre Dame, pioneer of big-game intersectional football, will continue to play outstanding teams from coast to coast for the next four years, it was revealed to-day by a perusal of the Irish schedules through 1941.

It had been hinted in some quarters that Notre Dame planned to de-emphasize football. These surmises grew out of the fact that Notre Dame this season officially asked the sports writers to refrain from referring to the team as "Ramblers." The fact that Pittsburg was dropped from the Irish schedule also led to the same conclusion.

Year after year Notre Dame plays the toughest schedule in the country. The next four years will be no exception of Notre Dame's tough ... of the past. Only Pitt will be missing from the Irish schedule ... years.

The fact that Notre Dame hasn't had an unbeaten team since Knute Rockne produced his masterpiece in 1 ... doesn't enter into the arrangement of the Irish schedule.

The administration of Notre Dame doesn't expect or ask for national championship teams. All they de... of Elmer Layden, athletic director and head coach, is to produce teams representative of Notre Dame.

Coach Prefers Tough Schedule.

Layden himself prefers to play the best teams he can book.

"If we have to lose," says Layden, "we might as well lose to good teams. Our players would rather lose a hard game to a good team than run wild over a weak one."

If any one thinks Notre Dame is looking for soft touches, take a peek at the Irish schedule for the next four years. Thirty-six games, nine per season, have been scheduled through 1941 as follows:

Army, Navy, Georgia Tech, Northwestern, Carnegie Tech, Northern Western, Carnegie Tech and Southern California each year. Kansas ... Minnesota in 1938. Southern Methodist, Iowa and Purdue in 1939. Arizona and Iowa in 1940. Indiana and Iowa in 1941. Illinois each year except 1939, when no date could be arranged.

Since Layden came to Notre Dame the Irish have consistently outdrawn any team in the country. In 1934 Notre Dame played before 417,000 persons, a new record for a season in which three games were lost. In 1935 the Irish played before 467,000 ... a new record for a season in which one game was lost. In 1936 they attracted 481,000, a new record for a season in which two games were lost.

This year's team, which has lost two games and tied one, will come close to last year's mark. Already the Irish have played to 424,000 in eight games and a crowd of 50,000 is expected to attend the season's finale against Southern California on Saturday at South Bend.

Back In Rugby

Inside Sportin' Dope

BY A. WISE CRACKER

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well Mac, I gotta write this of course before Saturday's rugby games has been played and I'm hoping that by the time the gaze of the public falls on this that the P. C. I. kids will be the Cossa champions and the Orfuns will be in there in the intermediate finals waiting to take on Sarnia for the title.

A Real Licking

Last Sat. was a great day for both teams. Here at Riverside Mister Bamforth's lads from Confederation Square give the Albert Collitc gang a real licking 28 to 0 and they was good value for the score. The whole Collegiate team was clicking, the forward wall blocked well and was to tough on the defence while the Pony Express backfield led by Mister Al Clark was toting the mail in great style all through the piece. The going was heavy and the ball wet and slippery but the conditions didn't seem to bother the garnet and gray kids in the least. Mister Clark, playing his first full game of the season was harder to stop than a run in a silk stocking and he freighted the ball for a lot of mileage throughout the fracas while the rest of the gang went a lot of places to.

Belleville tried hard but the speed, power and strategy uncorked by the Bamforth Brigade was too much for the Collitcn guys who never got a chance to score.

Gets Nice Lead

Meanwhile up at Toronto Mister Turnbull's Orfuns was winning themselves a nice lead at the expense of the City Club of the Queen City, winning 19 to 5. I'm willing to admit that although I called for the Petes to win, I thought it would be a very close fit and I never dreamed of no 14 point margin. The boys sez they was lucky to make it that big but it's a old saying in sport that a good team makes its own brakes so I guess that goes for the Orfuns. And if they did cash in on a couple of City Club fumbles the City Club cashed in one of their's.

Both the Peterborough outfits should oughta go into the finals and with any luck come through the last round. They got what it takes.

The Hockey Doings

In hockey Mac, to me the biggest thing of the week was the fact them Red Wings, bossed by Mister John Adams, one-time a resident of this fair city, finally managed to untrack theirselves Thursday and take a neat fall out of the Black Hawks. The Wings has had a most dismal start but if you notice, old timer they is only two points outa 2nd place right now and it's too early to count them out of the race already as some folks is doing. The Boston team has a nice lead in 1st place but even a margin like that has a habit of melting like snow in a Chinook. The Toronto Leaves of course has a wide margin in the other bracket and despite a reverse from Mister King Clancy's Maroons the other nite the Toronto attack continues to get results. At present writing the Leaves has about 7 to 8 players up at the top of the scoring list but it is a cinch they are not all going to stay there all season. There is a lot of other scorers in the League including the tops for the last two seasons Mister Sweeney Schrinera and boys like that aint going to be kept down all season.

And now old timer there does not seem to be another topic worth getting excited about so I'm going to exit right here.

Sportfully Yours,
A. Wise Cracker.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd C'uckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

EIGHT FANS will be trooping to the Brock St. arena here next Wednesday night to see the Riverview A.C. mitt program. Featuring half a dozen good local scrappers and several ace Toronto toresdors in action. And, as is the custom of ring fans the world over, the cash customers will all be referees and judges. They will do some heavy experting on each bout, so they might just as well get a load of the rules of refereeing—at least a few of 'em. A referee has power to stop a bout at any time if he considers it too one-sided, or if he wishes to disqualify one or both pugs for not making it a real contest. Or in case of a foul. There are a dozen different ways of committing a foul in the ring—though the average fan figures hitting below the belt is about all a guy should be tossed out for. That's merely one.

* * * * * *

HITTING A gee who is down or just getting up is a foul. Holding onto another in a clinch after being told to "break" is another infraction. Holding with one hand and pasting your rival with the other mitt is frowned upon most heavily. Ditto with butting with head or shoulder or using the knee. Hitting with the heel of the hand, the wrist or the elbow is a foul. Flicking with the open glove is, too. Wrestling or roughing on the ropes is taboo. Fighters must not go down without being hit. Striking deliberately just over the kidney, or using the pivot or rabbit punch—also swearing or refusing to heed the referee. Yeah, a guy can commit a foul quite easily.

* * * * * *

THE GENERAL way of scoring a fight is to award 10 points for each round. If they fight a draw in a round each gets five points. If one boxer has an edge on the other, he gets six points to his rival's four—or maybe seven to three, etc., depending on how much advantage he had in the opinion of the judges. It must add up to 10 points each heat. At the end, the scrapper who has the largest total, regardless of whether he got 'em early or late in the fight, is the winner—unless there is a kayo or a foul. Points go for clean blows, aggresiveness, knockdowns, boxing ability, infighting and ability to make opponents miss. Points are subtracted for fouls, poor sportsmanship, such as hitting in clinches, etc. It is all a matter of the judges knowing boxing and being fair. But this will give fans a general idea of how it goes.

* * * * * *

ALL THE local leather-pushers are in the pink. They have been training hard for five or six weeks now and will be in there slugging from the heels. A couple of minor feuds have developed and fans might keep their optics opened wide for the Jordan-Bousley bout and the Belland-Chamberlain scrap. The Joiner-Packenham slugfest will be okay, too. Not to mention the curtain-raiser and the rassln' match. But the three main bouts will see the real fighting—with plenty of ringcraft shown by the experienced pugs and punches that do not smack of cream puffs! Nick Orlando and Bev. Carter will stage a natural, and the go between Len Minicola and Joe Genovese has all the earmarks of a gold-plated pip. Ditto that joust between Harry Low and Art Darnbrough. Yeah, a dandy card.

* * * * * *

THE PETERBOROUGH Hockey Club applied to the O.H.A. for four transfers, two intermediate — Barnes and Brown of Western Canada — and two juniors, Tompkins of Belleville and McNabb of Owen Sound. And the transfers were granted. Barnes is a defenceman, Brown a leftwinger, Tompkins a centre, and McNabb a goalie. All have pretty fair reps, but they will have to show their stuff here to get by—we've seen promising imports flop too frequently in this man's town. But we hope they click in hockey here.

* * * * * *

BUT THERE are a few more newcomers to Peterborough, gees who are said to be good pucksters. And they do not require transfers, being listed under some of the half a dozen O.H.A. transfer exception clauses. Some of the latter clauses refer to players who did not play in the C.A.H.A. the previous year, lads who moved here with their families, chaps who are students, etc. Al Grattan of Ottawa is one such, having attended college in N'Yawk State last winter. He is a forward and will be trying for an intermediate berth. A fellow named Holmes, a goalie, has been on a nearby farm recently but may have left—the local club having failed to check up on him lately. They are not particularly interested but would give anyone a fair tryout when ice arrives and sign him quick if he looked okay.

* * * * * *

THERE ARE a couple of juniors, too, who do not require transfers but who may not, of course, prove good enough to cop berths. A young defenceman from the west named Walker, and a lad from out that way named Evers, a forward. Buster Whitton is in this district now and Ford Loucks is living here, but the latter may not be permitted to play. Whitton should be okay, having been moved last winter by his employers, but the O.H.A. would have to be notified. There might even be a few more new lads which the local officials have not heard about.

* * * * * *

ON TWO fronts today, local rugby squads are in action. The score of the Barrie-P.C.I. final C.O.S.S.A. sudden-death tilt in Toronto should be known as this paper hits the streets, and the City Club-Orfuns' tussle will be over shortly after. The latter is played here this aft and the Orfuns ought to cop the duke and sashay into the O.R.F.U. intermediate "A" finals against the Dundas-Sarnia winner. The latter will be known today, too. And down in Cobourg this aft, the Galloping Ghosts entertain Stratford in a sudden-death O.R.F.U. intermediate "B" playoff struggle. Lots of grid interest for local fans, not forgetting of course the senior contests around Ontario and the collitch frays in the States today, also. Yeah, the autumn classic is at its peak now as winter and fall battle it out nip and tuck—especially nip!

SHIRLEY ZACKS CAPTURES TITLE IN SWIM EVENTS

Shirley Zacks won the senior city girls' swimming championship Friday evening at the aquatic pageant and trophy night program staged in the Y.W.C.A. an annual competition. It was a most successful affair with a fair-sized crowd thrilling to the entertaining and exciting list of events. The senior sports cup was won by Hazel Bradley with 94 points, and Ruth Dalliday was second. Joan Foster won the junior sports cup. H. Bradley, six times winner in senior city competition, was not entered in this class this year.

Judges for the program were Miss C. Littlefield, instructor of the Y.W.C.A., Gord Minty, Y.M.C.A. instructor, and Ross Thompson. Music was supplied by Mrs. Foster, with violin, and Lloyd Boddison, with guitar. The prizes were presented in all classes at the close of the meet, and tasty refreshments were served. Besides the trophies up for annual competition, there were prizes donated by Judge Smoke and spoons given by Mrs. Harvey. Miss Littlefield was presented with Richard Halliburton's book by Hazel Bradley on behalf of the Silver Finettes.

Outstanding performances were ornamental water acts presented by the Silver Finettes, fancy swimming and figure floating, the same class also giving an exhibition while attired in yelow and green suits, an act wrich drew hearty applause. There were several other smart events which earned applause. Judge Sheldon Smoke was guest speaker and also presented the prizes.

Close Competition.

In the senior city championship rivalry, Shirley Zacks had 103 points, followed by Isobel Young with 103, and Ruth Dalliday with 98. Jean McLeod won the blindfold race. The egg and spoon competition saw Jean McLeod lead Hazel Bradley and Jessie Pattison. An exhibition of life-saving featured Hazel Braley and Ruth Dalliday. The umbrella race went to Isobel Young with Ruth Dalliday and Hazel Bradley next in that order. Ruth Dalliday took the candle race, followed by Lily Long with Mrs. Curry third. The hands and feet-tied race was won by Miss Jessie Pattison, with Mrs. Curry and Kay Rogow following.

Swimming three lengths under water was done in fast time by Hazel Bradley, followed by Lily Long and then V. Madill. Mrs. Curry took the balloon race. Ruth Dalliday, Hazel Bradley, and Shirley Zacks were in that order in the 50-yards free style race. The 25-yards free style went to Isabel Young, followed by Jean McLeod and Lily Long. The grand treasure hunt was taken by Shirley Zacs with Hazel Bradley second.

SERVICE GAME FAILS TO GAIN U.S. LIMELIGHT

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (AP). — The Army and Navy football teams, having found the path to gridiron glory a rocky one, can't be sure of their usual share of rapt attention today when they help stage the final act in the 1937 United States college football drama.

No matter what their records have been in past seasons, the country's fans have observed the tradition of turning over the centre stage to the Admirals and Generals-to-be. But that tradition takes a rude kick in the pants this year.

The applecart-upsetters are those gridiron observers who will be more interested in reports from Durham, N.C., and New York's Yankee Stadium than in developements at the Philadelphia Municipal Stadium, where 105,000 customers will witness the service classic renewal.

Pitt's Final Obstacle.

Durham, N.C., is the home of Duke University, and Duke University's football team furnished the final obstacle in Pittsburg Panthers' march to a season unmarred by defeat. Yankee Stadium will be the site of the 1937 "Battle of the Bronx," pitting undefeated, Pitt-tied Fordham with the wily but underdog forces of New York University.

These three games — the Army-Navy duel because of color, tradition, the fact that there's something about a sailor, or a soldier, and the mere presence of the year's biggest crowd, the other two because of their direct bearing on various 'Bowl' situations—completely overshadow scheduled activities on other gridirons.

Pitt's principal rival for Eastern championship honors is Fordham, and both still are considered in the running for invitation to either the Rose or Sugar Bowl. They will remain that way, of course, only if Pittsburg does conquer Duke, and Fordham, gifted for once with a smart, wide-open attack in addition to its usual stubborn defence, gains ample revenge for last season's 7 to 6 set-back by N.Y.U. The experts' odds say both will come through.

Rather Evenly Matched.

There'll be less than usual to choose between Army and Navy. The Midshipmen won last year, 7 to 0.

Nebraska's Cornhuskers will wind up a campaign that began with a form-jarring defeat of Minnesota by seeking to nail the Big Six title—and Kansas State—to the wall.

Dodgers-Boston Bitter Rivals With Stengel At Bees' Helm

Familiar Faces To Casey On Club He Will Manage During '38 Season

NEW YORK, Nov. 27. — Casey Stengel is Bill McKechnie's successor as manager of the Boston Bees. The selection, made by Bob Quinn after Donie Bush, who was first on the list of candidates, had spurned the chance to return to the majors as a team leader, presents some strange angles. They prove once again that anything is likely to happen in baseball.

As manager of the Bees, Stengel becomes the boss of several players he had traded to the Boston team when he was Manager Stengel of the Dodgers. It was Casey who sent Tony Cuccinello, Al Lopez, Bobby Reis, and Gene Moore to the Bees. Now Casey has caught up with them again and, since he traded them before, they may be wondering if he will swap them again.

Casey was appointed manager of the Dodgers in the spring of 1934, when the owners of the Brooklyn franchise suddenly decided to pay off Max Carey, whose contract covered the 1934 season. Stengel managed the Dodgers through three seasons. He met the same fate that had befallen Max. Casey was fired, even though he had a contract for the 1937 campaign. He was paid off, and Burleigh Grimes moved into Ebbets Field.

When the Dodger directors decided to switch from Stengel to Grimes, some of them whispered to one another that Casey would hardly get another chance to manage a big league team. The chance has come Stengel's way, and it gives him a grade A opportunity to prove a mistake was made at Ebbets Field when he was turned loose. If the Bees, under Stengel's management, maul the Dodgers next year as they did last season under McKechnie, some of the Brooklyn club's directors will experience many sleepless nights.

There is bound to be keen rivalry between the Dodgers and the Bees next year. Stengel naturally will be striving to drive the Bees into the first division berth they missed last season, and will not overlook any chance to advance at the expense of his old team. On the other hand, Grimes will strive to mar Stengel's progress, and if Burleigh does that he will make himself solid with his employers.

Out Of Action

Armand Mondu, centre for Montreal Canadiens, will be out of action for eight weeks due to a broken bone just above the ankle, in his left leg. He received the injury during a game with Boston Bruins in Boston, where he was Canadiens' big factor in holding the high-flying Bruins to their first tie game of the season. He is seen here.

Worthy Foe Of The Grapple Artists

TORONTO, Nov. 27 (CP) —Many times has Clifford Worthy braved the cheers and boos of Toronto fans in his chosen profession of refereeing wrestling bouts, but he found he had no desire to grapple with a young bear cub in a lonely cave on Manitoulin Island.

"I would much sooner tangle with a couple of the toughest wrestlers in the ring than have come to blows with that cub," he said in describing recent hunting exploits that netted him two fine bear skins—the cub's and its mother's.

With Les Prentice, Worthy discovered the bear cave. The mother was shot and pulled from the den by a rope. The rassln' expert then entered to peek around—and found the cub. Prentice wanted him to capture the cub alive, but:

"What would I do with a live bear cub in Toronto—and besides I'm used to handling wrestlers and not bears," Worthy said. He shot the 90-pound cub, the pelt of which he turned into a rug on which Worthy's one-year-old son can "tickle his toes."

PREDICT 30,000 WILL SEE FINALS GRIDIRON SERIES

TORONTO, Nov. 27.—Football hysteria gripped this city Friday night on the eve of two do-or-die playoff battles and Stadia officials predicted some 30,000 fans would watch the deciding of the Interprovincial and Intercollegiate Union Championships.

The crowd is expected to be split evenly between Maple Leaf Stadium and University of Toronto athletic field, where Toronto Argonauts and Ottawa Roughriders clash in the second game of the Big Four playoffs and Queen's and University of Toronto decide the wearer of the college crown. There'll be no second chances for the losers.

Visiting Gridders Arrive

Ross Trimble brought his Roughriders and Ted Reeve his Tricolor into Toronto Friday night, with the Weatherman predicting "probably rain" to gladden both their hearts. If there should be rain it appeared certain Riders and Queen's would be made favorites for both like the mud.

Argos, backed to the brink of elimination by a 15-to-11 defeat in the first of a two-game, total-points series at Ottawa last week, were confident they could overtake and pass the 1936 Big Four champions despite injuries to Bud Lewis and Earl Selkirk that will keep both from the Argo lineup.

The Argo hopes were built mainly on the return of big Bob Isbister, who will resume punting after a torn side muscle kept him from the first game. Too, they believed the tough Roughriders could not stop for a second successive week the vaunted Sculler running attack that ran up more points than any other Big Four team during a six weeks' schedule.

Perley to Play

Ottawa's powerful forces were declared fit, though Outside Rick Perley will play with a specially constructed helmet to guard a broken nose. There wasn't a thing the matter with Dave Sprague, Bunny Wadsworth, Stan O'Neil, Rocky Roccana and Tiny Herman—the men who carry Ottawa's attack along the ground and through the air.

Boasting a powerful line and the Union's finest kicker in Johnny Munro, Queen's have been established through the season as the best college team in mud and rain. Toronto stock, though, was boosted by the Blues' impressive 19-to-5 victory over Western in the semi-final.

City Carpetball

Tuesday, Nov. 30—St. Lukes No. 1 v. S.O.E. No. 5; St. Lukes No. 2 v. B.E.S. No. 9; St. Johns No. 3 v. Moose No. 13; L.O.L. No. 7 v. St. Johns No. 4; L.O.L. No. 8 v. P.F.D. No. 11; P.F.D. No. 10 v. P.F.D. No. 12.

Friday, Dec. 3—S.O.E. No. 5 v. St. Lukes No. 2.

The No. 10 team have not yet sent in their registration and must be afraid of a showdown or housedown.

Those Central school Play Boys certainly put the top all over the Groombridge Auto Trimming bunch, in fact just trimmed them plenty.

That No Surrender squad went hunting up the Moose pen and were earning food in the first half but just broke even in the second. Returning home with only one carcass and one that got away.

DIES, BIBLE ON KNEE

LONDON, Nov. 27 (CP). — Fred Gellett, 86, made a practice of reading a chapter from the Bible every day. The other day he died with his favorite book on his lap. His finger had been tracing the passage in Genesis reading: "Behold, I am old; I know not the day of my death."

"Y" FENCING CLUB HAS 35 MEMBERS

The Y.M.C.A. Fencing Club has been formed with 35 members in at present, and prospects bright for a larger list. Leo W. Copp has been named president, with John Mark the secretary, and Norm Hewitt and Vince Holmes on the executive. These four officers, having had previous fencing experience, will act as instructors for the time being. First class will be next Wednesday night from 6.30 to 8.00 in the "Y" gym, and classes after that will be held every Monday evening from 6.30 to 7.15 and every Wednesday from 6.30 to 8.00 p.m. in the gymnasium.

Equipment of the club at present consists of several foils and a few masks. Later, members will procure their own foils. The club would appreciate the loan now of any fencing equipment from anyone in the city. The first lessons will consist in the elementary part of the art, such as holding the foil, stance, lunging position, footwork and target practice. This will be enlarged later. Those interested in joining the club are requested to notify James McClenaghan of the Y.M.C.A.

Rose Bowl Battle Still A Mystery

PASADENA, Cal., Nov. 27 (AP)—California's Board of Athletic Strategy fiddled today while football-conscious United States yearned to find out who will be selected to play the Golden Bears in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day.

Ken Priestley, California's graduate manager and Chairman of the board, sidestepped all queries regarding the main issue, and failed to react at the mention of such leading Bowl possibilities as Alabama, Pittsburg and Fordham, or Dartmouth, Minnesota and Lafayette.

Priestley said California has not scouted any of the teams considered as possibilities.

It seemed plausible to believe that the invitation might be divulged late tomorrow after the returns are in on the Pitt-Duke and Fordham-New York University games.

Bob Pastor Beaten In New York Fight

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (AP)—Bob Pastor, who ran dashingly into the heavyweight boxing picture in a 10-round romp with Joe Louis, is on the outside looking in again.

It was the biggest upset of the fall boxing season for Pastor was a 2 to 1 favorite.

Mann, a rugged warrior with a fair punch but no visible signs of fistic greatness, catapulted himself into the heavyweight elite by the victory. He may get a shot at Tommy Farr, the durable Welshman, as a reward for his efforts.

KILLS BEAR WITH STONES

NELSON, B.C.—(CP). — Harold Mortimer doesn't need a gun to kill bears. Two stones did the trick. The first one he threw felled a big black bear. A second one killed it. Five-year-old Barry Simpson shot one out of a tree at Gray Creek, his mother supporting the rifle while he shot.

GUELPH BEATS TORONTO LIONS IN S.P.A. GAME

TORONTO, Nov. 27. — Guelph Lions staged an eight goal scoring spree in the third period to humble Eddie Livingstone's Lions, 9 to 5, in an S.P.A. junior game at Maple Leaf Gardens Friday night.

The invaders went into the final frame trailing 3 to 1 but clicked in all departments to completely submerge the Toronto team with a terrific offensive.

Hill opened the scoring for Guelph in the first period but Lions snapper out of their lethargy in the middle session and goals by Picard, Allen and Dunford gave them a 3 to 1 advantage.

Lions increased their lead at the start of the final session but Guelph came back strongly to knot the count at 5 to 5. With four minutes to go and the team still deadlocked, Lions were penalized for having seven players on the ice. Guelph took advantage of the Toronto team's shorthandedness and Bush broke away three times, scoring two goals and giving Mason the pass for the third counter—all in sixty-one seconds.

Second Game.

Marlboros and Young Rangers met in the second game of the double-header, with neither team bulging the twine in the first period.

After the bell rang to end the period, Davidson of Young Rangers and Anderson of Marlboros engaged in a bumping duel and came to blows. Immediately players of both teams scampered on the ice, and two separate battles broke out. As a result of the fracas, Davidson and Anderson were handed ten-minute misconduct penalties.

Marlboros' offensive clicked for three goals in the second session and only stellar work by Goalie Dempster for Young Rangers kept the total down.

Smart opened the scoring in 36 seconds on a solo effort that left the Rangers defense gaping. Hank Goldup increased the margin less than a minute later when he coasted in after taking O'Flaherty's pass. The Dukes continued to outplay their rivals and Rennie put them three up on Ritchie's pass near the four-minute mark.

NAVY GRIDDERS FAVORED TO WIN

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 27 (AP)—It'll likely be gobs against landlubbers in a Marine engagement for today's annual military service football classic, so Navy gets the call over Army.

A wet weather forecast shifted the odds Navy's way because of the midshipmen's weight advantage and their customary reliance this season in power rather than trickery.

But only the indicated approach of rain gave the edge to the Tars. On a dry field—and the storm may swerve away—the choice would be Army. Navy has appeared a trifle stronger than the Cadets against the rivals both have tackled, but Navy's surprising downfall a week ago before hapless Princeton more than evens that up.

After years of service conflicts, old Philadelphia should be able to take them in stride. But she doesn't. The big town is just as excited as though this was the first it had chaperoned.

CHURCH PUCK LOOP BEING LINED UP

The annual meeting of the Church Hockey League will be held next Monday evening at seven o'clock in the "Y", and two representatives of each church are requested to attend. Others interested are invited to sit in on the general discussion. Secretary Don Charlton has received a number of inquiries to date, an optimistic sign, and suggestions that the league get started before Christmas. But this is not considered advisable, as a number of players are working in December and others do not have equipment till after Christmas.

The usual matter of attendance will come up for discussion and the referee and transfer problems. Both the latter two questions were worked out satisfactorily for the most part last season. It is hoped that a good set of officers will be put in this year, and some newcomers might inject more enthusiasm into the circuit, though the Church Hockey League is always a lively loop. Retiring officers are: President, Lloyd Parnall; vice-pres., Art Mann; secretary, Don Charlton; assistant secretary, Carl Ferguson. The president of the Ministerial Association and the league's past president compose the executive.

The yearly request for lower rink rentals will be made again in all probability. Entry fees may be raised somewhat this year to cover the annual deficit. Delegates are reminded that the meeting starts at 7.00 and should be over before 9.00. A good turnout is hoped for with all churches represented, particularly St. Luke's, St. Andrew's and St. James—those three having been not so active in church hockey in late years. Players' ages are: Midget—under 16 years by Jan. 1st of the current season; juvenile—under 19 years; junior—under 20 years; intermediate—no age limit. Further information may be had from any of the officers.

CHAPTER 48.

Presently an elderly woman came into the solicitor's office, and after a word with the clerk, joined Tim on the bench. She soon began fretting and showing signs of impatience.

At 10 past 10 a heavily built man with a black moustache burst in as if he had heard there was a fire, barked out to the lady on the bench, "Morning Miss Jupp, won't keep you a moment," shot a swift glance at Tim, and vanished into a private office. In a few minutes the clerk called the elderly lady away, and for 40 minutes nothing further happened. Tim smoked three more cigarets, taking a mess of the floor; there were no ash trays.

But the lady came out at last, and a little later the clerk approached Tim. "Mr. Kay will see you now, sir," he said, and led Tim through.

Mr. Kay had Adams' note in his hand. "You're Mr. T. J. Kennedy, I take it," he said briskly. He put Tim into a chair and gave him a cigaret. As he held his pocket lighter to it, he gave him a rather curious glance.

"You a friend of Mr. Adams?" he said.

"I'm his employer," Tim replied.

"Oh. . . . Has he been in your service a long time?"

"About 15 years."

"Good servant?"

"Excellent." Tim stirred uneasily. "I needn't keep you, Mr. Kay. . . . It's only a question of this letter. I told him I was coming to London today, and he asked me to collect it."

"So I see. . . . You don't happen to know what's in it?"

"I haven't the slightest idea."

"Nor have I. . . . Reason I asked, he made such a fuss about it the other day, I was surprised he wanted it again so soon. We don't know much about him; haven't seen him since that case seven years ago or so. . . . I suppose you know all about that?"

Tim hedged. "I don't know the details. . . . I know he got into trouble, but I didn't care to press him about it . . . He saved my life in the war, you know."

"That explains things. . . . It was larceny, actually. We got him off, but he was damned lucky."

Tim did recall an occasion when Adams, who had been on holiday, wrote from London asking for an extension of leave of absence. There had been an excuse about a dying relative, and Adams had returned in a chastened mood which Tim had attributed to grief. According to his custom, he had asked no questions.

"I shouldn't be telling you about this," said Mr. Kay, "and I'm sure you'll regard it as confidential. But to tell the truth I haven't been happy about this secret-document-to-be-opened-after-my-death film stuff. 'Specially with a man whose record was doubtful. Smells of monkey business. It was my partner, Mr. Major, who saw him this time—I wouldn't have handled it without an explanation. However, I'll be glad to let you have it."

He rang a bell, and the young Jew came in. "Just rout out that Adams envelope and bring it to me, Davis," said Mr. Kay.

"I think Mr. Major's got it, sir," said Davis.

"Mr. Major arrived?"

"Just come, sir."

"Well, ask him. . . . Here, give him this note."

There was a pause. Mr. Kay drummed on the desk with his fingers. "Hope you'll forget what I mentioned just now," he said abruptly. "I've really no reason to believe Adams isn't running straight. You ought to know better than I. But I wouldn't like to have anything I've said prejudice you against him."

"Of course not," Tim answered. "I know Adams isn't all he should be, but so long as he's under my eye I know he's all right."

There was another silence. It was broken by the entry of a bald, elderly man in a state of some excitement.

He went up to Mr. Kay, and said a few words to him in a low voice.

"Good heavens!" said Mr. Kay. He turned to Tim. "Adams is dead."

"Dead?" echoed Tim, fighting for control.

It was Mr. Major who answered. He held out a newspaper to Tim, and pointed to a paragraph. "That's him, isn't it?"

It was only two lines, under the caption "Darts Player Killer" . . . M. Adams . . . cycle accident . . . West Shilston.

"Good Lord!" Tim struggled. "I'd no idea. . . . But that's not my servant Adams; it must be his brother. His brother lived in West Shilston too.

"Some initial?"

"Yes . . . Martin. My man is Merivale. He's all right, he gave me that note this morning.

"You saw him this morning, and he said nothing about his brother's death?"

"No, not a word. You know I think I see. This letter he gave you, it must be something to do with his brother. . . . Something he wanted to hush up. . . . However, it's not my business, I'm only the messenger. I'd be glad if you'd let me have it now. I've an appointment at half past 11."

"Just a minute, Mr Kenedy." It was Mr. Major who spoke. "I've no doubt it's all right, but you'll admit the circumstances are rather unusual. I have the letter here, but I think you'll agree we ought to find out a little more before we hand over."

"But I promised Adams. He was very urgent. I wouldn't care to go back to him without it."

Mr. Kay answered. "I'm afraid you must."

"But I insist! I've given you a clear authority to hand over this letter to me."

Mr. Kay shook his head. "To put it bluntly, Mr. Kennedy, your conduct is rather suspicious. I understand you came here at half past 9, and you've waited till well after 11. All to carry out a commission for your servant. It doesn't sound natural, and it doesn't sound natural your being so importunate now, if you don't know more than you've told me. Remember this envelope is marked 'To be opened after my death.' Well, a man of the name of M. Adams, of West Shilston, has

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S BLUE JAY

"Are there any pumpkin seeds left, Nurse Jane?" asked Uncle Wiggily of the muskrat lady housekeeper one day in the hollow stump bungalow.

"Oh, plenty," said Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "You brought back a great many from the corn field the day you gave the children roast pumpkin seeds for a treat. I have a lot more I took out of the pumpkins we used for Thanksgiving pies."

"That's good," said Uncle Wiggily. "Then I'll take some of the seeds with me."

"Are you going to roast them again?" asked Nurse Jane.

"No, I am going to take them to my blue jay," said the rabbit.

"Your blue jay?" asked Nurse Jane questioning like and surprised.

"Yes. You see in the woods I have made friends with a blue jay bird. I often take him good things to eat. The other day he asked me to bring him some pumpkin seeds, so I shall."

"Here are plenty of them," said Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy and she gave a bag full to Mr. Longears who soon hopped off to the woods.

"Blue jay! Blue jay! Blue jay!" called the rabbit.

An Answer

"Hay! Hay! Hay!" yelled the bird with the bright blue feathers. He had a very harsh voice, but he couldn't help it. Next he cried what sounded like: "Fish hook! Fish hook! Fish hook!"

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily, for he and the blue jay were good friends. "You don't need a fish hook to catch these pumpkin seeds I have brought you."

"Oh, thank you! Thank you! Thank you!" yelled the bird and he flew down and began eating some seeds. Others he took to his nest in the hollow tree for his wife and bird children.

Pleased with the good deed he had done, Uncle Wiggily sat on a log in the woods where the sun was shining. It was warm in the middle of the day though, as Thanksgiving was past and Christmas was coming it wasn't warm at night or morning.

"I'll rest myself and read a little," said Uncle Wiggily.

He put on his glasses and, taking a small book from his pocket he began to read it. I mean, he read the book, not his pocket, of course.

Soon Uncle Wiggily became drowsy from reading and from the warm sun and, before he knew it, he had fallen asleep with his glasses still on. But when, all of a sudden he awakened, his glasses were gone.

"Oh, dear me! Have I lost my glasses?" exclaimed the rabbit gentleman, hopping up and looking for them on the ground. But he couldn't see them. Then, all of a sudden, he heard a laugh:

Naughty Boy

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" I have your glasses! I flew down when you were asleep and picked them off your nose. Ha! Ha! Ha!" Perched up in a tree was a blue jay bird boy with the bunny gentleman's glasses.

"Oh, my dear boy! Careful! don't drop my glasses or they will break!" said Uncle Wiggily. "Bring them back to me!"

"No, I will not! Ha! Ha! Ha!" yelled the bad boy bird blue jay.

"Oh, dear!" sighed Uncle Wiggily. "Where is your father?" and he looked for the daddy blue jay to whom he had given pumpkin seeds.

"Here I am!" said Mr. Blue jay flying along. "And I'm just in time to punish my bad little boy for taking your glasses, Uncle Wiggily. He shall have no pumpkin seeds for supper."

"Oh, Daddy, I didn't mean to be bad. Forgive me, Uncle Wiggily!" shrieked the blue jay boy, whose name was Flitty. "Forgive me and I'll do a great, big favor to Uncle Wiggily."

"I'll forgive you without a favor if you bring back my glasses," said Mr. Longears. This Flitty did, but he said he would do a favor anyhow. And I'll tell you about it in the next story. That is if the roller skate will stop trying to walk the clothes line and pretending to be an airplane.

Extensive Highway Program For County Is Outlined, Suburban Commission Reports

Road Problems And Projects Are Summarized In Group Of Resolutions

The county council summarized its road problems and projects Friday afternoon in the following resolutions:—

Moved by Reeve Mullen Smith, seconded by Reeve Wallace Shearer, Harvey, that the Department of Highways be asked to assume the ten miles of county road from the House of Refuge corner, on No. 28 highway west of Lakefield, to Buckhorn.

Moved by Reeve Jas. Gifford, Ennismore, seconded by Deputy-reeve Harry Reid, Otonabee—that the Department of Highways be requested to take over the county road from the fourth line of Smith to Bridgenorth, across Chemong Lake, through Ennismore and across Gannon's Narrows, thence easterly through south Harvey to Buckhorn.

Moved by Reeve E. W. Seeney, Havelock, seconded by Reeve W. E. Griffith, Belmont-Methuen, that the Department of Highways be petitioned for an improved road from the intersection of No. 7 and No. 30 highways at Havelock, through Belmont and Methuen to Lanswade, and thence to No. 28 highway at Apsley.

Moved by Reeve Jas. Milby, and seconded by Deputy-reeve M. H. Johnston, North Monaghan that the Monaghan Road from St. Peter's Cemetery south to Cameron street be taken over by the Suburban Area Commission.

Moved by Deputy-reeve M. H. Johnston, seconded by Reeve F. D. Leahy, Douro, that the Suburban Area Commission be asked to take over the two miles of county road from the old Maple Leaf cheese factory on the Warsaw Road, easterly to the community centre at Douro church.

Moved by Reeve Milby, seconded by Deputy-reeve Johnston, that the county assume the 4½ miles of North Monaghan township road westerly from No. 28 highway at Sherbrooke street. This is an extension of Sherbrooke street across the township and was formerly a county road, but reverted to the township.

Moved by Reeve Milby and seconded by Deputy-reeve Reid that no action be taken for the present on the Victoria county proposal that Peterborough county pay half the cost of maintaining as a county road two miles of the boundary road north and south from Fowler's Corners.

Moved by Reeve Milby, seconded by Reeve Shearer that Reeves Gifford, Mullen, Seeney and Shearer be a deputation to go to Toronto to present the county's several petitions to the Minister of Highways, and that Alex. L. Elliott, M.L.A., be invited to accompany the deputation.

Suburban Commission

M. E. Smithson, M. H. Gainey and John McIntosh, the members of the Suburban Area Commission, opened the long afternoon's road session with a report of their activities this year, which was supplemented by A. E. Chalmers, county engineer. The commissioners stressed their appreciation of the co-operation they had received from the council.

Mr. Gainey said the cost of maintaining suburban area roads showed a reduction of $3,000 this year, attributable, he said, to the increasing mileage of hard surfaced roads.

Asphaltic mulch surfacing had been laid on the flat road in Otonabee, a distance of 1¼ miles southeast from the locks bridge, and one-quarter of a mile had been laid in North Monaghan along Cameron street. Mr. Gainey said the Park street mulch top south of Lansdowne street, the first laid by the Commission was standing up under heavy traffic and was in good condition. Other work done this year was also mentioned by Mr. Gainey.

The four-mile project on the south end of the Buckhorn Road seemed to have been complicated by the petition from Douro this week, Mr. Gainey stated. The Commission would have to make a definite decision on these requests next year.

"Just expressing my own opinion, I think the safest way is to spend our money where the traffic is heaviest. No doubt, Douro needs a better road, and possibly the county might start the work and the Commission would then take it over. I would like to say that it seems more pleasant every year to be associated in this work with the other members of the Commission and the County Council."

Morley E. Smithson.

"We are geting a little further with the same money because of the hard surfacing we have done," Mr. Smithson remarked to the Council. "We have had in mind the four miles on the Buckhorn Road, but the Douro deputation had thrown it open again. My views are similar to Mr. Gainey's. We simply can't take over the stretch in Douro immediately. Our first consideration should be the proposed work on the Buckhorn Road that has been asked by the county. As the representative of the county on the Commission I take their proposal as my guide. The traffic is heavy over the Buckhorn Road, and that is the logical piece to be done. Some say these four miles will be in Smith, but if we spend $5,000 on that road next year that should mean $5,000 the County Road Committee will have to spend elsewhere. The money will be released for expenditure in other townships. So there is no point in saying the Commission's money is spent in any particular township."

Mr. McIntosh spoke briefly saying the two other commissioners had "covered the ground pretty well."

Increased Gravel Output.

The new crushing plant built last winter had produced 17,000 cubic yards of gravel up to Wednesday of this week, and would reach a total of 18,000 cubic yards by the end of the season as compared with 12,914 cubic yards as a previous maximum, A. E. Chalmers reported. His objective is 20,000 cubic yards for a year's supply for county and suburban area roads. The average cost was 60 cents a cubic yard.

Mr. Chalmers extended his review of the year's work, but said his complete report would not be available until the January sessions. The River Road was graded from Nicholls Oval to a point beyond Peterborough Golf Club; also the east end of the Warsaw Road; from Bridgenorth to the 8th Line of Smith; a section of the Keene Road at Zion; extending culvert west of Crawford's Grove in North Monaghan, and so on.

From the traffic census taken last summer it was shown that the heaviest traffic flows along the Chemong Road. The count at the park for eighteen hours in July was 1,756 vehicles; between Bridgenorth and the 8th Line of Smith 403 vehicles; River Road, Douro, 758; Warsaw Road, 840; Keene Road at Zion, 501.

Mr. Chalmers defended the census method against criticisms made by some methods of the deputation from Douro. It was the general system of traffic counting. An eighteen-hour count on Monday, June 28, totalled 24 vehicles, where the road north from Indian River meets the Warsaw Road; and at the Douro-Otonabee boundary end of the same road, 26 vehicles.

Another count at the Nicholls Oval corner of the Warsaw Road totalled 558 vehicles, and at the cheese factory turn toward Douro community centre the same day the number of vehicles for the same period was 288; and at the end of the Indian River Road where it meets the Warsaw Road 198 vehicles.

Spent $24,000 This Year

Mr. Chalmers told Reeve Griffith the Commission had spent about $24,000 this year on the suburban area road system which is now 44 miles in extent.

Reeve Gifford and Reeve Mullen debated their respective claims for assumption of roads by the Department of Highways. Mr. Gifford said he was actively opposed to the Victoria project for assuming as a county road the boundary north and south at Fowler's Corners. His main interest was to get the Government to take over the section of the Chemong Road from the 4th Line of Smith, across the lake and through Ennismore around to Buckhorn. A deputation had arranged to go to Toronto in the fall, but that day Premier Hepburn announced the date of the general elections, with the result that the trip was cancelled. It was finally agreed to ask for both the west and east roads to Buckhorn, but to pass up for the present the Victoria County proposal to improve the Emily boundary road.

Ancient Castle Is Damaged By Fire

Hythe, England, Nov. 27

SALTWOOD Castle, famed in English history, was seriously damaged by fire today. It was in Saltwood that the murderers of Thomas A. Beckett slept the night before they rode to Canterbury to slay the Archbishop in the Cathedral.

The fire, originating in the boiler room immediately below the bedrooms, was discovered by Lady Conway of Allington, who owns the castle. She was aroused by billows of smoke.

NOT TOTAL MISERY SAYS WISHART MAN

STEWART HALL, Nov. 27.—This letter was received by Doris Savigny of Stewart Hall:

Wishart, Sask.
November 12, 1937.

Dear Miss:

This bag of potatoes was received by a farmer of the above mentioned district, should it be of interest locating this vicinity; it is not indicated on the map yet, but lies approximately 120 miles north-west of Yorkton in south eastern Saskatchewan. This is the first crop failure on account of insufficient moisture ever noted in the history of this province.

We lead a fair but honest life, however, with the aid of provincial government or Dominion rather, life seems not a total misery yet, be what it may. I and the rest of the farmers in this district thank you and whoever co-operated in sending us any help of this kind.

I remain,

died. You tell me it must be his brother. But we'll have to check up on it. If it's in order we'll hand over all right."

"You won't give me the letter now?"

"No."

Tim licked his lips. "Listen," he said. "I was lying to you. I see I must tell you the truth. It's my Adams who is dead all right. And I know what's in the envelope. It's a letter written to me 10 years ago, and it's rather a giveaway. What is called a 'moral offense.' Adams got hold of it, and he's been blackmailing me ever since.

"I'm a professional man in West Shilston, a dentist. If I lost my reputation it means I lose my livelihood. I had to pay, go on paying. But lately I decided it had to stop. I raised a sum, a decent sum . . and Adams said he would turn over the letter to me for it. We concluded the bargain yesterday . . . and he gave me that note.

"Then . . . the bloody fool has to go and get drunk, to celebrate, I suppose. And he was riding home last night . . . and broke his neck. You see what a position it puts me in. . . . ."

Tim turned his ghastly sweating face toward the two solicitors. Both were watching him attentively, but nothing could be gleaned from their expressions.

"Blackmail . . . You understand? These things are best hushed up. You're no motive in ruining me. . ."

Mr. Major spoke gently. "Your secret, whatever it is, will be perfectly safe with us, Mr. Kennedy. I don't suppose it's criminal."

"Then you'll give me the envelop?"

"I'm afraid we can't do that."

"I'll give you £500 for it."

The solicitors exchanged glances. Mr. Kaye spoke. His eyes never left Tim's. "I think, old man, under the circumstances. . . ."

Mr. Major nodded. "Yes, I think we'd better."

He slit open the envelope.

So Bad With Nerves Would Lie Down and Cry

It is generally admitted that nerve troubles are more frequent than formerly and growing more so every day.

Wherever there are people whose health is poor, and their nerves shattered, they will find in Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills a tonic that will help to restore the deranged centres, and bring the nervous system back to its old time condition.

Mrs. K. M. Harvey, Bramber, N.S., writes:—"I got so bad with my nerves I would lie down on the bed and cry. Most of the time it just seemed I could not help it and would not know what I was crying for. I used to feel as if I would go crazy I was so bad.

I tried several different medicines, but received no relief. I then took Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills, four boxes of them, and started to feel better after the first few doses. Now I feel better in every way."

HEPBURN AND KING HOLD SUDDEN CONFERENCE

COUNTY COUNCIL ASKS FOR PROBE PRICE-SPREADS

Deportation Is Urged Foreign Nationalists

Deportation of persons who propagate foreign nationalistic ideas that are antagonistic to Canadian spirit and institutions was advocated in a resolution unanimously adopted by the county council Saturday.

Moved by Reeve James Milby of North Monaghan and seconded by Reeve C. S. Tanner of Lakefield, the resolution was as follows:

"That this council deplores the fact that societies are being formed in Canada promoting intense nationalism within the Dominion of Canada.

"These societies are being formed to institute such policies as the boycott and intimidation, and as such are sowing discord and dissention in various communities through their anti-British activities.

"We, the council of the county of Peterborough, respectfully request the Dominion Government so to amend the immigration laws or to take such other action as they deem effective that persons of these nationalities attempting to foist these foreign policies on the Canadian people may be returned to their coutnries of original forthwith."

Subversive Agencies

"We read about nationalistic societies being formed in this country whose ideas emanate from other countries and are subversive to our British institutions," Reeve Milby said. "It is about time this game was stopped. Foreign-born elements are trying to foist their "isms" on this country. I bring forward this resolution asking the council to express their approval of it, and forward a copy of it to the Dominion Government."

Reeve Tanner said that the foreign ideas were being fostered by people who enjoyed the freedom and protection of Canada. "What they

REBEL RAID KILLS 53 WOMEN, KIDDIES

MADRID, Nov. 29.— (AP).—Uneasy Madrid watched the northern skies to-day for insurgent airplanes which have traced a semi-circle of death about the city in continued bombardment of outlying towns.

The second week of the most intense air activity on the central front since last winter opened with no indication that General Franco's war birds were ready to call a halt.

Government officers had no idea where insurgents would strike next. Although Madrid has not been subjected to air bombardment since last Feb. 12, nearby towns and villages have been damaged. The known death toll in the new raids approached 100 and between 200 and 300 persons were injured.

On the front just south of Madrid, insurgent cavalry, artillery, tanks, and planes attacked the Tagus bridge and Moedas De Lejana. The government said the attack was repulsed.

At least 54 persons—one a man and the remainder women and children—were killed in a bombardment yesterday of Colemenar Viejo, 20 miles north of Madrid.

Nearly 27,000,000 people visited the Paris Exposition.

The shooting took place on Saturday.

U.S. Demands China's Customs Be Left As Before Conflict

Latest Representations Are Sent in Formal Note As Secretary of State Fears Nipponese Designs

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—State Secretary Hull announced today that the United States has served a virtual demand on the Japanese government that it consult with the United States government before undertaking any changes in the Chinese Maritime Customs.

The Secretary of State revealed this at his press conference in elaborating upon new representations lodged with the Tokyo foreign office yesterday by American Ambassador Joseph C. Grew.

The new representations, made in a formal note, set forth this government's view that the Chinese Customs organization should be preserved.

The note added, Hull asserted, that the United States should be consulted about any question concerning a reorganization of the customs.

This step was taken after reports the Japanese military in Shanghai were preparing to take over the customs.

REMANDED ONE WEEK

SARNIA, Ont., Nov. 29 (C.P.). — Peter Cosco, 54, was remanded for a week on $5,000 bail when arraigned to-day on a charge of "wounding or inflicting grievous bodily harm on John Buday, on November 27.

The latter, in hospital with knife wounds, was reported in satisfactory condition.

Aim To Register News Reporters

LONDON, Nov. 29 (CP)—Registration of newspaper reporters is the aim of a bill which may be introduced in the House of Commons, backed by nine government members and one opposition Liberal.

The bill proposes to set up a registration council with two subsidiary bodies, one called a board of journalistic education and the other an admission committee which would scrutinize applications for registration.

It also provides that newspapermen could be removed from the register for criminal offences or unprofessional conduct.

TUG BESTS DEATH IN 5-HOUR FIGHT WITH ERIE STORM

PORT BURWELL, Ont., Nov. 29 (CP).—The fishing tug Cecil M. bobbled today in its haven here, her captain and crew of four safe after being tossed about for five hours on Lake Erie waters whipped high by a westerly gale.

Hope was fading for the safety of the five men, and special prayers were being offered in churches here, when the vessel crawled into harbor last night. Its engines were crippled, its pilot house stove in and the upperworks damaged by the buffeting of waves.

The 47-foot gasoline-powered tug carried its youthful skipper, and owner, Cecil Martin, 20, and William and Albert Macdonald, Gordon Massecar and Don Macaulley. The men suffered no injuries.

The tug, an old craft, was caught about 20 miles from shore when the storm broke over the lake yesterday. Eight other tugs working with the Cecil M. made port before dark without difficulty, although reporting heavy seas. At first it was believed the Cecil M. had taken cover at Long Point or at Erie on the United States shore, but telephone calls to all lake ports on the lake revealed no trace of the vessel.

Fear was greater because the vessel was old. The Cecil M. had been operating from Port Burwell during the fishing season, although claiming Port Stanley as its home port.

Members of the crew, when the tug reached safety, said they had given up hope at times that the ancient vessel could survive the battering of the waves, which washed in over the engine and stalled the motor several times. It took five hours to complete the trip, usually made in two hours.

12 Persons Hurt In Dye Explosion

DEIGHTON, Yorkshire, Nov. 20—(CP Cable).—Twelve persons were injured and windows of shops and mills within a quarter-mile radius shattered to-day by an explosion which wrecked the compression plant of the British Dyestuffs Corporation. Cause of the blast was not known.

The proprietress of a shop opposite the dyeworks was blown from the front of her shop into the scullery and the building was reduced to ruins. "It was just like being bombed," she said.

Session Of Cabinet Follows At Once With All In Secrecy

Prime Minister Meets Ontario Head Again Later; St. Lawrence Waterway Is Hinted As One Topic

OTTAWA, Nov. 29.—(CP).—Unheralded arrival of Premier Mitchell Hepburn for a conference today with Prime Minister Mackenzie King, followed by a cabinet council and a later conference between the Prime Minister and Mr. Hepburn in the latter's hotel room, left political observers wondering. The Prime Minister did not meet the group of newspaper men who waited for him after council but hurried off to Mr. Hepburn's hotel.

Council was called unexpectedly this morning but was preceded by a conference between the Prime Minister and several of his colleagues with Mr. Hepburn. None of the ministers would give any inkling of their deliberations. At the conference were Revenue Minister Ilsley, Trade Minister Euler and Labor Minister Rogers.

After Mr. Hepburn left the east block Mr. Mackenzie King and his ministers went to the council chamber, remaining about an hour.

It was reported that one topic under discussion was the St. Lawrence waterway to which Premier Hepburn expressed his opposition during the provincial election.

B.C. EXPERT WINS WORLD'S WHEAT TITLE FOR CANADA

CHICAGO, Nov. 29—(AP)—Gordon Gibson, of Ladner, B.C., retained the wheat championship of the world for Canada today with Reward variety of the International Livestock Show.

Peterson's sample was heavier wheat than that of Gibson. It weighed 66.3 pounds to the bushel.

Trelle, five times wheat king, showed a sample of Marquis variety this year, deserting the Reward variety with which he had won previously, in order to pay tribute to the late Sir Charles Saunders, famed Canadian cerealist, who developed the Marquis variety.

The Reward variety is widely grown in Canada and was developed at the Canadian government experimental station at Ottawa.

SISTERS DROWN SKATING

ST. FELICIEN, Que., Nov. 29 — (CP).— Two young sisters were drowned yesterday when they broke through the thin ice while skating on the St. Felicien river at this village near Lake St. John.

The girls, 10 and 13-year-old daughters of Thomas Louis Tremblay of St. Felicien, disappeared beneath the surface after they had dropped through the sheet ice with a younger brother. The boy managed to scramble to safety on the river bank.

Ear Is Found To Work Like Radio Station

Sometimes Manufactures Extra Note When Listening To Two Simultaneous Sounds

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Nov. 29 (AP)—One of the great controversies of science, whether the extra note which human ears always hear when listening to two simultaneous sounds is real, or exists only in the ear, has been solved by Indiana University physicists.

Textbooks teach that the extra note is real. The books are wrong, for sometimes the sound is real and at others the human ear manufactures it. The Indiana experiments show man's ears work just like radio stations. These experiments were described in lay language today for the first time by R. P. Ramsay and Herbert Hazel, respectively professor and assistant professor of physics.

The controversy dates to about 1870 when the German scientist, Herman Ludwig Ferdinand von Helmholtz sounded two notes simultaneously on a siren. Nearby some bell-shaped instruments picked up the two notes from the air vibrations. They gave off the same siren sounds.

But some of the receiving "bells" also vibrated with a third note, different from either of the siren notes. There was no doubt that this third note was real—that it travelled in the form of air waves, set up by the two siren sounds.

This third sound was clearly audible to the ear. It was what is commonly called a "beat note."

Cause for Dispute.

Then another German, Koenig, who lived in Paris and made tuning forks proved just as positively that Helmholtz was wrong. He made two sounds with two tuning forks. The ear heard a third note, but no tuning fork ever picked up a third note. It was not real.

Scientists could not reconcile the two experiments. But so great was

Startled Lovers Spoil A Robbery

Uxbridge, Nov. 29.

THIEVES seeking to enter the Undertaking establishment of Mayor Jack Low last night startled two spooners parked near by. The spooners, in turn, startled the thieves when they started their auto, planned to notify Chief William Vesey.

The thieves fled when the car pulled away. Investigation revealed that they had removed a window at the side alley before detected.

Donor Is Found

WESTON FLETCHER

After a "perfect" blood donor was found among the 2,000 persons who offered help to Weston Fletcher of Grand Blanc, Mich., hospital physicans at Windsor, gave the 28-year-old barber a fighting chance to win his battle with the rare streptococcus veridans infection. The blood of Ernest Van Sickle, 40, of Brantford, Ont., matched that of Fletcher perfectly and a transfusion was performed immediately.

CHINESE REFUSE HELP JAPS WORK SEIZED SERVICES

SHANGHAI, Nov. 29 (A.P.). — Refusal of the Chinese telegraphers and technicians to remain at work under Japanese rule paralyzed domestic communications to-day.

Shanghai, therefore, remained isolated by radio and telegraph from the rest of China, as it was yesterday when Japanese officials seized the communications systems and ordered service suspended.

Efforts of Japanese to induce Chinese communications employees to remain at their posts were unsuccessful. A Japanese spokesman said suspension of Chinese telegraph service was necessary to preserve the secrecy of Japan's military operations and to prevent Chinese from sabotaging the equipment.

Foreign news agencies in Shanghai received no direct news from Nanking, Hankow, or other centres of the conflict.

(The last word from Nanking, China's evacuated capital, said British and United States naval and diplomatic officers were arranging to protect 72 foreigners still in the city.)

"Reopening of communications depends upon the Chinese themselves, whose co-operation we still are seeking," the Embassy spokesman said.

Japan's immediate objectives appeared to be Liyang and Kwangteh, 60 miles east and 65 miles south-east of Wuhu respectively. Wuhu is on the Yangtze River inland from Nanking.

RAILS, TRUCKS SEEN IN TANGLE ON COMPETITION

Transportation Probe Starts in Queen City

TORONTO, Nov. 29 (C.P.). — Royal Transport Commission opened sessions here to-day with evidences there would be dispute between railways, trucking and bus companies over rates and competition.

Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier of the Ontario Supreme Court heads the three-man commission. His associates are Professor C. R. Young of the Civil Engineering Department, University of Toronto, and E. Roy Sayles, Renfrew publisher.

Specific reference to the Commission under Ontario Government Order-in-Council include inquiry into "all matters pertaining to or affecting persons or corporations engaged in the business and operation of transporting freight by motor vehicles, whether for gain, or not for gain, and passengers by motor, vehicles for gain."

Rate systems will be investigated and compared with those of other forms of transportation. The commission also will consider cost of public roads in Ontario and to what extent the cost should be met by owners and operators of motor vehicles.

May Last Month.

Joseph Singer of Toronto, commission counsel, called on various counsel for introductory remarks. The inquiry is expected to last four weeks, with possibility hearings will be held in other Ontario cities.

Representing the automotive transport section of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, Arthur Roebuck said "conditions on the roads are extremely chaotic from our standpoint."

"Wages are excesively low and lack uniformity," he said. "I propose to show that some men working on Ontario roads work 20 hours a day at 10 cents an hour.

Lewis Duncan, counsel for the Automotive Transport Association of Ontario, said his organization represented 87.5 per cent. of equipment on Ontario highways with public carried vehicle licenses.

He said the automotive transport industry was giving a service in the short-haul field that could not be met by any other transport organization.

Ask More Enforcement.

Urging that the present laws concerning motor transportation be more adequately enforced, he said he would oppose the suggestion that the Ontario Government pass further legislation to restrict the power of the trucking business.

"The power of the State should never be used to increase the tax on one industry at the expense of another industry," he said. "This is against all economics."

C. B. McClung, representing St. Thomas, said truck and motor vehicle companies should have the same rigid rules applied to them as the railroads.

The Province and the municipalities were keeping up the roads to the benefit of the motor companies and truckers should be put on a fair, competitive basis with the railways, he stated.

Lad Dies In Crash Near Tweed

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Nov. 29 (CP). —William Gordon Osborne, 16, died in hospital early today from injuries received when the car which he was driving crashed into a tree outside the village of Tweed. His brother Albert George Osborne, 23, of Sulphide, was seriously injured.

An inquest was opened today before Dr. G. S. Cronk, coroner for the district, and after preliminary evidence the hearing was adjourned for a week.

Osborne was proceeding to Sulphide to work with his brother.

Ing of Waterdown allegedly lost $43,750. H. J. Pike, C. W. Edwards, N. T. P. Less Responsibility, Expenses Key To Manitoba Plight

Warns Adjustments Must Be Made If Canadian Unity To Be Maintained

WINNIPEG, Nov. 29—(CP)— Reduction of provincial responsibilities and expenditures, rather than additional revenue sources, was advocated as a solution to Manitoba's financial plight in a brief placed today by the Manitoba government before the initial hearing of the Royal Commission on Dominion-Provincial relations.

The Manitoba brief suggested this was in keeping with the intentions of the Fathers of Confederation as expressed by the British North America Act that government functions, not specifically provincial in nature, should rest in a strong central government.

The provincial government urged, accordingly, that the dominion government must assume a substantial part of the provincial debt and responsibility for more than half the current social services, if inequities in the present distribution of taxing powers and responsibilities between governments were to be rectified.

Must Be No Failing.

In fact, the Manitoba government brief said, the commission "must not fail" to solve this long-standing and increasing problem if further municipal and provincial

Ennismore's Reeve Receives His Pay In Coppers, Nickels And Dimes

IT IS a long time since Reeve Gifford of Ennismore saw so much money as when he received his sessional pay Saturday. Cheques were issued Saturday morning in anticipation of the afternoon conclusion, and to facilitate the get-away of the members. Wallace Shearer of Harvey had to go down town for something or other, and Mr. Gifford asked him to take along his cheque and cash it. The quiet and smiling Mr. Shearer had the Gifford cheque cashed in coppers, nickles, dimes, and bundled them up into a sizable parcel. Mr. Gifford couldn't imagine what the contents of the package were when it was placed on his desk, but it was the most lucrative load that has bulged his pockets in a long time. Some one suggested that he get a couple of coal sacks and cart the stuff home just as it was, a bulky conglomeration of coinage.

"Strep" Victim's Chance Of Life Increases Ten-Fold

Only Two Of Thousands Offering Have Blood Suited For Vital Transfusions

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 29 (CP) — The odds that Weston W. Fletcher would live narrowed from 1,000-to-1 to 100-to-1 today as life-giving blood of the necessary group four type coursed through his veins. But the 28-year-old victim of streptococcus-veridans did not know it.

Fletcher lay in a Windsor hospital knowing nothing of the battle being waged by attending physicians for his life. For a week since he was brought here from his Grand Blanc, Mich., home suffering from the rare infection he has known nothing of the continent-wide appeal made for a suitable blood donor.

Of thousands of offers to aid the youthful victim, two men were found to have blood that would mix with Fletcher's. The donor must have recovered from streptococcus veridans and had to have blood of the group four type. Lowery Barnes of Simcoe and Ernest Vansickle, Brantford, have it.

Vansickle, 40, gave Fletcher a transfusion Saturday, the first he ever had received. aVnsickle recovered from the disease during Great War service in 1916. Barnes, 42, was found to have blood that matched with the young sufferer and gave another transfusion Sunday.

Fawn Ignores Traffic With Meal In View

Fenelon Falls, Nov. 29 (CP)

A TINY spotted fawn minced lightly through the main street of this Victoria county town Saturday. Its soft eyes were directed solely on a nippled quart bottle of milk in the hands of Game Warden Wallace Scott.

The fawn, less than 20 inches in height, wandered into a herd of cattle owned by a Haliburton farmer. The Warden took charge of the animal and turned it over to the government fur farm near Kirkfield.

Ready Irish Wit Causes Magistrate To Be Lenient With Aged Woman

ARRESTED over the week-end on an intoxication charge, a little old woman whose ready wit gave an unmistakable clue to the country of her origin, provided court officials and spectators with something by way of entertainment this morning.

As she was placed in the dock, she turned to her captor and with withering sarcasm in her voice ejaculated, "Shut the door. I might run away".

There was a brief interval of silence as the little old woman sat facing the Bench, but as soon as Magistrate A. E. Gee lifted his gaze from the documents he had been scanning, he was greeted with a cheery, "Good morning sor", from the defendant.

Apparently believing the magistrate required an explanation for the greeting, defendant told him, "You looked at me as th—gh you were winking at me".

Two Hamilton Youths Feared Drowned in Bay As Boat Is Spotted Floating Upside Down

TORONTO, Nov. 29.—(CP)—A week-end death toll of 10 was counted in Ontario today, due in part to province-wide unfavorable weather that made motoring hazardous and whipped the Great Lakes into fury. And as police and beach residents searched storm-tossed Hamilton Bay it was feared the number of fatalities would rise to 12.

Tree-littered streets and highways, felled power poles and blown-down lines were left in the wake of storms that swept Central and Western Ontario Sunday. Storm signals were hoisted at ports on Lake Ontario, St. Clair and Erie. Rain and fog were general throughout the province.

The storm-battered fishing tug Cecil M. was safe in Port Burwell on Lake Erie after five hours of battling huge waves during which its five-man crew gave up hope of reaching Haven. Two youths caught in a sudden gale while attempting to cross Hamilton Bay were believed drowned. Their frail craft was reported to have been seen floating upside down.

Hamilton was hardest hit by the sudden gale that broke late Sunday. One man was injured when a pane of glass crashed to the pavement. Electric wires, trees, signs and awnings were blown down. Street lights at a downtown intersection fell to the ground and firemen and police were kept busy answering many calls.

FIND RABBIT DEATH CYCLE IS TEN YEARS

TORONTO, Nov. 29 (CP)—Popular belief that the snowshoe rabbits of Canada's north woods die off every seven years is challenged in a report on a four-year study of hare periodicity, just published. The cycles are nearer 10 years in length on the average, it is stated.

The study was made by Dr. D. A. MacLulich under the joint auspices of the Department of Biology, University of Toronto, and the Royal Ontario Museum of Zoology.

It concerned only the varying hare, lepus Americanus, which also is called the snow-shoe rabbit. This is the common hare of Ontario from Muskoka northward and the north woods of Canada generally. It turns white in winter.

The report of Dr. MacLulich found that hares do not reach their peak of abundance or begin to die off in the same year in all parts of Ontario. Hare populations were found to vary from about one to a square mile at times of extreme scarcity to more than 1,000 in the same area in times of abundance. Highest number encountered was in the north part of Frontenac County in July, 1932, when there were 3,400 to the square mile.

FARMER FACING SUICIDE CHARGE

LINDSAY, Nov. 29.—Charles McKay, a young farmer residing near Woodville, faced Magistrate Gee on Saturday to answer to two charges—attemping to end his life and intoxication. He was remanded until a later date. The accused was placed in custody by County Constable Bowes of Oakwood, who was called to a point on the Oakwood-Woodville Road by Carl Hill, who saw the accused acting in a suspicius manner about two o'clock in the morning. McKay's car was in the ditch and the accused was lying under it near the exhaust pipe. The motor of the car was running and Hill turned off the ignition key.

TWO FIRE ALARMS AT CAMPBELLFORD

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 29.—The fire department answered a call for a chimney fire at 7.30 on Sunday evening. The blaze was at the home of Mr. Henry Rogers, Hasting Road, who had already extinguished the flames by throwing a quantity of salt in the chimney. No damage was done.

The department answered a second alarm of the evening at 10.30 when they were summoned to the home of Mrs. Maud O'Sullivan, Havelock Road, where the strong wind was whipping the flames from their chimney into a bright flame. The Chief ordered his men to disconnect the pipes and although extinguishers were taken into the building they were not needed. No damage was done.

ONTARIO'S HOPE LIES IN NORTH SAYS HEPBURN

Believes Province Leads in Temperance

TORONTO, Nov. 29 (CP)—Ontario's hope lies, to a great extent, in the northern parts of the province Premier Mitchell Hepburn told the annual convention of the 20th Century Liberal Association here.

Speaking at the banquet Saturday night, the premier visualized vast development in northern Ontario and said the policy of the Ontario government in eliminating taxes on mines led to investment in the mining areas.

Economic re-adjustments would be necessary in Ontario when the world armament race ends in the near future, he said and the trend would be to more self-sufficiency within the province.

Mr. Hepburn defended the provincial government's liquor and financial policies and stated "Ontario is the most temperate place in the North American continent—probably in the whole world."

Approves Macaulay

Referring to the special session of the Ontario legislature which will convene next Wednesday to amend the succession duties act, the premier said he approved of the new Conservative house leader, Leopold Macaulay and said the legislature would be a business-like assembly.

He said the government tried to overhaul what it considered an obsolete tax system and was successful in succession duties collection until a legal snarl was discovered.

The government would continue to collect money from the large estates and put the tax on those who could afford to bear it, he said.

Miss Meta Woeller of Waterloo was elected president of the association, Campbell Calder of London vice-president and Donald Grant of Toronto treasurer.

last", declared His Worship unperturbed. "And I was just thinking you had improved with age".

After accepting her plea of guilty on the intoxication charge, His Worship arraigned the defendant on a further charge of damaging public property.

Chief Constable Samuel Newhall told the court the little old woman "ripped the waterworks out of a tank in the ladies' cell".

"Well, Maybe I did", the defendant admitted.

"What were you trying to do, Have a shower bath", the Cadi asked.

"Yes sir. I wanted to cool meself", was the reply.

When the magistrate was considering what course to take, the defendant with tears in her voice pleaded, "Give me my liberty sir. I want to get out to look after my dog and my house", and besides she added, "My son's coming out of gaol tomorrow."

To give her an opportunity of looking after her dog and house, and to offer a welcome to her prodigal son, the Magistrate adjourned sentence until next Monday. He ordered however that the little old woman be not released from custody until tonight.

Remands Opposed In Case Of Drunks

Declaring he wanted to "discourage this sort of thing," Chief Constable Samuel Newhall objected this morning when a local young man, charged with intoxication, asked for a week's adjournment, so he could get money to pay a possible fine. "He was acting worse than an Indian," the Chief declared. He suggested the defendant should be placed on the prohibited list.

After deciding to grant an adjournment "to give this young man an opportunity of getting some money to pay a fine," Magistrate A. E. Gee remarked to another inebriate, "What's the matter with you; tight again?" "Well I was tight. At least they say I was," the accused admitted.

Like the previous man, he also asked an adjournment. "I'm working, but I have to get the money from my boss in Smith Township," he said by way of explanation.

Learning Their Trades

Given an opportunity to learn trades through Ontario government projects under the Dominion-provincial youth training movement, the young men pictured here are making excellent use of their tuition period. The movement is jointly sponsored by federal and provincial parliaments as a means of preparing unemployed youths for profitable positions in industry. The young man at the LEFT is gathering his knowledge in a Brantford moulding plant, while at the RIGHT, age and youth meet to co-ordinate their knowledge and abilities in a machine shop. The tutor in this case is a farm machinery firm's veteran employee.

Military Strategy Will Decide Shanghai Changes

Liken Problem to Piece of Mortgaged Property; Japan Says Hinting Outside Powers To Be Ignored

TOKYO, Nov. 29—(AP)—A foreign office spokesman declared today Japan insisted on her "right to act independently" in Shanghai—without the necessity of consulting Great Britain or the United States on her actions.

(Great Britain had demanded that she be consulted on any changes to be made in China's Maritime Customs, revenues from which are pledged for repayment of China's external debt.

(The United States also had expressed concern to Japan over any attempt to interfere with the integrity of Chinese Maritime Customs.

(Although a Briton, Sir Frederick Maze, remains head of the customs service, Japanese have acquired control of the Shanghai office since they conquered the city, China's wealthiest port).

The spokesman acknowledged that both British Ambassador Sir Robert Leslie Craigie and United States Ambassador Joseph Grew made written representations yesterday but did not disclose the contents.

An Answer Shortly?

Whether Japan would agree to consult the powers before any changes were made in Shanghai, he said, might be made known in an answer to representations probably to be made in a "few days."

"We do not have to consult Great Britain and the United States regarding our projected actions in Shanghai," the Japanese spokesman said.

"Shanghai presents a problem in which the legal and strategic phases are badly tangled. Steps which must be considered wholly as matters of military strategy will be taken. We insist we have the right to act independently insofar as these strategic powers are concerned."

Japan, the spokesman declared, may consider the Shanghai problem as it would "acquiring a piece of mortgaged property."

VICTIM'S CHANCE OF LIFE INCREASES

In the same hospital lies 17-year-old Robert Shafer, Windsor collegiate student. Suffering from the same rare infection, young Shafer was given a transfusion last Friday. They have been given daily since. His donor is Albertus Rickerd, Detroit, whose blood failed to mix with that of Fletcher but matched Shafer's.

Broadcast appeals for the right type of blood donor were answered by thousands of telegrams and telephone calls during the past week. Edgar Stanford, of Essex, England, formerly of Windsor, telephoned here offering to come here by airplane. The London Daily Mail promised to back the venture.

R. H. Simpkin, Fletcher's physician, declined the offer. There's no use risking a life for a life," he said. "We can't use any more donors than we have now, anyway." It also was uncertain whether Stanford's blood would mix with Fletcher. Stanford is a recovered victim of streptococcus veridans.

Meanwhile, in Simcoe, Frank Jones was believed to be recovering from streptococcus haemolyticus, another type of blood infection. An anonymous donor gave him a transfusion. Before the operation, sulphanalamide, a German red dye, was administered. Jones contracted the infection when his thigh was gashed in an automobile accident.

FREIGHTER BOMBED

MARSEILLE, France, Nov. 29 (AP)—The French freighter Le Zardrieux reported today an attack by an airplane 16 miles northeast of Cape Creus, on the Spanish coast just south of the French border.

The message did not say whether the 1,450-ton ship was damaged and did not mention the nationality of the plane.

SHOTS AT PREMIER SEND 300 TO JAIL IN CAIRO FRACAS

CAIRO, Nov. 29 (AP). — Police clamped down today on the Green Shirts Party, organization of Extreme Egyptian Nationalists, following an attempt on the life of Premier Mustapha Nahas Pasha. The president of the group, Ahmed Hussein, and all of its 300 members were arrested.

Nahas Pasha, who arrived early today at the Ministry of the Interior, took charge of the situation, coming out twice to appeal to his supporters for calm.

"God has protected Egypt," he said.

Officials said Izzeddine Abdel Khader, 26, member of the Green Shirts organization and grandson of the late Arabi Pasha, leader of the 1882 revolt which brought British occupation of Egypt, confessed firing four shots at the Premier's car last night. The Premier was not hurt. Disturbances following his arrest sent 20 to hospitals. Four were injured seriously.

Tension prevailed throughout the city. State railway workers started a mass strike as a protest against the assassination attempt. Bands of government supporters armed with cudgels and stones attempted to march on all opposition party establishments.

14 CIO Organizers Are Arrested

Those held were charged with violating a city ordinance prohibiting distribution of literature without a license. They were taken into custody when 40 C.I.O. representatives were met by a score of police at a waterfront building housing several industrial concerns.

Wheat futures on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange closed 1¾ to ⅞ cent higher. November $1.12⅞. December $1.10⅝ to ¾. May $1.10¼ to ¼, and July $1.06⅜.

Canadian wheat export sales were estimated at 200,000 bushels though outside interest in Winnipeg futures was generally light.

Prices eased a cent in the first hour in sympathy with lower overseas markets and easier stock trends, but recovered to show gains of a cent near the close.

Later, firmer stock markets, bullish Argentine crop reports, and upswing at Chicago were major influences. Southern buying was credited to late strength at Buenos Aires.

BROCKVILLE GOLF CLUB IS BURNED

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Nov. 29 (C.P.). — Unoccupied since the close of the golfing season, the clubhouse of the Brockville Golf and Country Club, situated in the Township of Elizabethtown, half a mile west of the town limits, was destroyed by fire to-day. Personal property of numerous members of the club was lost in the fire. Origin was unknown.

Members of the Fire Department, responding to an alarm, sounded by a farmer passing along No. 2 Highway, were unable to save the premises owing to the difficulty in lifting water from the River St. Lawrence beside which the clubhouse stood.

The blaze was well advanced when discovered and soon spread through the frame building, erected in 1914, and in which the Duke of Windsor and the Duke of Kent were entertained in 1927. Officers of the Fire Department were inclined to associate the fire with others of incendiary origin which have occurred here this year, and which the Ontario Fire Marshal's Department has been investigating.

"The time has come," Manitoba warned, "when material adjustments must be made on some mutually acceptable basis or more arbitrary and less satisfactory procedure to accomplish a lessening of the interest burden will inevitably have to be taken".

THE GUM CHECKER

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 29 (AP). — Chewing gum is a modern habit, and thereupon hangs Art Wexler's job. After several costly historical scenes had been ruined by gum-chewing girl extras, a studio hired Wexler as gum checker. He collected 500 packages from 380 extras the first day.

Shields and Diplomas Presented At Annual Commencement

Enjoyable Program Is Given By Norwood High School Pupils

(Examiner Correspondence)

NORWOOD, Nov. 29.—The fifth annual commencement was held in the town hall Friday night before a large crowd estimated at four hundred. A varied program given entirely by the pupils formed a musical drama and comedy background for the events. Shields were presented to the winners of scholarships and athletic events.

S. Brereton, principal of the High school in his formal address, stated that only a small percentage of the pupils now attending Norwood High school will receive their certificates this being due to the young people not working hard enough at their studies. He made an appeal to the parents of children, who are under sixteen years of age, to send them to school. The school does not charge any tuition fees and offers a splendid opportunity to the children and there was no reason why they should not attend and receive the benefits it has to offer. The High school graduates will be asked to keep them in a few years and this was a condition which should not be.

Directing his remarks to the pupils, who were about to receive their graduation certificates, he urged them to face life with a smile and determination and to learn to co-operate with their fellow men.

Scholarships Presented

Mr. Lawlor presented the following winners of scholarships with proficiency shields, which they may retain for one year: Lorna Brechin, Form V; Donald Clysdale, Form IV; Rachel Elmhirst, Form III; Lester Bongard, Form II; and Nona Brechin, Form I.

The following field day champions received shields and rings: Verna McGee, senior girls; Arnold Lobb, senior boys; Rachel Elmhirst, junior girls; Lester Bongard, junior boys; Marion Hope, juvenile girls, and the coveted Strathcona medal for proficiency on the rifle range was won by James Baskin.

Canadian History prizes were won by Rachel Elmhirst and Jean Cameron, both tied, and the entrance prize was awarded Greta Kirk.

The program: Opening chorus, Senior Glee Club; chairman's address; short play by junior students; presentation of Entrance certificates; gymnastics; "Choosing a Career" given by senior girls; "Brother James Air," by Senior Glee Club; one-act play entitled "Opportunity"; closing chorus by Glee Club.

Pianists for the evening were Lorna Brechin and Margaret Brethen.

FIGHT MIDNIGHT SHOWS

TORONTO, Nov. 29 (CP).—A resolution from Brantford local council asking that steps be taken to have Sunday midnight motion picture shows prohibited was referred to local councils by the Provincial Council of Women, in annual convention here Friday.

AVOID NEEDLESS CHANCES PROVED WAY TO TREAT COLDS
Doubly proved—in world's largest colds-clinic, and by everyday use in more homes than any other medication of its kind. No "dosing." Just massage VapoRub on throat, chest, and back at bedtime. Relief begins almost at once. And long after sleep comes, VapoRub keeps right on working. Its poultice-and-vapor action loosens phlegm, relieves irritation and coughing, helps break local congestion. Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over.
VICKS VAPORUB

KISSING TABOO

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 29 (AP).—Alex Solt, 50, refused to take "no" for answer when, hurt, he refused to let him kiss his new [illegible] son. They explained it was against hospital rules.

Solt started a rumpus, wrote angry notes to the hospital superintendent and his wife's physician.

Arrested for disorderly conduct, Solt pleaded his actions were merely an outburst of fatherly affection. But he was held for examination by welfare physicians.

MARMORA REEVE, COUNCIL RETURNED

(Examiner Correspondence)

MARMORA, Nov. 29.—There will be no municipal election in Marmora village, the Reeve and Council having been given acclamation as follows:

Reeve: W. R. Linn.

Councillors: W. A. Sanderson, T. R. Warren, H. B. Smith and A. E. Neal.

Three of the six nominated for the three seats on the Public School Board qualified, namely: J. W. Hickey, Gordon Jarvis and Stewart Blake. The latter two are newcomers on the board.

Dr. D. L. Curtis retains his position as Hydro Commissioner.

Marmora Township Council for 1938 will be elected on December 6. John A. Bell, last year's Reeve, has been given acclamation through Lindsay E. Neal, nominee for the reeveship, not qualifying. Seven have qualified to run for the four seats on the council. They are: W. J. Park, W. D. Nickel, W. Billings, A. Tompkins, G. H. Davidson, C. Kelly and G. Villneff.

MARMORA, Nov. 29.—At one of the largest attended nomination meetings held in years, eleven names were submitted for the four seats on Marmora and Lake township council and Lindsay E. Neal defeated in last year's election for the reeveship was nominated to oppose John A. Bell, the retiring reeve. With six nominees for the council qualifying, an election is certain.

Those nominated for the council were: W. J. Pack, Arthur Tompkins, Charles Kelly, W. K. Long (retiring members); W. D. Nickle, Wellington Billings, Irwin McCoy, Thomas Bateman (ex-councillors); George Villneff, William Hamilton and George H. Davidson. The last named is the only one on the list who is a new aspirant to the office.

Those who qualified are: W. J. Pack, W. D. Nickle, W. Billings, G. H. Davidson, A. Tompkins and C. Kelly. T. Bateman, J. McCoy, and W. K. Long are not qualifying while G. Villneff and W. Hamilton have not made known their decisions as yet.

Clerk Charles Jones presided at a meeting which followed the nomination at which Reeve J. A. Bell gave a review of the year's work and the other nominees addressed the gathering.

Village Nominations

At the Marmora village council nomination meeting held in the council chambers on Friday evening, under presidency of E. C. Prentice, village clerk, the attendance though good was a little below that of last year.

Acclamation was accorded Reeve W. R. Linn and Councillors T. R. Warren, W. A. Sanderson, H. B. Smith and R. E. Neal.

Six were nominated for the three positions on the Public School Board as follows: J. W. Hickey, L. R. Rundle (retiring trustees), G. Jarvis, M. Lavender, J. H. Wright and S. Blake. F. Sweet, the other retiring trustee, was not nominated as trustee but his name was submitted with that of F. R. Wells for the position of Hydro Commissioner.

At a meeting which followed, Reeve Linn described the business of the county council as it affected Marmora village and the other councillors reported for the committees of which they were chairmen. Trustee P. Gray gave a report of Public school affairs and F. R. Wells touched upon Hydro matters. G. Jarvis and F. Sweet also spoke at the call of the chairman.

Dickens' Christmas Carol

ADAPTED BY C. D. VORMELKER

Illustrated by Alfred J. Buescher
CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

OLD MARLEY OF LONDON WAS DEAD. OF THAT THERE WASN'T THE SLIGHTEST SHADOW OF DOUBT. HE WAS AS DEAD AS A DOOR-NAIL.

HIS BURIAL REGISTER HAD BEEN SIGNED BY THE CLERGYMAN, CLERK, UNDERTAKER AND THE CHIEF MOURNER.

SCROOGE WAS THE CHIEF MOURNER AND MARLEY'S SOLE FRIEND, BUT HE WAS ALSO A TIGHT-FISTED, GRASPING OLD SINNER.

FOR YEARS AFTERWARD, MARLEY'S NAME REMAINED ON THE WAREHOUSE DOOR OF THE FIRM KNOWN TO LONDONERS AS SCROOGE AND MARLEY.

Zimbalist, that magic name known the world over, belongs to one whose achievements in the musical world have placed him among the greatest of living violinists. This magnificent artist is coming to Peterborough under the auspices of the newly formed Peterborough Branch of the Canadian Concert Association. The date set for his appearance is January 24. Enthusiastic members have stated that this one concert would be worth the cost of membership to say nothing of the two concerts that are to follow.

A month later, or approximately February 28, the second concert is to be held this time with Nicholas Massue as the artist. Mr. Massue is a Canadian by birth, the youngest tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company. He is said to have created a veritable sensation in the metropolis and is only available for concerts because of a clause in his contract which permits him to be away for a limited period.

On March 28 it is planned to have Etta Goltz and Naomi Yanova, Canada's own and exceedingly brilliant two-piano recitalists. In December 1934 they made their New York debut and won the unanimous praise of the critics there. This was followed by appearances with Symphony Orchestras in Canada and the United States. The Rochester Democrat and Chronicle said: "A two piano ensemble that quite captured the audience. There was constant rhythmic[illegible] fluent precision, plenty of change of power with no break in tempo, a feeling for melodic line in the slow movements. The audience was warmly appreciative and insisted on two extra numbers."

Membership in this association is available this week, the objective being only 500 members. After this week, no more applications will be received. Those wishing to participate in this wonderful series of concerts should communicate with the secretary, Jacob Low or some other member of the executive immediately.

Additional patrons who have signified their desire to see this community enterprise a success are: Mr. J. J. Duffus, M.P., and Mrs. Duffus, Mr. W. George Morrow, Dr. and Mrs. A. Moir, Mr. and Mrs. E. Bruce Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Corkery.

A number of young folk attended the dance in Madoc Armouries on Wednesday evening.

Mr. H. D. Caldwell of Barrie visited his brother, Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell, over the week-end.

Mr. Henry Nickle of Madoc is a patient in Belleville General Hospital, where he is awaiting an operation.

Mrs. Hannah Auger has moved into part of Mrs. A. Anderson's residence on Forsythe street.

Rev. Father G. T. Martin attended the bazaar of St. Carthagh's church, Tweed, on Tuesday.

Mrs. James Irwin of Rawdon township is visiting her sister, Mrs. G. Wellman.

Mr. Clayton Booth has secured a position with General Motors at St. Catharines.

Miss Gladys Lucas, who has been spending the past two months with her sister, Mrs. James George, of Toronto, has returned home.

The Deloro group of St. Paul's Ladies' Guild held a very successful fourfould event in Deloro Hall on Friday afternoon. Combined with a sale of work, was a rummage sale, a sale of home cooking and an afternoon tea. Mrs. J. McCrodan won the Christmas cake, donated by Mrs. L. K. Crawford, and the quilt donated by Mrs. W. Kerr, Sr., went to William Simmons, Jr.

Three business changes are pending in Marmora. Keith Armstrong is moving from his present premises adjoining Blake's store to the part of the Shannon block, until recently known as the Green Lantern Tea Room. The new store opens on Monday.

S. A. Stephens is moving his business of boots and shoes and men's clothing to the Bleecker building, south of W. Sweet and Sons' store.

The premises at the corner of Madoc and McGill streets, vacated by Mr. Stephens, will be occupied by George Aboud of Havelock, who will open a ready-to-wear store.

LESS GOLD, BUT WORTH MORE

While less gold was shipped from South Africa in September than in August the rising basis of valuation made it worth $125,830 more.

Pastor Asks Youth Ignore War Lure

LOCKPORT, N. Y., Nov. 29. (AP).—A Presbyterian minister who saw service with Royal Flying Corps pleaded here last night for present-day youth to "ignore the lure of war."

"We are depending on the youth of this generation to build a warless world," said the Rev. Henry Cotton of the Fort Erie, Ont., United Presbyterian church at a youth conference dinner.

"It is youth which prays with its blood for every war. Youth also pays when the war is ended. We can only hope something will be done to prevent the repetition of this tragedy."

As a pilot of the Royal Flying Corps, Mr. Cotton was shot down and captured by Germans during the Great War.

Mr. and Mrs. Georgedia Plante of Toronto are guests this week of Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Wright.

Mr. Wilfrid Elson is visiting his sister, Mrs. Charles Sled, and Mr. Sled, at Prescott for a few days this week.

Miss B. M. Turner, B. A. was in Toronto over the week end, attending the fall meeting of the Alumnae of St. Hildt's College.

Miss Phyllis Kidd has returned home after a three week's visit with her aunt, Mrs. Gordon Earle, and other relatives at Peterborough.

The local Continuation School is holding its annual Commencement Exercises in the Town Hall on Friday and Saturday, December 10 and 11, when the play, "Be an Optimist," will be given, and diplomas and field day medals be presented.

Mr. Percy H. Handly has received word of the death of his brother, William A. Handley, at Seattle Wash., on November 23; deceased was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Handley, for many years residents of Millbrook in the earlier years if its history.

Mr. Kenneth Skitch, of Los Angeles, Cal., has been called home owing to the serious illness of his mother, Mrs. Harry Skitch. It is Mr. Skitch's first visit since leaving here some years ago. Mr. J. Mrs. Joseph Allen, Mrs. Joseph O'Connor and Mrs. Patrick O'Brien were guests of Mrs. D. Houlihan, Peterborough on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ayotte were at Young's Point for the social evening on Thursday.

The village is becoming more of a metropolis all the time, hydro, street lights and now another requisite of city life—a policeman. Mr. Harry Ayotte is the new appointee but it is not likely that his duties will be onerous.

A local delegation interviewed the county council on Thursday asking for widening, straightening, etc., on the east-west road through the village. They were given a fair and reasonable hearing. On Friday the county council in a body drove over the road, and so have first-hand information as to the need of repairs. It is a wonder that accidents and damage suits have not occurred in the past. Most people dread the road particularly at night.

DOCTOR DIES, PNEUMONIA

GALT, Ont., Nov. 29. (CP).—Dr. W. W. Carrothers, eye, ear and nose specialist died Saturday from an attack of pneumonia. LINDSAY

INQUEST CALLED, TRUCKER'S DEATH

LINDSAY, Nov. 29.—Coroner Dr. McLehnan, of Sunderland, has ordered an inquest in connection with the tragic death of Thomas Lomack, driver of the oil truck, who perished in the flaming cab of the truck after it struck a C.N.R. train near Sunderland Thursday morning. An inspection has revealed to the police the fact that the tractor-trailer probably jack-knifed on the railway track after the driver had made desperate efforts to ditch it on the left side of the road. The police hold strongly to the belief that the unfortunate man was dead before the fire started. The wrecked truck was brought to Lindsay Friday on a coal car and was viewed by many at the C.N.R. yards.

At a meeting of the Lindsay branch of the Red Cross Society on Thursday the announcement was made by the president that the local Board of Education refused to allow a qualified dentist permission to examine the teeth of school children as far as the Public schools were concerned.

Following up their drive on the illicit sale of liquor in the north country, the police Friday laid a charge against Russell Kellett, of Kinmount, of having liquor in a place other than his residence. Magistrate Gee sentenced the accused to three months in the county jail.

The hamlets of Lochlin and Ingoldsby are now enjoying the Hydro. Work on the extension of power to these points was completed a few days ago.

MOTHER TO DIE

CINCINNATI, Nov. 29. (AP).—Mrs. Anna Marie Hahn, 31-year-old mother, was sentenced Saturday to die in Ohio's electric chair March 10 for the murder-by-poison of Jacob Wagner, 78.

Overruling a defence motion for a new trial, Judge Charles S. Bell, held "the evidence was so overwhelming that no verdict other than guilty could have been reached by the jury. The verdict is not contrary to law."

OFFICE-SEEKING CANDIDATES OPEN WEEK'S CAMPAIGN

TORONTO, Nov. 29 (CP).—Men aspiring for positions in Ontario's civic governments — candidates for offices in municipal administrations—today began a week of canvassing in preparation for civic elections next Monday.

In many cases recipients of nominations Friday failed to file the necessary qualifications by Saturday night and were automatically dropped from the list of candidates. Nevertheless plenty of candidates were left to make a fight of it.

Most cities in the province face a mayoralty campaign but in scores of towns, villages and townships acclamations were given men seeking the mayoralty. Windsor, which elected a mayor to a two-year term last year, will have no mayoralty election, in Hamilton, Mayor William Morrison received an acclamation.

One woman seeks the office of mayor of a city. Miss Edra Saunders, St. Thomas lawyer who took a prominent part on behalf of the Conservatives in the October provincial election, is the only opponent to Mayor Ernest Duckworth in that city.

The northern cities of North Bay and Sudbury gave mayoralty acclamations. Robert Rowe will hold the office in North Bay and John Rudd in Sudbury.

In Ottawa, Toronto, Brantford, Chatham, Stratford, Woodstock, Galt, Kingston, Guelph and Kitchener, however, there will be contests for the mayoralty as well as other posts.

Coin Decides Office

All positions in Barrie except deputy reeveship were filled by acclamation and a toss of the coin decided that office with the result there will be no election there. D. F. MacLean, Alderman J. M. Mills and Alderman William Garner were in the running for deputy reeveship. A coin was tossed and Mr. MacLaren won.

Aylmer, Goderich, Georgetown, Meaford, Kincardine, Pembroke, Waterloo and Strathroy were among towns giving acclamations for the mayoralty.

Seeking his second term in Toronto, Mayor William D. Robbins is opposed by Controller Ralph Day, who headed the poll for Board of Control last year. Robert Harding and Carlo Lamberti. In an interview recently Mr. Lamberti confided he didn't expect to win but wanted to conduct an educational campaign to put across his housing ideas.

In Ottawa, Mayor Stanley Lewis is involved in a four-way fight. Alderman W. H. Marsden, Caleb S. Green and William A. Watson are his opponents.

Four men seek the Brantford mayor's chair, vacated by Hon. M. M. MacBride, Ontario Labor Minister. They are Sam Sloan, R. Wentcula, Reg. Welsh and G. Frank Sterne.

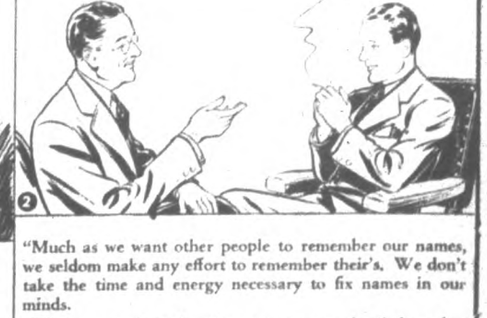
Kitchener also will have a new mayor due to withdrawal of J. A. Smith, elected to the legislature for Waterloo North in the October election and later appointed to the Hydro Commission. George W. Gordon, Alex Schafer and Irvin Bowman want the job.

Other contests: Chatham, J. J. Zink, Fred. Newkirck; Stratford, T. E. Henry, James Stewart; Woodstock, W. M. MacArthur, J. A. Saunders, R. G. Clowes; Galt, R. K. Servias, A. W. Mercer; Guelph, David E. Kennedy, William G. Taylor; Kingston, C. P. Dalton, Dr. H. A. Stewart.

REMEMBER PEOPLE'S NAMES

HOW TO WIN FRIENDS AND INFLUENCE PEOPLE
By DALE CARNEGIE . . Author of the famous book of this name

"A man's name is the most important thing in the world to him. Since history began, men have sought to perpetuate the memory of their names. The Pharoahs built pyramids; our modern multi-millionaires endow libraries and museums to insure that their names will not be forgotten."



"Much as we want other people to remember our names, we seldom make any effort to remember their's. We don't take the time and energy necessary to fix names in our minds.
"When we are introduced to a stranger and talk for a few minutes, half the time we can't remember his name when we want to say goodbye."

"Politicians know the value of remembering names. They have learned the truth of the saying that: 'To recall a voter's name is statesmanship. To forget it is oblivion.'
"In business and in social contacts the ability to remember names is quite as important as it is in politics."

"Napoleon the Third, in spite of all his royal duties, boasted that he never forgot the name of anyone he met. "His method was both painstaking and simple. He repeated the name several times while talking; if necessary, he wrote it down, studied it, fixed it, somehow, indelibly in his memory."

The Magistrate Asks

"How do such people get into the country anyway?" was the question asked by Magistrate Ebbs at Oshawa after he heard evidence in a case where a man and his wife could not live happily together. Steve Czabun recited that his wife came home at 2 o'clock in the morning and jumped on his stomach when he was in bed and hurt him. Said too she would poison him if ever she had the chance to do so. It was also stated that Steve in 1926 had paid some "matchmaker" $450 to find a wife for him, and he had many times regretted the expenditure.

Small wonder the magistrate after having to listen to such a tale of tripe was moved to ask "How do such people come into the country anyway?" The district around Oshawa was settled by the same sort of people who first moved into the rest of central Ontario. Good pioneer stock, God-fearing folk, honest people who sought above all else to make homes and the homes in turn became the very keystone of the district and community life. There is a wide and a deep gap between such homes and the one which was under review before the Oshawa magistrate. Such a home has made no contribution to the well-being of Oshawa or any other place. Nor will it.

Attacking The Old Order

There is something which stinks to high heaven in the divorce mill proceedings in United States. We have the same thing in our country, but for the moment we have before us a despatch from Reno, Nev., and it says:

Mrs. Connie De Bower will get a divorce so that she may marry the man whose recent wife this month married Ernest Simpson, who was divorced by Wallis Warfield.

In a 10-minute district court trial, Mrs. De Bower, who is 37, and once was on the New York stage, will win a divorce from Herbert De Bower of New York. She will charge him with mental cruelty.

She will leave immediately for New York, she said, to marry Jacques A. L. Raffray, New York insurance broker.

On November 9, Raffray's wife divorced him here, and last week she married Simpson, who was the Duchess' second husband.

The old idea of remaining united "until death doth us part" is having a hard time to hold up its head in present-day company. The old articles of faith which recognized and admired fidelity, love, sacrifice, patience and kindness seem to have lost their meaning. In their place we have a system which while it might be right enough in the breeding of live stock is vulgar, disgusting and debasing to the human race.

In Just 11 Words

For more than forty hours there was no word of a plane with 11 people in Northern Ontario. All that was known was that it had left and had not arrived at its destination. Flying conditions were not at all good and there were rumors that serious enough trouble had developed.

Finally there came a message of eleven words telling of the safety of the plane and the passengers, and announcing that as soon as the weather was all right the plane would be on its way.

In the previous two days there must have been thousands of words printed in the newspapers of the country, but in 11 words the whole story was finally told.

That message came from Doghole Bay, and it was cracked out by what they call a backwoods wireless. We admit frankly we never heard of Doghole Bay, and we take it the sending station there would not be like a regular office where one would go in and write out a message on a printed form and hand it through the wicket to a waiting clerk. No—Doghole Bay would not be like that at all; it would be very simple, very primitive, but very real. Doghole Bay, though, knew more about the situation than all the speculative writers, and Doghole Bay cleared up the whole situation in just 11 words. We rather like the place.

Would Be Worth Trying

The Federal Department of Agriculture has decided to establish what it terms an "illustration farm" in Prince Edward county. Problems of farmers in the district will be considered there; fertility of the soil will be tested and improved and an effort will be made to bring the land to the point where it will produce canning factory products in abundance.

Although the working of just one farm in that way is not a great venture, there is something commendable about it. It has never appeared to us that the general policy of either Federal or Provincial agriculture departments has been wide enough. To illustrate: In all sections of the province we have what we call abandoned farmes, and they have been abandoned because they were not profitable. They may have been unprofitable because they were poorly worked or because scientific knowledge was not directly applied to their working.

We would like to see a few of these poor farms taken under the wing of some agricultural department to find out whether the application of scientific means would turn them from unprofitable to profitable properties. Such an experiment should be made under conditions as close as possible to those faced by other farmers. That is, there should not be such an amount of money placed at their disposal as would take the operations out of the range of practical farming. Rather should there be a sincere effort to show that scientific methods and better farming practice, a better study of markets and all such would make these places pay.

It is admittedly somewhat of a challenge to the agricultural authorities to bring their knowledge from the schools and test plots and apply it to land which has not been well worked in order to show the advantage of the school methods in actual farming. We consider it would be a great stroke of business for scientific agriculture if some of those abandoned farms could be made to respond to the touch of better methods and become good properties.

The Farmers Must Do It

Farquhar Oliver of South Grey is the one U.F.O. member in the Ontario Legislature, and he was also a speaker at a banquet in Toronto at the time of the U.F.O. convention. Mr. Oliver said farmers would stand unitedly against communism and fascism and all such forms and devices, but that was not particularly interesting or impressive because so many other people have said the same thing.

But Mr. Oliver did say something worth while when he gave warning against hoping that some person outside the farming industry was going to come forward and solve the problems of the farmers. If there is one class of people who can afford to be rather suspicious of new movements and new leaders who are going to make things better for the farmers it is the farmers themselves.

We heard this matter discussed at a meeting of farmers some time ago, and the best speaker there was a farmer himself, but he was not popular with the audience because he was telling them things they did not want to hear. True things.

Referring to notes taken at the time he said this:

"The chief trouble with farmers is that they do not trust each other. If they believe there is a wrong to be set right then they will start and look outside the farms for the brains and leadership needed to provide the remedy. If some good farmer were willing to undertake the needed organization we would not give him our support and we would not be convinced that he could do anything much about it. If he did start to bring together an organization we would be suspicous of him and we would be saying he is in it to see what he can get out of it.

"I will tell you why I say that. Right in this district we tried a co-operative movement some time ago and it was as much for buying supplies as it was for trying to sell some of our goods to advantage. A number of farmers wanted to buy some fencing wire and it made up a nice order. The farmer whom we had asked to take charge of the business went in his car to a city some distance away to see if the people who made the fencing would sell direct to the farmers at factory prices. It took him a whole day and he secured a great deal of useful information. When we gathered together the first thing some one asked was how much expense money had been paid for the trip, and the truth is the farmer in question had never asked for one cent. He paid his own way because he said he was going to use some of the fencing himself and it did not cost him anything more to make inquiries on behalf of the other farmers. Now that is the kind of a man they were dealing with, but there were people there who did not trust him. We have got to come to the point where we will trust each other and then start working out our own problems because no person from the city or elsewhere is going to bother coming out here to do it for us."

That address was not popular at the time, but it served its purpose. It caused a good many people to come to the conclusion that farm questions and problems of buying and selling would have to be largely solved by farmers themselves, and it caused others to become certain that no person was going to come over the horizon headed toward the farm to bring the solutions from the outside.

It Is Our Business

Chief David Louden of Sudbury admits he is worried about what he calls the "crime wave" which has swept over his community in recent weeks. And he can submit sufficient evidence by way of bank and other robberies and acts of violence to make certain that when he uses the word "wave" he is not exaggerating. Not only has the Chief to deal with major offences, but he reports that nearly every day there are lesser breakins and thefts.

The explanation offered by Chief Louden is that young men from all over the Dominion have come to Sudbury expecting to find work, but many of them have found nothing. The Burwash Industrial Farm is 40 miles away, and he claims that as young men are released from there they come to Sudbury to see if they can find work. In that way there is an accumulation of people greater than the work available, and these people have no homes. They do not live in Sudbury they do not belong there. They have no gainful occupation, therefore they seek to make a living by crime.

And it may be that people in other parts of the province will pay little attention to Sudbury. They may be inclined to look upon it as something with which Sudbury alone will have to deal. But the question is not to be shoved to one side as easily as that because the responsibility for the existence of such a condition is more widespread than the civic boundaries of Sudbury. The danger is that we may come to the point of accepting such a situation as something which must be expected and over which we have no control. A good many folk may argue that they have enough to worry about without being asked to bother about some young fellows being out of work in Sudbury.

And yet it is a plain fact that we have tolerated for a long time a system which has said as definitely as can be that there are certain men who cannot work. As individuals we may not have set about to deliberately create that situation, but we have done mighty little to remedy it, and for the most part we have failed entirely to accept joint responsibility for the condition in which so many young chaps find themselves.

There is some definite connection between the situation outlined by the Chief of Police in Sudbury and the organization meeting of the Dominion-Provincial Youth Training movement held in Peterborough the other evening. It looks like a sincere effort to try and make certain that our young men are not going to be allowed to slide and slip, and that concerted effort is going to be made to answer the ever-present question of youth: "What am I going to do?" We cannot take the attitude that it is none of our business because it is. There are a good many things which engage our attention from week to week, but we can think of nothing at the moment which is of greater importance than trying to turn some young man into an occupational channel where he will be busy. Being busy generally means being happy; it is the foundation of a normal existence. Any movement which intelligently deals with this business is also dealing with the situation which the Chief of Police in Sudbury describes. We might desire above all else that we never arrive at the point where we can view with smug complacency or with any degree of tolerance the spectacle of young fellows coming to a dead stop at the point where they should be making a start and asking: "What am I going to do."

NOTE AND COMMENT

Premier Hepburn and Leopold Macaulay, Conservative house leader are to hold a conference but it will not likely be staged at Chorley Park.

The winner of the Nobel peace prize, Viscount Cecil says war becomes more likely with every passing month. Such an opinion from such a quarter will not do much to allay the general anxiety.

New railway engines in Canada are nearly all stream-lined. Now if we could get the railway deficits in the same shape the situation would be materially improved.

Premier Hepburn threatens to take all the color out of politics. Surely he must know that Canadians like every other folk love a show and are always willing to pay for it.

Minister in Pittsfield, Ill., convicted of slaying a member of his congregation with a hammer, said he was not surprised at the verdict. He added by way of justification that he was the victim of circumstances, but that did not seem to obliterate the fact that the woman he killed was also a victim of his hammer.

LEARNING

(By A. R. K.)

¶ When I was young and rather small, and when my writing was a scrawl, I'd have to think and pause; they tell me then I used to write, and work upon it day and night, it was to Santa Claus.

¶ A selfish little jay no doubt, I'd make a list both long and stout, I'd work till I was tired; when pen was grasped within my fist, and when I wrote this yearly list, I told what I desired.

¶ It was a greedy thing to do, just thinking of myself all through, I wish for this and that; and writing Santa Claus a note, as though I had him by the throat, I'd make his stock look flat.

¶ They tell me too my lists were long, and that the spelling too was wrong, wrote like I shouldn't ought; and I am certain it is true, before my listing things were through, I'd asked an awful lot.

¶ But when it came to Christmas time, I found not many things were mine, I started then to learn; for little people here and there, all had to have each one a share, I'd have to wait my turn.

¶ And ever since I've often thought, at times I want an awful lot, take less I simply won't; but often do my plans seem wrecked, I never get what I expect —it's just as well I don't.

HEART DISEASE is much commoner among doctors than among the bankers or any other occupational group. The reason is to be found in the heavy strain under which the doctor or surgeon constantly labors, explains Dr. Harry L. Smith of the Mayo Clinic.

What is a crisis for the banker or the business man is more or less routine for the doctor. The physician's and especially the surgeon's daily responsibilities are nearly as intense as those of the banker when there is a run on his bank.

Coronary sclerosis occurs among doctors twice as frequently as in other occupations. It occurs four times as often as it does among laborers and farmers and about twice as often among bankers, lawyers and clergymen as among laborers and farmers. Stress strain and worry are called predisposing causes of this disease which figures hardly at all among the manual laborers and is highest among those who do mental work.

Automobile Accidents.

IN NINE YEARS the number of automobiles in the United States increased eleven per cent. but the number of accidents increased fifty-two per cent. On better roads better machines travel at high speed which has led to more accidents.

Automobile association officials predict that if the present increases in traffic accidents continue, one third of the persons born in the United States will likely be fatally or seriously injured.

Fatal traffic accidents are fewer in rainy and snowy weather when drivers are alert, proving that careful driving lessens the number of motor mishaps.

According to one authority motorists are apt to be cautious during their first year of driving. In the second year comes a period of overconfidence with insufficient experience during which accidents are very apt to occur.

More automobiles acoidents happen in autumn than in any other season of the year. Sleeping drivers of motor vehicles, we are told, are responsible for one hundred thousand accidents annually in the United States while another source says that statistics show that the motorist who has been drinking kills or injuries two persons per accident compared with one for the motorist who is sober.

Of sixty-two thousand automobile accident claims investigated in Massachusetts, eighteen thousand were found to be fraudulent or exaggerated.

Says Ottawa Paper Points Both Ways

Toronto Paper Digs Up What It Had to Say in '35; In 1937 Views Seem to be Considerably Changed.

(Toronto Star)

THE OTTAWA JOURNAL is concerned about Ontario's government house. Pointing out that under Dr. Bruce "at Chorley Park there have been maintained the highest traditions of the British system of government, the traditions of responsibility, of solicitude for the public good, of good-will and dignity under an ordered democracy," the Journal goes on to say:

"Are such things of no value in government? One might as well argue that Buckingham palace, under the late King George, or under the present monarch, with its interest in all that concerns the people, and with its symbol of unity, has had, and has, no place in government. We live in an age when thoughtful people must deplore the loss of respect for cultural values, the subordination of old and once-cherished traditions to the so-called 'practical' mind. We are coming to, if we have not already arrived at, that stage where 'popularity' is thought to be the reward for vulgarity, where too many we choose to rule over us think that little in life matters but a few dollars and cents, and that democracy, to be successful, must be materialistic and crude."

There is more along the same line, but The Star will not trouble to answer any of it. Instead we will quote from an editoral which appeared in one of Canada's brightest newspapers in 1935:

"There is nothing in the constitution, nor no demand of patriotism, nor of loyalty which says, or which can say, that in these days, when government overhead and taxes are oppressive, we should spend hundreds of thousands of dollars for residences of lieutenant-governors. For a lot of mere show and glitter.

"That, and that alone, is what is at issue or what should be. It is not a matter for vulgarity, nor for personalities, nor for bad manners. It is a matter simply of devising means of making government less costly. Of stripping it of useless attachments.

"This newspaper would be the last to advocate abolition of the office of lieutenant-governor, or of any link with the crown. It has no patience with those who think that democracy should be crude, or that it should be freed from rituals and symbols, or even from pageantry. That, however, is a far different thing from the idea that provinces which are hard pressed for money, and some of which are on the verge of bankruptcy, should be building or maintaining huge residences for lieutenant-governors. Such a practice is nothing but folly."

That, we think, is a fairly complete reply. It is a complete reply, and it is taken from the Ottawa Journal of 1935. It answers all the points raised by the Ottawa Journal in 1937.

Japanese Mother Proud of Son in Death

Tells of Pride in Having Given a Son to the Country; Three More Sons Will Be Ready For the Same Service

(From "Japan in Pictures" (Tokyo)

ON AUGUST 25, the Navy Ministry tersely announced the death of Sub-Lieutenant Tatsuo Yamanouchi, 27, who had been attached to the naval flying corps which conducted raids on Chinese air bases.

Behind this brief and commonplace announcement there is a poignant human document, a letter addressed to the Navy Ministry by the mother of the youthful officer.

The letter reads:

"Sir: I have received from the headman of Ishida, Ika-gun, your communication regarding the death of Sub-Lieutenant Tatsuo Yamanouchi of the naval flying corps, in the recent air raid.

"I am filled with gratitude that my boy was able to serve as a flying officer in the Imperial Navy and, through his death, to dedicate his life to the cause of his Fatherland.

"I humbly offer my thanks to the Navy for the care they have taken of my boy during his career.

"From childhood he had a pure heart and he loved justice, honesty and valor. His father thought of him as an offspring of the land, dedicated to the cause of the nation. Every care was bestowed on our boy in this spirit.

"When, in 1934, he joined the colors to do his bit in the emergency period, he was already prepared to sacrifice himself for the State. Let me, Sir, in lieu of my son Tatsuo, respectfully shout three cheers for the Emperor, for the State and for the Imperial Navy. Had there been anyone to hear him when he died, he would no doubt have been heard shouting these words."

(In the letter the mother encloses a poem she composed to express her feelings. In effect, it says: "The aged mother does not weep as she looks up to the bright moon; nor does she weep as she sees the plants budding into flower. She will lift her head and direct her gaze to the warplane that glides through the sky. Look! There goes Tatsuo, living and serving his country. For his spirit does not die. Tatsuo lives forever!") Then she continues:

"I have three more sons. I shall watch over them and see that they grow up to serve the country with the same lofty spirit as their brother.

"I respectfully ask the authorities concerned to set their minds at ease, for Tatsuo's character is such that even at the last moment he would not forget to preserve the honor of the Imperial Navy.

CITY OR TOWN.

(Timmins Advance)

A READER of the Advance writes this paper asking if the Advance is not in favor of "making a city of Timmins." The Advance is very much in favor of that idea— has worked for 25 years to help achieve that end. As to having it a city in name, that is a different matter. As town or city, with all the comforts, the conveniences, the advantages of the modern city, Timmins will be all right. No one should worry much about making Timmins a city in name if that only means added expense without compensating benefit.

Men who talk about making this a city in name are doing much less for Timmins than men like Leo Mascioli, who build theatres, hotels, rinks, or men like John Dalton who give the town city bus service. With all the benefits of a city, Timmins can be a mighty good town.

WE'RE TIRED, TOO.

(The Northern News)

AS WE understand it, there was a celebration Sunday night in Kirkland Lake of the 20th anniversary of the Russian revolution.

It was, we believe, observed by friends of the Soviet Union. The celebration did not seem to be worth reporting, and had nothing to do with Canada, Ontario or Kirkland Lake.

The friends of the Soviet are welcome to celebrate anything they want —but, particularly this week there are other observances more sacred and closer to home.

We are getting rather tired of hearing of the Soviet, and of Fascism and Nazism.

CALL THIS RELIEF.

(Halifax Chronicle)

RELIEF COSTS in Halifax have continued a heavy drain on the taxpayer but the last figures given show a considerable drop over those for a year ago. In October, 1936, the cost was nearly $28,000, while for October of this year it stood at a little over $16,000. The relief given single men is down from $1,300 to $800. Relief for families dropped from 1,484 to 994, and the number of all persons getting relief dropped from 7,043 in October a year ago to 4,677 for October of this year.

HE WINS FRIEND.

(Dal Carnegie)

YOU YOURSELF have probably met the greatest winner of friends that the world has ever known. Who is he? He's a puppy. When you meet a puppy coming down the street he wags his tail, and he is so glad to see you that he almost jumps out of his skin. And you know that behind his show of affection, there are no ulterior motives. He doesn't want to borrow you coat; and he doesn't want to sell you a vacuum cleaner. All he wants is the privilege of being with you and loving you. Is it any wonder that everybody loves a dog?

A Bible Message For To-day . . . .

WISDOM crieth without; she uttereth her voice in the streets; she crieth in the chief place of concourse in the openings of the gates: in the city she uttereth her words, saying, How long, ye simple ones, will ye love simplicity? and the scorners delight in their scorning, and fools hate knowledge? . . . For the turning away of the simple shall slay them, and the prosperity of fools shall destroy them. But whoso hearkeneth unto me shall dwell safely, and shall be quiet from fear of evil — Prov. 1: 20-22, 32, 33.

They that trust in the Lord shall be as mount Zion, which cannot be removed, but abideth forever. As the mountains are round about Jerusalem, so the Lord is round about his people from henceforth even for ever. For the rod of the wicked shall not rest upon the lot of the righteous, lest the righteous put forth their hands unto iniquity. Do good, O Lord, unto those that be good, and do them that are upright in their hearts. As for such as turn aside unto their crooked ways, the Lord shall lead them forth with the workers of iniquity: but peace shall be upon Israel.—Ps. cxxv: 1-5.

To the Editor

LEAVE HIM ALONE

429 Chambers St., Peterborough,
Nov. 26, 1937.

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Some time ago I felt it my duty to come to the defence of our ex-King—the present Duke of Windsor, and comment on an item in your paper about him. In today's paper (Nov. 26th) I was much surprised to read another article on this same subject. Is it not possible for us to leave him out of the news for a while? You seem to think that His Royal Highness would be happier as an ordinary business man, and I'm quite sure you are right, there. But we must remember that he was very deliberately kicked out of his last job —the only job he had ever been trained for—for that very reason. He wanted to be an ordinary business man, with a happy home and family to go to after his day's work was done. He never did show much interest in Blue Books, or any other kind of books. His interest lay more with the conditions of the working classes— they were his friends.

CIVILIZATION SAVED.

(Chapel Hill, North Caroline, Weekly)

ONE MORE of Chapel Hill's beautiful oaks has come down— the one that stood at the corner of Rosemary Lane and Boundary street. The death sentence was pronounced upon it because automobile drivers, rounding the corner, were put to the unspeakable indignity of having to slow down to maybe ten or fifteen miles an hour. With the oak gone they will be able to swing around at twenty-five or thirty. And so civilization is saved.

WITHOUT COUNTRY.

AT THE state opening of Parliament a unique figure shows up — an ambassador in search of a country. You may have seen his picture, arrayed like Solomon in all his glory, Dr. Martin, of Abyssinia-That-Was. Now, Dr. Martin, from Addis Ababa, has no more state power or political authority than, Mr. Jock Johnson, of New York. Abyssinia is Italian, a colony of Mussolini's empire.

Shower Is Held

On Friday evening, November 19, Warsaw Town Hall was a scene of gaiety when a shower was given Mr. and Mrs. Lymburner. The hall was beautifully decorated. About two hundred and twenty-five were present. Music was supplied for dancing by the Leahy brothers. All could not get on the floor at once, but dancing kept up nearly all night, except during supper which was served by the guests, all of whom were invited. There were many lovely gifts, among them a case of silver. Mr Lymburner thanked the gathering for their gifts and the jolly evening. It was one of the grandest affairs in Warsaw for a long time.

Mrs. Lymburner (nee Jean Munro) had always assisted in the Presbyteria S.S. entertainments and was organist.

Immediately after the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Lymburner had a delightful trip to Quebec. Their future plans are not yet complete, but her friends wish the former Jean Munro and her husband a long life and much happiness.

Is Under Arrest

Once popular "strong man" of Cuba, Gerardo Machado. ABOVE, has been arrested in New York on charges of murder, embezzlement and other crimes in the country he once ruled. The arrest was made shortly after Machado had left Montreal where he had been living since he left Cuba. Although his condition is critical, and it was reported he might die, a 24-hour-guard was placed over the former president's hospital cot.

With The Boy Scouts

On Tuesday, 1st Peterborough (St. John's Crew held a musical evening and heard a talk, "Friend to Animals," by Scouter Fred Ford.

Ronald Gynane was accepted into Squirehood.

St. George's Cub Pack are going along fine; they have a competent instructor in Scout Ron Gynane. Doug. Moscrop and Jack White passed their swimmmer's badge at the Y.M.C.A.

Akela George Brooks and Baloo Miss Tomkins took their first investiture ceremony at All Saints' Friday evening, when Norman Harris and Donald Wedlock were invested as tenderpads. First star instruction is being given. Scout Bernard Rose is acting Cub instructor and is named Kaa. District Commissioner J. T. Hornsby was present and took the Grand Howl.

Stepping up into the Troop meeting the Commissioner inspected the Scouts. After instruction and games weiners and rolls were enjoyed by all.

Assistant Commissioner L. A. Grant and the wandering skipper were visitors; the Skipper was called on to play pirate in the old knife game.

St. John's Troop were given Morse instruction by the Scouter and First Aid instruction by Ken Brown. Camp Fire was held in goodly fashion. Rubenoff and his violin, in the person of Sonny Roy, was enjoyed. A mystery story was told. No one solving the mystery. Singing of a Boy Scout Day brought the troop meeting to a close.

All troops wishing to enter teams in the Scout Hockey League must have entries in by December 7, and also appoint two representatives to act for their groups on the executive committee of the Scout Hockey League. Notification will be given of date of first meeting, when rules and regulations governing the games, ages, etc., will be drawn up. Phone Bill Anderson, 2706-M; address Edison Avenue.

Sacred Heart Troop are coming out of their torpor these days and making up for lost time in badge work. Tom Richie passed first aid test. At the police station our town constables had a few laughs out of Bill Jones and Bud Houlihan as Constable Gordon Puffer passed them in their cyclist badge. Our old friend, Mr. Hope, passed Jack Welsh in his handyman's badge. Don Corrin passed his engineer's and laundryman's tests.

On December 10, the Sacred Heart troop are holding Parents' Night. Badges will be presented and an enjoyable evening is being arranged. Parents are asked to please reserve this date.

St. John's Pack Den was filled to capacity Friday, when a total of 52 Cubs met for a good time in Jungleland; the occasion was one of joint visits to St. John's Pack by Akela Ingham with some St. Andrew's Cubs and Akela Lily Bull and St. Paul's Pack.

Frank Blackburn received his second star, while Glen Grierson and Ken Gynane received their first star. Several toys were brought in and taken to the fire hall toy repair depot.

The Pack will hold paper collection on December 11, and Akela is awarding a theatre party to the six collecting most paper by that date.

The pack will meet next Friday as usual, but will dismiss at 7.30 in time for Santa Claus parade.

The Agony Of Eczema

Eczema, or salt rheum, is one of the most torturing of itching skin diseases. The principal cause is bad blood, aided by inactive skin and inflammation. It manifests itself in small, round pimples or blisters which later on break and form crusts or scales, and the intense burning, itching and smarting are almost unbearable.

To eradicate eczema from the system it is necessary to give the blood a thorough cleansing, and for this purpose we would highly recommend Burdock Blood Bitters.

Mrs. Joseph R. Berger, Millbank, Ont., writes:—"Several months ago I was troubled with eczema on my hands. I could not help with the milking my hands were so sore and itching, and could hardly put them in water.

After I had taken two bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters I found my hands were healing very quickly. I have never found a remedy to compare with B.B.B. for purifying the blood."

ELECT PRESIDENTS HASTINGS GROUPS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Nov. 29.—The members of the Woman's Association of Trinity United church held their November meeting for the election of officers at the United church parsonage, the home of Mrs. F. W. Newell on Thursday afternoon. Miss Mae Huycke presided over the meeting, with an attendance of thirteen. Mrs. A. M. Brooks gave the Bible reading.

Mrs. Newell took charge of the election of officers which resulted in the election of three presidents: first, Mrs. H. Oliver; second, Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe; third, Miss Mae Huycke. The members, were divided into three groups with a president over each group, who will preside every third meeting. The other officers are: Treasurer, Miss Carrie Doxsee; secretary, Mrs. H. BUS IS FIRED ON, DRIVERS' STRIKE

CLEVELAND, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Violence grew to-day in the Greyhound bus strike in the United States with abduction of a driver and shots fired at or near a bus on the highway, while a government conciliator's joint conference with both sides continued here.

Police questioned the abducted and returned driver and nearly a score of other men at Pittsburgh early to-day.

Wilbur Glassbrenner, 26, a non-striking driver reported to police that four men picked him up last night as he was about to enter his bus at a north Pittsburgh station. They took him to a house and urged him to sign up to join the strike. He declined, and walked out without interference, he said.

Police raided the house and took 20 men into custody. Glassbrenner said he could not identify any.

Ohio highway police reported that shots were fired at or near a Greyhound bus en route between Youngstown and Warren.

Police expressed the belief that the shots were fired at the bus tires. None struck the bus, carrying 31 passengers.

TORONTO, Nov. 29 (CP).—Rev. Joseph F. Tupper, 54, former rector of St. Monica's Church here, died last night while on his way to preach in the church. He served with the Royal Canadian regiment in France.

OVERCOME BY FUMES

INGERSOLL, Ont., Nov. 29 (CP).—Overcome by carbon monoxide fumes from a furnace, Mr. and Mrs. James Tattersall both collapsed on Saturday, and Mrs. Tattersall was taken to hospital. She complained at dinner of not feeling well, and collapsed shortly after. Her husband was affected later.

FIFTY ARRESTED ROADHOUSE RAID

TORONTO, Nov. 29.—Provincial police raided Bill Beasley's luxurious roadhouse establishment on the centre road, a few miles west of Toronto, early Sunday morning, stripped the place of thousands of dollars' worth of costly gambling equipment and liquors, and listed for possible prosecution to-day between 50 and 60 men and women—many of them members of Toronto's "smart set"—who fell into the sensational surprise grabnet.

No arrests were made, but subpoenas, it is understood, are likely to be issued immediately to Beasley, his staff of subordinates, and his three score "found-in" patrons. The Crown's course of action will definitely be determined this morning.

Lookouts Overpowered

The raid, which was executed without a single hitch, and was reportedly based upon complaints lodged with the Attorney-General's Department during the past month by residents of the Cooksville-Port Credit area, was planned and led by District Inspector A. H. Palmer. Twelve constables, half of them uniformed and the remainder in plain clothes, worked with him. Swooping down on the place, from their Queens Park assembly point, about 1 o'clock, they seized and overpowered the two lookouts before they could give any alarm.

Then with a single officer, Palmer pushed the admission buzzer, usually operated by a sentry, casually strolled past the doorkeeper and his "come in, gentlemen," and was in complete control of the situation before those about the gaming tables—and these are said to have been operating in full blast—were actually aware of what was happening.

DEXTER FELLOWS, PRESS AGENT DIES

HATHIESBURG, Miss., Nov. 29.—(AP).—Dexter Fellows has told for the last time the wonders of "the Greatest show on earth."

The man who was known in newspaper offices from coast to coast as the United States No. 1 press agent died last night at the age of 66.

He succumbed to bronchial pneumonia which set in three days ago after he had been stricken with typhoid fever early in October on his job "in advance" of the Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey Circus.

They came from Fellows' circus friends, theatrical people and newspapermen throughout the country. Fellows had met them on his travels of more than 40 years as press agent for circuses up and down the land.

He started in back in 1893 when the Pawnee Bill Wild West Show landed in Fitchburg one way without a press agent.

He was with Pawnee Bill only a short time before he joined the Buffalo Bill show. His next job was with Ringling Brothers, then with Barnum and Bailey, and when the two great circuses were combined he remained as chief press representative.

Legendary Figure

Fellows grew to be almost a legendary figure in the world of the circus, and was always welcomed warmly in newspaper offices as he returned year after year with new stories of the spangled top.

His coming to town was generally the signal for the unloosing of superlatives of the wildest kind in the imagination of reporters. As many stories were printed about him, it seemed, as about the big show itself.

He estimated he travelled approximately 15,000 miles a year, sometimes ahead of the show and sometimes along with it.

Fellows was born in Boston in 1871 but his family moved to Pitchburg when he was a boy.

MARY MOORE'S HELPFUL HINTS TO THE HOSTESS

Making Your Cake, Mincemeat For The Christmas Season

What You Want In Line Of a Christmas Cake First Thing To Decide Upon

(By MARY MOORE)

FILLING requests for specific virtues in Christmas cakes would overflow this page.

For my part I want nothing better (for there is nothing better) than Emem's Fruit Cake, but unless it is oftener, I know I have printed that for at least the last three years until it has become more of a legend than a cake—and most of you who have an eye on guard for such confections have it safely in your files by now.

So that gives us elbow room for somebody else's idea of a "best yet" Christmas cake.

What do you want in your Christmas cake? Richness, moisture, fruitness, nuttiness, good but cheap, very dark, very light.

The following Southern Fruit Cake calls for many nuts, many fruits, comparatively few eggs and is actually a confection, for the cake part is indiscernible when baked.

Southern Fruit Cake

One-half pound butter, 5 eggs, (yolks and whites separated), 1½ cups sugar, half pound each candied pineapple, maraschino cherries, figs, 1 pound each raisins and pecans, 1½ lbs. dates, ½ lb. almonds, two halves each lemon and orange peel candied, ½ cup strawberry preserves, ½ cup grape juice or wine. Dry ingredients mixed and sifted together, 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon each cinnamon, clover, nutmeg, 2 teaspoons baking powder.

Save out about ½ dozen each of the almonds, pecans, cherries, strips of pineapple to arrange in decorative circles on top of cakes before they are baked.

Sift the dry ingredients first, then as the fruit and nuts are prepared by breaking or cutting into strips add them to about 1 cupful of this sifted dry mixture.

Cream the butter very well, then gradually sift in the sugar then the well beaten yolks. Then add all the fruits, nuts, juice and dry mixture and stir very well. Try to get the family "strong arm" to help with this. Fold in egg whites, beaten. Line bread or Christmas cake pans with buttered heavy brown paper, and butter again after they fit well, then pour in batter, smooth tops and place decorating fruits in circles on cakes—there will be two large loaves.

If cakes are to be baked throughout stand the pans in larger shallow pans containing a little water and put in oven of 300 deg. Fahr. keeping temperature never above this, never below 275 and bake for 4 hours.

If cakes are to be steamed steam 5 hours, and bake 1 hour at 275 deg. Fahr. When cakes are cool and ready to store, wrap in wax paper, then in heavy cloths dampened in wine. Grape juice or fruit juice will do for dampening the cloth but they must be kept cold to prevent mould.

This cake is solid and moist and very much of a favorite.

Thin Purse Fruit Cake

One cup butter, 2 cups sugar, 3½ cups flour, 1 cup milk, 4 eggs, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, ½ teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cloves, 2 lbs. raisins, 1 lb. currants, grated rind one orange and 1 lemon, juice of 1 lemon. Add just enough boiling water to the raisins and currants to soften them and let them stand while you are preparing the cake, stirring occasionally. This keeps the fruit from sinking.

Cream the butter very well, then sift in the sugar, and beat yolks and add them. Sift together the flour and spices and add the soda to the milk. Add the grated rinds to the flour mixture. Add all the ingredients to the butter mixture, the flour alternately with the milk, and lastly add the stiffly beaten whites of eggs. Bake in two loaf pans lined with greased brown paper at 300 deg. Fahr. or 275 for 1½ hours. Or steam 2 hours and bake 1 hour.

Cherry Cake (highly recommended)

This recipe came from one of our regular readers who says "It is a good keeper and the best white fruit cake I ever tasted." It looks that good, too.

One lb. butter, 1¾ lbs. maraschino cherries, ½ lb. blanched almonds, ½ lb. mixed peel, 4½ cups flour, 1 cup raisins (bleached sultanas would keep the light tone of the cake), 2 cups white sugar, salt a pinch (I think ½ teaspoon should be used), 6 large eggs, ½ cup cream, 1 teaspoon baking powder.

Cream butter very well, then add sugar gradually while creaming. Prepare all the fruits and nuts and dredge with a little of the flour which is sifted with the baking powder, and salt. Beat the yolks until double in bulk and add them to the butter mixture. Then add the nuts and fruits and flour mixture alternately with the cream a small amount at a time. Then fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Turn into well-greased papered pans and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for about 2 hours (slow oven).

(Thank you Mrs. McK. of Verdun for this recipe. You see I saved it to use for Christmas, 1937, as I promised.)

There will not be room on the page this week for all the Christmas recipes I would like to print, but I will print one good mincemeat and one good Pudding and leave the cookies and other puddings for next week.

Meatless English Mincemeat

One and one-half pounds currants, well cleaned, 1 pound mixed peel (do not stint on this as it is the secret of the good flavor of this mincemeat), 4 lbs. finely chopped apples (do not grind the apples), 1 lb. extremely finely chopped suet, 1½ lbs. brown sugar, 1 lb raisins, grated rind and juice 3 lemons, 1 teaspoon each ground cloves, cinnamon, allspice, ½ teaspoon nutmeg. Mix all ingredients well, and let stand in kitchen or other warm place for three days, so that you may stir it often and that it may ripen. Then stand away well covered, in a very cool place until needed. A little hard cider added to this is an improvement.

Christmas Fruit Pudding

One pound of suet, 1 lb. brown sugar, 6 well-beaten eggs, 4 cups sifted flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon each cloves (ground), cinnamon, allspice, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, ¼ cup each milk and corn syrup, 1 lb. very fine dry bread crumbs, 1 lb. each raisins, currants and mixed peel, ½ lb. chopped almonds blanched. Mix together the suet and sugar very well then add the eggs and beat very well. Sift together the flour, spices and baking powder and add these alternately with the mixed milk and corn syrup. Stir in the breadcrumbs, fruits and nuts and let stand for 1 hour. Turn into moulds using either baking powder cans or regular pudding moulds and steam 5 hours. If large mould is used steam pudding 7 hours.

Next week we will publish recipes for little German and other European cookies, Canadian Mincemeat Cookies, Almond Macaroons, Cashew Shortbreads and other fascinating goodies. Do start clipping now if you intend making these or next week's offerings before Christmas.

Tested Favorite Recipes

(By MARY MOORE.)

Part of the reason for the intensive canning we do in the summer is the satisfaction of knowing our families will be well fed during the winter.

In our house we just go ahead and order groceries each week, regardless of our basement provisions, and then about February realize things are not being used up as fast as they should.

With the experience of other years in mind I went to basement this week and brought back a can of green gage plums, resolved to have the most luscious plum pie possible.

Deep Canned Plum Pie

Drain canned plums (stone them if they are not already done), and to the syrup left add 2 tablespoons minute tapioca and let stand one-half hour. In the meantime make one crust (rather large) and put away to chill.

Butter a deep pie plate and mix the plums with the juice and ¼ cup sugar (this is plenty of sugar, maybe too much if the plums were canned oversweet) and pour into pie plate. Cover with the chilled crust and put deep gashes in centre of crust—place in oven of 500 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, reducing heat to 350 for 20 minutes. Serve warm, sprinkled with icing sugar or whipped cream.

She'll be thrilled with this gay little artist's smock in a new apple print cotton. Ric rac squares the shoulders and tops the two useful pockets. This work-about smock is equally popular for home tasks, school or office. The fulness falling from a fitted yoke, gives lots of arm swing. Suit yourself about the sleeves; long or short. In a monotone cotton, it's very effective with the apple appliques on the pocket and at the shoulder. After you finish the gift smocks, you'll want to make one for yourself. It's so simple. . . . . A child could sew it.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

AMPLE WARNING GIVEN

IF YOUR partner passed on his turn to make an opening bid, next refused a chance to make a free bid after an opponent's overcall of your original bid and then finally got into it with a suit bid of his own, he has amply warned you that he possesses practically nothing except extreme distribution with a dearth of honor strength. He has said in effect that if you play the hand you probably will never get in the dummy. Your job then is usually to let him play it at as low a contract as possible.

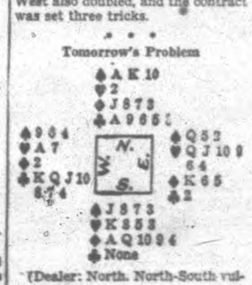
Both South and West passed and North started the bidding on this deal with 1-Diamond. When East overcalled with 1-Spade, both South and West passed again and North re-entered the bidding with 2-Diamonds. Having passed twice, South felt that his bid of 2-Hearts at this point would be understood by his partner, but North continued with diamonds at the range of three. South now called 4-Clubs and North 4-Diamonds.

South decided at this point that he had warned his partner sufficiently about the make-up of his hand, so passed, but when West doubled this South bid 4-Hearts. North with his singleton A in the heart suit, shifted to 5-Clubs, which West also doubled, and the contract was set three tricks.

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

How should South play to make his contract of 5-Diamonds?

Enquiry Column

Conducted by Mrs. MARY MOORE

QUESTION: Last year I made some Xmas puddings from a recipe culled from your pages. These turned out very well, but were very very dry. As this was the first time that I made them, I did not know exactly what the mixture should look like when ready, with reference to moisture. I wonder if you could help me as I would so much like to make some again this year.

As far as I remember the recipe was called Emma's Economical Pudding and was published in the paper the Xmas before last. If you cannot trace this one, any other simple recipe will do.—(Mrs.) B. A. B. Aylmer street, Peterborough.

ANSWER: Thank you for your letter.

I think the recipe you refer to was called Emem's Economical Pudding.

Emem's Economical Pudding

Two cups dry bread crumbs, ½ cup chopped suet, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 cup raisins, 1 cup stoned cooked prunes, ½ teaspoon ground cloves, 1 teaspoon salt ¼ teaspoon mace, grated rind ½ lemon, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, ½ teaspoon soda, 1 cup molasses (or 1 cup brown sugar with ½ cup water). Mix all the dry ingredients and sift them then add the suet which should be finely ground (your butcher will do this), add well-beaten egg. Dissolve the soda in the milk and molasses and add and stir well until ingredients are completely mixed. Pour into buttered pudding mould with a tight cover and steam for 2 hours. This may be baked standing in large pan containing some water but must be tightly covered either way. Serve with Foamy or Hard or Spice Sauce.

QUESTION: I read your page every Sunday and have obtained valuable information so I am coming again for help.

My young son has marked the wall paper with a black pencil. It is light tan grained paper. I was wondering if you could remove the marks and not leave the paper too badly damaged. Just what could I use. Thanks for your time and information.—M. E. S.

ANSWER: Thank you for your letter.

Your problem made me chuckle—for our youngsters tore loose with a pencil on their nursery walls and it took the doctor and I some hours to remove the damage. We used up two whole artists rubbers doing it, though; you know the pale brown soft ones sold in book stores and artists' supplies shops. The paper was comparatively new too, and while the isolated places where the marks had been, show slightly paler than the rest of the room, we felt it was a good job.

All my formula books suggest bread crumbs, corn meal, etc., and dry cleaning fluids but I know these will not work with pencil marks because I tried them.

I hope you have good luck and that we can help you again.

QUESTION: Although I have never written to your page before I have certainly benefited by it. It is such a help and all of the recipes are wonderful. I hope your cookery page continues until I am old and grey, and continued health and good luck to you, Mrs. Moore, for your fine work.

Now for my question. Would you kindly print a recipe for dark fruit cake for Xmas. I always make light cake, but I would like a change.—Also the recipe for pickled cauliflower with turmeric and flour added. Hope I am not asking too much. —Mrs. A. H., George street, Peterborough.

ANSWER: Thank you for such an encouraging letter.

Cauliflower Mustard Pickles

Two heads cauliflower (large), 2 tablespoons salt in enough boiling water to cover the cauliflower when separted into flowerets, one-third cup sugar, one-third flour, 1¼ teaspoons turmeric, 1 tablespoon dry mustard. Wash the cauliflowers, separate into very small pieces, let stand overnight in the brine (enough to cover with the 2 tablespoons salt). In morning drain and add 1 quart weak vinegar (½ water, ½ cider vinegar). Cook until cauliflower is nearly tender (there should be a little crispness left in it.) Mix the dry ingredients with enough water to make a paste that will pour easily, then stir this into the vinegar until it thickens, cook five minutes stirring then pour into sterile jars and seal.

Kindly see elsewhere on page for Dark Christmas Cake.

We hope you find the pickle recipes suitable, and that we can help you again.

ROBERTA'S MAIL

Forgive me not answering all your letters sooner, but every week seems to have less hours than the week before, and I am SO VERY busy most of the time, but I do love hearing from all of you.

"Quid Est" Thank you for such a nice letter and invitation, but the condition of my heart precludes my going far with no one with me, so I am sure that you will understand. I hate its having to be like that, but there it is, and it prevents my going places as I used to do. Thank you so very much for the thought.

"Jerry", Don't be a fool. You will only cut off your nose to spite your face. Aren't you partly to blame? Not even a teeny little bit? I wish you would write more fully. Letters like yours are ALWAYS destroyed. Thank you and DO write again.

"Pen Pal Friend" Thank you for such a nice letter with poems, and I shall try to use them soon, so look for them. I enjoyed hearing from you so much. Do write again soon. Glad you like my stuff.

"Emma" It is awfully hard to tell you what to do under the circumstances. You seem by your letter to be so young and inexperienced, and yet you have suffered so much. No I certainly do not think you are a bother. If only each one of you who need a private reply would enclose a stamped addressed envelope it would be much more satisfactory all round. Do that and I can help you.

"Boy Friend," It seems to me a good spanking is in order for you. What can you really know of love at fourteen? I surely agree with your mother, and can sympathize with her. Does your father exercise no control over you? Wake up child. You are on very thin ice. Yes of course you can write again. Thanks for comments.

"Sick at heart" Now cheer up. This is just an aftermath of this bad sickness you have had. We all get depressed after an operation when we think of all the expense. But money is round and some of it will find its way to take care of all this. As for feeling a bother, put that out of your mind. We are all liable to be sick, and there is no more bother in them caring for you, than in you caring for them. Thank you for all you say and do write again.

L. L. D. It is so nice of you to tell me all this. No, I have no recollection of meeting you. No, I was not born here, but in Scotland of a Highland Scotch Mother, and an English Father, but I am really a Canadian at heart, because I love Canada. Do write again soon.

"Spiritualist" Thank you for such a lovely letter. I shall treasure it. No I am not a Spiritualist, just trying to do my bit for ONE who has done so much for me. Do write again, and tell your friend I should love to hear from her.

"D. G." Do not lose heart. We are all growing old, so why let it bother you. Work on your hobby. Surely you have one which you may have neglected. That will take you out of your doldrums. You will be riding the crest of the wave soon. Thank you so much. My understanding came through bitter experience. I shall look for another letter soon.

M. G. and F. N. P. Mayflower, Sunny, Pat, Missie, Alex. I thank you one and all for your letters of encouragement, and hope you will all continue to get as much pleasure from my column. I feel be with you all.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

Miss L. Bench Writes From China.

Friends of Miss L. Bench, who resides in China, will be interested to know that her sister, Mrs. W. R. Field of 215 Princess Street, has received another letter from her. Miss Bench resides with another sister, Mrs. S. Polkinghorn, at Taku Bar, North China, where Mr. Polkinghorn is employed as a pilot. Situated in the heart of the war zone, the following excerpts from the letter give a vivid picture of conditions under which the sisters are living at present.

"I must thank you for the birthday card and letter. I did not receive it until the end of September, but the war has upset everything, and we are lucky to receive any mail at all. The Japs walked into the British Post Office in Tientsin and took possession. Later we were told the place was strewn with parcels all opened, and letters opened and thrown down, knee deep. At one time, we were cut off from all communication, no telephone and no trains. We could not send a wire to Tientsin, we could only go there by tug, which took five to seven hours. The trains are running now, but there is still no telephone or telegraph communication. The Japs walked into the telegraph place next door about two and a half months ago and turned the Chinese out. They are taking North China. The Chinese are putting up a good fight, but they are not equipped with modern ammunition like the Japs, so will lose in the end. They have never fought another nation before, just had civil wars among themselves, and this is different. The poor people are suffering terrible privations, and don't know where to go, the war is everywhere. About a fortnight ago, five Chinese planes flew over here, and dropped five bombs. Two fell on the mud flat, about two hundreds yards from the house, one dropped in the river, and two on the other side of the river, injuring ten people and killing two. They certainly gave the Japs a surprise, and us too. They had mistaken this for the naval dockyard which the Japs are holding..."

In a letter written from Mrs. Polkinghorn to Mrs. Field at the same time, she mentions that they are to spend the winter in the Imperial Hotel at Tientsin, where there is central heating.

Delightful Tea Jeanette Scott Chapt. I.O.D.E.

A most delightful tea was served in the Green Room and library of the Y.W.C.A. on Saturday afternoon under the auspices of the Jeanette Scott Chapter I.O.D.E.

The guests were received by Mrs. Fred Hooper, honorary regent of Chapter, and the regent, Miss Anne Heideman.

The tea table was arranged with unusual charm. A damask cloth in pastel green shade was centred with a crystal epergne holding fruit, and surrounded by pale green candles in crystal holders. The silver tea urns at either end completed the attractive picture. Regents of the I.O.D.E. Chapters presided at the tea table during the afternoon, and included, Mrs. W. Gordon Hall, Mrs. F. L. Robinson, Mrs. Alec Sollitt, and Miss Anna MacKenzie. Also Mrs. R. C. Heideman.

The assistants included, Mrs. Ken Kingston, Mrs. R. S. Allin, Mrs. J. Bailey, Mrs. R. McWilliams, Mrs. C. B. Gladman, Mrs. Leybourne, the Misses Mary Mulholland, Dorothy Gavine, Jean Harvey, Vi Davidson, Dorothy Pinnie, Isabel Reid, Betsy Scott, Margaret Widdess.

Most delicious and varied homemade cooking, attractively arranged on a table covered with a pale yellow damask cloth, was in charge of Mrs. Graeme Falkner, and Miss Aileen Morgan.

Tickets were sold on a Christmas cake in charge of Mrs. Ross Thompson. The cake was won later on a draw by Mrs. Ray Scott, and a hamper basket was won by Miss Isabel Reid.

General convenors for the tea were Mrs. Ralph Honey and Mrs. A. Girdwood. Mrs. Gordon Dobbin was treasurer for the afternoon.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLLE

For Tuesday, November 30.

According to the predominant astral influences, this is likely to be a day of rather adverse and difficult conditions, with everything depending on the wisdom and astuteness with which affairs are managed. While employment is fairly aspected otherwise, there are apt to be sudden upsets and devastating circumstances. Unless impetuosity and caustic speech and writings are subdued, they may breed enmity and spite.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of sudden disruptions and upsets that may cause removals and changes, more or less unwelcome. Unless erratic, tempestuous and reckless, as well as bitter, speech and writings be kept under rigid control, they may brew enmities, strife and reprisals. Successful issues depend entirely on sagacity, restraint and composure.

A child born on this day may be clever and energetic, but may also be tempestuous, rash, passionate and probably erratic and restless. It may get into trouble frequently unless it is trained and disciplined in infancy.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"Thou canst not prove thou art immortal—no,
Nor yet that thou art mortal. . .
For nothing worthy proving can be proven,
Nor yet disproven: wherefor thou be wise,
Cleave even to the sunnier side of doubt,
And cling to Faith beyond the forms of Faith!"

—Tennyson.

Dear Friends:

The other day I had a certain remark said to me which brought me up short and made me think. I was trying to help a lady who was rather disturbed in her mind, worried about certain things, and wondering about the outcome.

When I explained things to her which would relieve her of all doubt, she said," Oh but Roberta, we don't all have faith as you seem to have it. To some of us it comes hard to believe unless we can see."

And I thought how hard it must be NOT to have a faith which could believe without seeing. After all, when it is night, when all is dark, you have no doubt at all that the sun will rise on the morrow.

Neither have you any doubt that when you phone an order in to your grocer but that he will send it. You haven't seen him, you have heard his voice, but how do you know it IS his voice?

How do you know your voice and your friend's travel over wires without every passer-by hearing the conversation, for the wires do run overhead in the street you know?

What about the radio? Do you have no faith that you hear certain people, or do you think we are only fooling ourselves? Can you see your heart beating, or your lungs pumping air? What makes you walk? Did you ever stop long enough to ask yourself that? It's a miracle when you think of it.

And yet, with all the material things you must have faith in before you can live, there is no real faith in the Author of all these things. You have faith, that for bits of metal or bits of paper, (for that is just what money is) men will get busy and do what you ask them to do.

Yet for the One who made the whole world, Who said "Ask and ye shall receive THAT YOUR JOY MAY BE FULL, you have no faith at all. Seems silly don't you think?

You do not know if you are immortal, but how do you know you are even mortal. You might just imagine you are alive you know. Of course, if all your life you have put your faith in sticks and stones and bits of plaster which holds them together in a house.

If all your faith has been in what you could see and handle you have missed the whole purpose of living. You can never have realised the three parts which we are composed of. The human part, the spiritual part, and the Divine part which holds them together, showing us as humans how to use all the power which God gave us.

All your life you have to live by faith in others, but you are not large enough to have faith in God nor to take Him at His word. How can you be such a cheat as to say "Our Father," or "I believe in God" yet have no faith in His promises to us?

And no one can make you have this faith or belief. You have to find it for yourself, you must "seek and ye shall find." Truly I did not think I had so much faith. I get scared just as you do. I get anxious, but I can say from my heart that God has never let me down yet, even when my belief was very tiny. More Later. Your Friend, ROBERTA.

are trying to do is to become strong enough to make representations to our government, and ultimately to dominate the Canadian mind. What we desire on the other hand is the solidarity of our citizens, and not to be split up into "isms" which we know are contrary to the traditions of our country and the institutions on which our liberties have been established."

Ask Price Enquiry

Another resolution, also unanimously supported, appealing to the Dominion government to investigate the conditions which withhold from farmers a fair share of the ultimate prices of their products, was drafted by a special committee composed of Reeves James Gifford of Ennismore, Wm. A. Anderson of Otonabee and E. N. McDonald, Dummer. It was read by Mr. Gifford as the committee's report, and was adopted on his motion, seconded by Mr. Anderson, with instructions copies be sent to the government, J. J. Duffus, M.P., Rork Ferguson, M.P. and to all the other county councils in the province for their endorsation.

"Whereas the difference between the cost to the consumer of the agricultural products of the Province of Ontario and the return to the farmer from the sale of said products is too great.

"And whereas while the price of agricultural products to the consumer has been advancing, the primary producer, the farmer has not received his fair and equitable share in such advance.

"And whereas the cost of production to the farmer has greatly increased.

"Therefore be it resolved by the county council of the County of Peterborough:

1. That the Dominion Government be requested:

"To appoint a commission to investigate existing conditions as speedily as possible and that the findings of the commission be supplemented by legislation for the improvement of said conditions.

"2. That having regard to the benefits derived from the Ottawa Trade agreement with the Mother Country and the Reciprocity Treaty with the United States, the Government of the Dominion of Canada be requested to enter into negotiations with other nations with the object of procuring the widest possible markets for Canadian farm products.

"3. That the Dominion Government be also urged to provide for the better marketing of Canadian agricultural products in the world markets,especially in those of Great Britain and the United States."

Farmers Not Organized

"The weakness in our position," Reeve Gifford said, "is that farmers are not organized to look after their best interests. If it costs one dollars to produce a bushel of wheat and the market is offering us only 60 cents a bushel we simply take the loss and say very little about it. Other industries and interests have their organizations, but the farmers haven't any real organization, and they haven't enough fight. By that I don't mean anything too serious, a strike or something like that. All we can do at present is to petition the government to find out why the primary producer has to suffer when all the other branches of industry are able to get fair returns for the work they do."

Duffus Not On Spot

"I don't think your committee went too far," Reeve Anderson said in seconding the motion. "We were limited by time and knowledge in preparing the resolution you wanted. As farmers, we haven't as much knowledge of our own affairs as we should have, and the prices of farm products is one of the most important of ou raffairs. However, we are making a start with this resolution.

"When this suggestion to appeal to the government came up the other day it was suggested afterward that we were trying to put Mr. Duffus 'on the spot.' It was nothing of the kind. Such an idea was never thought of. It was just what all agriculturists would say if they were in a position to speak their minds. Farmers are very often not getting a fair price for the products they have to market. That is their grievance."

Mr. Anderson said that the tariff board, or whoever was functioning as the tariff board, received representations from industries that "processed" the products of farmers. These industries made claim for protection and fair wages.

"But, not to my knowledge has anybody functioning as a tariff board taken steps to see that the producers of the primary products gets fairly paid."

Denmark's System

"Take hogs for example," Reeve George Mullen commented, "and look at the competition we have to meet from Denmark. The Danes have established co-operative packing plants with control of their products all the way through to the ultimate consumer. We, however, turn our hogs over to the packing houses of this country, and the control of our product right then and there passes out of our hands. The wool growers' association is doing good work in this country, but we need more co-operation all through our industry."

Reeve Anderson said that one of the major points in the comparison of packing industries had not been brought out. "Our packing plants are so over-capitalized with watered stock that we haven't a chance to be on the same footing with Denmark. The capitalization of their co-operatives is at a minimum. Capital has a perfect right for pay or for a return for its use, but let it be genuine capital. That is one of the things farmers are aware of. I don't blame the women in Toronto who say milk is too dear at thirteen cents a quart, but do they know that original $26 shares of a dairy company were split ten times in a few years and then sold at $30 a share."

Where Difference Goes

Reeve John McColl of Asphodel said: "We are told that we are not filling the British quota for bacon. I understand that from the time a hog leaves the farmer in Denmark until it reaches the consumer the cost is three cents a pound as compared with nine cents in Canada, and also that in Denmark the farmer gets that six cents, whereas in this country the packing companies get it. A few years ago the federal government talked of giving a bonus on cheese and they did so. As soon as the bonus was mentioned I predicted the price of cheese would drop, and it did drop to the extent of the equivalent of the bonus."

Healed By Miracle

While making a Novena to St. Theresa at the St. Theresa church at Lowell, Mass., Lorraine Frechette suddenly regained the use of her limbs and walked from the edifice under her own power. The Rev. Arthur O. Mercier, pastor of the church, would make no comment on the "miracle," merely affirming that the girl was carried to the services and left upright and unaided.

HUMAN EAR LIKE RADIO STATION

Helmholtz' fame, for he was the father of the theory of sound, that science concluded Koenig must be wrong.

After 25 years of debate two scientists, Rucker and Edser, proved by experiments that both Helmholtz and Koenig were right. But why couldn't be explained.

Professor Hazel of Indiana has spent five years unravelling the mystery. He proved that when two separate instruments make the sounds, the extra note is not real. When the same instrument makes them, it is real. Explained more scientifically one experiment is addition of sound, the other multiplication.

The human ear acts like the siren. It is a single instrument, and it multiplies two sounds that enter the ear drum. For this reason, the ear heard Koenig's two tuning forks and a third ghost fork. The third sound was produced in the ear itself. It was no different from a similar third sound such as the siren produced in reality in the form of air waves.

November Session Busy One For County Council Members

Warden Brown Is Thanked For His Energetic Leadership During Past Year

The county council concluded its final sessions of 1937 at five o'clock Saturday afternoon with congratulation to Warden Roy Brown for the prudent and energetic leadership he had given during the year.

"These have been the busiest November sessions I have ever attended," Reeve Gifford, Ennismore, said. "Usually they have had only routine matters to deal with, but I can say there has been more constructive and interesting work done this week than at any other time in my four years here. Just to mention three of the unusual items that came up, the resolution to the Dominion Government in an effort to secure more equitable prices for our primary products. Secondly our reforestation program which I hope will be carried on to real results in the future, and finally Reeve Milby's resolution urging that some action be taken by the government of Canada to put a stop to the propaganda against our British institutions that is going on within our own country. Personally, I was glad Mr. Milby brought in that resolution. We have been living these many years in peace, and satisfied with the institutions we have evolved. We all feel that peace at home was never more desirable than at present when the world abroad is in strife and turmoil.

The congratulations of the council have been well earned by Warden Brown. He has been available at all times, and has conducted the affairs of the council in a very capable manner."

Reeve Milby seconded Mr. Gifford's motion of congratulation.

"Instead of accepting your compliment, I should be extending it to all the members of the council for their assistance in conducting the business of this county," Warden Brown replied. "I appreciate very much the kind things you have said about what I endeavored to do, and also thank you again for electing me unanimously as Warden of this banner county for 1937."

Thanks From Douro

Reeve Leahy thanked the council for their reception of the large deputation from Douro township during the week and also for the resolution that the Suburban Area Commission assume the road from Maple Leaf cheese factory on the Warsaw Road to Douro church, a stretch of two miles.

Appreciation of the asphaltic road that is being laid in Havelock was expressed by Reeve E. W. Seeney, and A. D. Runions thanked the council for their courtesy in giving a banquet to the young people of the judging teams "and also for your kind references to myself."

"Mr. Duffus has arranged for a series of soil testing meetings throughout the county next week," Mr. Runions said, "and I hope you will support them. Our short course this season will be held in Peterborough, and will be especially convenient to the young people of the townships bordering on the city, the west end of Douro and Otonabee, all of North Monaghan and part of Smith. In fact we are holding it in Peterborough partly because there is no suitable central hall in North Monaghan."

Mr. Runions reminded the council that the Quinte Seed Fair would be held in Peterborough in March.

For Soil Survey

A resolution by Reeve Anderson, seconded by Reeve Mullen, requested the Dominion Government to have a soil survey made in Peterborough county. Copies of the resolution will be sent to Mr. Duffus and Rork Ferguson.

SPEAKS THE Prophet of Profit

The crystal is clearing. I see a dark man. A very dark man. You are paying him some money, and he is giving you something. No, I can't see what it is. Sometimes it looks like a thimble. Sometimes it looks like an automobile. I see by your smile that you think you have a bargain. I know by his smile that you have not.

Now he is leaving his store. He is going to dinner and the theater. Then he will go to the club. He is doing himself well on your money. The article you bought? Too bad. A blind bargain.

But the scene changes. The dark man is gone. You are reading the advertisements in The Examiner. You know the honest prices, the quality brands. You are finding where to buy. You are getting your money's worth . . . and more. You have discovered that Examiner advertisements are your true prophets of profit!

Farm Debts Have Been Reduced $40,314,000 By Boards Appointed Under Creditor Act

Debts Of 21,882 Farmers Have Been Dealt With, H. B. Cowan Tells Council

Farm debts have been reduced $40,314,000 by the boards appointed under the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act, H. B. Cowan told the County Council Saturday afternoon, in congratulating the council for not joining with the five or six other counties condemning this legislation.

The debts of 29,859 farmers aggregated $177,954,000, Mr. Cowan said, and their assets amounted to $126,000,000. Debts of 21,882 farmers were dealt with and were reduced by $40,314,000. In spite of that help they still owed $88,709,617. Their interest charges were decreased in the amount of $3,326,064.

Mr. Cowan said he could not understand how any group of farmers could condemn the Credit Arrangement Act if they understood what it had accomplished. Mortgage companies, he said, had exploited the farmers of this country, and in the worst category of cases had put widows and children off farms. He said he could not present the entire picture in a few of its details, but the figures he quoted indicated to some extent how farmers had been relieved.

Mr. Cowan discussed farm credits for a few minutes, and will meet the entire council on that subject in January or possibly the members of the agricultural committee prior to the first meeting of next year.

GOING TO LONDON

Dr. Harvey Robb, organist of Bloor Street United Church, Toronto, who recently appeared in a recital at George Street Church in Peterborough under the auspices of the Music Teachers Federation, has been named organist and choir master of new First-St. Andrew's United Church in London, Ont., and will take over the duties at the first of the year. Dr. Robb will succeed Charles Wheeler, who has been the organist and choir master of St. Andrew's Church for 47 years. It has been Mr. Wheeler's desire to retire for some time, but he consented to remain until his successor could be secured. Mr. Wheeler's length of service is believed to constitute a record in the musical world of the province.

HYPNOTIC INFLUENCES

"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism Denounced" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon for First Church of Christ, Scientist, Peterborough, on Sunday. The Golden Text was, "Do they not err that devise evil? but mercy and truth shall be to them that devise good." (Proverbs 14:22). Selections from the Bible included the following from Psalms 125:5, "As for such as turn aside unto their crooked ways, the Lord shall lead them forth with the workers of iniquity: but peace shall be upon Israel." Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook, included the following, "Mankind must learn that evil is not power. Its so-called despotism is but a phase of nothingness. Christian Science despoils the kingdom of evil, and preeminently promotes affection and virtue in families and therefore in the community."

SOME WIRE TROUBLE

Local Hydro report some minor damage done to the power wires by Sunday's high wind but no serious harm was occasioned by the blow.

SIGN OF MILD WINTER

Once again the weather sharks predict mild weather as the result of Sunday's thunderstorm. Winter lightning is a sure sign, some of these amateur experts claim.

Taken suddenly by heart failure, James Doran, widely-known and popular passenger agent of the Canadian National Railways here, died at his home, 606 Walkerfield Avenue, at midnight Sunday night. He was 53 years of age.

Apparently in the best of health in recent months, his passing came as an unusual shock to his many friends. So unexpected was the attack that medical efforts were of no avail.

He was born in Belleville, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Adam Doran, and was taken to Lindsay by his parents at an early age. There he obtained his education and made his start in the service of the old Grand Trunk Railway as a depot clerk. He came to Peterborough 21 years ago after 10 years' service in Lindsay, and continued as uptown passenger agent here until his untimely death.

Mr. Doran was a charter member of the Kiwanis Club in this city and a member of the Lindsay Council of the Knights of Columbus. In his younger days, he played lacrosse in Lindsay, and throughout his life followed with interest hockey and baseball. He was fond of fishing and hunting.

Surviving are his wife, formerly Mary Killen of Lindsay; one son, James, and two daughters, Margaret and Dorothy, all at home.

The funeral will be held Wednesday morning from the family residence at 8.45 a.m. to St. Peter's Cathedral for requiem mass at 9 a.m. Interment will be made in St. Mary's Cemetery, Lindsay.

TWO-MONTH TERM IS GIVEN LYONS

Alex Lyons, 534 Park street north, was this morning convicted of unlawfully keeping liquor for sale.

Stating he had given careful consideration to the evidence heard on Wednesday last, Magistrate A. E. Gee handing down a differed judgment said the onus was clearly on the accused to account for the heavy purchases of liquor he made during September and October.

Imposing the minimum penalty of 2-months imprisonment, His Worship remarked to the accused: "The way I look at it, Mr. Lyons, your story does not hold water. I have come to the conclusion that although you did do considerable entertaining as you say you did that a greater amount of liquor you purchased was kept by you for sale."

It was intimated Lyons would appeal the conviction, and during the day he planned to arrange bail so that he could be released pending hearing of an appeal before the county judge.

"Somebody else will have to dispense your hospitality," the Bench told Lyons after the penalty had been annnounced.

Evidence produced at the hearing of the charge revealed that the accused spent a total of $622.06 on beer and spirits during September and October. The amount did not take into account purchases Lyons admitted he might have made at Port Hope and Lindsay in the same period.

In his own defence Lyons who described himself as a retired railroader, declared he had not sold any liquor but had got rid of it in his capacity as "entertainer" for a distillery and also various brewing firms.

From the Toronto office of a distillery the evidence disclosed Lyons received a weekly cheque varying in amounts from twenty-five to as much as sixty-five dollars; while one brewing firm sent him a weekly allowance varying from twenty to seventy dollars; and another brewery was good for a weekly cheque of from fifteen to twenty-five dollars.

Electrical Storm Sweeps Peterboro' Area On Sunday

Lakefield Is Plunged Into Darkness For Over An Hour

Brilliant displays of lightning were accompanied by a windstorm of gale-like velocity. Weather observers believed the signs presaged the onset of colder weather.

There was an unusually wide variation in temperature. At 2 p.m. Sunday the thermometer recorded 56 degrees, while by 6 a.m. today it had dropped 32 points to a low of 24 degrees, A. O. Phillips, official weather observer announced.

On Highway 7 just beyond the easterly limit of the new stretch of pavement, the limb of a tree was blown across the roadway providing an effective barrier to traffic, according to Provincial Motorcycle Constable Gordon Broughton.

Lakefield was plunged into complete darkness just as evening church services were about to start, when a tree blown down by the wind, fell across a hydro line and shut off the community's power supply. While repairs were being effected several church services were cancelled, while in isolated instances candles came back into their own, and provided feebe though adequate light by which services could be conducted.

At a Charlotte street dental laboratory a big pane of glass was blown into the roadway to be shattered into thousands of splintered fragments.

The Rambling REPORTERS

NOW HAS A RADIO.

John Brownlee, blind newsstand proprietor on George street, is now the happy owner of a radio which will bring him the news of the world and entertainment barred to him in the past by reason of his blindness.

A customer happened into his stand the other day with a cane chair for repair and the blind man, in conversation, agreed that he had often wanted to buy a radio. The customer happened to be the head of a large local electrical plant so a radio was sent over in short order.—C.P.K.

IN NEED OF HELP IN SASKATCHEWAN

Following the publication in The Examiner of a number of letters from persons in the Saskatchewan drought area who had received food from the cars sent out from this district and who mentioned the need of clothing, local citizens who are anxious to help have asked for the names of families in need of clothes, shoes and underwear.

For their benefit the following names are listed:

Ralph S. Wright, Moosomin, Sask. who has been ill, is taking care of his son's children, a girl nine, a boy seven, a girl five and a boy four, as well as his own children, a girl of 16 and boy of 18. They need clothing, shoes, underwear and overcoats.

Mrs. George James, Welwyn, Sask. and her family of nine require clothing.

Mrs. Clara Heinrich, Churchbridge, Sask., a widow with three children is also in need of clothing as is Mrs. John Elmore, Box 506, Moosomin, Sask., who asks for clothing that could be made over for her children. Mrs. N. T. Anderson of Moosomin does not make any direct appeal on her own account but sends a description of the general need in her district of supplies of winter clothing.

MRS. E. F. MASON DIES AFTER ILLNESS OF SEVEN WEEKS

Lifelong resident of Peterborough and district, the death of Minnie F...nces Garbutt, beloved wife of Ernest F. Mason, took place over the week-end. After an illness of seven weeks' duration Mrs. Mason passed away at Nicholls Hospital early on Sunday morning.

Born in Smith Township, she was a daughter of the late John Garbutt and Ann Davidson. Besides her husband she leaves a son Herbert G. Mason, 561 Aylmer Street, and two daughters, Miss Claire C. Mason at home and Mrs. J. B. McCarthy, Toronto. Also surviving are one sister, Mrs. Edith Comstock of this city and a brother, Albert Garbutt, Smith Township.

Mrs. Mason was interested in a great number of activities in the city, and chief among them was her deep loyalty as a lifelong member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. She was an active worker for the greater part of her life in several branches of church work and had held offices in the Ladies' Aid and Women's Missionary Societies, among other organizations.

The Y.M.C.A. always found in Mrs. Mason a staunch supporter and friend, while another group dear to her heart was the 57th Regiment Chapter the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire.

Mrs. Mason's energetic and youthful outlook on life was reflected in her zest for curling. As a member of Peterborough Curling Club (ladies' section), Mrs. Mason curled for several years and only last winter was obliged to forego this pastime.

The funeral is to be held on Tuesday at 2.30 p.m. from the family residence, 740 Water Street, with the Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, officiating. Interment at Little Lake Cemetery.

One Point Divides Contenders As Queen's Win College Title In Tight Overtime Battle

Cam Gray Scores All Of Varsity Points In Thrilling Overtime Battle

TORONTO, Nov. 29.—Tumultuous, hoarse - throated shouting died abruptly. A breathless hush pervades University of Toronto's great stadium into which is creeping the half-impenetrable grey that precedes the actual dusk of a sunless afternoon. One minute to go and the game to win! Queen's, with a 20-minute overtime session all but completed, lead the Blue and White home team, 7 to 6, but they're backed to their own 16-yard line, and a field goal will beat them.

One minute to go! Cam Gray drops 10 yards behind his line. The ball is snapped to Barry Gray, who puts the ball in position. Tacklers break through from both sides as Cam draws back his point-getting right foot for the kick. Can he make it? He gets the ball away just before the Tricolored attackers catapult into him, but the sphere, though propelled by plenty of force, travels both wide and low. Johnny Munro gets it well back of the Queen's goal-line and hurries it behind the dead-line, cheerfully conceding the point.

New Champions

That was the sports-dramatic play that climaxed the game which seemed to have been building up to that single moment all afternoon; a game in which Queen's dethroned the championship Toronto team and regained the Intercollegiate football title, 7 to 6, in 20-minute overtime session.

Gray's kick seemed like a signal to break the crowd's hushed silence and Queen's supporters filled the air with mighty shouts of jubilation. It was all over then. Queen's scrimmaged the ball and hung on to it securely for the two line plays for which there was just time before the end of the 80-minute contest of brain, brawn and courage ended.

It was a great victory for a fighting team with the never-say-die spirit. There was football-madness in the Queen's rooting-sections as the crowds swarmed on the field. Fights broke out, not because anybody was anybody else's enemy but because pent-up emotions just had to be unleashed. Students brushed aside police, tore loose the north-end goal posts, broke them and carried away the pieces. It was a victory-celebration such as hasn't been seen here in years.

One had to start at the ending, not at the beginning, to tell the story of that game. As great a comeback as that which had kept Queen's in the running, was the rally which placed Toronto in the position for the attempted placement that failed. The teams had entered the overtime with the score tied, 5 to 5. Johnny Munro had kicked two singles to give the Tricolor, with their noted defense, what looked to be a safe lead. With three minutes to play the Blues were backed to their own 30-yard line, the result of a mammoth kicking effort by Munro.

Suddenly they came to life with a passing attack. MacDonald, who had been put out in the first play of the game, but came back in the overtime, heaved the ball to Jarvis. It was good for 40 yards. Cam Gray sifted to the east side of the field and took another forward from MacDonald. That put Toronto on Queen's 15-yard line. Two plays lost a yard, but carried the ball in front of the goal post, and, with a minute to play and the game to win, came that placement.

COBOURG WINS O.R.F.U. TITLE

COBOURG, Nov. 29 (CP).—Taking advantage of their opponents' mistakes in the last fifteen minutes of play Cobourg won the Ontario Rugby Union's Intermediate "B" title here Saturday by defeating Stratford Indians 19 to 14 in the sudden-death titular tilt.

Stratford led 14 to 8 going into the last quarter but two Indian fumbles behind their own goal-line proved disastrous, Cobourg capitalizing on both for touchdowns, one of which was converted. Cobourg's rally began when Doug. Smith, Stratford half, dropped the ball behind his line when brought down by Jacobs' punishing tackle. Smith had just received one of Meikle's long kicks and was attempting to run the ball out. Cobourg wings recovered the ball for five points, the convert attempt bouncing off the goal posts.

Another long kick by Meikle led to the winning points. Preston fumbling to allow Jacobs to fall on the ball for another five points. This time Meikle converted.

PITTSBURG-RAMS REMAIN UNBEATEN IN U. S. FOOTBALL

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (AP)—On the basis of gridiron returns now complete except in scattered precincts of the south and far west, there's no reasonable doubt today that the 1937 "Big Four" of United States college football comprises Pittsburgh, California, Fordham and Alabama.

This unbeaten quartet has proved its consistent class in a season marked otherwise by these features:

A sweeping shakeup among the sectional leaders, with Pittsburgh and Dartmouth in the east, Santa Clara on the west coast, and Nebraska in the big six, alone sharing or re-occupying the heights they held in 1936 in football's "major league" ranks.

A continued swing of power toward the east where no less than five major teams finished among the unbeaten though tied, and a sixth, Lafayette, enjoyed the novelty of a completely unblemished slate.

Attendance and gate receipts were topped off by the hardihood of 102,000 spectators who jammed Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium in the rain Saturday to witness Army's 6-0 triumph over Navy.

Top Teams Win Out

All the collegiate-topnotchers came through the last week-end of combat successfully. Alabama met Vanderbilts challenge with a 9-7 victory at Nashville on Thanksgiving Day to give the Crimson tide an unbeaten-untied season and undisputed possession of the southeastern conference title.

Others with unblemished slates include Santa Clara, last winter's Sugar Bowl victor, and Colorado, paced to the top of the Rocky Mountain heap by Whizzer White.

The east's twin powerhouse, Pittsburgh and Fordham — tied only by each other—rounded out their impressive tours with triumphs in the rain. Pitt seized the breaks to blank Duke, 10-0, while the rugged Rams polished off their metropolitan rivals New York University, by 20-7 before 65,000 onlookers.

In the "Ivy League" Dartmouth already had finished on top for the second straight year and Harvard had displaced Yale as "Big Three" champion.

Notre Dame's best season since the passing of Knute Rockne was topped by a 13-6 triumph over Southern California.

NELS STEWART SCORING STAR FOR AMERICANS

For years lumbering Nels has been mystifying the National Hockey League with his effortless sleight-of-hand, skating hard only sometimes but always turning up in scoring position when the occasion reckoned. He was supposed to be losing his touch last year when he went to New York Americans from Boston in mid-season, but he finished the schedule sixth among the Canadian section's scorers.

Now hes proving to N.H.L. goalies again that the Stewart hand is quicker than the eye when ther's a corner of the net to be picked. Tiny Thompson of Stewarts old mates, Boston Bruins, found out about that last night in seven agonizing minutes.

The old master flicked three quick goals by Thompson in the second period at Boston. At the finish Stewart had brought the Americans a 3-3 tie with the league's only unbeaten team.

Greatest Gain.

The Stewart-achieved tie with Bruins gave Amerks the greatest gain of the week-end, for the veteran force sped to a 4-0 victory over Chicago Black Hawks at New York Saturday. Montreal Maroons, only other team playing twice, was beaten 4-0 by the Leafs at Toronto Saturday but defeated the Red Wings 3-1 at Detroit last night.

In the fifth game on the League's program Canadiens came from behind to defeat New York Rangers 2-1 at Montreal Saturday. No team changed its position in the standings but Amerks double win brought them to within three points of the leading Leafs, who have played two more games, and Boston extended its American section lead by gaining the only point among the group's four clubs.

Milt Schmidt put Boston ahead in the first period on Bobby Bauers pass and Leroy Goldsworthy made it 2-0 from Cooney Weiland in the second. Then Nels reached down into the hat for two goals in just more than a minute. Charlie Sands gave Bruins another lead on a double relay from Bill Cowley and Art Jackson but Stewart made the right motions again.

Wiseman Stars

Eddie Wiseman, the Regina gamester, was the hero of the Saturday win at Chicago. He rapped in the first and third goals, Lorne Carr and Sweney Schriner scored the others.

In maintaining the pace against Maroons, Toronto added to their mounting scoring totals. Gordon Drillon, league pace-setter, scored twice and the amazing Red Horner got his 10th goal. Harvey Jackson and Syl Apps, also among the individual leaders, aided Drilon once and Buzz Boll got the other score.

But the Red machine clicked at Detroit to smother the floundering world champions.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd C' uckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

WELL, BOTH our grid squads came through okay on Saturday, P.C.I. rubbing out Barrie, 12-6, in a C.O.S.S.A. sudden-death final in Toronto, and our Orfuns copping a 27-0 count over City Club of Toronto here to win the O.R.F.U. intermediate "A" semi-final series by a 46-5 score. Yeah, a 41-point margin isn't something to be taken up the nostrils like snuff, eh? Some 500 or so fans saw the squabble on a muddy field with the last quarter played in the dark. 'Twas 3:20, instead of 2:30—owing to Toronto car trouble—ere the tilt started and fans had to follow the play in the last quarter by ear, it being impossible to distinguish players in the dusk. But nobody seemed anxious to leave till the finish.

* * * * * *

THOUGH THE count was as one-sided as an argument with the wife, it was a wide-open and interesting fray. Oodles of excitement and thrilling plays. Lots of touchdowns, several remarkable local plays of the pro style, and a couple of first-rate fights. Earl Spencely and Ford tangled early and got the gate, and later in the scrap Chuck Kearns and Kuntz—who was hurt in Lindsay last fall—mixed it hard. They nearly started a free-for-all, a number of their buddies climbing into the fracas. They were chased and tried to start it all over again on the side-lines. This is one fight we would have thoroughly enjoyed since it was smack in front of the press bench—with no one in between—and Kearns can battle like a sonovagun! Toronto players say this Kuntz is a tough baby, too, in a fist fight. But it was stopped.

* * * * * *

WHAT CAN we say of the contest? Well the Orfuns overshadowed 'em from here to Honolulu in all departments, and the Torontos let us down by failing to show any punch—barring one 60-yard drive when they looked like a rugby team. The Turnbull team had a lead to work on so they took chances on razz-a-matazz plays, and they certainly sparkled. The local line earned orchids with a grand showing but, as we explained to some of 'em later, we can't pick linemen—since we follow the flight of the ball to the backfield each play the same as the fans do. But the line worked swell. And our backfielders had their rivals as dizzy as a dozen blonds ere dusk settled. They were pulling rabbits out of their fedoras, and no fooling!

* * * * * *

THE ONLY spots we'll lean on are those touchdown plays. Thank goodness, there was no score in the fourth since we couldn't see our hand behind our back, it was so dark. 'Tis strongly suspected that several local grid gladiators got into Toronto huddles in the blackness and got away with it! First touchdown came when Cameron dribbled after a Toronto fumble and Hendren fell on it. Then a forward by Archibald to Kearns resulted in a lateral to Giardino and then to Crowe for a major count—and you won't see smarter plays in pro rugby. Then McIntyre takes a forward from Loucks on a sleeper play to tally a beaut, with Crowe later making a dandy plunge for a touchdown. Final one was an 85-yard dash by Loucks after a fumble.

* * * * * *

CONDENSED TIGHTLY into one paragraph, maybe these five tries don't sound like anything extra. Well, maybe a Government bulletin stating that sales and income taxes would be abolished in 1938 wouldn't mean much either! Yeah, any one of those touchdowns would rate a big story, but in a 27-0 game, with five such plays, you sort of have a surfeit—like an extra slab of cake at the end of the Xmas dinner. Just a dandy joust by all the boys, and we won't name any stars in particular. Outside of all the line, the home backfielders and the alternates! Not forgetting the coach, either. The boys are hot now and they seem headed for an Ontario title. We really don't think anything short of a train wreck can stop 'em right now, nossuh!

* * * * * *

CONGRATS TO Coach Bamforth and his P.C.I. squad for winning the C.O.S.S.A. championship the third straight year. They did it Saturday by taking a 12-6 win over Barrie in Toronto. Story of the game was in this paper Saturday. We hear the locals were inclined to play under wraps, as far as trick plays went, so as not to give away anything to possible scouts, though P.C.I. didn't, of course, take any chances. They drove ahead to earn the win handily, Barrie just getting a touchdown in the final few minutes. All our boys went good in this fray. Haven't heard definitely but understand our Garnet and Gray Collegians will continue in the Provincial playoffs—though this is a matter of choice for the C.O.S.S.A. victors. The local senior school squad looks good enough to us to bring an Ontario title here this year. More again about this matter.

* * * * * *

AND LET us extend our congratulations to Coach Dufton and the Galloping Ghosts of Cobourg. They won the O.R.F.U. intermediate "B" title at home Saturday with a 19-14 decision over Stratford. Had to come from behind to score two tries on Stratford fumbles in the fourth frame. The Rapid Wraiths deserve much credit for their showing this season and, in fact, they gave our Orfuns two mighty tough battles this autumn—the toughest the locals have had—before our gang nosed 'em out for group honors. Orfuns then continued in "A" playdowns and Cobourg swept all the "B" opposition ahead of them. With Orfuns, Cobourg and P.C.I. winning over the weekend, it would seem like rugby in this neck of the timber tops that which is played in other parts of the Province in the same classifications.

* * * * * *

ALL IS in readiness for the big boxing show at the Brock St. arena Wednesday and fans should figure on taking it in. Don't let a bit of chilly weather bother you, as you'll be battling to get into the same rink to see hockey matches this winter when the mercury is trying to knock the lower end of the thermometer into the cellar. Seven fight bouts, including three Toronto-Peterborough main ones, and a rasslin' exhibition. Harry Hance will referee the bouts, with big Gene Hurtubise third man in the ring for the mat matadors. It is sponsored by the local Riverview A.C. and should be a swelegant show.

TORONTO, Nov. 29.—Coach King Clancy and his Montreal Maroons paid their first visit of the season to Maple Leaf Gardens on Saturday evening—and left town the same night with a 4-0 defeat tacked on to their coat tails. The old Maroon monarch was a bit subdued.

The game could not be listed as a high-class puck-pursuing show, and more than one observer in the crowd of 12,506 (six more than the seating capacity) was willing to mingle joy over Toronto Leafs' decisive victory with some sympathy for Clancy when the final gong rang.

They Thrive on Work.

It was the fourth game of the week for the youthful Toronto team, which evidently thrives on work. Goaler Turk Broda started the week by blanking Detroit Red Wings on the previous Sunday, and he climaxed it by whitewashing Maroons, after the Ranger jinx had been laid away by a 3 to 1 margin on New York ice on Thursday. Leafs in those seven days proved themselves to be a TEAM—not just a collection of stars and reputations.

Lots of us hoped that Maroons would not get the first goal on Saturday night, lest they would slow the puck party down to a walk after that. But that worry was settled after about sixteen minutes of fairly open action by Horner, who parked himself near a Maroon goal post, and trapped Bill Thoms' long pass. Then he banged it past Goaler Beveridge. Boll got an assist for feeding the rubber to Thoms. Allan Shields and Boll enlivened the period by going into a fistic fuus—and then going into the penalty pew with major sentences. In the dying seconds of the first period, Earl Robinson twice got loose in Leafs defence area to produce Maroons' only clean-cut sniping chances of the entire game. On one chance, with only Broda to beat, he hit a goal post; on a similar chance he shot wide of the cage.

Second Period Is Shinny.

Maroons made no real attempts to force the pace and secure the equalizing goal in the poor second period. They played cautiously and waited for a soft break—a break that never came. There was lots of shinny and loose passing by both teams, until at 13.35 a three-man rush of Leafs got loose. Horner passed perfectly to Drillon, who beat Beveridge cleanly from short range. It simply was retribution for Maroons' tactics. They wouldn't open up, and also refused to let Leafs open up.

Boll took only 51 seconds of the final period before he dashed in to net George Parson's rebound. It was a speedy move that caught the Red defence napping. Parson's assist was his first point since joining the Leafs just over a week ago, and he turned in a fine all-round game. Near the 13-minute mark, Apps took Jackson's blast off the end boards, and passed over to Drillon, who was zooming in from the right flank. Gordie clicked on a shot from a sharp angle. Maroons had nothing to offer after that goal—and the game closed rather quietly. When there are no penalties in a third period between Maroons and Leafs . . . well, somebody has been very well trimmed and tamed.

Slapsie Maxie Rosenbloom Through As Mitt Slinger After 15 Years In Game

Never a Good Fighter, But He Became Champion—Trained in Night Clubs

By BILL BRAUCHER
(Central Press Canadian Sports Writer.)

CLEVELAND, Nov. 26.—The other night in Cleveland, 35-year-old Johnny Risko made one of the most amazing comebacks in the history of beak-busting when he beat Bob Olin in ten rounds. . . . Just a few days later, in Detroit, another version of the well-known old ring drama was re-enacted when 33-year-old Maxie Rosenbloom was knocked out by a rising heavyweight named Jimmy Adamick.

There probably is a topic for a sermon in these two incidents. . . . Risko always has taken pretty good care of himself, and Rosenbloom has done most of his training in night clubs or sawdust joints. . . . Therefore, I suppose we should say something about the rewards of an upright life . . . with brief comment on how Risko has saved not only his health, but money, while Rosenbloom has let his coin slip away and his body take care of itself without much thought about to-morrow.

But I think the picture of Slapsie Maxie, the old Clown of Clout, sitting tragically in his corner after the knockout, is a more poignant essay than could be put together in 1,000 or 10,000 words. . . . Almost any of the hands around a newspaper plant could sit down and write 100 appealing captions for the picture, but none would carry quite the same personal message that is etched on the battered features of the beaten man.

Maxie has been in there for 15 years now, throwing leather or stopping it with his chin, and though he never was much of a fighter, he always gave the customers a show and, after all, that's what they paid for. . . He earned his nickname because of his unorthodox style . . . he slapped rather than punched . . . as a fighter he was funny. Dan Parker of the New York Mirror was so impressed with Maxie's lack of prowess that he wrote:

Can it be the cheese
That fills the breeze
With rare and lasting perfume?
Oh, no, it isn't the cheese,
It's Rosenbloom.

Yes, Rosy was pretty fromageous at times. . . I have seen him beaten by nobodies, but he became a champion just the same . . . when that light heavyweight title was on the line, Maxie could rise to the occasion, even though he had lost to the contender a couple of months ago in Sagebrush, S.D.

Seven years ago Rosie had to beat a half dozen pretty capable battlers to win the title vacated by Tommy Loughran, but when he outfought Jimmy Slattery in Buffalo before a $60,000 crowd, they recognized the clown as king . . . he had lost to Slattery a year before . . . and he lost to Bob Godwin before he got him into the ring in a championship bout . . . then he proceeded to knock Godwin out.

Now, however, the process seems to be reversed . . . some of the boys Rosenbloom has beaten have been catching up with him . . . he fought Adamick, a terrific puncher, twice . . . Old Rosie wasn't conceded a Chinaman's chance in the first affair, a couple of months ago . . . and when Adamick parked the ex-champion on the floor twice, many of the customers got up to go, but Maxie managed to beat the count and came on to beat the Detroit youngster.

It's an axiom in the ring, however, that you can't duck 'em all . . . a rematch was made . . . and Old Rosie walked into a wallop that Adamick swung all the way across the river from Windsor.

The end of the trail, for a fighter, usually is just another punch that seems to come out of nowhere . . . so it is with Slapsie Maxie . . . He has come to that part of the act where he is supposed to exit, left centre . . . and from now on the show must go on without Maxie.

VICTORIA, Nov. 29 (CP).—Diver P. T. Collins likes to tell fish stories, and this is one:

"On one diving job up north the rock cod were very plentiful, and so friendly that they followed me around like dogs.

"When I was ready to come up, I reached out and grabbed a couple of the fattest. They made a fine supper."

He says its a true story.

RAMBLERS GAIN EASTERN MARGIN IN MINOR LEAGUE

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (CP).—It's easier taking a job trying to forecast the weather than it is to attempt predictions on how Philadelphia Ramblers will fare in the International-American Hockey League.

They looked like world-beaters in their first two games, and immediately had the experts climbing on their band-wagon. Then they took a tail-spin and dropped three in a row, and the experts jumped off. But now Ramblers are "hot" again and the boys who try and pick the futures are with them once more.

Ramblers used the week-end to run their winning streak to three games, thereby taking over the lead in the league's eastern section. Saturday they handed Syracuse Stars their first defeat of the season, 2-0, then the night after they blanked New Haven Eagles 3-0 for the best record of any Int.-Am. team on the weekend.

Other developments saw Springfield Indians also lose their first game of the season, dropping a 2-1 decision to Pittsburg Hornets. To make it a really disastrous weekend for Indians, they absorbed a 5-1 drubbing the next night at the hands of Stars. Eagles salvaged something by playing a scoreless draw with Cleveland Saturday, while Hornets and Providence Reds played a 1-1 tie Sunday.

Ramblers, in both games, confined all their scoring to one period and then stayed off every attempt of their opposition to score. Against Syracuse, Joe Krol and Bill Carson counted goals in the first period and from then on there was no further score. Against Eagles, Ramblers took the second period to go ahead on goals by Hugh Gustafson, Murray Murdoch and Kilby MacDonald.

Indians Outplayed.

The previously unbeaten Indians were outroughed and outplayed before a crowd of 5,500 in their clash against Hornets. Ron Hudson scored in the first period, and Currie in the second, to give Hornets the win. Indians finally got a goal near the end of regulation time when Wilson whipped one home. The scoreless draw between Eagles and Barons featured the great goaltending of Paul Gauthier of Eagles and Maurice Roberts of Barons.

Jack Markle and Bingo Kampman each got two goals for Stars in their Sunday win, with Ab Corrigan getting the other Syracuse goal. The lone Springfield marker was scored by Connolly. Both goals in the Pittsburg-Providence draw came in the third period, with Mercer netting one for Providence and Red Sherwood, a recruit winger, knotting the score with a little more than two minutes left of regulation time.

Orfuns Enter Finals By Smearing Toronto

Local Gridders Take 27-0 Win To Cop Semi-Final Round By 46-5 Score

The local Orfuns swamped Toronto City Club, 27-0, here Saturday to go, the O.R.F.U. intermediate "A" semi-final round by a 41-point margin. They had previously beaten the Torontos by a 19-5 score in Toronto. The Peterborough squad now enters the Provincials finals. Over 500 fans saw the struggle here, a wide-open one-sided affair on a muddy field, winding up in darkness. It was nearly an hour late in starting since the visitors had car trouble.

Orfuns played fine football, mixing up good all-around straight rugby with some wide-open razzle-dazzle play that made the husky finalists of 1936 look bad. The Torontos were late arriving and down 14 points and they turned in a very poor display, only one putting on a real sustained attack that carried them 60 yards up the field and made them look like a worthy opposing crew for the locals.

Get Five Tries

Peterborough scored five touchdowns, converting two, getting 11 points in the first frame, six more in the second and 10 in the third. With a big lead they experimented with a number of trick plays and showed close to senior calibre football in their finish. Orfuns outbooted and outplunged the City Club, dished up some dandy backfield work, proved deadly on tackling and in general sunk the visitors definitely and with color. Some of the local touchdowns were the type seldom seen outside of U.S. professional football.

The first try was Hendren's in the initial quarter after a Toronto fumble had been dribbled. Later a forward pass and two laterals resulted in a sensation touchdown by the Orfuns. In the second quarter, McIntyre pulled a "sleeper" play on the visitors, took Loucks' forward pass and galloped 45 yards for a try. Crowe made a grand and lengthy plunge for a major count in the third and Loucks raced 85 yards on a Toronto fumble for another big one. Twice fights broke out and four penalties resulted.

All Go Good

The whole local squad shone in this encounter, the line in particular proving strong. Aside from that one long drive by Toronto, the visitors failed to pierce the home front wall and the Orfuns' shock troops blocked, tackled and plunged like seniors. Grosse, McIntyre, Pulkinghorn, Sloan, E. Spencely, Begley and others bore the brunt of it in noble style. Crowe was tops in the backfield along with Archibald, and the rest were close behind. Webb, Thompson, Porter, Davies and F. Wilson stood out for the losers.

Play opened slowly, moving up and down for a time with a few good bucks and several penalties shifting the sticks. Crowe ran back a boot 15 to the Toronto 40 and later Webb intercepted a forward throw. On a bad snap Webb fumbled the ball and Cameron dribbled it over the line with Hendren tearing in to fall on it for a touchdown, which was not converted. A Crowe-to-Archibald forward was good for 25 yards up to the home 40. Ford and E. Spencely were gated for fighting. The locals lost it and Sloan pulled a nice tackle. Orfuns began a drive to midfield again and then pulled off a nifty play. Archibald tossed Kearns a short forward heave and he ran eight yards with it, throwing a lateral to Giardino, who jogged 10, and the latter then threw a lateral to Crowe who ran 25 yards for a try. The forward pass from Archibald to Grosse was ruled a convert, owing to Toronto interference. The local quarter intercepted a forward as the heat closed.

Another Touchdown

Play shifted back and forth for a time, a Kearns-Crowe lateral and a Porter-Webb forward netting the rival outfits 10 yards each near centre. Kearns, Harle and Begley bucked through for nice gains once but they later had to kick and Toronto drove for 60 yards, with Davies the main plunger, and Webb and Thompson helping to move the sticks. The lost it on an onside kick near the local goal-posts. Achibald intercepted a forward at centre and then Loucks threw a 15-yard forward to McIntyre on a sleeper play, the latter galloping 45 yards for a touchdown. A forward, Archibald to Weir, converted it. Marsh intercepted a forward heave later and ran 35 to Toronto's 20, but the kick was run out.

Earl in the third, a Kearns-Crowe lateral netted 40 to midfield and they gradually worked the ball up till Crowe plunged through the line and raced 20 yards for a try. It was not converted. Toronto pulled a couple of short forwards but lost it on downs deep in home area. A short Peterborough kick gave them the ball on the home 30-yard chalk and they ran it up another 20 yards on buck and one end run. On the next play Ford fumbled and Loucks got the ball to race 85 yards for a touchdown, which was not converted. Crowe got 10 on a reverse end run and a Crowe-Giardino forward netted 15 to Toronto's 35-yard strip.

Orfuns lost it on downs in Toronto territory in the dusky fourth frame. It was almost too dark in this rough quarter to follow play. Kearns and Kuntz nearly started free-for-all in a fight, going at it on the sidelines again after being expelled. Orfuns had most of the play and Crowe made two nice runs, but both sides lost on downs. It was a hard-hitting display of straight rugby in the fog with neither side showing to advantage.

Remember When—

(By The Canadian Press)

Balmy Beach, standard-bearer of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, hammered out an 8-0 decision over Hamilton Tigers, Big Four champions, for the Eastern Canadian championship at Toronto seven years ago today. The Toronto club pulled out an 11-6 victory over Regina Roughriders for the Canadian title the same year.

GOOD MITT SHOW HERE WEDNESDAY

An amateur boxing show will be staged next Wednesday night in the Brock St. arena, starting at 8.30 o'clock. It is sponsored by the local Riverview Athletic Club and will consist of seven boxing bouts and an amateur wrestling exhibition. A number of topnotch Toronto scrappers are on the card with local ring stalwarts. This is a boxing revival for Peterborough and a first-rate program has been lined up to introduce the new club to local fight fans. Regular prices will prevail, scaling from 25c to 75c, and a big crowd of fans is expected. Harry Hance has been named referee.

Two Toronto grapplers, middleweights, Scotty MacKenzie and Harry Burford, have a one-fall or 30-minute match. The boxing sees two 80-pounders, Buddy Redmond and Izzy MacIntosh, in the curtain-raiser. Jerry Belland, 139, is matched with Jack Chamberlain. Two local lightweights, Bill Joiner and Mal Packenham, will mix in another bout. Pat Jordan and Frenchy Bousley, going 138 apiece, tangle in another prelim. Three main melees feature Toronto-Peterboro' scraps. Harry Low, 147, meets Art Darnbrough, Provincial lightweight champ; Len Minicola tangles with Joe Genovese, noted Queen City lightweight; and Nick Orlando, ex-Montreal star, meets Bev. Carter, undefeated Toronto lightweight. Five two-minute rounds will be fought in the main bouts.

Sculler Sidesteps Tackler

Heading for the touchline after breaking away from a hard-hitting Ottawa Rough Rider line, young Art West, clever Toronto Argonaut halfback staves off a belated tackle by McCauley of Ottawa with a beautiful straight-arm. Argos were leading Riders on the game and on total points in their home and home series for the Big Four championship when West made his run.

SCULLERS QUALIFY FOR EASTERN FINAL AGAINST IMPERIALS

TORONTO, Nov. 29. — A pigskin which spiralled high in the air as a football but continually reached the lower roofs of the sky to come down as a snowball literally froze Ottawa Roughriders out of the Interprovincial football championship here on Saturday at Maple Leaf Stadium before a crowd of 12,300 fans and established Toronto Argonauts in their place as worthy holders of the Big Four title and rightful finalists with Sarnia in the Eastern Canada classic here next Saturday.

Isbister the Irresistible.

It was the beautiful ball despatching of Bob Isbister, young Hamilton giant, who played sixty minutes with an agonizing side injury that exploded the Ottawa jinx for Argonauts. The six foot two inches tall backfielder, a star of the first magnitude in his freshman year in the tougher Big Four grid warfare, turned in a sensational performance, inspired his mates to a hard-earned 10-1 win on the game and a 21-16 margin on the round. Roughriders had taken the first game a week ago 15-11 and their margin of four points looked large enough to carry them forward to their third title in a row.

But the courage of the 23-year-old partially grey-headed Isbister, famous son of a famous father, playing with a crippled side, was the factor which transformed his mates from an average football force into a fighting, desperate, unyielding pack which defied all the power that Ottawa had.

Big Bob not only kicked Argos into scoring position and just as earnestly booted them out of danger with 50 and 60-yard lofts, but in the dying moments of the game he thwarted a wide-open pass-throwing attack of the beaten Bytowners, taking a touchdown pass which would have deadlocked the count, right out of the arms of galloping Stan O'Neil, the Pitt Panther alumnus who was the key man in the desperate Ottawa last-quarter defence.

TRINITY TRIUMPHS COLLEGE RACQUETS

PORT HOPE, Nov. 29. — Trinity College School students won a 13 to 12 victory from Hamilton Squash Club players in a hard-fought contest at the school here on Saturday and Sunday. The Students won 29 to 27 in the total games played.

PRINCE BERNHARD GASHED IN CRASH

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 29 (A.P.). — Prince Bernhard, husband of Crown Princess Juliana of the Netherlands, was gashed badly on the forehead when he was thrown against the windshield of his automobile to-day in a collision with a heavily-laden sand truck.

The truck emerged from a narrow side road as the Prince's automobile approached at high speed. Bernhard, who was driving a light car, jammed on his brakes, but could not avoid skidding on the slippery road.

The impact smashed the Prince and a passenger into the windshield.

The accident occurred as the 28-year-old Prince was on his way to Amsterdam with a companion believed to be a Royal forester. The companion, it was understood, was more critically injured than Prince Bernhard.

CANON MARSH RETURNS

LINDSAY, Nov. 29.—On Saturday, Lindsay welcomed home one of her most beloved former citizens, Rev. Canon Charles H. Marsh, D.D., who for forty-eight years was rector of St. Paul's Anglican Church here.

His visit was on the occasion of the celebration of the fifty-second anniversary of the opening of the present St. Paul's Church. Despite his eighty-three years Canon Marsh was active and read the lessons at morning and evening services with a firm, clear voice.

The services were conducted by the rector, Rev. A. J. Goldring. Guest preacher was Rev. Canon R. B. McElheran, D.D., principal of Wycliffe College, Toronto.

Church News From Marmora In 1837

Marmora, Nov. 29.

THE December issue of the Church Messenger under its caption "One hundred years ago" has this interesting item taken from the records of the Anglican Church of Ontario preserved in Toronto.

"Marmora U. C. Under the auspices of the Hon. P. McGill of Montreal, proprietor of the Marmora Iron Works, a stone church has been built at that place for Protestants and Roman Catholics but has lapsed into the hands of the latter and been consecrated by their bishop."

CHAPTER 1.

As I look upon it, I can, I think, understand how I came to build my romance on the shifting sands of misrepresentation. Even as a little boy my fancy had at times painted things not as they were, but as I wanted them to be. If I had lied, I had lied picturesquely, transmuting sober fact into fascinating fiction. Now and then, since my mother lacked imagination, I had been punished for it. And I can remember my father's whimsical plea for a light sentence.

"Let the boy alone, Eleanor; he'll outgrow it."

"But he is not telling the truth, Stephen."

"How many of us know the truth?" And there you have my father and my mother in a nutshell—she with her fixed ideas of right and wrong, he seeking always the hidden meanings of life and of eternity.

For he believed in eternity. He was a clergyman in a small country church. We felt ourselves poor, but I know now that my father was rich. He possessed the great treasures of an open mind, and a faith in the essential rightness of the world. We took long walks together. We were western New Yorkers, and the vineyards were everywhere. They formed the texts of many of my father's sermons. "Take us the foxes, the little foxes that spoil the vines," and "What shall therefore the lord of the vineyard do?"

When we walked together my father was not the preacher, but the man. He worshiped beauty, and as Lake Erie rose up before us like a sapphire wall, the setting sun a luminous red ballon above it, he would say in a hushed voice, "God made it, Jerry!"

Yet I knew he would have worshiped it if he had never known a God!

They had called me Jerome, after my father's brother. He lived somewhere in the west, but I had never seen him. I thought of him as one thinks of the magical, mystical people in books. There was a picture of him, too taken during the Spanish war. He had been one of Roosevelt's Rough Riders—and in his khaki and wide-brimmed hat he seemed quite outside the sphere of ordinary mortals.

As I have said, we were very poor in those days when I was punished for telling lies. My mother did her own work, and my father and I helped her. We used to wash the clothes on Monday mornings, hidden in the woodshed so that any passing member of the congregation might not be shocked by a lack of ministerial dignity. I think my father would have told of it, for he had no sense of shame in honest labor, but my mother held him to the traditional pose. It was she who insisted that he must never be seen in overalls. He fed the cow in his long coat, and milked her with it folded beside him on another stool, so that it might be ready in emergencies.

I can see now that my mother was right. The people in that small community had their sense of fitness. A minister belongs to his coat as a justice belongs to his robes, or a soldier to his uniform. Strip them of these, and what have you?

Yet when I was a boy I often wished that my father was like some of the men who came to our little church in summer. Men from the city, trim in blue serge, stiff straw hats, tan shoes and silk stockings. When I was 10 years old, an automobile stopped at our door. Two young people had driven up from Buffalo to get married. The boy had a white rose in the lapel of his coat, and the girl wore a small, round hat with white roses and held up her thin dress to show a lace petticoat.

Before that I had not been allowed in the room when there was a wedding. But this time my father let me stay, and I was much impressed by the things the young man said to the young woman, and that the woman said to the man. "With this ring I thee wed . . . to have and to hold . . . from this day forward . . . for richer, for poorer."

I talked a great deal about it afterward to my mother. "Did you say those things when you married father?"

"Yes."

"Did he give you a ring?"

"Yes."

She showed me her wedding ring, which I had seen all my life on her finger, but from that moment it gained a new significance, and whenever I looked at her work-worn hands and thought of the slim white fingers of the young bride, I was disturbed by a conviction that my mother had not, in some way, fulfilled the promise of the radiant ceremony. I felt that it would be different with the girl in the white rose hat. That she would go through life in trailing frocks and always in bridal elegance.

Even in those days I was like my father in my passion for loveliness. Our little house was comfotable, but there was nothing esthetic in its furnishings, save the effect of clean bareness and the touches of clear color given by pots of flowers on the window ledges, and by some old blue china on the dresser.

I never liked the clothes that my mother wore—her dull lilac prints and best black dresses. But my soul would flame when a wagon laden with grapes went by, with one of the Italian girls who worked in the vineyards enthroned like a bacchante high on the purple load. These girls set off their dark charms by a brouse or kerchief of brilliant color—orange or jade or scarlet. Whatever they wore, they were never monotonous or insipid, as were the girls of our congregation in their faint pinks and blues, or the women in their grays and blacks.

The coming of the Italians and other peoples of southern Europe had introduced a new element into our community. A Catholic church was built that they might have their own priests and their own altars. They were at home in our vineyards, and the lake seemed to make up in some slight way for the loss of their

UNCLE WIGGILY AND FLITTY'S FAVOR

"Catch this, Uncle Wiggily! Catch this!" cried a voice in the air.

The rabbit gentleman looked up, thinking, perhaps, Buster his rabbit boy might be kicking a football. Just as Mr. Longears did this—"Plunk-O!" Something hit him on the end of his pink, twinkling nose.

"Ouch!" he cried and tears of pain came into his eyes.

"Oh, I'm so sorry!" said Flitty, the blue jay bird boy, flying down out of the air. "I thought I would do you a favor by dropping you an acorn. But I guess I made a mistake."

"I guess you did," said Uncle Wiggily curling up his whiskers to wipe the tears out of his eyes. "But you tried to be kind, Flitty."

"Yess, I did," yelled the blue jay boy, yelling being his way of talking as it always is with these beautiful but noisy birds. "I said I would do you a favor after I flew away with your glasses the other day and I am going to."

No More, Please

"Only, Flitty," begged Uncle Wiggily with a smile, "don't favor me with any more acorns. They hurt my nose and I can't eat them as, perhaps, you can."

"Yes, sometimes I eat acorns," yelled Flitty. "But it's fun to gather them and drop them in holes. I was gathering some to drop them in a hole in the roof of a barn when I saw you hopping along so I thought I would drop you an acorn and I did."

"Yes, you did, Flitty," said Mr. Longears. "Only you dropped it on my nose. I wouldn't have minded if you had dropped it in my pocket."

"Oh, let me try again!" begged Flitty eagerly. "I'm sure I can hit your pocket next time."

"You might hit my eye," said the rabbit gentleman as he hopped on to seek an adventure.

Flitty also flew on his way, twitching his tail and shining his bright blue feathers in the sun. He very much wanted to do Uncle Wiggly a favor to make up for having taken the jolly old rabbit gentleman's glasses off his nose when he was asleep and flying away with them the other day.

After a while, as Flitty flew along he saw an old apple on a tree. It was a soft mushy apple, quite spoiled, in fact.

"Ha!" said Flitty to himself. "There is something soft to drop down to Uncle Wiggily. That can't bash him in the nose or eye."

So in his beak Flitty picked the musky apple by its stem and dropped it from the sky down on the rabbit gentleman who was still hopping along.

"There's a favor for you, Uncle Wiggily!" yelled Flitty.

"Squash! Bam! Squish!" The mushy apple fell on the bunny's head.

"Oh, dear!" murmured Uncle Wiggily.

Wrong Again

"Don't you like that favor, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Flitty.

"No I can't say that I do!" said Mr. Longears. "It mushed my eye."

"Oh, why do I always do the wrong thing?" said poor Flitty.

Away he flew over the woods, wondering how he could do Uncle Wiggily a real favor to make up for having taken his glasses. Then, all of a sudden, Flitty looked down and saw the Bob Cat, with the silly little tail, stalking after the rabbit gentleman.

"Ha! I know what I can do!" thought the blue jay boy. "I can fly down and pull off the Bob Cat's tail and drop that down to Mr. Longears. The tail will be soft it won't hurt him and, not being mushy, it won't bash all over like the apple that was rotten."

Down flew Flitty. In his beak he grabbed the Bob Cat's tail.

"Wow! Wow! Wow!" howled the Bad Chap prancing on his front legs. "Let go! Let go! Let go my tail! Wow! Wowzie!" He made so much noise that Uncle Wiggily, hearing it, ran safely to his hollow stump bungalow.

"I'm sorry I couldn't pull off the Bob Cat's tail," said Flitty.

"You did me a big favor just the same," said the rabbit.

And if the catcher's glove doesn't go to a football game to keep the goal posts warm I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's fur coat.

Situation Worse Than In 1914 Or 1929 Toronto Conservatives Believe

QUEBEC, Nov. 23—(CP)—Denton Massey, Conservative member of the House of Commons for Toronto Greenwood, called last night for a united, Dominion-wide effort to "deal with the causes of our great national problems, rather than attempts by provinces to deal individually with their results."

No words held a greater warning to the people of Canada, he said, than those spoken 160 years ago by Benjamin Franklin: "We must all hang together, or assuredly we shall hang separately."

Mr. Massey, addressing a Y.M.C.A. dinner, said he was expressing his personal beliefs in his speech.

"I earnestly urge you," he said, "to keep in mind as I speak that I am a firm believer in the rights of groups, whether they be minorities or majorities, that I have the deepest and utmost respect for the considered opinions of men, and that I firmly believe, as did the Fathers of Confederation, the local institutions and local laws of the various provinces should be guaranteed."

Mr. Massey said he was neither an alarmist nor an extremist but he felt the Dominion was faced with a crisis greater than in 1914 or 1929.

Crisis Threatening All

"The crisis I refer to," he said, "does not contain the elements of emergency. In Canada today we do not have nine separate sets of provincial problems, building up to nine separate crises. The crisis which I refer to, and which we face in 1937, is national in character. It is not any one of our difficulties, nor is it alone the sum of all of them, it is a crisis which strikes at the root of all of them.

"It is a crisis of the threatened disintegration of the Dominion of Canada, occasioned by the rise in the autonomous powers of the various provinces in their attempt to deal separately with what are virtually great national problems, not local in any sense of the word."

Who could not realize he asked, that new, wide and ominous autonomous powers were being assumed by provincial legislative assemblies, powers carried to an extreme never dreamed of by the Fathers of Confederation and never written into the British North America Act.

LAKEFIELD

Mrs. D. S. Kirkbride, (nee Muereta Turnbull) of Montreal, was in Lakefield last week where she paid a short visit to her aunt, Mrs. J. R. Hall.

A three-act play entitled "The Winning of Joy" is being produced by the Brotherhood of St. James' United church, Peterborough, on Friday, December 3, at 8.00 p.m., under the auspices of Group D. of the Women's Association of Lakefield United church. The play will be held in the Sunday School room of the United church. Musical numbers will be provided between acts.

Mr. James Earnshaw and Mr. Louis Sabatino, of Lakefield, left on Wednesday, November 24, on a motor trip to Timmins, Ont. They expect to be away about a week.

Mrs. W. W. Yale of Lakefield, is at present in Chatham, where she was called by the illness of her sister, Miss Parquahson. Friends will be pleased to learn that Miss Parquahson's condition is slightly improved.

Mrs. Bruce Garbutt of Lakefield, was in Toronto last week visiting with her daughter, Miss Etta Garbutt.

The Lakefield United church Sunday School have planned their annual Christmas entertainment for the Monday preceding Christmas, which falls this year on December 20th.

WEEKEND RALLY BOOSTED STOCKS

TORONTO, November 29—(CP)—The stock market came to life on Friday and staged a sizeable rally in the base metal section, after moving sluggishly all week on diminishing volume.

The spurt put the miscellaneous mines index up a couple of points for the week-end, while it encouraged heavier action in the golds and industrials also, those groups failed to erase entirely earlier losses and the indices show narrow losses for the period.

In the big golds, particularly Lake Shore and Dome, recorded small gains. The other seniors posted light losses.

A few of the cheaper golds came through with moderate gains. O'Brien, Pamour, Wright-Hargreaves, MacLeod-Cockshutt, Teck-Hughes, and Moneta were up while others including Bralorne, Canadian Malartic, Macassa, Pickle Crow, and Siscoe registered small losses.

The more cheerful note in the base metals was apparently based on long-pull sentiment rather than any improvement in the demand for metal or in metal prices. Leaders of the group are currently quoted at about half the prices posted eight months ago, a fact which appears to be influencing the market.

Hudson Bay advanced &2 in the week, Noranda and Consolidated Mining and Smelting $1 each, and International Nickel a few cents.

Industrial groups lacked uniformity in their movements and, with only a few exceptions, trade in the list was small. International Petroleum posted a gain of 75 cents. Brazilian Traction weakened further, and the paper stocks were barely firm. Banks were quiet and steady on the whole.

Earth Slips Above Los Angeles Speed Up

Los Angeles, California, is certainly having its share of trouble. The "moving mountain", of Elysian Park, which has been in the news lately, is accelerating, moving four inches in 24 hours, and bringing nearer the time when the whole two million tons of earth and shale will cascade upon prominent Riverside Drive in that city. Evidence of the progress of the landslide is shown by Cameraman Sam Sansone (LEFT), who has climbed down into the ever-widening crack in the earth to photograph progress of the slip. Preparations to counter damage from the slide are made by a workman (RIGHT), who is removing the high tension lines from a steel tower on the insecure mountainside.

Both In Jail Where They Belong Tenderfoot Bandits Admit

Yardman And Negro Save 150 Train Passengers Their Valuables

LAS CRUCES, N.M., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Two young Eastern tenderfeet who attempt to hold up a crack transcontinental train ended when a husky yardman went into action with his fists said in jail to-day. "We know we're both where we belong."

District Attorney Martin Threet said Henry Lorenz, 22, of Manitowoc, Wis., and Harry Dwyer, 27, of Digby County, N.S., admitted firing the shots which killed one man before 150 enraged passengers overpowered them as they attempted to flee the train.

Threet said "I intend to file charges of train robbery and murder" against them.

Roger Moon, 29-year-old Southern Pacific yardman of Douglas, Ariz., knocked one of the gunmen unconscious, edged his way to the other end of the Apache Limited's first day coach and battered the second bandit to the floor after W. L. Smith, El Paso switchman, was killed.

Moon strolled into the chair car from another coach and unwittingly stumbled upon the holdup.

"One of the robbers stuck a gun in my ribs and told me to move up with the others," Moon said. "When he came up to me I pulled out my wallet and gave him two bills.

"'Watch this guy,' the robber said to his companion, pointing to me. 'He seems too cool.'"

Upon command of the bandit, the conductor brought the train to a halt. Then Sipple Webb, 65-year-old El Paso negro, tripped Lorenz, who shot at Webb as he fell sidewise. Moon came up under Lorenz' gun and drove a hard right to his jaw, knocking him out.

Dwyer started back toward his fallen companion, but was tackled by Smith, whom he shot.

Moon hit the bandit twice in the face, and his pistol flew the length of the car.

A trainman felled Dwyer with a blackjack, and the passengers closed in on the pair and tied them to seats.

Lorenz and Dwyer were brought here last night from Deming, N.M., bruised and bleeding, their cowboy clothes torn.

They were in New York, they told officers, when they decided to see the west. In El Paso, they bought horses and cowboy regalia. Then they went to Deming. They spent several weeks there, returned to El Paso and planned the train holdup.

SALTCOATS, Sask.—(CP)—When the annual meeting of the Saltcoats school district was held a newspaper reporter found himself in the chair. He was the only ratepayer present besides the trustees themselves.

TROOPS SURROUND FRENCH MINISTRY

PARIS, Nov. 29 (AP)—The cordon of mobile guards which French authorities threw about the Ministry of the Interior with the unearthing of a gigantic conspiracy against the republic was strengthened today as a "precaution."

Troops were stationed inside the Ministry courtyard and all gates to this important government building were barred.

The Surete Nationale, the National Police organization through which the people's front government sought to trace and wreck the Labyrinthian ramifications of the revolutionary organization, operates under the Interior Ministry.

An official, asked if the Ministry were "threatened," replied: "We are merely taking precautions."

Guards also were maintained on all arteries into the capital. Every passing automobile and truck was stopped for examination of the papers of the operators and occupants.

More than 20 raids were made in provincial cities yesterday but the results of most of them were undisclosed.

Paris raiders ransacked an apartment near the War Ministry and reported seizing a machine-gun, a dozen rifles, 15,000 cartridges and several cases of hand grenades.

Architect Quizzed

Pierre Parent, a Rouen architect, arrested yesterday near Rouen, was brought to Paris under guard for inquiry into the source of a large store of arms seized in his luxurious Paris home near the Invalides.

Surete agents said the cache included 12 sub-machine-guns, one machine-gun, 13,350 cartridges and 250 hand grenades.

Eugene Deloncle, a 47-year-old engineering consultant, described by Surete agents as the founder and head of the Csar—"Le Comite Secret d'Action Revolutionaire"—spent last night in the Surete headquarters, in a crossfire of questions.

He was arrested yesterday and immediately subjected to hours of interrogation on the thwarted conspiracy to overthrow the republican regime to make way for a royal dictatorship.

Laboratory-Made Lightning Can Be Harnessed To Work

Virginian Scientists Able To Control 300,000 Volts In Glass Tube

By Howard W. Blakeslee
(Associated Press Science Editor.)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29—(AP)—A new type of laboratory—maze lightning, trapped inside a gas-filled, glass tube where it can be harnessed for useful work, was announced here today.

The tube lightening was described to the American Philosophical Society by J. W. Beams, professor of physics, and L. B. Snoody of the University of Virginia. It is made in long glass tubes working on the principle of Neon lights.

These lights are due to discharge of a high-voltage electric current through Neon gas. Instead of Neon, the Virginia scientists fill their tubes with other gases, usually dry air, sometimes carbon dioxide or hydrogen. The gases are at low pressures, forming a partial vacuum.

The glass tubes are longer than the street sign kind. The longest tried is 42 feet, with a six inch diameter. Electricity discharged into these tubes causes them to flash. What happens to initiate the flashes has been one of the largely unexplored fields of the vacuum tube.

Photograph Flashes

The Virginians found the answer by using a rapidly revolving mirror to photograph the flashes and an oscillograph to measure the electrical changes. They discovered they were dealing with lightning on a small scale. They found in the tubes the same "leader" flash which has recently been discovered in all of nature's lightning strokes.

In the tubes, as out in the open atmosphere, this pilot flash made by a path over which flowed tremendous currents of electricity. In the tubes the pilot flashes travelled at speeds ranging from about 600 miles a second to 62,000 miles.

It was discovered that in the fragile tubes tremendous currents of electricity would flow with safety and under control. Five thousand amperes flow in a square centimetre cross-section of tube, which means in a space about the diameter of a large fountain pen.

Moreover, said Dr. Beams, very large cross-sections can be used in tubes and the voltages can go as high as desire. In the laboratory experiments 300,000 volts have been used.

The tubes are a new kind of gas transmission line for electricity.

"The experiments show," said Dr. Beams, "that the long discharge tubes can be used as a transmission line for electrical impulses in many types of experiments. The tube is ideally suited for regulating a time separation between appearance of high potential at different points in a system."

The first practical use is under way at the University of Virginia to build a big Bertha Atom gun, of a different kind than any now used by science.

Atom guns have converted table salt into artificial radium, done hundreds of transmutations and produced neuton rays for cancer experiments.

Brethour, Lakefield, Best in Peterborough

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 30 (CP). — Canada's champion cheesemaker for 1937 is J. M. Bain of Britton, Ont., crowned king of the show yesterday when judges at the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association exhibition finished evaluating more than 500 cheddars.

A June white cheddar, made by Bain at his plant near Listowel in Perth County, was pronounced the top-quality cheese. Entries from every Province in Canada, South Africa, New Zealand, England and Australia were judged. The cheese will be on display during the exhibition here today and Wednesday.

The H. T. Chisholm Trophy went to Bain, and more than $1,000 prize money was distributed among scores of other cheesemakers whose entries received high marks. The winning Bain cheese was given 98.1 points out of a possible 100. Points were given for flavor, texture, closeness, color and finish.

The J. D. Leclair Challenge Trophy, open to Quebec Province exhibitors, was won by Eugene Lussier of Notre Dame des Bois, Que., on a white October cheddar that scored 97.6.

The John H. Ecklin Memorial Cup for the highest scoring cheese from Central and Eastern Ontario went to J. N. Truelove of Westport with a score of 97.9 on a September colored cheese. The novice prize, open to new exhibitors, was won by Roy Welbanks of Milford, Ont., with a score of 97.5 on a September white.

Truck, Bus Officials Lay Cut-Throat Tactics to Railways

Charge Rates Are Set Below Cost of Operation Forcing Automotive Men to Pay Their Losses

TORONTO, Nov. 30.—(CP)—Users of "luxury" motor cars should pay the gasoline tax, which should not be collected from those engaged in the motor trucking industry, the Automotive Transport Association of Ontario said in a brief submitted today to the Chevrier Royal Commission on transportation.

"If, for the sake of simplicity, taxes are collected from persons engaged in servicing trade and commerce by hauling freight on the highways, they should be rebated in whole or in part to such persons, thus reducing the burdens on trade and commerce," the brief said.

It declared government fixing of rates in the motor industry would constitute an "unwarranted interference with private business." There was no need for regulation to insure service or to eliminate unfair competition.

"Unfair competition cannot be eliminated by regulation," the association maintained in its brief. "The railways are guilty of unfair competition when they give service at less than cost."

Want Transport Board

The association urged establishment of a permanent transport board to handle licensing of commercial vehicles in Ontario. It favored legislation protecting labor from overwork. Such legislation should be uniform throughout Ontario.

I. S. Fairty, counsel for the Toronto Transportation Commission and Grey Bus Lines, said the Royal Commission was inspired by the railways and the labor brotherhoods.

"The Commission wants to investigate truck and bus rates, but the railways refuse to provide information concerning their rate basis," he said.

"We, as bus operators, are suffering from cut-throat competition from the railways and we are paying their bodies," he asserted.

Lewis Duncan, counsel for the Automotive Transport Association of Ontario, said the railways created propaganda charging buses and trucks created the excessive competition.

"But the railways themselves are establishing rates that are below cost of operation," he said.

INDUSTRY BOARD IS CLASSIFYING TEXTILE WORKERS

Resuming their sittings here today, the Industry and Labor Board, under chairmanship of E. J. Young, continued the probe into wages and conditions in the textile industry.

Evidence of several workers in the Bonner-Worth and Auburn Mills of Dominion Woollens and Worsteds was heard at the original sitting of the Board here a couple of months ago.

Today the Board heard plant officials detail the operations of each of the various departments in the two plants and learned how many employees there are on the payroll with the type of work performed by each individual.

Opening the meeting in the sitting room at Empress Hotel, the chairman of the Board remarked:

"The last time we were in Peterborough we investigated some of the conditions in the textile mills. This time we want to get closer to the problem of classifying workers and the first step is to list the operations in your mills."

Set-Up in Plants

After going over the complete operating set-up of the two mills with Peck Barber, manager of the Auburn plant, and D. G. H. Melton, manager of Bonner-Worth plant, Mr. Young commented: "We would like to reduce all these workers to a few classifications so we might tentatively place them in various wage groups."

Pointing out there was a problem in confection with this procedure, because different conditions were to be found in each of the various departments, Mr. Melton declared in the setting of wage scales: "I always let my conscience be my guide." He pointed out as an example that at Bonner-Worth Mill different wages were paid to the employees there, based on length of service and experience.

Mr. Young stressed the Board merely wished to set a minimum. "The Board is not going to say you cannot pay more than a certain rate," he said.

At the suggestion of H. S. Leybourne, comptroller of the Auburn Mill, the Board adjourned shortly before midday so that the plant officials could go over their payrolls and attempt to group their employees in the various classifications suggested by the Board.

Workers Represented.

Workers of Dominion Woollens and Worsteds, Limited, Peterborough mills, who were on strike for ten weeks during the past summer for higher wages and better working conditions were represented at the hearing by Michael English, presi-

Speaker Hipel Gets Moving Orders So Governor May Have Office

Toronto, Nov. 30 (CP)

NEW quarters being prepared for Hon. Albert Matthews, Ontario's new lieutenant governor, in parliament buildings here are "very acceptable" to him, Premier Hepburn said today.

Cohrley Park, palatial Rosedale residence of the province's lieutenant governors since 1915, will not be used by Mr. Matthews. The building will be closed as soon as the retiring governor, Dr. Herbert a Bruce, vacates. It will then be prepared for auction.

Mr. Matthews' quarters at Queen's Park were formerly the speaker's quarters. Hon. N. O. Hipel, Speaker of the Ontario Legislature, will be given smaller rooms.

Agree Hitler, Duce Both Must Be Brought To Terms

Uneasy Over Germany's Central Europe Aims; Wonder Italy's Stand in Case of Rebel Win in Spain

LONDON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—British and French statesmen took up today the thorny question of Mussolini and the Mediterranean, after having reached common viewpoints on German and Oriental problems.

The Premiers and Foreign Secretaries of the Paris and London governments, in the second session of a two-day conference on future foreign policy, realized that Premier Mussolini of Italy as well as Chancellor Hitler of Germany must be brought to terms to insure Western European security.

The conferres, who yesterday endorsed the policy of non-intervention in the Spanish civil war, were expected today to examine their separate relations with Rome—admittedly poor in the case of both Paris and London—and to consider the strategic improvement of Italy's position in the event of an insurgent victory in Spain.

There was an air of optimism at No. 10 Downing street, Prime Minister Chamberlain's official residence, where the statesmen decided yesterday — among other things— they were not ready under the circumstances to grant any of Germany's political or territorial demands.

Today's session was expected to be short because Premier Chautemps and his Foreign Minister, Yvon Delbos, had arranged to leave London this afternoon after lunch at Buckingham Palace as guests of the King and Queen.

The French opinion was that the talks already had strengthened M. Delbos' hand for visits starting later this week in which he will assure Poland, Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Yugoslavia that Britain and France stand solidly together in international diplomacy.

CLAIM PRAIRIES CARRIED BRUNT OF DEPRESSION

Inflation Is Pictured As Saving Day for West

WINNIPEG, Nov. 30 (CP) — If Canada had depreciated her currency during the depression the advantage to the west would have been greater than any disadvantage to eastern Canada, Prof. A. R. Upgren, University of Minnesota economist, told the Rowell Commission today.

The professor contended Western Canada bore the brunt of the Canadian monetary policy. Australia sought to spread the burden over all sections of the country by depreciating its currency 20 per cent, he added.

Louis St. Laurent, commission counsel, suggested currency adjustment would merely have shifted the burden from one section of the country to another. While tourists might have been attracted to Canada by reduced currency, Canadians would have been at an equal disadvantage going abroad, counsel said.

"Where would you stop once you started to get benefits from inflation?" asked Mr. St. Laurent.

Dr. Upgren noted United States and Canada had already inflated their currency, regulated by central bank control. By moderate inflation a fair balance between prices of various industries might be reached.

In depression manufactured goods dropped comparatively slowly, Dr. Upgren said, while agricultural prices broke sharply.

Boon To Agriculture

Inflation served to raise agricultural prices to the level of consumers goods.

"Didn't President Roosevelt try to fix the dollar in relation to commodities rather than to gold?" asked Chairman Newton W. Rowell, "Has he succeeded?"

"He has reached about half way," Dr. Upgren replied.

Mr. Rowell made clear he was not criticizing the United States president but questioned the success of that policy.

"What would happen if we had a 10-cent dollar?" asked Mr. St. Laurent.

"Agricultural prices would go up, perhaps beyond manufactured goods prices," said Dr. Upgren.

While the Manitoba brief suggested eastern Canada had benefitted in its foreign debt services by the policy followed by the Dominion, counsel suggested part of that benefit might have resulted from the relation between sterling and the American dollar, over which Canada had no control.

Dr. Upgren stressed the fact western Canada had "one string to its bow" as it depended almost entirely on wheat exports. The rest of the country had more varied income.

OX BLOOD EXTRACT CURES PNEUMONIA

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 30 (AP). —A new and successful chemical treatment for pneumonia with an extract of warm ox blood gathered from slaughter houses was announced today at the opening of the Southern Medical Association's annual meeting.

Dr. Clyde Brooks of the Louisiana State University Medical School reported the treatment had brought about a large decrease in the death-rate in a series of 800 pneumonia patients. Had it been used only on selected types of cases, he added, "I feel sure that it would have been possible to save the lives of 100 per cent. of them."

The new chemical is called "deutero-proteose" and is made from fibrin, a white protein obtained from the blood of freshly killed oxen. A small amount injected into the blood stream of a pneumonia patient in the early stages of the disease causes a quick decime of fever and repeated injections over a period of several days have produced quick and complete recoveries, Dr. Brooks said.

Even in advanced stages of pneumonia in elderly persons—the most difficult cases to treat—marked success has resulted, he added. The chemical also has proved beneficial in treating influenza.

At present, the Louisiana University scientist explained, pneumonia ranks among the leading causes of death in the United States.

The Hanna is in no immediate danger, officials reported. Water ballast was taken on to keep the vessel from pounding.

Young Cowboy 'Saves' London Ice Carnival With His Antics

LONDON, Nov. 30 — (CP) — A youthful son of Calgary put the sparkle in London's latest ice extravaganza—"Marina"—at the Empress Stadium.

He is 23-year-old Eric Wait, whose comic capers on skates brought him praise from critics and applause from the Queen, who witnessed the opening performance.

London newspapers credited him with saving the show from the category of "just like any other ice spectacles."

Wait appeared as a cowboy, an inebriate in evening dress and a be-bustled lady of the 90's. And the big ice palace rocked with laughter.

He told reporters afterward he had about four years in professional ranks.

Humorist Rocks House Suggesting "Holidays With Pay By The Sea"

LONDON, Nov. 30—(AP)—Humorist A. P. Herbert plunged the House of Commons into gales of laughter yesterday in an attack on the government's "Nosey Parker" bill—designed to find out why Great Britain is not producing more babies.

Mr. Herbert recommended "holidays with pay by the sea" as a remedy.

Other members joined the humorist in ridiculing Sir Kingsley Wood's population statistics bill which the opposition labelled "an insult to the nation's women."

The measure reportedly would give the government broad liberties in prying into family confidences.

"I am a grandfather," Herbert said. "I think I have ceased to breed. But no one is going to ask me that until I die."

Herbert also recited one of his own compositions, two lines of which were:

"The babies studied musketry while mother filled a shell.
"And everybody wondered why the population fell."

Children Lend Aid In 'Sit-Down'

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—(AP)—Nine children, the youngest only two years old, and 67 men and women occupied the offices of the city department of public welfare to-day in a "sit-down" protest against "maladministration and red tape."

The strikers, fortified by blankets and food, entered the building yesterday and remained throughout the night. They said they planned to stay "as long as may be necessary."

The demonstration was organized by the Workers' Alliance, an association of relief clients and works progress administration workers. The alliance charged the non-settlement division of the Welfare Department had forced "mass hunger" by seeking to economize in relief grants.

Murder Suspect Admits Laying Of "Curse."

Put It On Husband Of Woman He Wed In Revenge For One On Him

ST. METHODE, Que., Nov. 30 (CP). —Records of a coroner's jury in this farming village were inscribed today with recital of a strange "curse" that preceded Vilmont Brochu's sudden death.

While police held the dead man's widow and her new husband, they probed further into the "curse" story told by Achille Grondin, whom she married 40 days after her husband died. Criminal responsibility was alleged against both in yesterday's verdict at the inquest.

From Grondin, a farmer, the jury heard yesterday that he and Brochu's wife had placed a curse on Brochu before he died. Though denying he had supplied the woman with arsenic, Grondin said he had cast an incantation on the taxi-driver at the woman's request and had even got another man to join in the curse to give it greater potency.

It was in retaliation, he testified, "for a curse Brochu had put on the lover of his wife." And he told Coroner Viateur Boldic that he had said to the woman: "Marie Louise, if the good God takes Vilmont, we'll get married."

Another Man Involved.

Third person associated in the curse, the newlywed husband recounted, was Adolphe Gilbert, freed at the end of the inquest, after being

KING OFF FOR REST MUM ON SUBJECT OF HEPBURN VISIT

OTTAWA, Nov. 30—(CP)—His going made happier by news of a Liberal victory in the Victoria by-election, Prime Minister Mackenzie King was away today on a fortnight's holiday in the south, hoping for a period of rest and relaxation under sunny skies.

Before his departure last night the Prime Minister said he would not engage in discussions with any person on government business. He had no expectation of seeing President Roosevelt, also vacationing in Florida and assured a questioner his visit to the United States had no national or international significance. Before going aboard the train the Prime Minister was advised of the success of R. W. Mayhew, Liberal, in the Victoria by-election. He said the policies and record of the government had been given a "most emphatic endorsation," and the result proved "in our country the days of economic nationalism and economic imperialism are past."

Referring to Conservative Leader Bennett's part in the last days of the campaign the Prime Minister said result of the voting proved "Canada believes in an expansion of international trade as a more certain path to prosperity and peace."

Nothing On Hepburn Visit.

The Prime Minister would not comment on yesterday's mysterious and secret visit of Premier Hepburn of Ontario who quietly called on Mr. Mackenzie King just prior to a hastily-called Cabinet Council.

Press Fears States Has Lost Lead In World Affairs

New York Times Sees Example In Flop Of Brussels Peace Parley

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 (C.P.). — The New York Times, in an editorial to-day said the United States has lost its leadership in world affairs and called for co-operation between Britons and Americans to further the cause of peace.

"The United States has lost its leadership in world affairs and to that fact largely can be attributed the impotence of the Nine-Power Treaty conference in Brussels," the paper said. "The reason for this loss of influence is plain: Treaty-breaking governments and dictators have become convinced that for no cause short of actual invasion will the United States initiate or join in any effective movement to assure world peace."

"On the pretext that a world alliance against Communism, is the first essential to peace, Japan, Germany and Italy have signed a treaty. Outwardly it pledges these governments to stand with force against the encroachment of Soviet teachings and the Soviet form of government.

"But in some European chancelleries and in Washington the pact is interpreted as a pledge, necessarily not stated in the treaty, that each of these three nations will stand by the two others, defensive-

True Bill Given, Dresden Murder

WALKERTON, Ont., Nov. 30.—(CP)—A true bill was returned today against Walter Turner of Dresden, Ont., who will stand trial here for the murder of his wife, Evelyn.

The grand jury's true bill paved the way for the trial proper before Mr. Justice J. C. Makins and a jury. Turner, arrested in February after he had discovered the body of his wife in a woodpile at their home near Chatham, was brought here from Chatham to stand trial.

Successful application for change of venue was made by Goldie Elgie, K.C., of Toronto, defence counsel.

It was expected hearing of evidence would start today.

INDIAN KILLS TRIO THEN SHOOTS SELF

PELLY, Sask., Nov. 30—(CP). — Eastern Saskatchewan's second quadruple killing in 16 days was described by Royal Canadian Mounted Police to-day as murder and suicide.

George Severight, 35-year-old Cote Reserve Indian, died yesterday from a bullet wound after his mother-in-law, Mrs. George Caldwell, 40; his wife, Edith, 23; and his 18-months-old son, Gerald, were killed with an axe at their farm in this district, 200 miles east of Saskatoon.

Caldwell, the father-in-law, told police Severight rode on horseback to the Caldwell home nearby and swung an axe at him, but he was able to chase the younger man away.

Police said Severight rode three miles to his father's home, kissed his parents goodbye then shot himself twice. Severight was stated to have divorced his first wife in Yorkton, Sask., two years ago.

An inquest was ordered by Coroner Dr. W. E. Mallow and adjourned indefinitely after a jury viewed the bodies.

Prince Albert, Sask, Nov. 30.

WITHOUT regaining consciousness, Mrs. Walter Burd died today from head injuries received in an automobile accident last Friday. Mrs. Burd was wife of the bishop of the Anglican diocese of Saskatchewan.

Bishop Burd was in a nearby ward when his wife died. He was injured in the accident but not critically.

Captured Burglar's Threat To Shoot Fails To Shake Wrathy Citizens

Brantford, Nov. 30

EIGHTEEN - YEAR - OLD Roy McGinley was in jail here to-day on a charge of breaking and entering after being held for arrest by Kenneth Wilson who allegedly braved an order to "stand back or I'll shoot" to capture the youth.

Wilson chased McGinley after a person ran from the side door of his home as he and his family returned last night from a visit with friends.

A block and a half away, McGinley stopped, out of breath, and, according to Wilson, warned his pursuer to stand back or he would shoot. Wilson did not stop. He grabbed the youth—and found he was not armed.

TWO PLANES DAILY TORONTO TO COAST IS HOWE'S VISION

TORONTO, Nov. 30 (CP)—A vision of airplanes winging their way each day across the Dominion from Toronto and Montreal to Vancouver is in the mind of Transport Minister C. D. Howe as he directs the establishment of trans-Canada airlines.

He said last night in an address to the young men's group of the Toronto Board of Trade he believed both centres would provide sufficient passengers, mail and freight to keep at least two transcontinental planes setting out for the west daily.

"Anyone who has witnessed the growth of air transportation in the United States must have an optimistic view of the situation here," he said. He foresaw the possibility there would be separate daily services between Montreal and Vancouver, Toronto and Vancouver, and Montreal and Toronto.

The new service, which would begin operating not later than next July 1, would stimulate business in Canada, he believed, and draw the country's scattered population more closely together.

In his address, he outlined the preliminary steps being undertaken to launch what he termed the greatest air transportation project underway in the world at the present time.

Over a 3,500-mile route airports were being built not less than 100 miles apart. Pilots were being trained and national meteorological service increased. Planes were being built, radio beams and services established, and courses marked carefully.

NANKING BEGINS FORTIFYING GATES

NANKING, Nov. 30—(AP).—Eight of Nanking's city wall gates were closed to-night in elaborate Chinese preparations to meet advancing Japanese.

Soldiers built sandbag barricades and barbed wire entanglements at the other four gates. A telephone communication system was set up to link defence positions commanding land and river approaches to the city.

Directed by army officers, 1,000 Chinese civilians reinforced existing gun emplacements, concrete pillboxes and dugouts with a trench network extending 30 miles from the city in seven semi-circular rings ending at the Yangtze River, which bounds Nanking on two sides.

Refugees continued to stream from the city. Seventy-two foreigners remained.

The apparent determination of Chinese to resist threatened to turn the Nanking metropolitan area into a battleground.

VICTORIA TORIES LOSE TO LIBERAL

VICTORIA, Nov. 30.—(CP) — The Conservative party's 31-year tenure in the Victoria Federal constituency was broken to-day with R. W. Mayhew the first Liberal leader elected to the House of Commons from the riding since 1908.

Mr. Mayhew, who campaigned as a "business man" candidate, had a 1,760 vote margin over Bruce McKelvie, Conservative, and an additional margin of 1,100 over Prof. J. King Gordon of Montreal, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, with 138 of 143 polls counted.

The returns gave Mayhew 9,117, McKelvie 7,373 and Gordon 6,277. The by-election was necessitated by death of Hon. S. F. Tolmie, Conservative, and it left the House of Commons standing: Liberals 178; Conservatives 39; Social Credit 17; C.C.F. seven; Independent one; Reconstruction one; United Farmers of Ontario one; vacant one; total 245.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King, in a statement from Ottawa, said he saw in the victory a "most emphatic endorsation of the policies of the Liberal administration."

OMAHA, Neb. Nov. 30 (AP)—Rev. E. M. Kendall, pastor of an Omaha Methodist church, wants a national "grumble day."

In a telegram sent to President Roosevelt, Mr. Kendall said in part "We need one day to use our fists, yell ourselves hoarse and shed all our tears. Believing that the average American stresses his personal grievances more than his blessings, we suggest you set aside one day a year as 'grumble day'."

CROSLEY'S DEATH GOES UNSOLVED NO CAUSE FOUND

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 30.—(CP).—Chester Crosley, 35-year-old convicted murderer and habitual criminal who boasted "I will be there with bells on" when death came, died in a jail cell last Nov. 2 of asphyxiation, the causes of which were unknown, in the opinion of a coroner's jury.

The jury returned the open verdict after half-an-hour's deliberation at an inquest here last night into the mysterious death of the Negro convict. Found dead on his cell cot on the morning of Nov. 2, Crosley was to have been hanged next Monday for the murder of John McCormick, guard in Kingston penitentiary where Crosley was serving a life sentence.

Prof. Joslyn Rogers, University of Toronto pathologist who examined Crosley's vital organs, testified there was no evidence on which he could determine the cause of death. Earlier, Mr. Miller, pathologist, Queen's University, had said: "As far as I could determine, I could find nothing to indicate how Crosley came to his death."

Various Theories.

In the opinion of Dr. Thomas Gibson, Queen's pharmacologist, drugs had caused de-oxygenizing of blood in the prisoner, although the heart action continued. He testified that he felt death likely was due to a form of suffocation, produced by drugs.

For several days before he died Crosley had been given small quantities of morphia and bromidia. Dr. Roge and Dr. Rogers and Dr. Miller said they did not consider the amount given excessive. Dr. Gavin Blenkinsop, acting rail physician, administered the drugs to Crosley and on the stand said he did not believe the drugs caused death.

"The people of the United States are set against military expeditions and rightly so.

Still Measures Open

"But there are effective peace measures, the most recent illustration being the decision of the British and American governments to negotiate a trade treaty. This should be supplemented by every possible kind of private and public cooperation between Britons and Americans and others who speak, if not the same language, at least the same spiritual tongue. Understandings on trade, money and credit will serve as certain weapons against treaty-breakers.

"Our statesmen and leaders of public thought could aid peace mightily if, losing fear of the blind groups and gaining confidence that plain common sense and self-interest can be trusted, they engaged in public exchanges to put the enemies of peace on notice that the great democracies are aware of what is planned and will stand together against it.

"In the face of such exchanges of thought the policy of democratic nations will be stiffened and grooved; and treaty-breakers and dictators will take prudent counsel among themselves.

"In such a manner can this nation restore a will for peace in the world and re-established its lost leadership in international affairs. By such means the ravishers of small or weak neighbors and the enemies of democracy will discover that the United States has not become so timorous and so stupid as to abandon its responsibilities and imperil its greatness and freedom."

TORONTO, November 30—(CP)—Western oils set the pace on the Toronto Exchange to-day, nearly the whole list selling higher on good volume and holding the bulk of the gains till the close. Mining shares in both gold and base metal divisions spotted about as many losses as agains, while industrials held narrowly to the up side. Volume was comparatively heavy around 700,000 shares.

SALESMANSHIP IS IMPORTANT FACTOR SAYS G. F. DAVIES

That mankind must learn to adapt itself to changing human values and that in bringing about this adaptation salesmanship is an important factor was the argument advanced by G. Fay Davies, superintendent of agencies for the National Life Insurance Company, in addressing a joint luncheon of Rotarians, Kiwanians and Life Underwriters at the Empress Hotel on Monday on the subject "Human Nature in Business". There was a large attendance from all three organizations and Mr. Davies' eloquent address was listened to with close attention.

President A. D. Runions of the Rotary club was in the chair and welcomed the members of Kiwanis and the Life Underwriters, stressing the co-operation shown by Kiwanis in cancelling their meeting this week to make the joint gathering possible.

He then turned the meeting over to President Al Sharpe who referred to the loss sustained by the community in the death of Mrs. E. F. Mason and to the sudden passing of a former Kiwanian James Doran.

Rotarian H. L. Garner called attention to the drive that was being made by the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Concert Association and outlined the programs for the series of three concerts to be given during the winter. He urged support for the movement.

W. C. McCreery, vice-president of the Peterborough Life Underwriters Association took charge of the program at this stage and called on Clifford Hall for a solo. Mr. Hall who is president of the Underwriters responded with the spiritual "I Got Some Shoes" which was splendidly sung.

Rotarian E. L. Sackville introduced the speaker. Mr. Davies began by pointing out that humanity was most illogical inasmuch as material things had been mastered by research and study while the immaterial things that were all important had been left unmastered. Although great progress had been made in the direction of learning the material side of life people were fearfully and woefully weak in their ability to handle human relationships. It was a changing world, he pointed out; the old community and family life as it existed a generation or two ago was gone and it was necessary for people to learn to adapt themselves to the altered conditions.

Salesmanship Needed

In accomplishing such an adaptation Mr. Davies said salesmanship played a very important part. It required salesmanship he said to bring about the introduction of many of the improvements that we now take for granted, for human nature he said was very slow to discard the old methods and adopt new ones.

Then the speaker passed on to discuss something of the technique of salesmanship pointing out in particular the importance of one's manner as an influencing fact. In the way that a person spoke, the things he said, and the tonal quality he used, and in the way that he carried himself much depended and Mr Davies stressed the desirability of a bearing that enabled a person to make friends readily and to impress others with the fact that he was interested in their welfare.

In conclusion he dwelt for a minute or two upon the part played by life insurance in adjusting human relations. It was a huge business, he said, and had become so because it met a need.

E. Vernon Morphet of the Kiwanis Club expressed the thanks of the gathering to Mr. Davies for his address.

Before the meeting adjourned Rotarian Fred Roy expressed the sorrow of Rotarians at the death of Mrs. Barns, wife of a former member of the Rotary Club.

The community singing which opened the program was in charge of Rotarian John Smith with George Nicholls at the piano.

J. L. Cohen, attorney for the National Textile Council, who was one of the central figures at the first sitting of the Board here, was not present. He was stated by Mr. Welch to have been detained in Kitchener on other business.

The vacancy on the Board caused by the death of Fred Bancroft, Labor representative, had not been filled when the Board met here.

Among those present at the hearing was A. G. Heales, representing the Woollen Knit Goods Manufacturers' Association.

Following the luncheon adjournment, officials of the Bonner-Worth and Auburn Mills presented a tentative list of classifications of its various employees to assist the Board in setting a minimum wage scale for the textile industry in Ontario.

In adjourning the proceedings, Mr. Young thanked all concerned for their co-operation and intimated there would be a further meeting between representatives of employers and employees before a minimum wage order could be made by the Board.

Tannery Hastings' Big Industry Firm Is 80 Years Old

First Plant In Village Was Established By Isaac Toms Sixty Years Ago

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Nov. 30.—The Breithaupt Leather Co., of Kitchener, operators of large sole leather tanneries in Kitchener, Penetang and Hastings, is this year, 1937, celebrating its eightieth birthday, having been founded in 1857.

It's ownership and management have passed down through three succeeding generations and by a strange coincidence, the head of the company, in each of the three generations was named Louis Breithaupt. Each of the the three men in turn served his home city as mayor.

The three generations "habit" is not confined to principals of the business only. It applies equally to the tannery employees, both in Hastings and Kitchener. Many employees of both tanneries, now engaged, are of the third generation.

Mr. Louis O. Breithaupt, as already stated, an ex-mayor of Kitchener, is the genial president and general manager. He is also present president of the Kitchener board of trade, well and favorably known amongst the townsmen of Hastings, with whom he enjoys a liberal measure of good fellowship, in work or play. The superintendent of all the company's tanneries is N. M. McCullough, also well and favorably known here. Frank Daly is the popular superintendent of the Hastings plant.

An Old Industry

The manufacture of leather is, and for many years has been, the leading industry in Hastings. Sixty years ago or more, Isaac Toms operated the first tannery in this village, which was then located on the property where Gilbert Herrington now resides. It was on a small scale, however, and the chief manufacture was then sole leathers with some harness leather.

In 1879, fifty-eight years ago, John Welch and John Quigley, erected the frame tannery on the location where the present concrete structure stands. About forty men were employed at that time.

Early in 1909 the interests of the Welch Tanning Co., were purchased by the principals of the Breithaupt Leather Co., Limited, of Kitchener, Ont., and the name changed to Hastings Tanning Co., Limited.

Operations were continued as formerly in harness and upper leather until approximately the year 1915, when, yielding to the demand for larger supplies of sole leather for overseas and other requirements, the production of harness and upper leather gradually tapered off and ultimately were discontinued. Operations of the plant were then confined exclusively to sole leather for which the parent company in Kitchener had over a long period of years been justly famous.

Destroyed By Fire

Unfortunately for the town of Hastings and the Company, a disastrous fire swept the whole plant on October 23rd, 1917. This calamity wouldhave proved the undoing of many less courageous operators than the Breithaupts. They, however, had interited a grim determination and ability to face and overcome adversities. On the urgent solicitation of the Hastings town council, former employees and the citizens, it was finally decided to rebuild the tannery in a larger and more substantial way than previously. A splendid plant of concrete construction today stands as a monument to that aggressiveness and determination.

In spite of the ebb and flow of business tides generally through depression periods, tariff changes and other conditions which would otherwise tend to react adversely, Hastings has been very fortunate in having the tannery, operating, perhaps, more consistently winter and summer, than any plant of its kind in all of Canada. There has fortunately, as a consequence, been very little, if any, relief payments necessary by the municipality itself, which is an enviable record both for the town and the Company.

As a matter of expediency the old Hastings Tanning Co. Limited, was in 1934 absorbed by the parent company. The Breithaupt Leather Co. Limited, of Kitchener, of which it had been a fully owned subsidiary for a number of years. The plant is now known as the Hastings Division of The Breithaupt Leather Co. Limited

Recovery Move Puts Leaders Up

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 (AP). — Climbing on low speed, the stock market engineered a recovery move today that put many leaders up 3 points and a few much more.

Although buying was so quiet the ticker tape loafed much of the time, sellers were timid and quotations were around top levels near the final hour. Transfers were at the rate of about 1,200,000 shares.

rate charged by the C.N.R. in Ontario was 3.45 cents a mile.

Approximately the same rate was charged by the Canadian Pacific Railway, J. C. Clendenning, C.P.R. tariff chief, said.

J. A. Argo, head of the Freight Division of the C.N.R. Tariff Bureau, said that with improvement in highways and advent of the motor truck as a common carrier, rail carriers' normal rates were in many cases not low enough to retain traffic to the rail lines.

"The only science that actually exists in the making of railway freight rates is that which will move commerce from one place to another at a charge which will pay to the railway company its operating expenses and make a reasonable return on the investment," he said.

"Under the law of supply and demand, commerce is foot-loose and changes with the wind, so that freight rates are, at all times, subjected to the influences which actually, or tend to, affect fluctuations in the trend of commerce."

PROBE IS PROPOSED

Sir Kingsley Wood, minister of health, argued that his bill would not attempt more than the regular 1941 census would reveal, but said the matter was "too urgent" to await the census.

He said the population decline, if continued, would reduce Britain's 44,000,000 population to 8,000,000 in 100 years.

The House advanced the bill through second reading by a vote of 197 to 125 over the opposition which called it the "Nosey Parker" bill.

Opponents said the meaning of the nickname would be clear when housewives started slamming doors in the face of such census agents.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Wheat future averaged lower on Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day in sympathy with outside markets. Despite a rally that substituted one-cent losses with gains, values closed 2% to ¾ lower. November at $1.10¼, December $1.10⅝, May $1.09⅝ to ¾, and July $1.05⅝ to ¾.

Trade throughout was listless and irregular with most of the large wheat buyers on the sidelines. Export demand for Canadian wheat was virtually absent.

Volume of trade was small due to unwillingness of southern and eastern firms to make commitments. Weak overseas prices also were a factor, but the light buying or selling swung prices within a two cent range on both sides of the previous close.

The Ever-Bright
And Sunshine Clubs.

The Ever Bright and Sunshine Clubs met as usual in the Y.W.C.A. on Saturday afternoon.

Under the direction of Miss Sherlin, the Sunshine Club was very busy "making Christmas presents for mother," so it must not be mentioned what they were. Twenty-five little girls were very busy with bits of colored material, though this was not a good attendance as one hundred has been reached on some days.

In another room the Ever Bright Club was using crayons on pictures of ducks, elephants and teddy bears, cheerfully making them the most extraordinary colors. Mrs. E. L. Toy was in charge.

The program of the Clubs is as follows: From two to three there are games in the gym, under the direction of the Misses Hazel Bradley and Jessie Pattison. Then from three to four there is a program of either cooking, sewing, stories, dramatics, games, or sing-song. It was learned that the fee to join the Clubs is just two cents a Saturday, or fifty cents a year, which is very often donated, and includes all materials used. The attendance was not as large as usual, and yet thirty-five children were happily occupied for most of the afternoon.

Prince of Wales
H. and S. Association.

The regular meeting of Prince of Wales' Home and School Association was held Monday evening in the kindergarten room with a good attendance of fathers, mothers, teachers, members and friends. The banner for the month went to T. Allen's class for the largest turnout of parents.

The president, Mrs. H. Darling, was in the chair, and presided over a most successful business and social evening.

O. S. Wendorf of Toronto was guest speaker, and gave a splendid address under the heading, "Canadian Art", in which the lives and work of a number of Canadian artists were described. A delightful exhibit of paintings was brought by Mr. Wendorf to illustrate his lecture, and were left on display after the meeting closed.

The business meeting included various reports, read, passed and adopted, presented by the secretary, Mrs. F. J. Frape, and the treasurer, Mrs. W. Casey. Mrs. Casey gave an interesting account of the "Study Group" meetings that have been held in the Y.W.C.A., the subjects being, "Aims and Ideals", "Proper Conduct of Meetings" and "Duties of Officers". The next will be held on December 3, a large attendance of members of the Associations is hoped for.

A delightful musical program included piano and harmonica selections by K. McCannan, G. Nicholls and B. Arnott, with several encores insisted on by the audience; a piano trio by Doreen Naples, Yvonne Naples and Audrey Lacey; and community singing, led by K. McCannan, which included old and new songs.

Brackenridge-Rowland.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 30. — Blessed with a beautiful warm day, the Brackenridge-Rowland nuptials were solemnized in St. Andrew's United Church, Millbrook. Rev. A. L. Sisco performed the ceremony, uniting Sadie Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Rowland, of Millbrook, to Norman James Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Brackenridge, of second concession, Cavan.

The bride, who was given away by her father, looked lovely in a white satin gown made on long lines, with a dainty little long-sleeved bolero jacket and finger-tip veil; she carried Johanna Hill roses. Her attendant, a sister, Miss Anna Rowland, was prettily attired in brown crepe made on long lines set off by tiny gold buttons and matching accessories; she carried bronze 'mums.

While the happy young couple signed the register, Miss Estella Hetherington played appropriate organ music. The altar was tastefully decorated with mauve and yellow 'mums.

Ushers for the occasion were Johnston Rowland and brother of the bride, and Ernest Brackenridge, brother of the groom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, for over fifty of their relatives from Westwood, Peterborough, Detroit, Toronto, Manvers, Cartwright, Cavan and South Monaghan.

The guests were received in the living room by the bridal party assisted by Mrs. Rowland, the bride's mother, attired in burgundy crepe with matching accessories, and the groom's mother, Mrs. Brackenridge, who wore navy crepe. Both were adorned by lovely corsages, the gift of the groom.

For travelling, Mrs. Brackenridge wore navy crepe with hat, shoes, hose, gloves and purse in matching tones topped by a grey-blue coat, trimmed with grey fur.

On their return, the young couple will reside on the groom's farm, second concession, Cavan, known as "Blink Bonnie."

Mrs. J. Pickering had charge of tickets that were sold on a very lovely lace tablecloth. The cloth was later won by Miss Elliotson of Stewart street, on a draw made by Mrs. N. Stanger. The euchre prizes were won by, 1st, Ladies', Mrs. Dave Manley, Mrs. Turnbull and Mrs. Rathbone; men's, Mrs. George Foster and Mrs. George Sexsmith, (playing as men). Consolation awards went to Mrs. Stanley and Mrs. Aulson. The door prize, a beautiful satin cushion, was won by ticket number 305.

The Rev. G. S. Easton Speaks In Cambray Church.

The Rev. G. S. Easton of Trinity United Church was the special speaker in the new Cambray United Church on Monday evening. The occasion was a concert and lecture in connection with the opening services of the new church.

Less than six months after the destruction by fire of the former church, a beautiful, modern structure, with seating capacity for over three hundred, and a splendid Sunday School room in the basement, has been erected in its place.

The opening services took place a week ago last Sunday, November 21, when the special preacher was the Rev. Dr. W. H. Sedgwick of Westminster Central Church, Toronto. On Monday, November 22, a fowl supper was served to over twelve hundred people. On Sunday last the message was brought by the Rev. J. F. Maxwell of Glebe United Church, Toronto. The Rev. Mr. Maxwell is the father of the pastor of Cambray United Church, the Rev. G. S. Maxwell. On Sunday next a special service will open and dedicate the Sunday School. It had been hoped that the Rev. Dr. George Little would have been present for the occasion, but injuries received in a motor accident prevented him from attending.

W. F. Riches of Cambray was chairman for last evening's concert, talent for which was supplied by the choir of Queen Street United Church, Lindsay. The Rev. Mr. Easton, in his lecture, spoke particularly of the function of the church in producing Christian characters, showing how worthy is the Christian goal of life.

Social Gathering For Anniversary

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Nov. 30.—A pleasant social gathering attended by over fifty guests took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Beamish on Friday last on the occasion of their fourteenth anniversary.

Mr. Beamish is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Beamish of Hastings who, with his wife, a former western girl were successful farmers in Willowbunch, Saskatchewan. On account of eight years of drought they disposed of their stock and came east. They are now residing on the Clark farm but intend taking up farming in the Fleming neighborhood in March. Since coming back to Ontario, Mr. Beamish and his wife and three children, Wilma, Clifford and Charles have made many friends.

A most enjoyable time was spent in cards and dancing with music furnished by Messrs. Donald, James and Arthur Beamish and Richard Williamson. A luncheon was served by the ladies of the neighborhood.

The December and Christmas meeting of the Hastings branch of the Women's Institute will be held on Tuesday, December 7th, at the home of Mrs. C. M. Baker, Front street. The program by the standing committee will be "Peace and International Relationship." The roll call, a verse containing the word "Peace" or "Christmas"; the topic, "Peace on Earth; Goodwill to Men," by Mrs. Grant Sine; a report, "Highlights of the Belleville Area Convention," by Mrs. J. A. MacDonald; lesson, "Textile Fibres and Their Characteristics, Daily Care of Garments," by Mrs. C. M. Baker. The members are asked to kindly bring their gifts for the Christmas cheer committee.

Romance Rumored Near for Montague

Wedding bells are already tinkling in the offing for John "Mysterious" Montague, friend of business leaders, screen stars and such, according to his acquaintances, with Mrs. Esther Plunkett, Beverly Hills, Calif., socialite as the bride-to-be. Anyway here he is getting an enthusiastic reception from Mrs. Plunkett on his return from the east, where he was acquitted of charges of armed robbery said to have taken place seven years ago. Smilin' Jawn wouldn't comment on the humor, or on the story that he's signed up for film work.

PYRAMIDING MISTAKES

IT IS amazing to see how pretty player sometimes will pyramid one mistake on top of another. One of them may come, for instance, by discarding on the opening trick a card which later might set up as a thirteener, instead of one which cannot possibly be of value. Then on a later trick, at the lead of a singleton from dummy toward a guarded king, the declarer may neglect to read that the failure of the first defender to put on the ace makes it perfectly clear that he does not hold it.

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

Five diamonds constituted the final contract reached at all tables on this deal in a duplicate tournament. Some were set, some made five and at one table six was made.

The successful declarer, instead of discarding a spade on the club A, when the club K was led, discarded a heart, and when he led his singleton heart from dummy and East did not cover with the A, refused to put up his king. On the second round of hearts, later in the play, he used his K to discard the spade 10 and ruffed one round of spades, setting up a thirteener. Played in this way, he lost one trick to the heart A.

Where the heart K was played on the second trick, West led his diamond 2, and declarer then needed his three diamonds in dummy to ruff losing hearts.

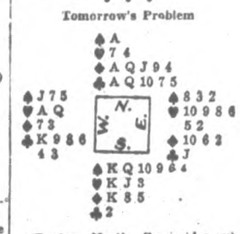
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

What is the best final contract on the North-South cards, North having opened with 1-Diamond?

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"When a man (or woman) has calamity upon calamity, the world generally concludes they must be very wicked to deserve them. But it is just possible the world, even with its years of gathered wisdom, may be wrong."

—A. Barr.

Dear Friends:

Have YOU never felt that your friends acted as if you were getting what you deserved when everything went wrong with you?

They were sympathetic in a way, but they took a sort of superior attitude with you as if these things could never happen to them, and as if you must have done something for all these things to come on you.

When anyone takes that tone with me, I feel as if I could wring their neck, and I think a dose of what I am going through might take the high and mighty tone from their voice.

No one knows when calamity will overtake them. We go along doing what we can, trying our best, being thankful, and out of a clear sky along marches trouble.

While we are coping with the first one, along comes a few others to keep the first one company. We are bewildered, our hearts ache, and so we tell these troubles to someone and find them practically telling us, "you must have done something to deserve all this else it would not have happened to you. Maybe if you acted as I do, these things would not come."

And so you get it coming and going. You not only have to bear these things, but you have to shoulder the blame for them happening.

After awhile you learn who to tell your troubles to, and who to keep things from. Candidly, I shall never understand why some people assume that they are so good that troubles will give them a wide birth.

Why some get so much while others get so little is also a mystery, like one fellow getting so much money while the other gets barely enough to make ends meet.

The man who has never been hungry cannot know what real hunger is, for it is alright to have an appetite with a good meal waiting you, but it is altogether different when there is no food.

And if you never had a toothache, or a sore back, if all your life you have been healthy, how in the world can you understand what the other fellow is suffering who hasn't got your health?

If life has been easy and cushioned for you, how can you ever understand the strain of bucking everything that some must go through?

So, don't scoff nor take the "holier than thou" attitude when you see someone with a run of bad luck. It may be your turn tomorrow.

And the very one you have condemned as being to blame for all that has happened to them may be the very one to show you a way out of your troubles.

How could I help as many as I do had trouble not come and camped on my doorstep so often? How could I tell them what course to follow, had I not been forced to follow it myself?

If you had it easy all the time, how are your brains to get excercised? Figure it out and give a helping hand instead of standing off and patting yourself on the back.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

Bridal Couple Guests at Shower

BRIDGENORTH, Nov. 30. — The Foresters' Hall on Friday evening was the scene of a very enjoyable event, when over one hundred friends and neighbors gathered for a community shower in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John Smith of Peterborough, whose wedding took place on Saturday, October 30. Mrs. Smith was formerly Miss Madge Jopling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Jopling of the village. The hall was beautifully decorated in pink and white. The shower, which was miscellaneous, included a large number of lovely gifts, comprised of silver, cut glass, linens, etc.

Following a program, Mr. and Mrs. Smith were invited to the platform on which were placed chairs, over which was suspended a large white bell with pink and white streamers. After taking their places, the crowd sang, 'For they are jolly good fellows.' Earl Nicholls then read an address, and Master Bobby Hardhill, nephew of the bride, and Patricia McLachlan carried in a large basket decorated in pink and white, filled with gifts, placing it at the feet of the bride and groom. Patsy then addressed the bride, with a few lines on showers. After the presentation of gifts by the chairman, Fred Jopling, the bride, in a charming manner, thanked the people for their kind remembrance to her. The groom expressed his appreciation in a few well-chosen remarks.

The program for the evening was as follows: Community singing, led by Mr. and Mrs. C. Telford and Mr. and Mrs. T. Siedel; chairman's address, F. Jopling; guitar instrumental, Carl and Earl Blewett; reading, Patricia McLachlan; violin solo, T. Siedel; solo, Earl Blewett; mock wedding, by a group of girls; quartette: Mr. and Mrs. T. Siedel and Mr. and Mrs. C. Telford; reading, James Jopling; solo, Earl Blewett.

At the conclusion of the program Mr. and Mrs. Carl Blewett and Mr. and Mrs. S. Kilben, committee on arrangements, served lunch, after which dancing was indulged in until a late hour.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLLE

For Wednesday, December 1

Excellent prospects for solidifying the affairs and putting the fortunes on a firm foundation are presaged by this days's astral intervention. The breaking up of old stagnations should make way for decisive movement in investments, property values, labor and all old matters.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year in which there may be a definite stabilization of fortunes after a period of inertia and congestion. This may come about through industry, inheritance or insurance, investments or increased property values.

A child born on this day may be a profound thinker, a deep student and dependable worker. It may have a gentle, lovable and gracious nature. It should succeed in art or in business or industry.

Visual telephones are promised for England.

Do Your "Nerves" Keep You on Edge?

How different these sisters seem! Ruth, bright and full of fun, goes everywhere. Edna—nervous and touchy—mopes at home.

Actually, they're much alike. Both are more high-strung than most people. But Ruth expresses her unusual keenness in high spirits, while Edna lets hers turn to "nerves."

If Edna would learn from her sister! At a party, instead of worrying about making an impression, Ruth interests herself in the other guests. At meals she's calm, cheerful. She avoids the indigestion that tortures Edna, who brings her troubles to the table. Nor does Ruth let herself get tense, wound-up as Edna does. When she rests she relaxes from the toes up. She has no haggard, drawn look.

Understand your nerves to get the best of them. Our 32-page booklet explains nervous troubles, how to conquer them; have glowing health.

Not Wanted Here

At the recent meeting of Peterborough County Council there was a resolution passed which urged the preservation of our British institutions. There was a desire for peace and security, and those two words say a great deal, and undoubtedly expresses a condition which all our people desire above all else.

At best they are difficult words to properly interpret. Just as difficult as the word "British institutions." Our institutions and our chances for peace and security depend pretty much on the outlook of the people living in this country.

At first glance it may not seem to have much bearing on the case to note there was a stabbing affair on the streets of Sarnia the other evening. Two foreigners had apparently been paying attention to the same woman, and when these foreigners met on the street one drew a knife and proceeded to stab the other several times. The result is one is in the hospital and the other in jail.

We believe members of our County Council would agree there is some connection between that stabbing affair and their resolution regarding British institutions. The people who first settled the county of Lambton in which Sarnia is situated did not carry knives for the purpose of stabbing each other. We presume they may have had their own troubles, but if they could settle them no other way they would attend to the matter with their fists. We do not believe there should be any hesitation about deporting a man who draws a knife when he wants to fight. It is entirely foreign to British custom; it is not in any way linked up with what we call British institutions.

How Do They Keep Open?

There was quite an extensive raid carried on by provincial police at "Bill Beasley's luxurious roadhouse" a short distance from Toronto. It took place in the early hours of Sunday morning. A couple of lookout men were taken into camp first and with the sentries off duty the going was rather simple. One report says thousands of dollars' worth of expensive gambling equipment was taken; likewise a quantity of liquor which was being served to guests from the kitchen. Between 50 and 60 men and women, referred to as "members of Toronto's smart set," were lined up so they could give their names and addresses to the officers.

Such things happen now and then, and the wonder always is how these places manage to remain open so long. If the police were aware of the existence of this place late Saturday night it is very likely they have been aware of its existence for some time. The fact that there were outside men who were supposed to give warning of the approach of officers or unknown strangers is sufficient in itself to put the establishment out of bounds.

And when one reads that between fifty and sixty of the "smart set" of Toronto were there it must be taken for granted that they went feeling quite certain they would be safe. They knew how to get in and likely they were quite sure of safety from discovery after the door closed behind them. Why such places should not be spotted at once is something which is difficult to understand.

The Period Of Cracking Down

The chairman of the Ontario Liquor Control Board has announced the suspension of beer authorities in four hotels. Mr. O'Dette says inspectors are now engaged in checking up establishments throughout the province, and adds "We intend to crack down hard on all offenders."

Possibly where there are so many places with authorities to sell beer in the province it may be impossible to have inspectors enough to see that the law is being observed, but each time there is a new drive on for observance, and a new season of cracking down on offenders it means the Control Board has become aware of the fact that the law has not been observed. And we do not believe that period of non-observance starts at a certain date and terminates at any set time. And that of course prompts the reasonable question as to why places which are now losing their permits have been allowed to operate. And it also raises the rather pertinent question as to why beer authorities should have been issued to such individuals in the first place.

Ailsa Craig In The News

Now and then some of the lesser places in the country have opportunity to get their names in print, and it is well that such is the case. Reference is constantly made to the cities and the communities of lesser dimension go their way with all too little printer's ink assigned to them.

But Ailsa Craig received mention because Alex. Stewart, a farmer from that district, won first prize in oats at the International Grain and Hay Show at Chicago. And that is about the same as saying that Alex. Stewart of Ailsa Craig grew the best oats in the world.

And where is this place Ailsa Craig? We heard that question asked already by a gentleman who should have known better. It is in some way connected with Peterborough because it is on No. 7 Highway. Truth is the main street of Ailsa Craig in the top of Middlesex County is No. 7 as well as being the main street. Rev. G. S. Easton of Trinity United church in this city, can discourse upon Ailsa Craig with the certain enthusiasm of a native son and so can Rev. J. U. McIntosh of the Norwood Baptist Church. It is also correct we believe to say that Dr. Chas. M. Scott at one time taught school at Lieury, but a short distance from this famous place Ailsa Craig.

So all those who can claim connection with Ailsa Craig should proudly do so for a farmer from there has gone forth to demonstrate that he can grow the best oats in the world.

The Principal Idea

The results of the second recount following the provincial contest in the Bracondale riding of Toronto give the seat to Lionel Conacher, the Liberal Candidate. The first recount left Mr. Conacher with a majority of 37, but the second recount reduced that figure to 29.

When the first count took place it was found that some of the ballot papers had not been initialed by the deputy returning officers, and there were others where the number of the voter had been placed on the paper.

Certainly that was not the work of the voters themselves. It has always been found in recounts that apart from any deliberate attempt at fraud it is well to try and have the findings based upon the evident intention of the voter who marked the ballot. Those who examine them afterward cannot have that idea too firmly placed and kept before them.

What Is The Answer?

Young Liberals who were holding their annual meeting in Toronto had something to say about the manner in which rural mail couriers are paid. The feeling of the meeting was that the pay was not nearly sufficient for the amount and nature of the work.

Without seeking to debate or develop that point we believe it can be taken for granted that people in general feel the same way. But what is the answer? We know there has been a good deal of inquiry going on, but there does not appear to be yet a system devised which will work fairly on a mileage basis.

For this reason: There are two routes running out of the same centre and they are each of 20 miles. But one route is on pavement where the going is good and where the road is open all winter; the other is not a good road. Even in the summer it is hard enough going in places and during the winter season it is worse. It is the same mileage as the other, but it is harder work and more difficult and it takes longer.

Such questions are being raised, and if the men in the business can provide the answer and explanation they will have added something of value to the discussion.

When A Cow's Sick

The Examiner received in yesterday's mail a peculiar request, and it came from a man who wanted to know how to tell what was wrong with a cow when the critter was sick. We answered the letter advising that he should do a good deal of reading because there are some good books published, and also suggested that it was best to call in a veterinary surgeon rather than keep on wondering what was wrong with the animal.

Getting a veterinary surgeon is easier now than it used to be. It can be accomplished in so much less time due to the existence of the telephone, good roads and cars. On the Tenth Concession it used to take a good many hours. It would be necessary to drive to the village eight miles off and then try and find the veterinary. If he was out on another case then word could be left but it was generally a good many hours between the start and finish of the proceedings.

Generally some of the neighbors would come over when a cow was ailing. We can recall a cow that looked all right the night before. She seemed all set for the dark hours, and was chewing the cud just like a contented cow should do. By morning the cow wouldn't get up and she didn't want to eat and didn't want to be milked. A cow is different to a human being. She can't say anything for herself. Can't tell whether she has a sore throat or indigestion or something else coming on. May be colic, but the cow can't say so.

Grandfather was fairly good at doctoring cows, and at times he used to have great faith in half a pint of raw oil. Or it may have been an entire pint. He always wanted to know whether she had lost her cud and in that case he'd be inclined to try giving her a good piece of fat pork. Whether those remedies were good we do not really know, but the barn conference of grandfather and the neighbors always seemed strongly inclined to do something about it and then an effort was made to get the sick cow to a stall which was well boxed in and where there there would not be much draft. But it never did seem that any person knew exactly what to do, and we always had the notion that the hired man knew more than the rest. Possibly people know more today than they did then. We hope so. But one thing will be exactly the same today as it was on the Tenth Concession—the cow that is sick and can't get up can't give a person much assistance in trying to find out what's wrong with her.

Putting Up A Sign

Toronto has been trying to prevent people erecting tourist signs in what it terms its residential areas. A woman in Parkdale had such a sign erected on her premises and the city brought action against her. The magistrate hearing the case dismissed the charge, after which the city took the case to Appeal Court. Appeal court did the same as the magistrate, so the city has failed in its effort to keep tourist signs off tourist homes.

During Exhibition time in Toronto one can go along a good many streets in Parkdale and find signs telling that accommodation for Exhibition visitors is available, and it is difficult to see any difference between that and putting up a sign saying that tourists can be accommodated. If a person desires to sell his house or rent it he can place a sign on it or any number of signs.

Possibly the woman in Toronto who desired to take in tourists had good and sufficient reasons. She may have needed the revenue to pay her taxes to the city which in turn tried to keep her from putting up the sign.

BLAME

(By A. R. K.)

¶ John Dugal used to sit and plan, how he would be a wealthy man, of little else he thought; he figured how he'd buy and sell, and how his profit side would swell, he'd make an awful lot.

¶ Just saving dollars was too slow, his wealth would take too long to grow, he figured on a million; and when he had his million stake, it would not take him long to make, it grow into a billion.

¶ John Dugal made a fair good start, for he was brave in mind and heart, the shrewdest in the town; he never seemed to stop and think, when he saw others trip or sink, or neighbor men go down.

¶ If they went down it was their fault, and they were hardly worth their salt, John Dugal always knew; the only thing for his concern, was of the thousands he could earn, and thus his holdings grew.

¶ The weak man should go down he said; the stronger men should go ahead, and gather wealth or fame; if weaker men lost all they had, why then John said 'twas just too bad, they were themselves to blame.

¶ John Dugal hit the skids one day, and all his holdings slid away, and gone was all his wealth; and he's been blaming folk since then, he's blamed about two dozen men—but never blamed himself.

A TON OF soft coal, when burned with a limited amount of oxygen will produce about 120 pounds of tar. Tar in turn can be broken down into oils, the so-called "10 crudes" and, when further decomposed and combined with other chemicals the crudes become parents to other substances.

One of these, methyl methacrylate, is distinguished by the fact that it is transparent, plastic at comparatively low temperatures (about 160 degrees Fahrenheit) and can be molded, cut or stamped into almost any desired shape.

Recently in London the British Admiralty was considering the use of this plastic for the lenses of navy binoculars and range—finders. The promoter of the idea was Peter Maurice Koch de Gooreynd, Belgian — born and a naturalized Briton, who began experimenting five years ago with the methyl plastic and finally developed a rapid method to heat, mold and cool it without distortion. This year he began to threaten to turn the whole optical industry upside down.

The inventor claims for his plastic that it can be pressed into lenses accurate to a single 500,000th of an inch. He has already turned out $5 camera lenses which he says are as good as $50 glass ones and $3 opera glasses which he compares to $15 ones of the familiar type. With high accuracy methods developed, he predicts, some day he will be able to turn out 400 different types of spectacle lenses—enough to take care of 60 per cent. of all eye defects—at the rate of 1,500 an hour.

Since they would not be ground and polished to the correct curvature as do glass lenses, they would be so cheap that hospital would be able to give them to the poor for nothing.

Homing Pigeons.

IN TWELVE minutes carrier pigeons fly fourteen miles carrying pictures of incoming ocean travelers from ships to a New York newspaper which would not get the pictures until nearly two hours later if it waited for the ship to dock.

Knowing that there was a pigeon post at Bagdad Knights of the Crusades riding to the Holy Land took falcons to intercept the message—carrying home birds of the Saracens.

To obtain aerial photographs for military purposes Germans release in the neighborhood trained carrier pigeons equipped with small automatic cameras.

One queer thing about carrier pigeons is the fact that if their ears are stuffed they cannot fly. Another is that if carrier pigeons in flight encounter dense fog or smoke they descend and cease flying until the air becomes clear again.

Released in the vicinity of a transmitting radio station when it is operating homing pigeons fly in an uncertain course before they finally head homeward.

The All Important Comma.

WHILE THE subject of punctuation is sadly neglected in schools and colleges and seldom receives sufficient attention in business yet its importance is so great that contracts have been know to have been voided by the misplacing of even a comma. The power of a comma was strikingly shown 50 years ago when through the insertion of this punctuation mark in a wrong place in a tariff bill the United States government lost about two million dollars.

When the Czecho-Slovak parliament passed a measure allowing a tax moratorium to farmers in districts where there had been a bad harvest a full stop was printed where a comma had been intended. This made the Act apply to only one small district of Bohemia instead of the whole republic and there was nothing for it but to pass a new Act.

The New York Morning Telegram quotes as an example of what difference a wrongly used comma can make the following "The play end, happily."

He gave the residents there warning as tribesmen attacked every settlement in Virginia and killed 347 of the total white population of 1,240. The convert played an important part in American history for had Jamestown suffered the fate of the other settlements English colonization of the new world might have ended.

DROWNED OUT

Editor Examiner:

Sir: It is rather amusing in reading the reports of the county roads committee, no mention is made of the Smith township bog-hole, affair where some six hundred dollars was lost.

What was the reason? Were they afraid to let the taxpayers know where their money is wasted, or was it to shield some one? It is about time the taxpayers got their ear to the ground and inquired around a bit.

REGARDING SLOT MACHINES

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Could you spare me a bit of your valuable space to state my views on slot machines. The city a certain time ago in an effort to put these machines out of business put a $50 license on them. I admit it curbed them a lot, and put them down to a certain degree. But the last few months they have been springing up again; nearly every paper and soft drink stand has them now, showing that there is certainly a big profit on them. Every time you see one there is always about 7 or 8 youths about them, putting their nickles in them trying to win, not realizing that the machines are not there to lose to the players. The few times they do pay off is only a come-on to the players to play all the more. I live in the south-end coming home on week nights after 12 o'clock and on Saturday nights at 1 a.m., which is Sunday morning. I notice places where there is always a gang of youths around one of these machines. I thought these places are supposed to be closed at 12 o'clock Saturday.

The only way the city can stop these machines is to put such a large licence cost on them that the owners find it unprofitable to operate, or better still to forbid them altogether and seize them and destroy them, thus saving our young men from wasting their hard-earned money on them.

YOUTH OF 22.

Peterborough, Nov. 29.

HE DIFFERS

Editor Examiner:

Sir: There appeared in The Examiner of Thursday, Nov. 27th an article on the first page under the heading "Draper Upholds Union Heads Right to Enter Canada." In it he claims that "The Canadian membership of the International trade union movement receives more money in payments of old age pensions, sick, mortuary and other benefits than they remit to their international headquarters in the United States." I differ with him on this paragraph. I belong to an International union for 23 years, and have been sick once for three months on one stretch. Did I get any sick benefit? I should say not, nor are there any other benefits, as he mentioned in his article. The only thing we receive, is a colored stamp for our due book every month, and which changes its color every year. That's all we get.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the space in your valuable paper,

I remain yours truly,
UNION

Nov. 29.

THE LAY-OFF SYSTEM

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Since taking up residence in Peterborough I have been keenly interested in the editorials in your newspaper. Every sane thinking person realizes that the editorials of a paper reflect the character of the paper. Therefore may I be permitted to pass a few comments on the editorial of Nov. 26 dealing with the automobile industry and the lay-off season.

This question is one which organized labor has given deep thought to, and in certain industries have made great progress in illuminating this seasonal or periodical slowing down of production. We are not lacking in examples of what can be done along this line when co-operation is established between organized labor and employers in a given industry.

Knowing this, one might be excused for being perplexed at the attitude of certain employers who show such an antagonistic spirit when the workers of their plant attempt to organize in order that they may co-operate intelligently and effectively with the management in reaching a solution of the evils which develop in their industry, some of which you outlined in the editorial previously referred to. When this antagonistic spirit is removed, the benefits which accrue will be reflected in the contentment, happiness, and higher standard of living of the entire community.

Knowing the value of space in your paper I have purposely refrained from elaborating on the points mentioned. But also knowing the tremendous influence which your paper wields, I would be indebted to you if you find it possible to publish this letter which I hope will stimulate a city-wide discussion on the very important question raised in your editorial.

Yours very truly,
NORA M. ADAMS.

They Can't Force People To Be Godless

Number of Atheists in Russia Has Been Lessened; Stalin's Mother Deeply Religious to the Very End

(From the Literary Digest)

LATEST FIGURES of the Associated Press from Soviet Russia indicate that there are now only two million active fighting atheists, out of a population of 170 million. The two million are members of the League of the Militant Godless, headed by Yemelyan Yaroslavsky, the Russian 'Robert Ingersoll."

In the wild revolutionary and post-revolutionary days, this crusading organization flourished and spread far. But now Yaroslavsky is gravely perturbed, for his anti-church membership has shrunk from its former strength to five million. "School children even sing in church choirs in some places," he mourns.

So anti-religion, in Russia, like radical economic bolshevism, is waning. Though certainly not a religious man, Dictator Stalin was educated to be a priest, and his devoted old mother, who died not long ago, was deeply religious to the end of her days. Under the new and very theoretical Russian constitution, clergymen can vote and the Godless fear church influence in the coming December elections for the Russian Supreme Soviet, or parliament.

Historians point to the parallel of France. Prior to her revolution of 1789, Catholicism was the sole French state religion. After the revolution came Hebert's agnostic cult of the Goddess of Reason, then Robespierre's unitarian sect of the Supreme Being.

Finally, Napoleon instituted three state religions: Catholic, Protestant and Jewish. This triple arrangement persisted down to 1905, when church and state were separated, as in the United States. Thus, in matters of beliefs, it took more than eleven decades to stabilize France. Soviet Russia has been in existence only two decades.

What Woman Thinks About Chorley Park

Closing It Will Put a Number Out of Employment; Better to Pay Wages Than Spend Cash For Charity

(Bride Broder, in Toronto Globe and Mail)

MRS. FRED G. MILLAR, Corresponding Secretary of Hamilton Local Council of Women and Convener of the Citizenship Committee in the Provincial Council of Women writes: "Granted that it was a mistake originally to build Chorley Park, it is now a much worse mistake to close it, let alone sell it at inevitable loss. And all you say of its prestige is true."

There are many aspects in which the closing of Ontario's Government House can be viewed, and not the least, to our way of thinking, is the fact that it will throw a large number of men and women out of employment. Not long ago, for instance, a widow, who had been subsisting on five day's work in the month, paying rent and feeding (?) herself on the emolument received for five day's charring for the city, got one day's work a week for extra cleaning at Government House. This weekly certainty was an unspeakable boon.

Why our leaders in civic and governmental affairs prefer to pay out millions in direct relief when thousands paid in wages would lift both civic and Provincial burdens, passes the comprehension of our finite feminine mind.

As to robbing the opening of Parliament of the trappings of dignity, that, too, is a fundamental economic error. For when the "great," of whom we heard this week, went to the opening in full regalia somebody reaped the benefit of the fine clothes that were bought.

Some of us can remember that when the so-called Farmers' Government (the real farmers in which were few and far between) there was great talk of attending the opening in cloth skirts and light blouses. But afternoon dress so grand and expensive as any evening togs graced the occasion —Mrs. Manning Doherty, we think it was, who was the first to point out that ceremonial demanded suitable clothes. Britain leads the world in simplicity, but her ceremonial observances are the envy of the world.

A Bible Message For To-day . . . .

THEREFORE thus saith the Lord God: Because ye have made your iniquity to be remembered, in that your transgressions are discovered, so that in all your doings your sins do appear; because, I say, that ye are come to remembrance, ye shall be taken with the hand. And thou, profane wicked prince of Israel, whose day is come, when iniquity shall have an end, thus saith the Lord God; Remove the diadem, and take off the crown: this shall not be the same: exalt him that is low, and abase him that is high. I will overturn, overturn, overturn it, and it shall be no more, until he come whose right it is; and I will give it to him—Ezek. xxi, 24-27.

Now we beseech you, brethren, by the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, and by our gathering together unto him, that ye be not soon shaken in mind, or be troubled, neither by spirit, nor by word, nor by letter as from us, as that the day of Christ is at hand. Let no man deceive you by any means: for that day shall not come, except there come a falling away first, and that man of sin be revealed, the son of perdition; who opposeth and exalteth himself above all that is called God, or that is worshipped: so that he as God, sitteth in the temple of God, shewing himself that he is God....For the mystery of iniquity doth already work: only he who now letteth will let, until he be taken out of the way. And then shall that Wicked be revealed, whom the Lord shall consume with the spirit of his mouth, and shall destroy with the brightness of his coming—II Thess., ii, 1-4, 7, 8.

A COMPETITION for examples of compressed inaccuracy would be well worth organizing. My own entry would consist of 17 words from Zigzag, the autobiography of W. F. R. Macartney: "Colone. Hyam, a Canadian railroad man, now head of the railway section of the League of Nations." The colonel in question spelled his name Hiam; there is no railway section of the League of Nations; there is a transit section of the League of Nations Secretariat, but Colonel Hiam was never head of it; Colonel Hiam left the League of Nations four or five years ago, and died about two years ago.

DOWNING STREET COSTS OF LIVING AMAZE CLYNES

LONDON, Nov. 30 (C.P.). — The abdication crisis, the action of the late Ramsay MacDonald in 1931 when he dropped his party and formed a National Government, and the high cost of living in Downing Street are discussed by J. R. Clynes in the second volume of his "Memoirs."

Clynes was Lord Privy Seal and Deputy Leader of the House of Commons in the first British Labor Government in 1924. He was Home Secretary from 1929 to 1931.

In his book he says the abdication of King Edward VIII. presented Britain with its most serious constitutional crisis since Charles I. was beheaded in 1649.

"To his everlasting credit, King Edward rejected all idea of defying Parliament or appealing personally to the sentiment of his people," the former Labor Cabinet Minister writes.

Published shortly after the death of Ramsay MacDonald, Clynes' book contains a sharp attack on the late Prime Minister. Discussing the formation of the National Government in 1931, he declares "it had never occurred to me that any living man at the head of the British Labor movement could setp aside from his own people to lead the opposite forces."

Clynes was dismayed at the high cost of living in Downing Street. While he was a tenant at No. 11, he found it impossible to keep the place in order without a staff of eight or nine servants. Maintenance of essential staff cost him about $10,000 a year, he said.

"Five thousand pounds a year, reduced nowadays by income tax to about £3,500, is not enough for a minister forced to live in Downing Street," he writes.

AILSA CRAIG MAN WINS EAST CANADA FIRST OATS TITLE

CHICAGO, Nov. 30—(AP)—Eastern Canada held its first world championship for oats to-day because of victory by Alex Stewart of Ailsa Craig, Ont., at the International Grain, Hay and Livestock show here.

Reserve champion last year, Stewart won the grand prize with Alaska Dac Number 157, variety developed by the Ontario Agricultural College and weighting 47.7 pounds to the bushel.

Only twice before since 1920 has a variety other than Victory won the grand championship, taken last year by Herman Trelle of Wembley, Alta., unable to compete this year because of rules limiting one exhibition to three wins in a class. Canadians have won the oats title 10 times in 18 years.

W. J. Brodie of Stouffville, Ont., showed the champion carlot of lambs with 50 native lambs. Since the Exhibition opened Saturday Canadians also have won the championship for field beans and field peas.

Ontario Agricultural College team placed 23rd in the Collegiate livestock contest with 4,145 pounds with Kansas State College's winning total of 4,523. F. D. Willows of Lyn, Ont., tied for third in judging swine and F. M. Campbell of Shanty Bay, Ont., tied for eighth in judging horses.

Three Premiers Reserve Approval

PREMIER DYSART
New Brunswick

PREMIER ABERHART
Alberta

PREMIER DUPLESSIS
Quebec

These three provincial premiers have reserved approval of the federal government's unemployment insurance scheme until such time as they have been given full details according to letters they have written to Prime Minister King. All other provincial premiers have approved the scheme to amend the constitution to provide for unemployment insurance. Two courses are open to Premier King according to authoritive sources, one of which is the preparation of the legislation, presentation to the House of Commons and then simultaneous release to the provinces. The other would get approval of the provinces and then ask the Senate and House of Commons to pass a resolution asking London for the amendment.

MANITOBA SCORES FEDERAL FAILURE HOLD WHEAT UP

WINNIPEG, Nov. 30 (CP)—Manitoba continued a detailed presentation of its brief before the Rowell Commission studying Dominion-provincial financial arrangements today, with particular attention being given to the effect on Western Canada of federal tariff policy and declining income. Financial problems of municipalities and school districts were also on the agenda.

The commission got away to a business-like start yesterday with Chairman N. W. Rowell.

Manitoba's desire for constitutional amendments to give the Dominion jurdisdiction over some social services was voiced by Attorney-General W. J. Major who dealt with the constitutional angle of Dominion-provincial relations.

Limitations which court interpretations placed on the British North America Act as far as Dominion jurisdictions were concerned made that act useless as an instrument of modern government he said.

The province was prepared to give up its right to control of certain social services if the Dominion would assume financial responsibility for them, as a means of relieving the impossible provincial financial position.

The Manitoba brief criticized the Dominion government for lack of constructive measures to check the drastic break in wheat prices when the economic depression struck. The brief said the Dominion acted too late with "costly and ineffectual methods."

Cough Colds Often Dangerous

People are beginning to recognize the fact that a cough cold is a serious ailment, and when you contract a cold or cough the first question you ask yourself should be, "How am I going to get rid of it with the least possible delay and expense?" The answer is, "Use Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup."

This cough medicine is composed of the well known properties of the Norway pine tree, wild cherry bark, and other soothing, absorbent, healing and expectorant properties of other excellent herbs, barks and balsams. A few doses should convince you it is just the remedy you have been looking for.

Mrs. H. Halligan, Camborne, Ont., writes:—"My father had a terrible cough, and we thought he was never going to get rid of it, as he had tried so many remedies without getting any relief.

A neighbour told us about Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and it was the only medicine that helped to give him relief."

THRESHING IS BUSY TIME FOR FARMERS NEARLY OVER NOW

(Examiner Correspondence.)

PONTYPOOL, Nov. 30.—Threshing in this district is nearly completed, although there are a few jobs to finish yet and weather and road conditions are getting very uncertain.

This is one job that every farmer looks forward to but is glad when it is all over and the machine has moved out of his barn and goes to his neighbor. Although he may have to take a fork and go, he can sit on the fence and chat until the machine is set in the barn and ready to begin operations. When he takes his place in the mow or whatever place he may be asked to take.

Threshing at home is a different thing—to helping a neighbor. It is always a busy time for both the farmer and the busy housewife. There are always preparations to be made before such as getting the barn floor ready, patching rat-holes in the granary and hunting up bin boards which have been used for other things during the year. The good housewife is busy preparing good board for the threshers who always fare well at meal time.

Then the day of the threshing, the farmer is up before daylight to get his daily routine of chores done, and be ready to give the thresher any assistance that he can. There are always several things which were forgotten the day before and have to be done before the machine can start, but the neighbors stand around and wait till the machine is ready to go, for they have either had their busy day or know that it will come.

Farmers who thresh with a steam engine have more to look after than with a tractor. Although most threshers draw their own water by truck which is a saving to the farmer who used to have to draw water with his own team.

MANY ADVENTURES DESCRIBED IN TRIP AROUND THE WORLD

The story of how two adventurous Canadian boys solved the problem of getting past ranks of husky, armed guards and into a great marble palace for a personal visit with the mighty Maharajah of Rajputana, Indian potentate, was told by Ken Weldon, young Peterborough globe-circler, as he presented a travelogue lecture to a large audience in George Street United Church last night.

How was the feat accomplished?

"We wanted very badly to get in there and see the Maharajah in person," Weldon related, referring to his companion, Bob Parker of Hamilton, Ontario. "We had come a long way to get to Jaipur so when the guide ushered us on the usual tour around the outer gardens which are open to the public and took us outside the gates again, we decided perhaps the simplest way to get into the palace was the most obvious way—make a run for it. We turned, ran back through the gate, through the inner gardens and right inside the palace."

Servants of the powerful ruler clustered excitedly around the two bold adventurers as they stood inside the palace "just waiting to see what would happen," the Peterborough traveller said. One ran to one side and pulled a long silken cord and bells rang somewhere. In a moment the Maharajah himself stood before them.

A Surprise

"We found him a very pleasant young man, speaking perfect Oxford University English and blessed with an excellent sense of humor," Weldon related. "Our visit took him by surprise at first but he smiled when we told him how anxious we had been to see him and ordered servants to show us any part of the palace we wished to see."

The speaker said when he and his companion had completed their tour of the palace, a tour which did not include that part of the fabulous structure which houses the Maharajah's harem however, the potentate was waiting for them in a lavish reception room and had them served sumptuous refreshments on service of pure gold. The Maharajah evinced a great interest in the "youth movement" in far-away Canada, he said.

His first appearance in Peterborough on tour with an illustrated story of travels which he said took him 40,000 miles through 27 different countries around the world, the young man, son of Dr. A. M. Weldon, regaled his audience with many strange tales of the adventures he encountered. He had not been in Shanghai 48 hours when he found himself engaged in a hand-to-hand fight with Chinese robbers on a dark back street. In Manila while immigration officers and local police hunted high and low for him for jumping his ship, he escaped detection by being at the last place the police would think of looking for him, a Government ball which he attended as guest of the son of President Quezon.

With Head-Hunters

It was in the wilds of the northern Philippines while living with the head-hunting Igerottes that he saw the savage natives bring in a head which they had just cut from one of the warriors of a rival tribe, Weldon said. The natives put the head in a great pot along with rice and grass and made a stew of it.

"We were very hungry but we shrank away at the thought of eating a stew of human flesh," he said. "Then we noticed we were displeasing the chief by not joining in, so rather than have our own heads tossed into the stew pot, we dug in with our hands and stuffed some of the mess down."

Adventure came his way in almost every section of Weldon's journey, the travelogue revealed. He recounted a humorous tale of how mountain-climbing guides laughed at them when they suggested they would like to try a climb of Mt. Everest and how they had to be content with the third highest mountain of the world, great Kangchenjunga. A narrow escape from death while climbing in the lower ranges of this great mass added thrills. Adventure followed him as he "thumbed" across India for $1.50, journeyed far into the Arabian desert for a visit with the Shiek of Arabi, brushed with the British-hating Fascists in Italy and followed a sojourn in the lap of exotic luxury on the French Riviera with a hitch-hike trip through the Alps.

A large selection of colored slides illustrated the sequence of adventurous wanderings thoroughly. The presentation was sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of the church, Rev. M. C. Parr introducing the speaker.

REEVE GEO. MULLEN THANKED FOR AID

Reeve George Mullen of Smith has received from Ralph S. Wright, Moosomin, Sask., a grateful acknowledgment of a car load of produce recently sent as relief to the west. The letter, in part, was: Dear Sir, You car of potatoes and vegetables came to Moosomin. We sure were glad to get some potatoes, the first we have had since last May. Our crop of grain was dried up, garden also; then the grasshoppers finished it. We are not in the drouth area, but worse, as we get no relief, and have to pay taxes and rent and about 4 to 6 per cent. tax on all we buy. I have been in bed five weeks under a doctor's care. He says I will be there three months yet. Medicine is cash with 2 per cent. tax. That car was divided between three towns and four divisions. We have had my son's four children with us two years. Their ages are from four to nine; also we have a boy 18 and a girl 17. We have no underclothes or shoes, and would be thankful for used clothes and bedding. We got two bags of potatoes. Your letter was ... one and a card from the Mayor in the other. This is five years for us without a crop. We would be thankful for used clothes. Our boy of 18 has no overcoat. We will pay express charges. Thanking you all very much. Yours truly, Ralph S. Wright."

TALE OF ADVENTURE GRAPHICALLY TOLD BY KEN. WELDON

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Nov. 30.—Ken Weldon, Peterborough globe trotter, unfolded a tale of adventure, danger, and romance, interspersed with humorous experiences, in his illustrated travel talk which he gave in St. Andrew's church on Friday evening. His hearers were taken over two hemispheres, with the young adventurer, and his pal, Bob Parker, of Hamilton, twenty-seven countries being visited in a trip covering 40,000 miles.

Tracing the course of their world journey on a large map thrown on the screen at the outset of his lecture, the youthful speaker told how the urge for adventure led the two travellers to try the stowaway act twice, in order to get on with their journey, once at Montreal at the very beginning, and later on at Manilla, discovery foiling the plan for continuing their trip in this manner. Finally as 'wipers' in the engine room of a Norwegian vessel they were on their way, through the Panama canal, to the Philippines where they had a thrilling experience with ferocious Igerotte headhunters in the northern part of the Islands, being obliged, in order to save their lives, to dip their hands in the big, common pot of rice, in the centre of which had been placed a cooked head—a trophy brought in by one of the tribal warriors—eating their share of the meal thus provided.

Has Close Call

Another experience, packed with thrills of anything but a pleasant nature, fell to Mr. Weldon's lot when, in climbing mighty Kangchenjunga, seventy miles from Mt. Everest, his fingers closed on shale which crumbled in his grasp, leaving him dangling by a rope with a sheer drop of one thousand feet of precipice on to the jagged rocks below. Other highlights in this story of fascinating adventure, which was by means of boat, rail, rickshaw, camel, elephant, oxen, and donkeys, were the unexpected meeting with Mahatma Ghandi in India, an excellent snap of the little man being taken, surrounded by a group of his followers; the visit to the wonderful palace of the Maharajah of Rajput, the dishes of pure gold from which lunch was eaten, and the other appointments of Arabian Nights' magnificence, in this Indian prince's dwelling.

Through Persia, Iraq, Syria, the two hitch hikers went on their way, the colored slides giving a vivid picture of the world journey, with stops at most of the important points, then into Europe, across Italy, and the French Riviera, and so to the British Isles, and "best of all, home again to Canada."

A Fascist Gathering

Fraught with considerable peril was the taking in of a Fascist mobilization meeting in Naples, since such action was strictly forbidden, the young photographer having the presence of mind to hide his camera in the eve-troupbing when its click revealed its presence hiding behind a parapet. A later visit at night retrieved the camera.

SO IT HAPPENED THAT ONCE UPON A TIME—OF ALL GOOD DAYS IN THE YEAR, ON CHRISTMAS EVE—OLD SCROOGE SAT BUSY IN HIS COUNTING HOUSE.

IT WAS COLD, BLEAK, BITING WEATHER: FOGGY WITHAL: AND HE COULD HEAR THE PEOPLE IN THE COURT OUTSIDE GO WHEEZING UP AND DOWN, STAMPING THEIR FEET UPON THE PAVEMENT TO KEEP THEM WARM.

THE CITY CLOCKS HAD ONLY JUST GONE THREE, BUT IT WAS QUITE DARK ALREADY: IT HAD NOT BEEN LIGHT ALL DAY: AND CANDLES WERE FLARING IN THE WINDOWS OF THE NEIGHBORING OFFICES.

THE DOOR OF SCROOGE'S COUNTING-HOUSE WAS OPEN THAT HE MIGHT KEEP AN EYE UPON HIS CLERK, WHO IN A DISMAL LITTLE CELL BEYOND, WAS COPYING LETTERS. SCROOGE HAD A VERY SMALL FIRE, BUT HIS CLERK'S LOOKED LIKE ONE COAL.

Plans Have Been Completed For Parade On Friday Night

Santa Claus Will Arrive On The Evening C.P.R. Train From Toronto

The visit of Santa Claus to Peterborough next Friday evening is going to be one of the brightest and gayest events of the winter season, according to the reception plans of the Peterborough Business Men's Association which were reviewed and approved at a general meeting of members last night.

When the evening train arrives from Toronto next Friday Old Santa is going to be met with all the dignity and music and merry-making to which he is accustomed in his own remote realms during the rest of the year when he is at home getting ready for Christmas. And he is going to be welcomed by a big parade uptown from the station and around the main streets that will be splendidly decorated with the lights and evergreens that become such a distinguished visitor, and finally his automobile will stop in front of the Court House and he will descend the wide steps to the bandstand to receive the city's official welcome.

It all sounds like a Little Nemo dream, but it is going to be real, and all the children of the city and the district round about, who have reached the age of dodging the Sand Man for an extra hour or so, are expected to be at Victoria Park, because if it wasn't for the children he wouldn't come at all.

Of course this isn't Santa Claus' annual mystic visit to Peterborough. All the boys and girls know that happens only on the eve of Christmas when Santa flits around during the late hours of the night bringing happiness to the hearts of his little subjects who believe in him with the greatest loyalty, even if they never saw him.

J. H. Jamison, chairman of the parade committee, reported the details of the parade, including the Peterborough Rangers Band, the Lions Boys Band, probably the junior band of the Salvation Army who are expected to be at the Park and possible in the parade, and the Examiner Newsboys' Harmonica Band, six or seven decorated floats, clowns to make Santa Claus laugh, because in his own Toyland there is nothing but the happy laughter of light hearts.

And at the head of the parade will be four motorcycle policemen, all the bowers for the King of Toyland, a detachment of the Firemen who have a toyland of their own, and are now fully recognized as confederates of Santa Claus, and then the official automobile in which the Mayor and other citizens will drive.

Santa Claus will ride on one of the beautiful floats—too bad the children can't see him driving his reindeer with great flourish, but it is too early in the season for them to turn out—and a lovely girl representing Peterborough's youth is going to drive with him. And at Victoria Park, not only will there be bands, but the choir of St. John's Church will sing carols, the kind of music Santa has heard on Christmas Eve these hundreds of years.

And just to make it seem like Christmas the merchants will distribute candles and balloons and gum among the children, and then it will all be over and ended and Santa will be gone again just like on Christmas Eve, and nothing more will be heard of him for a whole, long year.

MRS. JOHN BUTCHER DIES IN THE HOME SHE WAS BORN IN

Spending her last days in the house at 301 Burnham street in which she was born, married, and lived her entire life, Mrs. Margaret Butcher died Monday after a long period of declining health. She was in her 84th year.

Celebrated in the community as the longest-married couple of the city when they celebrated their 62nd wedding anniversary on September 30, 1936, Mr. and Mrs. John Butcher were separated by Mr. Butcher's passing in January this year. At that time, Mrs. Butcher expressed the conviction to friends that she would not be long in following. Her death occurred in ten months' time.

She was daughter of the late Absalom Ingram and Margaret Alexander. Throughout her life she was a member of St. Luke's Anglican Church, and was a life member of the Women's Auxiliary. Long was she active in the Women's Patriotic League of Ashburnham. Care of her flowers was her principal hobby.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. John Scott and Mary Butcher of this city, and Mrs. A. J. Tovey of Unity, Saskatchewan; and two sons, George and Alexander of Peterborough.

The funeral will be conducted Wednesday, a service at the home at 2 p.m., followed by a service at St. Luke's Church at 2.30 p.m., Rev. G. J. Bousfield officiating. Interment will be made in Little Lake Cemetery.

CANADIANS FAIL TO TAKE SKIING SERIOUSLY ENOUGH

Europeans take their ski training more seriously than Canadians, Sam Cliff, chairman of the Ontario zone of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association, told 100 members of the Peterborough Ski Club assembled for their annual banquet at the Y.M.C.A. last night. This may account for the fact that Canada has yet to show prominently in Olympic skiing results, he suggested.

"In Europe some ski students are so serious about their work they will carry from their homes their own drinking water rather than run the risk of strange waters," he said. "However, I noted that the methods Canadians have adopted in their schools are very close to those of European schools and progress is being made here."

Sam Cliff was introduced by Jerry Duffus as the man who has done most for skiing in Canada. Art Rhodes, club president, was in the chair. One of the features of the program was a showing of two reels of skiing in the Austrian Alps taken by Hannes Schneider, world-famous instructor.

Ross Thompson, club director, outlined to the members the highlights of the club program laid out for this winter. On the big winter carnival week-end of February 5, zone championship will be decided here, he said. Much work has been done during the summer and fall to put the ski jump at Nassau and the shack in order.

Build Practice Jump.

He announced that the club is planning to build a practice jump at Nassau for beginners at jumping. The use of the Health Camp building at Jackson Park has again been obtained as city headquarters for club activities and lights are to be installed. Several ski trails have now been marked out in the district and more are yet to be blazed. The club is planning a classification of its skiers so that all may enjoy competition on a reason basis, he said.

Jack Holland, prominent club member, is starting immediately a "dry ski" school for exercises and fundamental instruction. He will continue the school with instruction on the elementary turns when the first snow falls on Victoria Park, it was announced. Toby Westbye is editing the club paper, "Telemarker" this year and has produced the first issue. Ross Thompson said Waddy Waterman had mapped out a thorough junior section program.

REMEMBRANCE DAY PICTURES SHOWN

A fine program of motion pictures recording the Remembrance Day parade and memorial service in Peterborough on November 11 was enjoyed by 300 members of the C.G.E. ex-Service Men's Club with their families and friends at the Legion Hall Monday night. A corps of Girl Guides under the command of Mrs. W. Whalen were special guests of the evening.

The Remembrance Day pictures were taken by R. E. Knox and Ben Smith, who were present for the showing. In two reels, they depict with excellent photography the march of the C.G.E. and DeLaval ex-service men and other units of the big parade on the morning of November 11. Fine shots of the Remembrance ceremonies and the laying of wreaths on the memorial are outstanding in the complete record of the program afforded. The audience was pleased to recognize scores of well-known local faces as the guard of honor was inspected, and at other points in the record.

Hope Revived For Streptococcus Victim

More than 1,000 responses came to the radio appeal of Mrs. Edward Fletcher (upper LEFT), when she appealed to persons who had recovered from streptococcus infection to volunteer blood transfusions in an effort to save the life of her 28-year-old son, Weston (RIGHT,)in a critical condition in a Windsor, Ont., hospital. Though many offered their blood in most instances the volunteers lacked the type possessed by Fletcher. Worried frowns passed away, however, when Ernest Vansickle (lower LEFT), of Brantford, Ont., arrived with blood of the same type. Chances for Fletcher to recover from the dread infection were placed at one in a thousand by physicians but with the transfusion the odds dropped to one chance in a hundred.

IT WAS A COLD DAY

The few members of Peterborough's 1907 Ontario championship football team who were badly beaten in Montreal thirty years ago when they played Montreal A.A.A. for the Canadian senior title are recalling that memorable experience. They remember for one thing that the weather was so cold that when they reached Montreal, sleighs and cutters were lined up outside Windsor station and the open air rinks all opened that day. The snow had been swept off the M.A.A.A. field and left piled up on the side and the ground, although fast, was as slippery as a sheet of glass.

Rawdon Township Barn Is Destroyed

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 30 (CP).—Two valuable cows were burned, all machinery, hay and crops, when a barn, owned by Frank Cain, Fifth Concession of Rawdon, was destroyed by fire last night. The origin of the fire was unknown.

DAMAGE CLAIMS MADE BY PARENTS OF INJURED PUPILS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 30 — Claims for damages by the parents of two High School pupils who declared their children had been injured while playing in the gymnasium were referred to the insurance company by the school board at is meeting held on Monday.

The claims arose out of injuries received while one of the boys, James Bibby was playing on the flying rings and by the other boy when he fell from the horse during a period when there was no supervision in the gymnasium.

The matter was given a thorough airing by the board and although the suggestion of F. C. Bonnycastle that the gymnasium be kept locked at all times except when there was proper supervision was discussed it was deemed that it might be possible to have the student body appoint supervisors from their athletic society to be placed in charge of the gymnasium.

On the request of Mr. C. S. Haig principal of the public school permission was granted for teachers to dismiss their classes at 2.30 on Wednesday afternoon so that teachers would be able to attend a teacher's meeting called by Inspector A. A. Martin in Stirling.

Mr. Haig also presented the board with a list of supplies recommended by the Inspector which was also given approval.

Noon Supervision

The report of supervision in the Public Schools during recess and noon hours was read by the secretary and in reply to the question of the chairman, W. Roy Loucks Mr. Haig stated that arrangements had been made for the girls to use one of the down stairs class rooms as a lunch room while the boys used the room in the basement.

Although the report of Inspector S. D. Randall who recently visited the High School was not yet completed his conversations with the staff and the Board provoked several comments of which the matter of supervision in the school during the noon hour was deemed of prime important in view of the 104 students who spent their noon hours at the school each day. It was suggested by the inspector that a teacher could do valuable work in the school at this time by assisting in the organizing of some club work or study at this period.

Dr. H. O. Richardson moved a vote of appreciation to the property committee for their splendid work in installing the new equipment in the manual training and domestic science rooms in the high school which it was stated would be opened for inspection on the two evenings of the commencement exercises to be held on Thursday and Friday of this week. Chairman Loucks also indicated that the room would be open to the public also on Saturday afternoon from three to five thirty.

Following the passing of the accounts the board adjourned.

Two-Party System Ideal Under The Present Form Of Government

Four requirements of the representative system of government were enumerated by Dr. A. S. Hill in his lecture to the Workers' Educational Association Monday night. Majority and minority opinions must be considered; electoral districts must not be so large that the member of parliament is not well-known to his constituents; the districts should not be so small that their elected members clutter up the legislative assembly by their numbers; there should be a means of testing public opinion between general elections, and the instrument for that test is the by-election; close relationships should be provided between voters and the government, for example the Trades and Labor Congress can present its views directly to the government. A member of parliament should not be merely a delegate under the representative system. He should have free scope for his natural ability and his personality; he is not elected simply to voice the wishes of a group, nor should he be regarded as representing only the interests of his constituency. His duty is essentially to the whole country of whose government he is a member.

Dr. Hill said that the two-party system was an ideal practice under the representative form of government. He discussed the referendum and recall. The recall, he said, should not be easy or indiscriminate. It should not operate within a year after an election or a year prior to the dissolution of a government. The recall should be made by petition of at least half the electorate, and should afford opportunity of expressing the desire of the people who wished the retention of the member against whom the recall was directed.

ALL SAINTS' CHOIR ELECTS OFFICERS

F. C. Roberts was re-elected president as members of All Saints' Church choir gathered for their annual meeting last week. The choir's work during the past year was reviewed as a success as annual business was conducted.

In the chair, Mr. Roberts expressed his thanks to Mrs. Logan, organist, and to Choirmaster George E. Chandler for good work during the year, claiming they had built the choir to a high standard. He made particular reference to the number of new choristers of promising ability.

Mr. Chandler took the chair while election of officers for the ensuing year was carried out. The election resulted as follows:

Rev. J. D. Paterson, honorary president; F. C. Roberts, president; T. Pitchford and P. Hooper, honorary vice-presidents; Douglas Weir, vice-president; Mrs. B. Hall, secretary; Miss G. L. Lucas, treasurer; Douglas Weir and Douglas Grant, librarians; Mrs. J. Morley, robes mistress; Miss A. Williams, social convenor; J. Raybold, recording secretary.

Plans Have Been Completed For Parade On Friday Night

The visit of Santa Claus to Peterborough next Friday evening is going to be one of the brightest and gayest events of the winter season, according to the reception plans of the Peterborough Business Men's Association which were reviewed and approved at a general meeting of members last night.

When the evening train arrives from Toronto next Friday Old Santa is going to be met with all the dignity and music and merry-making to which he is accustomed in his own remote realms during the rest of the year when he is at home getting ready for Christmas. And he is going to be welcomed by a big parade uptown from the station and around the main streets that will be splendidly decorated with the lights and evergreens that become such a distinguished visitor, and finally his automobile will stop in front of the Court House and he will descend the wide steps to the bandstand to receive the city's official welcome.

It all sounds like a Little Nemo dream, but it is going to be real, and all the children of the city and the district round about, who have reached the age of dodging the Sand Man for an extra hour or so, are expected to be at Victoria Park, because if it wasn't for the children he wouldn't come at all.

Of course this isn't Santa Claus' annual mystic visit to Peterborough. All the boys and girls know that happens only on the eve of Christmas when Santa flits around during the late hours of the night bringing happiness to the hearts of his little subjects who believe in him with the greatest loyalty, even if they never saw him.

J. H. Jamison, chairman of the parade committee, reported the details of the parade, including the Peterborough Rangers Band, the Lions Boys Band, probably the junior band of the Salvation Army who are expected to be at the Park and possible in the parade, and the Examiner Newsboys' Harmonica Band, six or seven decorated floats, clowns to make Santa Claus laugh, because in his own Toyland there is nothing but the happy laughter of light hearts.

And at the head of the parade will be four motorcycle policemen, all the bowers for the King of Toyland, a detachment of the Firemen who have a toyland of their own, and are now fully recognized as confederates of Santa Claus, and then the official automobile in which the Mayor and other citizens will drive.

Santa Claus will ride on one of the beautiful floats—too bad the children can't see him driving his reindeer with great flourish, but it is too early in the season for them to turn out—and a lovely girl representing Peterborough's youth is going to drive with him. And at Victoria Park, not only will there be bands, but the choir of St. John's Church will sing carols, the kind of music Santa has heard on Christmas Eve these hundreds of years.

And just to make it seem like Christmas the merchants will distribute candies and balloons and gum among the children, and then it will all be over and ended and Santa will be gone again just like on Christmas Eve, and nothing more will be heard of him for a whole, long year.

MRS. JOHN BUTCHER DIES IN THE HOME SHE WAS BORN IN

Spending her last days in the house at 301 Burnham street in which she was born, married, and lived her entire life, Mrs. Margaret Butcher died Monday after a long period of declining health. She was in her 84th year.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. John Scott and Mary Butcher of this city, and Mrs. A. J. Tovey of Unity, Saskatchewan; and two sons, George and Alexander of Peterborough.

The funeral will be conducted Wednesday, a service at the home at 2 p.m., followed by a service at St. Luke's Church at 2.30 p.m., Rev. G. J. Bousfield officiating. Interment will be made in Little Lake Cemetery.

CANADIANS FAIL TO TAKE SKIING SERIOUSLY ENOUGH

Europeans take their ski training more seriously than Canadians, Sam Cliff, chairman of the Ontario zone of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association, told 100 members of the Peterborough Ski Club assembled for their annual banquet at the Y.M.C.A. last night. This may account for the fact that Canada has yet to show prominently in Olympic skiing results, he suggested.

"In Europe some ski students are so serious about their work they will carry from their homes their own drinking water rather than run the risk of strange waters," he said. "However, I noted that the methods Canadians have adopted in their schools are very close to those of European schools and progress is being made here."

Sam Cliff was introduced by Jerry Duffus as the man who has done most for skiing in Canada. Art Rhodes, club president, was in the chair. One of the features of the program was a showing of two reels of skiing in the Austrian Alps taken by Hannes Schneider, world-famous instructor.

Ross Thompson, club director, outlined to the members the highlights of the club program laid out for this winter. On the big winter carnival week-end of February 5, some championship will be decided here, he said. Much work has been done during the summer and fall to put the ski jump at Nassau and the shack in order.

Build Practice Jump.

He announced that the club is planning to build a practice jump at Nassau for beginners at jumping. The use of the Health Camp building at Jackson Park has again been obtained as city headquarters for club activities and lights are to be installed. Several ski trails have now been marked out in the district and more are yet to be blazed. The club is planning a classification of its skiers so that all may enjoy competition on a reason basis, he said.

Jack Holland, prominent club member, is starting immediately a "dry ski" school for exercises and fundamental instruction. He will continue the school with instruction on the elementary turns when the first snow falls on Victoria Park, it was announced. Toby Westbye is editing the club paper, "Telemarker" this year and has produced the first issue. Ross Thompson said Waddy Waterman had mapped out a thorough junior section program.

REMEMBRANCE DAY PICTURES SHOWN

A fine program of motion pictures recording the Remembrance Day parade and memorial service in Peterborough on November 11 was enjoyed by 300 members of the C.G.E. ex-Service Men's Club with their families and friends at the Legion Hall Monday night. A corps of Girl Guides under the command of Mrs. W. Whalen were special guests of the evening.

The Remembrance Day pictures were taken by R. E. Knox and Ben Smith, who were present for the showing. In two reels, they depict with excellent photography the march of the C.G.E. and DeLaval ex-service men and other units of the big parade on the morning of November 11. Fine shots of the Remembrance ceremonies and the laying of wreaths on the memorial are outstanding in the complete record of the program afforded. The audience was pleased to recognize scores of well-known local faces as the guard of honor was inspected, and at other points in the record.

Hope Revived For Streptococcus Victim

More than 1,000 responses came to the radio appeal of Mrs. Edward Fletcher (upper LEFT), when she appealed to persons who had recovered from streptococcus infection to volunteer blood transfusions in an effort to save the life of her 28-year-old son, Weston (RIGHT,) in a critical condition in a Windsor, Ont., hospital. Though many offered their blood in most instances the volunteers lacked the type possessed by Fletcher. Worried frowns passed away, however, when Ernest Vansickle (lower LEFT), of Brantford, Ont., arrived with blood of the same type. Chances for Fletcher to recover from the dread infection were placed at one in a thousand by physicians but with the transfusion the odds dropped to one chance in a hundred.

Four Requirements Necessary Representative Government

Two-Party System Ideal Under The Present Form Of Government

Four requirements of the representative system of government were enumerated by Dr. A. S. Hill in his lecture to the Workers' Educational Association Monday night. Majority and minority opinions must be considered; electoral districts must not be so large that the member of parliament is not well-known to his constituents; the districts should not be so small that their elected members clutter up the legislative assembly by their numbers; there should be a means of testing public opinion between general elections, and the instrument for that test is the by-election; close relationships should be provided between voters and the government, for example the Trades and Labor Congress can present its views directly to the government. PETERBOROUGH BUSINESS MEN'S ASSOCIATION

Prospects Bright For Season In Church Basketball Loop

Sixteen Teams Likely To Start Schedule—Lloyd Parnall Again President

Lloyd Parnall was re-elected president of the Church Hockey League last night at the annual meeting held in the Y.M.C.A. A good turnout of delegates conducted considerable early-season business, and indications point to a big season with at least as many teams—there were 16—to start this season. Possibly more will enter, since the junior division is showing more interest this season than last year. Closing date for entries has been set for December 27.

Officers for the year include: Hon. President, Rev. Canon J. D. Paterson of the Ministerial Association; Past President, Cres. Sproat; President, Lloyd Parnall; Vice-President, George Easton; Secretary-Treasurer Don Charlton, re-elected for his fifth term; Assistant Secretary, Art Beauclerc. These officers have long been connected with the league or teams in it and are considered first-rate members for the circuit.

The financial report showed a balance of $11.70, dropping from $19.13 a year ago. Over $90 was handled by the treasurer the past year. It was decided to increase entry fees as follows: Bantam and juvenile $1.50, instead of $1.00; junior, $2.00, instead of $1.50; senior, $2.00 still. The bond is still $2.00, and is returned at the end of the schedule. O.H.A. players of last year cannot play in the Church League this winter.

Same '37 Rules.

Last year's rules were again adopted, and overtime will be played only in the finals, there being one extra 10-minute period. Revised rules will be sent to managers and the latter will be asked to suggest capable referees. One complaint was ably presented by All Saints' president concerning the third senior playoff game last year in which the executive met and awarded a game without a written protest. Appreciation was expressed to the All Saints' rink manager, Secretary Don Charlton, to the South-End League for co-operation, to the "Y" and The Examiner.

Delegates were on hand from All Saints', St. John's, Knox, Murray St., Park St., St. Paul's, George St. and Mark St. There were 16 teams in last year, four senior, seven juvenile and five bantam, winners respectively being Murray St., St. Paul's and George St. Junior starters this year may include All Saints', Mark St., St. Paul's, St. John's and George St. Senior entries are promised from All Saints', George St., and Murray St., with St. George's, Knox and Mark St. as prospects.

In juvenile, prospects are St. Paul's, All Saints', Park St., Murray St., Mark St., St. John's and George St., and All Saints', George St., Knox, St. John's and St. Paul's look like starters in bantam. Of churches not represented, St. James' are expected in bantam, with material for all sections. Trinity may be back in juvenile, St. Andrew's and St. Luke's being still uncertain. A possibility of using the Quaker Oats rink exists if arrangements can be made, which would aid St. Luke's and Mark St. However, all entries are indefinite till after Christmas.

EARL NORE AND RAY BUCKLEY

Badminton

R. O. BENSON

ST. ANDREW'S Badminton Club held an organization meeting last Monday night and chose officers to guide their first year's activities. Rev. E. W. Young, M.A., B.D., was chosen president and Herb. Hawley secretary-treasurer. Joe Watson is chairman of the games committee, and he will be assisted by Doris Tremaine. A lot of hard work will be necessary to build up this new club, but they have a good place to play, one good court and they are interested chiefly in getting their own young people to play the game. It will provide an excellent opportunity for those who do not already play to learn the sport as well as for the more experienced ones to improve their play. Here's to a good starting season.

PETERBOROUGH Club news is to the effect that at a meeting held by the executive on Saturday, it was decided to increase the membership to 200, an addition of 80 to the present total; 75 per cent. of these are to be men. It is felt that many of the mid-week nights are not being sufficiently made use of and that these new members could use these playing times. Those who want to learn the game and are not already connected with a club are urged to take advantage of this opportunity.

THIS CLUB has also selected four teams of about 25 players each from among their members. Team captains are Jim Esson, assisted by Mrs. M. Jopling, A. L. Dickison assisted by Mrs. J. D. Hall, Dr. R. Nott and Louise Hall and Graeme Faulkner aided by Alicia Langley. A complete list of the ones on each team is posted on the bulletin board. They have been chosen so as to nearly divide the strength of the club. They will play intramural matches on a set schedule, points to count. They are being prepared for outside tournaments and for Central Ontario play in the spring. The schedule is as follows: December 1, Esson vs. Nott; December, Faulkner vs. Dickison; December 15, Dickison vs. Esson; January 5, Nott vs. Kaulkner; January 12, Esson vs. Faulkner; January 19, Dickison vs. Nott; January 26, Nott vs. Esson; February 2, Dickison vs. Faulkner; February 9, Esson vs. Dickison; February 16, Faulkner vs. Nott; February 23, Faulkner vs. Esson; March 2, Nott vs. Dickison. Although teams have been chosen, the captains are at liberty to exchange players up until December 15. After that date no trading will be permitted. This intramural tournament stunt will likely do away with the ladder tournament idea used in other seasons.

HIGHLIGHTS: Marie Kearns, fast developing a pleasing style.... Grant Gillespie, making a perfect four-point landing while reaching desperately for a low one....Mrs. J. D. Lewis, hopping around in a hurry with Irene Cox, Mrs. Dawe, and Helen Banks in a good number.... Russ Kitchen and Bob Allin, fast rounding into shape for tournament play....Helen Cole and Mrs. (Dr.) Preston featuring short shots at the net while battling on opposite sides of the cheesecloth....Bill Putnam and Dr. Jack Green edging out Ken Anderson and Johnny Sparrow in a "natural"....Anderson, who has looked mighty good the last few weeks, was outlucked on a few returns and Sparrow had a little trouble with his overhead drive. Outside of that it was very close with some wonderful cross-court net shots on Green's part particularly and some fine drop shots. Anderson's and Putnam's smashing was up to standard. Scores were 15-13, 16-18 and 18-11....Ethel Brownlee and Jack Cuff, turning back Mrs. Rundle and Clark Muir in a close contest, 17-15. Jack Cuff was responsible for some swell returns after what looked like sure kills.... Players waiting for a court engaging with gusto in a round of ping-pong....Tournament at the Armouries on Wednesday.

RUMOR DENIED

AMHERST, N.S.—(CP).—A rumor that Henry Ford had taken over the Amherst plant of the Canadian Car and Foundry Company, was denied here by company officials.

TRADE RUMORS ARE NUMEROUS

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 30 (AP) —Trade rumors were almost as numerous as pints of beer in Milwaukee as baseball's David Harums, big and small, piled into the Wisconsin metropolis for the annual ivory market rush. Though the minor league meetings do not open until Wednesday, most of the traders came two days in advance to bait their hooks.

The top rumor involved Ducky Medwick, National League batting champion of St. Louis Cardinals. Though the deal has been denied by every interested party, it still persisted that Ducky had been traded to New York Giants for Pitcher Hal Schumacher, Infielder Mel Ott and Catcher Gus Mancuso. Another report, which bore more credit than the Medwick rumor, was that Chicago White Sox already had purchased Harland Clift from St. Louis Browns.

Every team in both leagues, except for the world championship New York Yankees, were definitely in the market for new faces. Manager Joe McCarthy of the champs, a great trader in his heyday, was expected to attend the market, but was in no mood for swapping or buying, except to strengthen the already strong Yankee farm system.

There seemed a general agreement that Van Lingle Mungo, truant fire ball ace of Brooklyn Dodgers definitely was to get a change of scenery. The word was put out that Manager Burleigh Grimes had orders to trade his temperamental pitcher if the right deal came along. Chicago Cubs were reported to have an "inside" track on Mungo. Some figured the St. Louis Cards were very much in the market, too, although no one could tell what would happen to the temper of Manager Frank Frisch if he had Mungo and Dizzy Dean on the same ball club.

Detroit Tigers, in the market for a good starting pitcher, were expected to swing one or two good deals, probably acquiring Pitcher Johnny Whitehead of Chicago White Sox, for Outfielder Gerald Walker. Manager Jimmy Dykes of the White Sox, incidentally, was the most sought after man in the American League because of his abundance of good pitchers.

Strange Place For No 1 Net Star

A strange place, a Hollywood movie studio, for the world's number one tennis player to be found. It's J. Donald Budge, informally known as "Don", winner of the Wimbledon and the U.S. tennis championships during 1937. Don was snapped chatting with lovely Olivia de Haviland, young Hollywood star.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd C' uckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

AT THE last scouts' meeting here, it was decided to run a Boy Scouts' Hockey League again this winter. All Troops interested are advised to send entries to W. Anderson, 395 Edison Ave., city, before Dec. 7th—which is just a week from today. Two representatives of each Troop will attend a meeting a few days later to arrange for the puck circuit. This young league was started last winter and proved successful for the "good deed a day" lads. Plans are to extend it somewhat this semester. However, more anon, if not anonymous.

A BUNCH of us were up last night to visit with Gunner Whitehill and the missus, they being newly married folks. Some of his ball-playin' teammates and a few redhot diamond fans and admirers of the Gunner kicked in and bought a nice silver tray, which was presented to the Petes' pitcher by Manager Fred Collins. Whitehill thanked 'em and asked us to say thanks to those who weren't on hand. We imagine the popular right-hander will be back in harness for the locals next summer. He led the C.O.B.L. pitchers in 1936 but slumped somewhat last summer. Now that he's happily married, Eddie might have a big 1938 mound comeback.

RIVERVIEW A.C. officals are figuring on a good crowd of fans at their fight show in the Brock St. arena tomorrow (Wednesday) night. Even if it is a bit chilly, they figure the attraction—and the fact fans flock to the Brock for hockey in sub-zero weather—will bring 'em out. It sounds like a first-class fistic card, with three dandy Toronto-Peterborough bouts for headliners, four good all-local scraps lined up and an exhibition rasslin' match. Gene Hurtubise will referee the latter while Harry Hance is third man in the ring for the leather-pushing melees. Judges are Archie Menzies, Jerry Coughlin and Jim Revoy. With Don Weese the timer.

FLYING FISTS will punctuate this ring drama and emphasize the return of the gloved gladiators. Aside from a Lions Club show here a year ago, the mitt sport has slumped in Peterborough the past three years. We used to have plenty of pugilistic action around these parts, but came the depression in this line of athletics. The newly-formed Riverview A.C. is going about it the right way, lining up a fine program, sparing no expense and running it on a night when there should be no counter attraction. Aside from the chilly weather, it is an ideal time for such a program, and we hope it goes over with a bang.

WATCHING HIM work out in the gym, you get the impression that this Nick Orlando will knock the ears off Bev. Carter of Toronto. The latter is a flashy Toronto lightweight who had been headlining bouts and has not lost a decision in two years. But Orlando comes from Montreal, living here now, with a dandy rep. A Quebec champ, an Olympic Trials finalist and a victor over Dave Yack—you can't laugh that off! He is a tough baby in the roped arena and Mister Carter will think so ere the end of the five two-minute rounds, or we'll eat our 1935 chapeau and wash it down with a scuttle of suds. This is only one bout of a fine seven-fight card, but it will be one of the better ones. Several of the others look like four-star scraps to us, too. But fans can see for themselves tomorrow e'en.

CHURCH HOCKEY League re-organized last eve at a meeting in the "Y" with these officers voted in: Prexy Lloyd Parnall; vice-president, George Easton; secretary-treasurer, Don Charlton; assistant secretary, Art Beauclerc. Closing date for entries will be Dec. 27th, and the loop should be at least as big as the 16-team circuit which started last winter. Maybe four or five more since a number of junior squads are now interested and this section was as barren as Mother Hubbard's well-known cupboard a year back. Entry fees this season are: Juvenile and bantam, $1.50; junior, $2.00; senior, $2.00; with the usual returnable bond of two smackers. Anyone who played O.H.A. last year is ineligible to participate in Church Loop tilts this winter. Other dope on the session's activities is listed elsewhere in tonight's paper.

SOUTHEND HOCKEY League will hold its annual re-organization meeting next Monday eve at eight at the Sacred Heart rink. A number of teams are expected in from King Edward School, St. Peter's, Canucks, possibly P.C.I., etc. No entry fee is required and the loop supplies goal-pads and goal-sticks. Bantams must be under 14 by Jan. 1st, midgets under 16 and juveniles under 18. Intermediate section will be formed later. This lively loop had a good season during the 1936-37 cold spell, playing at the Sacred Heart rink, and another good winter is anticipated. Officers will be elected, entries accepted and general plans made at the meeting next Monday p.m.

SOME OF th O.H.A. groupings have been released, and we see the name of Peterborough sprinkled around in four places. Our junior "B" Colts are listed with Belleville and Havelock in Section B of Group 1, Queen's and R.M.C. being in Section A—and Sandy Burrows of Belleville the convenor. In Group 3, our Senior City League has a bye in the intermediate "B" series. Also in this series is the Peterborough Seconds grouped with Port Hope, Whitby and Oshawa Seconds, G. D. MacMillan of Port Hope being the convenor. Our Intermediate "A" Petes have been jacked up to a senior "B" rating and are grouped with Queen's, Kingston Garrisons and Trenton Fliers, with Carling-Kelly of Trenton the convenor. Yessir, there's the dope—and it should provide plenty to chew upon for a few days. Hockey has arrove!

GRACE SHOWS UP IN ICE-SKATING

STRATFORD, Ont., Nov. 30 (CP) —Instructor for the Stratford Figure Skating Club for two seasons, Mrs. John Gray, 68, of St. Mary's, Ont., can probably claim the title of Canada's oldest figure-skating teacher. In her own words, according to The Beacon-Herald, she "would rather skate than eat."

Having donned skates first at the age of six, Mrs. Gray has skated practically every winter for the past 62 years. She has also taught Highland dancing for 44 years. She has no hesitancy in declaring that of the two arts she greatly prefers figure-skating.

Mrs. Gray, who was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Esson, had a twinkle in her eye when she recalled her first pair of skates. They were wooden ones with steel blades and were held in place by means of straps through the toes and heels.

"It wasn't much fun just skating 'round and round' so I usually picked a corner and tried my luck at figure-skating, attempting to do some of the 'trick' I had seen in magazines." That's the way she started figure-skating.

"I'm afraid I must have caused a good deal of wonderment in St. Mary's," she says.

When asked the essentials for a good figure-skater, Mrs. Gray stressed three things: speed, lightness and fearlessness. She spoke of Sonja Henie, terming her "grace personified." "At the present time there is too much so-called stunt skating and this impedes the art of figure-skating. It detracts from the beauty and the grace."

Mrs. Gray thinks Mrs. Constance Wilson Samuel, Toronto Olympic star, one of the most graceful skaters she has ever seen.

California Bears Without Opponent

BERKELEY, Cal., Nov. 30.—(AP). —Kenneth Priestley, University of California graduate manager, promised Monday he would announce soon who will play the Golden Bears in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day.

General opinion is that the selection will be made within a few days and will be Pittsburgh, Fordham or Alabama. Pittsburgh and Alabama are old Rose Bowl hands, and it was felt Fordham may get the bid for that reason. Fordham was unbeaten, but tied once during the season by Pittsburgh.

Ten Former Professional Hockeyists Return To Good Graces Of Amateurs

TORONTO, Nov. 30 (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association Executive gave leave today to 10 professional hockeyists seeking to rejoin amateur ranks, bringing to 16 the total of reinstatements in Ontario this season.

At the executive meeting of the association, which started last night and ended early today, reinstatements were approved for: Stanley Vail, Toronto; Don Smillie, Hamilton, Ont.; Robert Hughes, Toronto; William Kampman, Kitchener, Ont.; Laverne Roth, New Hamburg, Ont.; A. Huggins, South Porcupine, Ont.; William Brydge, Kirkland Lake, Ont.; Roy Paglin, Port Elgin, Ont.; Alvin Wilson and George Hines.

The executive also decided that no applications for reinstatement by former professionals would be considered after January 1 for players wishing to compete in amateur ranks this season.

Vail for a while played with New York Rangers in the National Hockey League, finishing his pro career with Windsor Bulldogs in the International League in 1933-34. Brydge played for years in the N.H.L. with New York Americans after making his pro debut back in 1926 with Toronto St. Pats.

Smillie, who played his first pro. game with Hoover Brulins in the N.H.L. in 1934, played his last professional hockey with Bulldogs in the 1935-36 season. Kampman signed a contract with Buffalo Hockey Club in 1930 but never played a pro. game, being released in 1934.

Huggins leaped to pro. ranks after playing with the Allan Cup winning Montreal Winged Wheeler team in 1930.

Sorrell And Kelly To Get Gate In Detroit Shake-Up

Champions' Famous First Line Of Lewis, Barry And Aurie To Be Broken Up

DETROIT, Nov. 30 (AP)—Manager Jack Adams of the once-proud Detroit Red Wings, admitting he has been "buffaloed" by the Stanley Cup hockey champions' current downslide, asked for waivers last night on two players to tie in with a drastic shake-up.

In contemplated plans which hinge on the success of his waivers request, Adams virtually would take the team apart. Among other moves he plans to split up the famous first line of Herbie Lewis, Marty Barry and Larry Aurie.

Waivers were asked on Johnny Sorrell, left winger, playing his eighth season for the Wings, and Pete Kelly, right winger, who has failed to live up to early promises.

Bringing Up Recruit

Adams also said he plans to bring up young Howard Mackie, recruit winger with Detroit's minor league farm club, Pittsburg Hornets. He would ship Kelly and Sorrell to the Hornets in exchange for Mackie.

The Wings, twice successive Cup champions, have furnished little more than target practice opposition to National League foes this season, winning only two in nine games.

"I don't know what's the matter with them," Adams said.

Trying to make the offensive click again, Adams said he would place Barry and Lewis, who with Aurie formed hockey's greatest attacking force the last two years, on separate lines and make Aurie the "15th man."

That means nothing against Aurie, however. The little spitfire of the Wings will be on call from the bench when the Wings need him most.

The New Lines

The new lines would consist of Syd. Howe, Clarence Drouillard and Hec Kilrea; Barry, Carl Liscombe and Mackie, and Lewis, Gordon Pettinger, and Modere Bruneteau.

Adams said Normie Smith, Red Wing goaler, has been ordered to bed suffering an attack of influenza. His condition was not serious, but he will not be able to take the ice until Friday, at least.

Receipts Far Ahead In New York Hockey

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(CP)—Crossing the blue lines with hockeymen at Madison Square Garden one yearns:

Net receipts for all hockey games at the Garden so far this season are $50,000 ahead of the same period during last season, a banner one.

The reason Teddy Graham, Owen Sound blond who backlined for Chicago Blackhawks and New York Americans is around Broadway so much is because he is member of the International-American Hockey League refereeing staff.

Seventy-two puckmen, players and officials, are registered at hotel Alamac here and the wise birds call it "Little Canada."

Garden box office experts estimate Ching Johnson's debut with Amerks drew an extra $3,500 into club's treasury. . . . Lorne Carr, Amerks great sniper from Calgary, is rated the best amateur photographer in the N.H.L. His teammate Sweeney Schriner has a flair for collecting odd rings.

NO BOWL GAMES FOR PITTSBURG

PITTSBURG, Nov. 30.—(AP)—John Weber, Treasurer of the University of Pittsburgh Athletic Council, said late Monday the football team had voted against playing any post-season game.

Pitt officials explained they put the question before the players as to whether they should play at any "Bowl" game, saying no invitation had been received from Rose Bowl officials.

"We had invitations from the Sugar Bowl and the Cotton Bowl which we wanted to place before the boys," said Weber. "So we just tossed in the Rose Bowl for consideration also— in the event we should be invited.

"The boys decided they didn't want to play in any of them, and, so far as we are concerned, if California should invite us we should have to reply negatively."

Sarnia Awaits Big Four Winners

ALEX HAYES MIKE HEDGEWICK

Sarnia Imperials "perennial winners of the O.R.F.U." after a lengthy lay-off since winning their group title, are waiting anxiously for the winner of the interprovincial rugby union to be decided. They will meet either Ottawa Roughriders or Toronto Argonauts for the eastern Canada rugby title and the right to meet Winnipeg Blue Bombers, western titlists, for the Dominion rugby crown. The Oilers have a powerful club and should give their opposition plenty to worry about before the final whistle of the game goes. In Alex Hayes they have a fine quarter-back and drop-kick specialist. He, incidentally, is one of the few real drop-kick artists left in Canadian football. Another big factor in the Oiler's powerful plunging attack is Mike Hedgewick, starry half-back with the team.

Drillon Heads Leafs' Parade With Jackson–Horner Next

Barry - Romnes Lead U. S. Section With Only Eight Points Apiece

MONTREAL, Nov. 30.— (CP) — The National Hockey League scoring race has developed into a family affair between members of the Toronto Maple Leafs' Conn Smythe's snipers have all the individual honors and most of the second and third places, too.

To-day's batch of official league statistics puts Leafs' Gordie Drillon at the head of the parade with 15 scoring points, 8 goals and 7 assists. He's 2 up on his teammates, Harvey Jackson, who has 7 goals and 5 assists, and Red Horner, who has 2 and 10.

In actual goals, Drillon and Jackson are out in front in that order. And big Red, the reformed "Bad Man," is tops in assists. Behind him are two Leafs again—Drillon and Syl Apps, with 7 apiece.

Seven of the first eight spots at the top of the Canadian point standing go to Leafs. The lone outsider is aged Nels Stewart of New York Americans, who was helped along into fifth place by three goals he picked up against Boston Bruins last night. Old Nels's official tabulation credits him with one assist more than the unofficial count.

Marty Barry, centre of the slumping Detroit Red Wings, leads the United States division with Doc Romnes of Chicago Black Hawks. Each has 8 points; but Marty's 5 goals puts him one up on Romnes in this class.

Baldy Northcott of Montreal Maroons is away out in front in the penalty list, with 35 minutes on the bench. Babe Seibert of Montreal Canadiens trials with 25.

Sports Spice

By EDDIE BRIETZ

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C., Nov. 29 (AP)—That 6-6 tie with Georgia Tech probably saved Harry Mehre's job at Georgia. Best end in the country in this book is Daddio of Pittsburgh. If he hadn't been on the shelf so much with injuries he probably would have made every All-America.

Both Dizzy Dean and Van Lingle Mungo may be traded this week and you can sue us if Mungo doesn't bring a better price than the Dazzler.

Pitt isn't interested in any bowl bid except the one from California. J. Curtis Sanford, president of the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, dangled a certified cheque for $50,000 (as a minimum guarantee) under Coach Jock Sutherland's nose at Durham, N.C., Saturday night, but it was no dice. . . And it isn't at all certain that Pitt would accept a bid from Pasadena. . . Having missed out on Pitt, the Cotton Bowl will invite Fordham or Santa Clara in that order.

Dan W. Hill, president of the Piedmont League, will go to the Southern Association next season. . . He'll act in an advisory capacity for a year, then succeed John Martin as president.

Remember When—

(By the Canadian Press).

Detroit's oJe Louis knocked out Charley Massera in three rounds at Chicago (three years ago tonight in his 11th professional fight. The Brown Bomber—now world's heavyweight champion — collected $1,100 for the nine minutes. Ten months later he flattened Max Baer in four rounds and received $217,337.

PANTHERS' NO. 1 RANKING ALMOST UNANIMOUS VOTE

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 —(AP)— The University of Pittsburgh's rating as the No. 1 United States College football team of the year fell only a trifle short of being unanimous in the final round-up of votes for the Associated Press National Writers' poll.

The seventh and last weekly tabulation of nation-wide opinion disclosed Pittsburgh the top choice of twenty-nine out of thirty-three experts and made clear the belief that California, Fordham and Alabama, in that order, compose the "Big Four" of 1937.

The first ten teams, Pittsburgh, California, Fordham, Alabama, Minnesota, Villanova, Dartmouth, Louisiana State, Notre Dame and Santa Clara.

The second ten: Nebraska, Yale, Ohio States, Holy Cross, Arkansas, Texas Christian, Colorado, Rice, North Carolina and Duke.

Only the "Big Four" received the support of every expert casting a final ballot. Pittsburgh, undefeated and tied only by Fordham, topped the rankings throughout the last four weeks; California, the Western Rose Bowl choice, ran second during the eight-th drive after being the nation's No. 1 team for three weeks. The slump in Golden Bear stock followed a scoreless tie with Washington.

Alabama and Santa Clara complied the only all-winning records of teams listed in the first ten.

Villanova, like Pitt and Fordham, showed only one tie on its season's record. Dartmouth, the fourth eastern entry in the top ten, was deadlocked twice. Minnesota was rated several notches above Notre Dame and Nebraska, although defeated by both. Louisiana State's only setback was by a 7 to 6 score at the hands of Vanderbilt.

Notre Dame, although tied by Illinois and beaten by both Carnegie and Pittsburgh, finished strong. The fighting Irish won five of their last six games.

WENSTOB WANTS MARRIAGE MONEY

LONDON, Nov. 30.—(CP)— Back in the boxing picture after two years' absence, Eddie Wenstob of Edmonton to-day looked around for new opponents "to get enough money to get married following a successful appearance last night.

Wenstob defeated Robey Leibbrandt, South African heavyweight, on points in eight rounds. He was the only Canadian to win of four who showed on London fight cards during the night.

In the main bout at Harringay Arena, where Wenstob also fought, Al Delaney of Oshawa lost a close decision to Maurice Strickland, New Zealand, who has an eye on Tommy Farr's British Empires title. The New Zealander took command of the battle in the late rounds of the 10-round scrap. Heavy blows on Delaney's head and body in the eighth gave the final margin that netted Strickland the decision which was greeted by mingled cheers and boos.

The other Canadians appeared at Earl's Court. They were Ken Robinson, Toronto, who lost a 10-round decision to Ben Valentine of the Fiji Islands, and Yorkie Bentley, C...ry, knocked out in the eighth round of a 10-rounder by Stafford Barton of Jamaica.

VICTORIA COUNTY HAS FEW FIGHTS

(Examiner Correspondent.)

LINDSAY, Nov. 30.—Acclamations appear to be in order this year in the municipalities of Victoria county. In Fenelon Township the entire council has been re-elected. In Eldon Township there will be no contest for council, but Reeve C. Benson will fight it out with Robert Spence for the reeveship. Dalton Township council goes back for another term, and the same story is told of Carden Township. The village of Fenelon Falls will see no municipal contest, either for council, school board or light commission.

Office Entered

The office of the Superior Fuel Company was entered by thieves during the week-end. Entrance was gained by smashing a glass in the office window. The cash register was smashed, but it only contained a few cents. An attempt was also made to enter the South Ward School, but the thieves were apparently scared away.

Dr. Frank Speaks

Dr. W. R. Frank of Peterborough was the guest speaker at the local Rotary luncheon Monday. He gave a most interesting talk on social credit.

Herrings Scarce

The run of herrings in this district was a failure this year. Fishermen give it as their opinion that they are practically fished out.

The water in the northern lakes is very high at the present time. Besides the swamps and roads are all full. These conditions, it is pointed out, are most discouraging for bush operations.

Tribe Lists Men Off Trading List

CLEVELAND, Nov. 30.—(AP) — Six players "whom Cleveland Indians will not trade, no matter how attractive the bids for them may be" were listed to-day by General Manager Cyril Slapnicka.

REAL PEACE ON SUNDAY

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt., Nov. 30 (AP) — An entire Vermont county awaited a showdown today on State's Attorney Ernest F. Berry's threat to enforce all blue laws in Windham County's 23 towns next Sunday.

The laws would halt all trucks operating for hire, stop taxis, prevent sale of gasoline, and close news stands and candy shops.

READ THIS FIRST:

Jerry, young son of a country clergyman in modest circumstances, looks back upon his first romantic episode.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 2.

"Did you ever kiss a woman, father?" I asked, following my experience with the young Italian girl.

"I have kissed your mother, of course."

"But before that?"

He grew at once austere. "Why are you asking me, Jerry?"

"I kissed a girl tonight—Theresa."

We walked on for a moment in silence then he said, "Why did you kiss her?"

"Well, she was so pretty!"

"That's is no reason for kissing a woman."

"What would be a reason?"

There was another long stretch of silence then he spoke. "When you hold the soul of a woman in your hand, Jerry, and she holds your soul in hers, then thank God—and kiss her."

I cannot convey to you the strength of the passion that was in his voice. Not the passion of earth, but the passion of high idealism which he strove to implant in the heart of his little son.

I have often wondered whether my mother met the deeps of my father's nature. Looking back upon it in these later years, I am forced to doubt it. Yet I am sure that he believed in the romance which he had begun with her, and he held the hope that in some transcendent future my mother might be stripped of her sheath of petty preoccupations.

I am sure, too, that he turned to me for the satisfying of certain needs. Our imaginations met. I was his child in the sense that I aspired and thrilled as he did, though I lacked always the goodness and strength which made him transmute his emotions into splendid deeds and unselfish devotion.

It was in an excess of youthful ardor that I had kissed Theresa.

I had been sent to get the cows, who followed a path from our pasture down through a lane which was bounded on one side by a neighbor's vineyard. The grapes were being harvested, and I loitered when I came to the gate where the wagons drawn by a pair of great horses stood waiting for the filled crates.

The girls picked the fruit, and the men lifted the crates and carried them to the wagons. I opened the gate and made my way along the aisles between the rows of vines. It was a golden day, nearing its end in a warm haze which blurred the outlines of the lake at our right and the hills to our left. And through this haze I saw Theresa. She smiled, and I was aware of the warm lights in her eyes, the smooth dusk of her cheeks.

She held up a bunch of perfect grapes. "Eat them," she urged.

"Feed me." The words came with an unexpected forwardness. I had never talked like that to a girl.

She broke off a grape and pressed it against my lips. I ate them all from her hands, and her fingers were stained with the juice.

After that we walked down the fragrant aisles together, for her day's work was done. When we came to the wagon by the gates she asked if I wanted a ride; she was to drive to the packing house.

The cows were lingering in the lane, cropping the grass in the fence corners. I could keep an eye on them as we rode along, so I mounted beside Theresa. Back of us the grapes gave out a heady perfume. We said very little; but when we reached the lower gate which I had to open to turn the cows into our barnyard, I was loth to leave her.

"What are you going to do after supper?" I asked.

"Don't you like to sit in the burying ground?" she asked. "It's nice and quiet."

It was, I was aware, an invitation. I had descended from the wagon and stood in the road. The sun was dropping down toward the lake. The warm haze had been superseded by an almost unearthly clearness.

"I'll come to the burying ground," I said, "if you'll be there," and turned away with a beating heart.

I helped my father milk the cows. There were four of them. I took two and my father two. The barn was dim and sweet with the smell of hay. There was no sound but the thin streaming of the milk and the rustle of the straw as the chickens scratched in it.

My father talked little at this time. He thought of his sermon, and I thought of Theresa in that clear light with her green handkerchief, and her red lips, and the invitation in her eyes.

We carried the foaming pails to the dairy room, strained the milk, and I filled a small bowl and set it outside the door for our two barn pussy-cats. They rubbed against my legs and purred, and as I watched them lap their milk. I had a feeling of great content—as if all the world were happy and there was no wretchedness in it.

For supper we had creamed codfish with our baked potatoes. It was my favorite dish, but I did not eat heartily. My mother noticed it.

"Aren't you well?"

"Yes."

"Why don't you eat?"

"Perhaps I had too many grapes."

"Where did you get grapes?"

"I was up in the Needham's vineyard." But I did not tell her of Theresa.

After supper my father and I washed the dishes, while my mother stirred up the buckwheat batter for breakfast. I can see my father yet—tall and thin, with his bright eyes and whimsical smile—tied up in the gingham apron which my mother always made him wear when he worked in the kitchen.

I was glad when, after we finished, my father said he must make a sick call. When he had nothing on hand, he was apt to ask me to walk with him. Hitherto it had been a great privilege, but tonight I wanted to be free.

In the little cemetery were the graves of our ancestors—three generations of Anglo-Saxons. A row of thin headstones marked the resting place of two of my grandfathers and one grandmother—one of my grandmothers was still alive; the rest lay here in state with only the white picket fence of that small plot to separate them from the acres they had redeemed in pioneer days from forest wilderness.

There were late roses blooming, and Theresa had picked one and pinned it against the green kerchief. We, the children of the people who lay there, had been taught not to pick the roses. But Theresa knew no rules. She sat on a table-like slab raised from the earth by four marble feet, with the rose at her breast, and looked at me.

BEDTIME STORY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S OLD FUR COAT

"Throw it out, Mrs. Longears! Throw it out!" called Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy one day just as Uncle Wiggily was hopping away from his hollow stump bungalow to go adventuring. "Throw it out as far as you can."

"My goodness! What can have happened?" thought the rabbit gentleman. "Has a Bad Chap gotten into my bungalow so my wife has to throw him out for Nurse Jane to whip with her long tail? I must stop and see this."

So Uncle Wiggily waited about going adventuring and watched Nurse Jane, who was standing under an upstairs window where Mr. Longears could see his wife moving about.

"Which Bad Chap is it, Nurse Jane?" asked Mr. Longears.

"Bad Chap, what do you mean?" inquired the muskrat lady housekeeper.

"I heard you tell Mrs. Longears to throw it out of the window," said the rabbit gentleman. "I thought you were speaking of the Fox or the Bob Cat who had sneaked in and—"

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Nurse Jane.

No Bad Chap

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily, for now he knew he had nothing to fear.

"I was speaking of your old fur coat," said Nurse Jane. "I want your wife to throw it from the attic where it has been stored all Summer. It probably has a lot of moths in it, so I thought I would hang it out on the line to air it and get rid of the little bugs.

"A good idea," said Uncle Wiggily.

"You will only need your old fur coat to wear in rough storms when you aren't going any place special," went on Nurse Jane.

"I understand," said Mr. Longears.

"Of course, when you dress up and go special places," said the muskrat lady housekeeper, "you will wear your best fur coat."

"Of course," said Mr. Longears.

Then Nurse Jane called:

"Throw it out, Mrs. Longears."

"Here it comes!" said the rabbit lady.

Out of the attic window and down to the ground turning over and over, came Uncle Wiggily's old fur coat flipping and flopping.

"If I hadn't known what it was," said Mr. Longears, jumping out of the way, for it nearly pounced on him. "I would have thought it was the Fuzzy Fox after me."

Looked Alive

"Yes, it did look like a live animal," said Nurse Jane.

Then, as Uncle Wiggily, in his light, early Fall fur coat, which was quite different from his old fur coat and still different from his new Winter fur coat, hopped to the woods to look for an adventure, Nurse Jane fastened on the clothesline the old fur coat Mrs. Longears had tossed out of the attick window.

"Scat, you little rascals!" cried the muskrat lady housekeeper to a lot of moths who had rented flats and apartments in Uncle Wiggily's old fur coat. "Get out, if you please. This is no place for you. Scat!"

"Oh, dear! This is too bad!" whined an old gentleman moth with a large family of children who were not only living in the old fur coat, but eating it as well. "Can't we just stay for the Winter?"

"Out you go!" cried Nurse Jane.

So she beat the coat with sticks, driving out the moths and left the garment hanging on the line in the cool afternoon while the wind blew the moths far away. Then something happened. I'll tell you about it tomorrow in the story Uncle Wiggily chasing himself.

But please don't let the coffee pot make tea in the frying pan and then tell the radio it's applesauce

EATS RAZOR BLADE FOR CHARITY ACT THEN BECOMES ILL

HALIFAX, Nov. 30—(CP)—Jack Redcloud, billed in stage performance as the "wonder boy," chewed and swallowed a razor blade and an electric light bulb and picked up needles with his eyes as part of his act in a charity show at a Halifax theatre last night. About an hour later he was found crumpled on a sidewalk.

After an emergency operation his condition was described as "not serious."

Hospital authorities announced he had emitted several pieces of razor blades, tacks and chips of glass after the operation. Effect of the sharp objects on his system was given as cause of his sudden illness.

A police officer said he found Redcloud face down on the sidewalk, his hands outspread across the pavement and complaining of "pains in his stomach."

Theatre officials said Redcloud had swallowed one razor and part of a light bulb. As proof of his act, the officials said, he volunteered to examination by X-ray by any doctor in the city. Other tricks were advertised as swallowing carpet tacks, and bending with his teeth ⅝ to ½ and inch iron bars.

He is believed to be a native of Los Angeles, Calif., and his parents are thought to reside in Toronto.

"I thought you weren't coming," she said.

"What made you think that?"

"You were late."

"I came as soon as I could."

I sat down beside her. She held out her hand to me, and I took it. I thought I had never seen anything so sweet and pretty as little Italian Theresa. And so I kissed her. There was a crescent moon just above her head, which seemed to crown her.

VOTE TWO HOUSES OF EQUAL POWERS WITH NEW SOVIET

MOSCOW, Nov. 30—(CP).—After the elections of Dec. 12 the Soviet Union will join the majority of powers with a bi-cameral, or two-chamber government. Observers wonder how far the new body will function as a parliament and how far as a rubber stamp for Joseph Stalin.

Most agree the all-powerful General Secretary of the Communist Party is giving up nothing of his powers and that the new Supreme Soviet will remain under the direction of the Politbureau, inner council of the party with Stalin at its head.

In form the Supreme Soviet most resembles the United States Congress. One chamber, the Soviet of Union, is to be elected on the basis of population as is the United States House of Representatives. The other, the Soviet of Nationalities, will be on a regional basis similar to the United States Senate. Both houses will have equal powers and will be re-elected every four years unless dissolved before the term ends.

Since the new constitution introducing the changes was adopted last December, the Soviet government has been busy setting up election machinery, preparing regulations and educating voters. The country with its 170,000,000 population was divided into 569 electoral districts, each of which will send one deputy to the Soviet of Union. This is on the basis of one member for every 300,000 people.

The Soviet of Nationalities will have 574 members, consisting of 25 each from the 11 union republics (similar to provinces) and the remainder from the various autonomous republics, regions and territories.

A similarity to the Canadian parliamentary system is that members of the government are to hold seats in the union and answer members' questions directly from the floor of the chamber. Stalin was offered the nomination in 177 electoral districts by workers' organizations who have the right to nominate candidates. He finally decided to stand for the Stalin district of Moscow.

Will Elect Cabinet

After the election the Soviet will meet in joint session to elect a cabinet, called the Council of People's Commissars. This will include such officials as the commissars of finance, foreign affairs, agriculture, justice, heavy industry and others.

Also chosen at the joint session will be a presidium of 37 members to wield the executive powers when the soviet is not in session. The constitution provides, however, that the soviet must meet twice a year and may be called into extraordinary session.

Both Houses will have power to initiate legislation. A law will be adopted if passed by a simple majority in each House. In the event of disagreement between Houses the law is to go to a joint conciliation commission if it still cannot agree, the soviet is to be dissolved.

Corresponding to provincial legislatures in Canada will be Supreme Soviets of the Union Republics, each with its Council of People's Commissars, and below these, in the role of municipal and county administrations, will stand the local Soviets of Toilers' Deputies.

While there is no knowing how closely Stalin will control the elections and the activities of the Supreme Soviet, the new set-up represents a long step toward democracy from the rule of the czars.

Until the revolution of 1905 the czars ruled as complete autocrats. Forced into concessions then, they set up so-called popular government but reserved the more important powers to themselves.

A legislative body was established with an upper chamber, of which the czar appointed half the members and the autocracy elected the other half. In the elections of the lower house, the Duma, an electoral system was imposed which restricted the people in the exercise of voting rights. The czar had the right to prorogue and summon the Duma at will and to promulgate laws during its recesses.

With only one party in the field the election campaign is likely to be fought over personalities and local questions. Among rights guaranteed specifically by the constitution are those of free speech, free assembly and freedom of the press, but it remains to be seen to what extent they will be exercised.

Were Covered by Wood; Murder Hearing Told

WALKERTON, Ont., Dec. 1 (CP)—Crown's case against 36-year-old Walter Turner, charged with the murder of his wife at Dresden, went into its second day before Mr. Justice J. C. Makins and a Bruce county assize court jury today.

Constable Elvah Peters of Chatham said he saw blood on several pieces of wood in the Turner woodshed Feb. 25, the day Mrs. Turner was killed and her body found in a woodpile near the house.

"One of the sticks of wood was bloody, with strands of hair clinging to it," Peters testified. The woodpile was from five to seven feet high.

In the house he found Mrs. Turner's clothes in a bedroom. On a subsequent visit he found pools of blood near the woodpile where the body was first discovered.

"We did not find the second pool until we began to pile up the scattered wood," he said. "It was covered up."

Taking of Crown evidence started yesterday after selection of a jury. Turner, wearing a dark blue suit, appeared greatly interested in the evidence this morning.

He was arrested after reporting to Chatham police that he had found his wife's body and carried it from the woodpile to the house.

Sleeping at the Time.

Turner had claimed he was sleeping at the time his wife must have been killed, Peters said. The constable added that he and Inspector S. H. Ward of the Provincial Police had been able to hear wool falling when they arranged to have part of the woodpile pushed over.

If Mrs. Turner was caught by a falling woodpile, Peters suggested Turner would have heard the noise from his bedroom.

Turner's statement, in which he told of being asleep and later finding his wife's body in the pile, was read in court.

Cross-examined by G. C. Rigle, defence counsel, Peters said some of the wood was soft maple. When the attorney suggested all the wood exhibited in court was hard green wood, the constable disagreed and stepped down from the witness.

ORDER OTTAWAN'S DEATH PROBED

HULL, Que., Dec. 1—(CP)—Dr. Rosario Fontaine, Quebec medico-legal expert, will come here to-day to conduct an autopsy on the body of Fred Lake, prominent Ottawa businessman and former professional hockey player.

Lake was missing from home since Sunday afternoon and his body was found behind the wheel of an automobile on a deserted farm near the Connaught Park Jockey Club, six miles west of here, early yesterday. The body was lying on the seat, its head propped up by two small pillows.

A garage worker, after examining the car which was found in a shed on the untenanted farm, discovered that the exhaust pipe had been lengthened and led into the interior of the machine.

Coroner Josephat Isabelle of Hull said while circumstances surrounding the man's death were "peculiar," the cause of death would not be known until after the autopsy.

The automobile in which Lake's body was found bore Toronto license plates and a car crank was discovered a few feet from its rear wheels. There were also two sets of footmarks near the machine, which were prefectly preserved by the recent cold weather.

Matthews Opens New Session In 200 Word Speech

No Undue Opposition Expected to Proposals Unless New Power Contracts Stir Fireworks

TORONTO, Dec. 1—(CP)—First session of Ontario's 20th legislature, convened for the specific purpose of removing "all obstacles" to the collection of succession duties from estates closed by former government, heard one of the shortest throne speeches on record today.

Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews, acting in his new capacity for the first time, delivered the 200-word throne speech. It said collection of succession duties had been challenged in the courts and that bills would be submitted to make effective legislation passed in former years.

The session is expected to last a week or 10 days. No undue opposition to the government's proposals is expected, though possible legislation respecting new power contracts by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, which political circles believe will be brought down, probably will be productive of controversy.

Sixty-seven members occupy government benches—the 64 straight Liberals will receive the support of the two Liberal-Progressive members and the one United Farmer. In opposition are 23 Conservatives, led in the house by Leopold Macaulay. It is Ontario's second Liberal government in 30 years.

Mr. Macaulay, recently elected House leader, has announced the Conservative opposition would give no undue opposition to the government amendments to the succession duty act. Hon. Earle Rowe, provincial party leader, is directing affairs from outside the House. He was defeated in the October 6 general election and is now, as he was during the last legislature, a member of the House of Commons.

Necessary Changes

The Amendments to the Succession Duty Act are considered necessary by Premier Hepburn to strengthen the government's hand in its Royal Commission investigations of estates which allegedly have failed to pay the full duty. Several such inquiries are held in abeyance pending the legislative session.

INFORMALITY TO MARK

MONTREAL TRIO FACE KIDNAPPING OF EX-EMPLOYEE

MONTREAL, Dec. 1—(CP)—Two Montreal executives and an employee were to appear in court today to answer charges of kidnapping and conspiring to extort money, laid by J. E. Barron, a former employee who said the three had held him captive three days.

Barron alleged Ralph Bloomfield and Bernard Bloomfield, officers of David Fields, Inc., for whom Barron once worked, and J. Derrington an employee of the company, kept him prisoner until a friend obtained a court order for his release. Barron and his employers were said to have been in dispute over $600 expense money advanced him by the firm.

After leaving Montreal and the company's employ, Barron said he was located in Northern Ontario by Derrington and brought back to the offices here. He was questioned and held captive under guard, he alleged, being taken from the office to the home of an employee each night. A friend was not permitted to see him, Barron said.

Friends went to a lawyer and a court order for his release was obtained. Other details were withheld by Provincial Police, who arrested the trio yesterday on a warrant sworn out by Barron.

Plane Hunts Hours Vainly For Fishers

ST. IGNACE, Mich., Dec. 1—(AP) Coast guardsmen at Mackinac Island reported to-day an army plane from Selfridge Field flew over the Straits of Mackinac for six hours and then headed towards its base, leading to belief the fliers found no trace of two fishermen missing since Sunday.

The coast guard expected to receive definite word from the Army Air Corps winter base at Camp Skeel, Oscoda. Coast guardsmen abandoned search by water pending more definite clues.

The two men, Carl Mattson and Raymond McLean, of St. Ignace, set out in a rowboat Sunday to lift nets and have not been seen since.

Killing Job Shot Nerves Is Plea in Baby-Murder

Husband Went To Pieces At Packing Plant Young Wife Tells Court

EDMONTON, Dec. 1 (C.P.). — The 22-year-old wife of Hector Damery, charged with slapping their three-months-old baby girl to death last Friday, testified at the inquest yesterday Damery's "nerves went to pieces" while he was working on the killing floor of an Edmonton packing plant.

Mrs. Lucienne Damery said it was not until after her husband started working at the plant that she saw him slap the child. Damery, aged 23, was charged with murder after his wife told police on Friday he slapped the baby because her crying irritated him.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict attributing the infant's death to "cerebral hemorrhage caused by bruises on the face and head."

Damery, who worked at the packing plant for about two weeks until he was laid off two days before the baby's death, reserved plea when

TORONTO TAXIMAN ROBBED OF HIS CAB

TORONTO, Dec. 1 (CP).—Lorne Martin, 32, Toronto taxi-driver, was ordered from his car early today by a passenger, who drove away in the machine. Martin said he was ordered from the car at gun-point. No attempt was made to rob the driver of money.

Police of municipalities surrounding Toronto were asked to look for the stolen car. It was feared the vehicle might be used in another crime. The driver described the gunman as being about 40 years old, of medium build, with fair hair.

Martin said his passenger told him to turn up a street, and a little later ordered him to pull into the curb.

"I turned about and came face to face with a long black revolver," he said. "I was scared. It was the first time I ever had one of those things pushed against my face. I don't know how far I ran, but I came to a store and telephoned the police."

RICH ARE HOARDING CASH IN DIAMONDS

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (AP)—Astonishing rise in diamond sales—up 23.8 per cent over 1936 figures for October—disclosed today many of the United States wealthy families are sinking their dollars in cashable brilliance.

Some New York dealers ascribed the wave of buying to fear that the dollar might be cheapened.

"We have had calls from retailers for especially large and valuable stones lately — stones of three and one-half to 16 carats, worth $7,000 to $25,000 apiece," said L. H. Stern, partner in a Fifth Avenue diamond brokerage firm.

"The idea," he added, "would be to have them as a backlog."

Diamond imports for the first nine months of 1937 totalled $32,229,335 compared to $28,936,604 for all of 1936—an increase of $3,290,731.

Her husband, the late Charles G. Langdon, and his entire staff were jailed by State militia. Langdon had criticized use of troops in the strike.

Mrs. Langdon's paper carried the page one headline:

"Slightly disfigured but still in the ring."

One Safe Is Cracked While Offices Badly Ransacked

Three Service Stations and Two Offices Are Entered During Night by Burglar Gang

Five coal yards and service stations in widely separated sections of Peterborough were visited by burglars Tuesday night.

Net proceeds of the series of break-ins was estimated at three dollars in small change which was filched from a cash drawer at the Curtis Service Station on Charlotte street.

At the Dalhousie street premises of The Scott Coal and Lumber Company, cracksmen lugged an iron safe into the coal yard. They upended the safe and broke into it through the bottom presumably with a sledge hammer.

The safe contained no money, merely some records on the previous days business. Had the burglars but known it they could have opened the safe with a mere turn of the knob. It was not locked.

Apparently working on the assumption that it was locked and that it safeguarded a sum of money, the cracksmen not only stove in the bottom of the safe but they smashed off the combination lock and the door hinges.

On patrol in the early hours of the morning Sergeant William Wigg flashed his torch through the office window and after noticing that the safe was not in its customary position, made the discovery the premises had been burglarized.

Found Three Others

Suspecting other jobs might be attempted by the burglars, who have not yet been rounded-up by the police, Sergeant Wigg and Constable W. A. Clarke discovered three other break-ins at the Shell Service Station on Charlotte street; at Dawson's Service Station at McDonnel and Reid streets; and at the Curtis Service Station.

The fifth break-in was reported by Thomas Rehill who discovered when he opened up for business this morning that the premises of Thomas A. Rehill Company on Wolfe street had been entered.

At the Shell Station entry was gained by breaking a pane of glass in a side door. Desk drawers had been rifled but a check up revealed nothing was missing.

Seventh Break-In

Victimized by burglars for the seventh time in the course of a few years, Miss Dawson said the service station garage doors showed signs of having been tampered with. She did not believe the premises had been entered, nothing having been stolen.

Mr. Rehill reported the lock on the side door to his office premises had been forced and the office entered. He could find no sign of the safe having been tampered with, nor of any other disturbance in the office.

After police learned of the first of the robberies a couple of drunks ar-

NO ANNOUNCEMENT NEW BEAUHARNOIS DEAL THIS WEEK

TORONTO, Dec. 1 (C.P.).—Chairman Thomas Hogg of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, said to-day he did not think there would be any announcement this week on a revised contract with the Beauharnois Light, Heat and Power Company for a power supply to the Commission.

Dr. Hogg refrained from comment on reports that basis for a new agreement has been reached, but that the Dominion Government has refused to permit export to the United States of Ontario power. The reports said the pending agreement depended on ability to export surplus power.

"Im not prepared to say anything at the moment," said Dr. Hogg.

Export of additional Niagara power is desired by the Ontario Government and its Hydro Commission, it was reported, because of the contract with the Gatineau Power Company which provides that before Ontario can contract for additional Quebec power the full 120,000 horse-

Callaghan Book Said "Blurred"

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (CP).—"More Joy in Heaven," latest novel of Morley Callaghan of Toronto, which parallels in some respects the strange life drama of Red Ryan, Ontario's notorious criminal, is put down today by Reviewer Alfred Kazin of the Herald-Tribune as undistinguished and "blurred."

The reviewer finds Kip Caley, central figure of the novel, "somehow more the shape of a dilemma than a character." Kip is a bank robber who, when paroled, appears to adjust himself as an honest hotel employee but eventually returns to his criminal ways. A police bullet ends Caley's career, just as one did paroled Ryan's during a liquor store holdup in Sarnia, Ont., last year.

In indicating the multiple Caley on the score of vagueness, Mr. Kazin was not aware that Ryan, Kip's double in cerebral multiplicity, had lived and died under circumstances often similar.

TRUCKS CLAIM CREDIT, LOWER SHIPPING COSTS

Claim Information Withheld by Railways

TORONTO, December 1—(CP)—Lower transport costs to consumers have resulted from motor truck competition with railways, J. A. Argo, chief of the freight tariff division of the Canadian National Railways, said to-day before the Chevrier Royal Transport Commission.

R. L. Kellock, counsel for the Ontario Roarbuilders' Association, asked Mr. Argo if motor truck competition in so far as it decreased railway rate, had benefited the consumer. The competition had led to reduced transport costs to the consumer, Mr. Argo replied.

In cross-examination, Mr. Kellock asked that, if railway freight rates were fixed on the principle of what the tariff will bear, would the tendency be for traffic to go to truckers where truck rates were lower.

"That is the tendency to a certain extent and we are attempting to meet it," Mr. Argo replied. "Railways must take the milk with the cream and we hope there is enough cream." The railway executive said the railways protected the small shipper by public filing of freight tariffs. Station agents at small centres solicit business and assist shippers in interpreting tariffs, he said.

Holding Out.

Lewis Duncan, counsel for the Automotive Transport Association of Ontario, charged the railways were withholding information concerning rate structure at the inquiry.

"There is no question my friend's clients have brought about this inquiry," Mr. Duncan said, referring to J. Gillanders, counsel for the Railway Association of Canada.

"We are not concerned about the fight, if there is one, between certain interests," said Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier, Commission chairman.

Mr. Gillanders assured the commission the railways would provide all information within their powers if the commission desired it.

The basis principles of railway rate structure was required, Mr. Duncan said, adding that he wanted railway "higher-up" to appear at the commission hearings and be cross-examined.

He feared, however, that if he subpoened Sir Edward Beatty, Canadian Pacific Railway president that Mr. Beatty would be his witness and cross-examination by him would be prohibited by court rules.

BRITAIN, FRANCE SOUND OUT CZECHS

LONDON, Dec. 1 (AP) — Great Britain and France, informed sources disclosed today, will sound out Czechoslovakia on its willingness to make concessions to Germany on the problem of the German minority within its borders. Possible concessions by Austria also will be examined.

London and Paris, showing willingnes sto help Germany, hoped in return they might drown concrete commitments toward peace from the Berlin-Rome diplomatic axis.

French Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos, who received the British views at length in two days of talks which closed yesterday, will conduct part of the inquiry into the minorities situation on a visit to France's central an deastern European allies starting later this week.

The nature of the concessions which might be expected of Czechoslovakia and Austria was not disclosed.

World War Held Inevitable If China Gets Soviet Aid

Oriental Statesman Sees Key Of Peace Lying In Russian Hands

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 1 (CP). — Within the next two or three weeks China must face the question of enlisting Russian aid in her struggle against Japan, and in the hands of the Soviet lies the key to world peace or war, in the opinion of Dr. T. Z. Koo, Chinese statesman. If Russia goes to the help of China, a world war is inevitable, he said.

More than 1,000 Londoners last night heard Dr. Koo speak under auspices of the Student Christian movement unit of the University of Western Ontario. He spoke in support of a nation-wide relief fund being collected for university students in China.

In the event that China solicited and obtained the assistance of Russia the Tokyo-Rome-Berlin military understanding would become operative, and the world once more would be dragged into war, said the speaker.

Fire In Bertram's Barn Found To Have Been Accidental

Marshal Expresses Opinion Started From Match Going Through Separator

In his report to the Honorable Gordon D. Conant, K.C., Attorney-General for Ontario, bearing on his recent investigation of a threshing fire which destroyed the barns and other outbuildings on the farm of John Bertram on the First Line of Smith Township on August 30 last, Fire Marshall W. J. Scott finds, "There is nothing to indicate it was other than purely accidental."

A copy of the report to the Attorney-General received here by W. F. Huycke, K.C., counsel for the Fire Marshal, expresses the opinion that, "The Bertram fire started from a match or matches going through the separator just at the close of threshing operations."

Purely Accidental

"There is no suspicion," the report adds, "that the fire was designed or desired and no evidence indicating any negligence on the part of those engaged in the threshing operations. Although positive evidence as to the cause of this threshing fire is lacking, there is nothing to indicate it was other than purely accidental."

At the public inquiry held at the Court House here on November 16 and 17, the Fire Marshal was assisted by Mr. Huycke, as counsel; with R. H. Greer, K.C., of Toronto, as counsel for the insurer and W. C.

Chinese Protest Italy Recognizing Manchoukuo; Duce's Paper Counsels China to Sue for Peace

The Chinese government today reportedly protested to Italy over its recognition of the puppet state of Manchoukuo.

It was reported here that the provision headquarters of the foreign office at Hankow wired instructions to the Chinese ambassador at Rome to make the protest.

SEVERAL POOLS OF BLOOD FOUND DRESDEN CASE

stand to mark wood that was not hard.

Mr. Justice Makins remarked he could not see there would be great difference in the noise made by falling soft and harg wood.

Inspector Ward, next witness called, described his visit to the Turner home on February 27, two days after the fatality.

50 Pieces in Crash.

Inspector Sidney Oliver, provincial officer for the district embracing Dresden, said approximately 50 pieces of wood had fallen from the pile. Some were small.

Dr. J. S. Ruttle, physician called to the Turner home February 25, said when he arrived Turner told him: "I'm afraid you're too late."

"He told me," said Dr Ruttle, "that the woodpile had fallen on her and he took me out to see it."

Crown Prosecutor H. D. Smith, K.C., asked the doctor what position Mrs. Turner was in.

"Turner told me she was covered with wood," he replied.

"What else was said?"

"I asked him how the wood was piled and he said it was high in one section. Turner said he had thrown the wood off his wife and carried her into the house.

"Did you see any blood in the house?"

"No, I didn't see any except the spot on the ground where her head lay. It was covered with blood.

"Her hands and arms were cold, the chest still warm. The back of her head was satured with blood. She had a swollen black eye and at least one laceration on the back of the head."

"What did you think of her injuries?"

"I thought she had a fractured skull."

"Could all these serious injuries be received by falling wood?" Col Hunter asked.

"She might have received the fractured skull and lacerations from the falling wood, but I do not think she could have received chest injuries as well," Dr. Ruttle testified.

Seemed Very Loving

Cross-examined by Mr Elgie, concerning relationships between Turner and his wife when the latter had pneumonia some time before her death, Dr. Ruttle said Turner appeared very interested in the well-being of his wife.

"Would you say that he was even more attentive than most men," Mr. Elgie asked.

"Yes, I think I would. He was always good to her when I was there, and I never noticed any evidence of quarrelling at their house.

Dr. Ruttle replied to a question by Mr. Justice Makins. He believed Mrs. Turner had been dead about 45 minutes when he arrived at the home.

The doctor added she was a frail woman and it would not have taken "very much weight" to break her ribs. He estimated she weighed about 100 pounds, in reply to a defence question.

He was taken home, and later received medical attention in Hastings. An X-ray will be taken at Campbellford to ascertain the seriousness of the fracture. Just one year ago Bruce fell at school and received injuries to his head.

King's Export Refusal Seen Slap to Hepburn

TORONTO, Dec. 1.—(CP)— The Toronto Globe and Mail says in a newspage story to-day it is reliably reported the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission's long-considered purchase of power from the Beauharnois Light, Heat and Power Company will be announced shortly."

The newspaper adds the announcement will be made "probably before the present special session of the Ontario Legislature concludes." The Legislature opens to-day to ratify government amendments to the Succession Duty Act.

The paper continues:

"It will be executed by the Hepburn Government, as definitely planned last week, in spite of the point-blank refusal Monday of Prime Minister King and his Ottawa Cabinet to expedite the situation by allowing the province to export to the United States —presumably to New York-Hudson—certain blocks of 'excess' power which must, of necessity, be taken under the pending contract.

Announcement By Hogg.

"Details of this Beauharnois purchase will come, it is understood, from Dr. T. H. Hogg, Hydro chairman. Costly litigation in which the company and Hydro are now involved over the original purchase in the Ferguson-Henry days will be abandoned, it is understood, in view of the purchase which Hydro is prepared to make.

"Mr. King's refusal of co-operation to Mr. Hepburn on the export issue does not, it is reported, affect Beauharnois' position in any way. The province will have to carry a little more surplus than it had originally bargained for, but that will not deter Mr. Hepburn or his government from approving completely of the contract which the Hydro Commission and Beauharnois officials have negotiated over the last few weeks.

"The Ontario Cabinet, in special

Freighter Wins 46-Hour Battle With Gale

Faced Disaster Once When Ship Flung Completely Around Says Veteran Crew

FORT WILLIAM, Dec. 1—(CP)—The Great Lakes steamer Berryton was safe today after a terrific battering from waves and wind that veteran crew members said equalled in strength and intensity storms that swept the lakes in 1913 with disaster to many ships.

Sheathed in ice and with great icicles hanging from the pilot house and the rigging, the freighter reached Fort William yesterday after 46 hours of battle north and northwest gales on Lake Superior after it left Sault Ste. Marie Sunday.

"It was pretty bad," was the laconic comment of Captain J. E. Stewart. The Berryton encountered gales soon after passing through the Sault locks, he said, and the winds increased Sunday night and Monday.

Disaster threatened the freighter when she was turned completely around by the gale. The ship regained an even keel, however, and ran before the storm. During a lull she was brought back to her course.

The ship's orders were to load 300,000 bushels of wheat here for eastern ports and it cleared last night before the insurance rates increased at midnight.

power held in reserve by Gatineau for the Commission must be purchased.

With Dominion Government permission to export the surplus, the Commission could absorb the Gatineau reserve in its Niagara system and complete an agreement with Beauharnois, it was stated.

Issue Licenses Sparingly.

OTTAWA, Dec. 1 (C.P.). — Export of power is controlled by the Federal Government under a statute passed 30 years ago and succeeding administration issued licenses sparingly.

(It has been reported in Toronto the Hepburn Government failed to obtain a license from the Federal administration to export power as part of a settlement of the long-standing contract dispute with the Beauharnois Light, Heat and Power Company.)

Under the Electric and Fluid Exportation Act of 1907, licenses are granted by the Government. Licenses have been granted sparingly in the past because it was considered poor business to build American industries so they could competes with Canadian plants in their own market.

Indicating the relatively small amount of power exported from Canada, production in October was 76,300,000 kilowatt hours and exports 4,600,000.

FREIGHT ON LAKES EXPECTED TO BEAT RECORD SET 1929

TORONTO, Dec. 1 (CP) — Great Lakes navigation came to its deadline today with what was believed to be the greatest movement of freight in history.

Summer insurance rates expired last midnight when final figures for freight transported over the five lakes was expected to top by 500,000 tons the 138,574,441-ton record set in 1929. This was for the five major commodities, iron ore, bituminous coal, anthracite, stone and grain as reported by the Lake Superior Iron Ore Association.

A few ships remained to ply the lakes but insurance on ship and cargo was increased 1½ per cent, effective until Dec. 5 when a sliding scale of increases will be put in effect at three-day intervals until insurance suspension Dec. 12.

Although official figures will not be available until this winter, it was known the 1937 commerce was at least 27 per cent greater than last year when total tonnage of the major commodities was 102,041,785. This year the freighters carried 130,578,838 tons of the major comodities.

Race To Beat Time

Some of the ships cleared port in time to beat the deadline but others will continue operation until freeze-up. In order to escape the increased tariff vessels had to have lines cast off any dock or pier and be in motion in a forward direction at midnight.

It was not necessary for the ships to continue their voyage without a stop and some completed loading and sailed out to harbor where anchors were dropped to await daylight before resuming their trips.

Shipping at Sault Ste. Marie moved at an accelerated pace yesterday after week-end gales sent many ships to shelter while others moved slowly through storm-tossed Lake Superior. The gale heralded the approach of

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Large North American wheat export sales, estimated at 1,700,000 bushels, was the major influence today in sending wheat futures 3 to 3½ cents higher on Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Profit-taking cut gains down occasionally with final prices 4¼ to 2 cents higher, December $1.14¼, May $1.12¼ to ⅛, and July $1.06¼.

A combination of bullish news induced general buying on a moderate scale, with light offerings assisting materially to advance in prices.

Export demand for United States wheat by Germany and Mexico brought sales to approximately 1,500,000 bushels, while Canadian export sales were estimated at 200,000 bushels, mostly from the Pacific Coast.

Conference Held Girls' Work Board

Representatives of the Protestant Churches in the city that have organized Girls' Groups, and also some girls and their leader from Curve Lake attended a conference of the local Girls' Work Board in the Y.W.C.A. The conference was held for all leaders and teachers of girls' teen-age groups in Peterborough and district, with Miss Helen Lunan of Toronto, Denominational Secretary of Girls' Work, in charge.

The afternoon session was devoted to an informal discussion with Miss Lunan. At six o'clock, the leaders met around the supper table in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A. when thanks was expressed by Mrs. L. J. Pettit, president of the Girls' Work Board, to the Y.W.C.A. and Mrs. Morrison who had been responsible for the supper.

During the evening session, Miss Lunan conducted an impressive worship service such as might be used with a girls' group. The theme was, 'I purpose to use my talents,' and Miss Lunan quoted, "Couldst thou in vision see the one God meant, thou never more wouldst be the one thou art—content." Saying that 'worship' was the one phase of girls' work which most needed strengthening, the Leader showed how the worship period could be improved. A general discussion followed.

The leaders present were welcomed at the evening session by Mrs. Pettit, and non-members of the Girls' Work Board invited to attend the monthly meetings. The president expressed the thanks of the meeting to Miss Lunan for her splendid leadership.

Married Despite Threat

With smiles lighting up their faces, Valeria Brooke, daughter of the white rajah of Sarawak, and Bob Gregory, British wrestler, are shown leaving the London registery office following their marriage there. The match was opposed by the bride's parents but from the confetti, the couple's friends apparently approved the marriage. Miss Brooke's mother, the Ranee of Sarawak is at present in Hollywood assisting in the production of a picture depicting her country.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"Blessed are the happiness makers! Blessed are they that remove friction, that take away attritions, that make the course of life smooth, and the intercourse of men gentle!"
—Henry Ward Beecher.

Dear Friends:

Yes, blessed are all these people but—we sometimes need friction and attritions in our lives. Most women use an abrasive in the kitchen of their home. Some remove dirt and grime, some are hard and are used to sharpen knives and scissors.

Without this friction we could not cut things, and what is so annoying as dull scissors or knives, and so disgusting as grease and grime?

So you can see that if we need friction in some kinds of machinery like dentists' tools or instruments, when we need it to take carbon from parts of cars, when it is used in so many ways for our comfort, just realize we also need some of it in our lives.

No doubt if these tools could speak, they would say ouch, you are hurting me. Why don't you leave me alone? And it is the same in our lives. There is a peace which is stagnating, a too much smoothness which is devastating, which holds us back because we do not recognize that we are through with that phase of life and are ready to go on to the next one.

There is the friction when one tries to get the lazy one out of bed to look for a job, and the false peace when one does not do their duty in that respect. There is smoothness on the surface, and a seething bitter unrest underneath when one puts up with intolerable conditions.

There is, in nature the clammy miserable heat which nothing but a thunderstorm will clear, and there is the same kind of indignant heat under the surface of what looks like harmony, and nothing but outspokenness will clear it either.

There is the attrition of a woman's sharp tongue spurring her man on to better things when she sees him slumping and falling down, and there is the friction between her and her children when she speaks with the voice of authority, and tells them they cannot do this and so, or else.

There would be less broken hearts if those frictions and attritions were used oftener and at the right time. No use locking the stable door after the horse is stolen, and no use waiting until the harm is done before lifting your voice and shape your hand.

And sometimes at that we do not avert what comes, but at least we have the knowledge we did what we could, but some have to get further abrasives from life before they will learn, more than our kind hearts can give.

Now, don't get me wrong, and think I blame God for all the ills that happen to us, but there are times in our lives when even He must use friction on us before we will do our best.

Sometimes it is the spur of poverty, sometimes it is a sick body, sometimes He even takes our playthings away from us, or the one we have set our affections on so that we are blinded, what we might do the work He has for us to do. Yes we need a certain amount of friction. More later. Your Friend, ROBERTA.

ARE YOU ONLY A THREE-QUARTER WIFE?

THERE are certain things a woman has to put up with and be a good sport.

Men, because they are men, can never understand a three-quarter wife—a wife who is all love and kindness three weeks in a month and a hell cat the rest of the time.

No matter how your back aches—no matter how loudly your nerves scream—don't take it out on your husband.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood, 2. Preparing for motherhood, 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

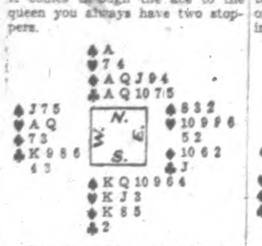
THE RIGHT DECLARER

THAT simple no trump consideration of desiring to be the declarer when you hold plenty of kings or queens, but preferring to have your partner play the hand when you have more than your share of aces, can also apply to a suit bid. If the opening lead comes through a guarded king, it can cost you two tricks right off the reel. If instead it comes up to the king, only one trick is lost at the outset. On a lead through a queen up to an ace, you have only one stopper if the king sits over the queen, but when it comes through the ace to the queen you always have two stoppers.



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

In a team-of-four match a slam was reached on this deal at both tables but in different suits. In each case the bidding started with North calling 1-Diamond, South 1-Spade, North 2-Clubs, South 2-Spades, North 4-Clubs and South 4-Diamonds. At one table North now responded 5-Diamonds and South 6-Diamonds, but at the other North called 4-No Trump, South 5-Spades and North 6-Spades.

Where North played the hand at 6-Diamonds, a heart was led and the contract was immediately set.

The other South declarer, fearing a lead through his heart suit, decided to bid 5-Spades after the 4-No Trump, to give his partner a chance to see where the safest spot was. Six spades was agreed upon as the final contract and as the lead came up to South it would not have mattered if a heart had been led, as only one trick would have been lost in that suit.

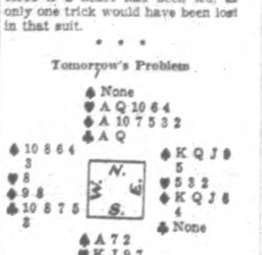
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

East opened the bidding with 1-Spade. How can North-South reach the correct contract with their holdings?

New Name Chosen For Girls' Club

MILLBROOK, Dec. 1—Mrs. E. C. Richards gave the use of her kitchen for the junior girls' club meeting on Saturday, when fourteen were present. Last year the girls, who then called themselves "The Girls' Supper Club", had but nine members; it is hoped to still further increase the enrollment this season.

The president, Miss Jean Belch, was in the chair. The club's new name, "The Klim Club" was adopted, since this year they are studying "The Milky Way", and the backward spelling of 'milk' seemed most appropriate.

It was decided that request be made of hostesses offering the use of their kitchens for the fortnightly meetings that they do not serve lunch each time.

The topic for the day "The Pasteurization of Milk," was taken up by the leader, Mrs. W. H. Armstrong, who followed her talk by pasteurizing a quantity of milk, and having the girls note the difference in taste from this and the section not so treated.

The hostess was warmly thanked for her hospitality.

Junior W.M.S. Meets

The Junior W.M.S. of Grace Presbyterian church met on Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Margaret Armstrong, and carried on with their task of completing a quilt, in the Dutch Girl pattern.

The president, Ada Peers, took the chair for the business session, Colleen Blair reading the lesson, and Miss Agnes Johnston, the girls' leader, offering prayer.

It was decided that the next meeting, which will be at the home of Mrs. S. E. Eakins, will be the annual gathering, and officers were asked to bring their reports covering the past twelve months' work. The election of new officers will feature the December meeting.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLLE

For Thursday, December 2

Judging by the solar-lunar conjunction, this should be a day for promotion, preferment, increase of salary or other token of recognition from employers, superiors, executives and those in authority or power. It is a time for seeking the support and co-operation of such persons, but beware of an unbridled, critical or malicious tongue. Also safeguard all writings.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of splendid prospects for progress, promotion, increase of salary, preferment, honors and other substantial tokens of approbation from employers, superiors, and those in authority. Seek these with assurance and courage.

A child born on this day may be capable, responsible and ambitious, attracting the attention of employers, executives and those in influential places who will be generously disposed and assist in its advancement. But it must be disciplined in the use of a critical tongue.

Father And Son

Gordon Gibson of Ladner, B.C. That is the name attached to the finest sample of hard spring wheat shown at the Chicago Grain Show, and that in turn means that Gordon Gibson has again brought this remarkable trophy to Canada—and to British Columbia. And most of us never recognized British Columbia as a wheat raising province.

Behind all this there appears to be a story which might be a good one for those who favor father-and-son affairs, and perhaps for those who worry at times on the problem of how to keep the boys on the farm.

Gordon Gibson is but 13 years of age, the son of William Gibson. William Gibson secured his wheat seed from Herman Trelle of Wembley, Alberta. During the summer season Gordon worked with his father on the farm of twenty acres in the Fraser River Valley, and possibly for that reason when the father saw that the wheat was good he forwarded it to the Chicago show and attached the name of the son to it. So there is a bit of home-made Canadian romance to the winning of the crown in the hard wheat class at Chicago. It rests on the head of Gordon Gibson, the lad of 13, with the father standing to one side, no doubt thoroughly satisfied.

Not A Pleasant Idea

Whether the world desires it or not, the plain truth seems to be that Japan is making short work of China. There has been nothing to indicate that the Chinese have failed in trying to defend their own land from invasion. They have fought in a way which has surprised the world, and they are still doing so. They may yet accomplish much, but at the moment that accomplishment is not in sight.

The Chinese have never wanted to fight and they have not sought a quarrel. Nor are they much given to the discipline of government. The result has been several governments in that great land, and none of them strong. The old belief of the Chinese has been that on account of their great numbers they could not be beaten and conquered by any other race. There are 400,000,000 Chinese people and 60,000,000 Japanese, and it has been on such figures that China has depended. But Japan has been a military nation; it gained that rank when it defeated Russia and it has done little else since but add to its equipment and its training. Whether we like the idea or not—and we do not—the truth seems to be that the nation which is strong and well equipped today can go ahead and smash a weaker nation and the rest of the world will do nothing about it.

Two Different Standards

If the Ontario Royal Commission on Transportation was desirous of having facts, figures, arguments, suggestions, criticisms, and all else placed before it, then the members are not going to be disappointed. When railway companies and trucking companies begin to present their cases all things mentioned above will be in abundance.

The trucking companies suggest they should be relieved of gasoline tax because the tax eventually becomes a burden on industry. It seems necessary to go back a few years in order to get this thing placed right. We used to depend on the railways and the express companies to do virtually all our shipping. Then we started building better roads because the coming of the automobile created a demand for the better road. We started turning from dirt roads to macadam, then to concrete as the permanent solution, and these changes were all made so that cars could make their way more safely and at greater speed.

When these good roads came into existence the business of using them for purposes of trucking came to the front. The roads were all there, so why not use them for commercial purposes? True the trucking companies had not built them, but they went ahead and used them, and took busines from the railways and express companies which had built their own roadbeds and paid for them. In that way the trucking companies had a unique advantage, one for which it is almost impossible to provide a parallel.

The railway companies pay their men a fair wage; the drivers of their engines and all the people who work on their trains, in their shops and elsewhere work just a certain number of hours per day. When they reach the age where the work is considered too great for them they get a retiring allowance, and that whole combination of circumstances is desirable from any viewpoint. When a railroader is through he is not going to go on relief or become a charge on the state. The trucking companies are not competing on that same sound basis of work and hours and pensions. There is not the same substantial element in their operations, and no matter what arguments are advanced it is impossible to get away from looking at the question in the light of those two different standards.

It Will Have To Come

The New York Times, a great paper and one which is utterly fearless in the expression of its views, says United States has forfeited its leadership in world affairs as the result of the dismal failure of the Brussels conference. United States participated in that conference which was called to try and bring peace between China and Japan. It was clearly demonstrated that Japan was in no mood to pay heed to gatherings which merely talked while Japan was bent on war and land plunder.

As the Times sees it Japan, Germany and Italy have been drawn together, and they have signed a treaty which on the face of it provides for a united stand against the encroachment of communism or rule such as they have in Russia. Back of that the Times is certain the three nations mean to stand together while any of the trio is bent upon campaigns to gain more territory. Japan and Italy have already conducted such campaigns, and the turn of Germany may come next.

The Times says plainly that the hope of peace is for United States and Britain and other nations "who speak at least the same spiritual tongue" to move together in the interest of world peace by being prepared to resist or stamp out world aggression. That is not entirely a new view to place before the people of United States, but in doing so the Times has said something which needs saying. In the cause of freedom and peace United States and Britain are going to be driven together even if they do not wish to make the move voluntarily. They actually have more in common in traditions institutions and ancestry than have any other nations in the world.

Such Secrecy

There appears to be an air of mystery to our little political world at the moment, with the leading men moving in ways of secrecy, and with reporters and wise men in general rather baffled in efforts to find out what is going on.

Premier King announces he is going south for a rest before the House opens. But where? Well, he is just going south and of course that means any one of a number of places. Officially such a movement is recorded as "going to an unnamed destination."

On the day before he left Premier Hepburn landed in Ottawa. It is recorded he came unheralded and unannounced. Seems he just got on the train in Toronto and went to Ottawa. Arriving there he went into conference with Premier King, and when it was all over no person had a word to say regarding the matters discussed. Reporters managed to write a column or so about it, but at the end they had said nothing whatever beyond the fact that Mr. Hepburn had been in Ottawa and that could have been as well covered by a personal item.

So we are in a closed season as far as publicity for the political leaders is concerned. There is no election in sight.

Not Solved

Todor Zoc was in court at Hamilton, and the old charge of shoplifting was there waiting for him. Todor it appears has been out of work for a good seven years and for four years has been on relief.

He stole a pair of stockings, not for himself, but for his son, and the reason given was that he did not have any money to buy the stockings and the son needed them.

Court considered it was shoplifting just the same and Todor Zoc will go to jail for thirty days. Perhaps it is right enough that such sentences should be imposed, as it would hardly do for people to be allowed to wander about picking up what they needed without paying for the goods.

But a case like that ending as it did always leaves a good-sized and formidable question unanswered. In every such case there is a starting point, and all other events hinge on that. Here we take it the central idea was that the boy needed stockings. That was the problem. The father tried to get them in an irregular way and has gone to jail. And the boy may still need his stockings. In which case the problem remains unsolved.

About Table Manners

Looking yet once again in that little book on table manners which is published by the arbiters on such affairs we find there is nothing but the severest kind of condemnation for people who use a fork to spear bread, and those who leave a spoon standing up in a cup are placed in a class with those who know nothing at all and should probably be fed on the kitchen table. We were rather surprised at the directness with which plain abuse was launched against such customs.

No allowance seems to be made at all for the chap who dislikes disturbing other people. He may want a piece of bread and he may dislike nudging his neighbor in the ribs and mentioning the matter. So he asserts his independence by taking a fork and spearing a piece of bread and bringing it to the home base. That in itself is developing the instinct of direction and good shooting. It is quite possible that with much practice one could develop a sort of graceful technique, a mobility of the wrist and forearm and an accuracy and dignity of attack which would come in useful in many things. And besides the other people at the table need not be disturbed. They can go right ahead with their victuals without having to bother about passing the bread around because once it gets started it generally has to make the circuit.

Leaving the spoon standing in the cup is another question. We can understand there is a bit of danger of it knocking over the whole works and also that the spoon left in the cup might stick in the eye while drinking, or if small might even be swallowed. But here again we recall one hired man who was particularly smart at all things and he always left his spoon in his cup standing up. He never had any difficulty in finding it in that position, and when several cups were being passed back for refilling he could always be certain he got his own back on account of the spoon in the vertical position. He stirred his tea with a motion which produced tides and waves in the cup, but when he came to drink he had developed a knack of wrapping a finger about the handle of the spoon and it would be turned so that it gave sufficient clearance from the face. It was very deft indeed and a little artistic touch which never would have been developed had he been a student of table manners which decreed that the resting place for the spoon was lying in a horizontal position in the saucer. The little book on table manners is interesting enough, but we contend there should be some latitude allowed for the rugged individual who finds it difficult to suppress his ruggedness when he draws up to the table to partake of nourishment.

REBELLION

(By A. R. K.)

¶ There is rebellion on again, they're gathering up the fighting men, this time it's in Brazil; they call their men at dead of night, and teach them how to march and fight, and practice on a hill.

¶ According to the things one hears, they're arming men with guns and spears, with pitchforks and with staves; they teach them how to charge the foe, and how rebellions ought to go, so men will not be slaves.

¶ I'm glad I live not in Brazil, nor have to march upon a hill, nor drill at dead of night; that I have not to hop and run, and grab my pitchford and my gun, and gird me up to fight.

¶ I know I'd be no use at all, at answering rebel leader's call, or hastening out to go; nor would I be much use I fear, at listening with expectant ear, to try and find the foe.

¶ I'd rather stay at home in bed, than lift my feet in measured tread, I like to rest my spine; and I have bunions on my feet, nor would I get enough to eat, I like my meals on time.

¶ So if I lived in fair Brazil, where rebels plan to march and kill, a peaceful man I'd be; for I might meet some soldier there, with steady eye and shoulders square—a better shot than me.

Only One Way by Which to Preserve Peace

That Is Being Able to Deal With the Peace Breakers; Canadian Publisher Writes of Observations in London

(By L. H. D.) in St. Thomas Times-Journal)

ANY CANADIAN who returns from England these days without having acquired a definite impression as to whether there will be another war or not is looked upon by many people as having made an aimless visit.

Strange to say, the people of England—of London, at any rate—do not talk about war before visitors, and visitors, who are in England mostly for pleasure or rest, do not often broach the subject. I do not recall having heard discussed the prospect of another war in any gathering in which I happened to be. Englishmen are still reticent, even taciturn, at times. They do not care to talk before others about the likelihood of war any more than veterans of the Great War care to dwell on the awfulness of the conflict of twenty years ago.

This is not to say the problem of war is being ignored. Any reader of newspapers knows differently. But English men and English women, with the exception of Mr. Lloyd George and a very few Labor extremists, are satisfied to leave it with the Government now capably led by Baldwin's successor, Neville Chamberlain, whose leadership is forging for him a high place among British statesmen. The task of his Foreign Secretary, Anthony Eden, is recognized as difficult beyond parallel, and there are signs that even Lloyd George has begun to see the error of his ways and may cease making the tactless speeches that so far have had the effect of obstructing British diplomacy. The Government's job is to preserve peace. This can only be done by preventing the European dictators from getting out of hand.

EARLY in October Field Marshal Sir Cyril J. Deverell, Chief of the Imperial General Staff, in presenting prizes to Territorial artillery units, warned the nation about Britain's position, now that "the whole tempo" of war has been speeded up.

"I am certain," he said, "that should war ever come, there will be an overwhelming and immediate response on the part of men worthy of the name of British. But that is not enough. It will be too late.

"The first blow will come by air, and movements by mighty armies will follow.

In the last war, we were lucky to get time to prepare. We cannot expect to get it again."

From another source figures were obtained showing how little has been accomplished toward enlisting new recruits for the Regulars and the Territorials. The "authorized" strength of the Regular army is 169,600 officers and men outside India and Burma and 57,000 officers and men in those two countries, a total of 226,000. The acual strength is said to be about 1,000 officers and 26,000 men short of this figure, or a total of 199,000.

The Territorials are even worse off. The legal peace establishment of the fourteen divisions of this force is supposed to be 161,733 men of all ranks. Actually, on Oct. 1, 1937, there were only 120,667 on the rolls, or 76.5 per cent. of what there should have been.

BEARING on the question of rearmament, and having in mind the fact that in rearming Britain has done practically nothing to increase its Army, confining its efforts to developing the Navy and Air forces, a remarkable article by Victor Wallace Germains appears in the National Review. The writer declares it is an impossible policy to insist that Britain will not send an Army to fight again on the continent of Europe. What's going to happen to Britain if Germany smashes France? he asks. It works out, in practice, Mr. Germains finds, that the United Kingdom is terminating the entire future of the British Empire to the alleged defensive power of a Maginot line of fortresses which are in French hands, not in British, and concerning which no British Government is in a position to guarantee that its defensive equipment has been maintained in full efficiency. . . . . What if the Germans proceed to go through the Maginot line as if it were butter in the opening weeks of the war? What sane sensible civilian can fail to accept the implication that if France is smashed, we are smashed, too?"

Compared with France's ability to dispose of more than 40 divisions to hold the Maginot line this English publicist points out that Germany can already put 98 divisions in the field; in another two or three years she will certainly be able to dispose of 120 for an attack upon the Maginot line, apart from forces to cover her rear.

To wait until after war is declared to raise a British army worth talking about, means merely to reproduce—in Mr. Germains' view—upon a catastrophic scale, the worst blunders and disasters of the last war.

There ought to be something for Canada and the Other Dominions to do in this obvious military emergency. Great Britain is working hard to prevent war. Europe's dictators will not attempt to assail the two great democracies of Europe if they know they cannot win. Britain's job is also Canada's. Though our pacifists would set up a great how-de-do about it, the preservation of the Empire would be made more sure if the Canadian Government would consider at the coming session—or earlier—the use of some of the relief appropriations toward raising and equipping new armed forces of not less than 50,000 men.

Peace can be preserved only at the cost of being ready to meet the peace-breakers.

They Want to Keep on Being Doukhobors

No Crime in Their Eyes to Break Canadian Law; Have Not Changed Since Coming 30 Years Ago

(From the Vancouver Province)

THAT EMINENT propagandist for Canadian unity, Mrs. Nellie McClung, says the Doukhobors of British Columbia are a misunderstood people. They are a most lighthearted, forgiving and generous group, she adds, by way of attesting to their general decency.

Mrs. McClung, when at home, resides in the charming city of Victoria; and presently she is speaking in Toronto. Neither community has ever been pestered by the Doukhobors. It would be ungallant to wonder what reception Mrs. McClung would have received addressing these same words to an audience in Nelson or Grand Forks.

The trouble with the Doukhobor—and it is a real trouble—is that he stubbornly refuses to be a Canadian. Thus he is continuously misunderstood.

The Doukhobor came to Canada with one thought on his mind—and he has the same thought today. He wants above all else to continue to be a Doukhobor. There is much to admire in this attitude. Through many generations he was tormented and persecuted, but he held out for his own customs and manners and ideals of living. He could not get on in Russia and left there. He regards Canadians as his inferiors, he regards himself and his fellow groupers as God's chosen people and will cheerfully tell you that the only way for Canada to improve and progress is to "turn Doukhobor." In his eyes it is no crime to break Canadian laws as for education, in the British tradition, he will have none of it.

If Mrs. McClung would study the situation at close range, she would find no mystery at all—and no misunderstanding. The problem today is the same as it was when the Doukhobors arrived more than 30 years ago. They refused to assimilate then and they refuse today. They wish to set up a little kingdom of Doukhoborts in the midst of Canadian communities.

When they deliberately break Canadian laws and defy Canadian institutions and are brought to book, they whine that they are misunderstood and often threaten to trek away to Mexico or the Argentine. But they never go; they have too good a time in British Columbia—like the rest of us.

And that goes for Mrs. McClung.

WORLD'S BEST DRIVER.

(Buffalo Courier-Express)

DOWN IN Texas they have found the man whom they have dubbed the "world's safest driver." His name is Allen B. Hill. By vocation he is a truck driver. He is 55 years old and at the moment is Exhibit A at the national convention of the American Trucking Association.

Hill's record is approximately 1,400,000 miles in 30 years without an accident or an arrest. And that is a record worth hanging up anywhere. Hill, now driving for a Corpus Christi, Tex., concern, is a native of Gallatin, Tenn. He drove trucks in Nashville, Tenn. and Denver, Col., and United States Army trucks in France before going to Corpus Christi.

And his rule for safe driving? It is this: "Give all the road you can and take all they'll give you." In operation, Hill says he has had to give liberally. "I've had to take to the ditch many a time to keep from getting hit," he remarks.

They were discussing a silver butter dish, which they were going to send to newly married friends.

Wife: "What shall we put on the card?"

Husband (preoccupied with his paper and coffee): "Oh, just the usual dope, I suppose; anything you like."

A few moments' thought followed and then she handed him the card. It was inscribed "For butter—or worse."

A Bible Message For To-day . . . .

THEN THE Pharisees went out, and held a council against him, how they might destroy him. But when Jesus knew it, he withdrew himself from thence: and great multitudes followed him, and he healed them all . . . Then was brought unto him one possessed with a devil, blind, and dumb: and he healed him, insomuch that the blind and dumb both spake and saw . . . But when the Pharisees heard it, they said, This fellow doth not cast out devils, but by Beelzebub the prince of the devils. And Jesus knew their thoughts, and said unto them, Every Kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and every city or house divided against itself shall not stand: and if Satan cast out Satan, he is divided against himself; how shall then his kingdom stand? And if I by Beelzebub cast out devils, by whom do your children cast them out? therefore they shall be your judges. But if I cast out devils by the Spirit of God, then the kingdom of God is come unto you.—Matt. xii: 13, 15, 22, 24-28.

LET'S HAVE A TEA.

("Onlooker" in St. Thomas Times-Journal)

Ladies from lodges, church or club
Will to a meeting go,
Where someone's sure to rise and say
"Our funds are getting low;"
The president, in answer, for Suggestions makes a plea,
And just as surely someone asks:
"Why not let's have a tea?"

When yeas and nays are called, the yeas
Win with the greatest ease,
And soon on ways and means the lot
Are busier than bees;
Miss Willing Worker draws the job
Convening, and her aides
Are Mesdames Faithful, Always Help,
Who ne'er a task evades.

A call is made for volunteers
For light cake and a dark,
For someone to make sandwiches,
For someone who will park
Herself with happy, gracious mien
To greet folk at the door,
For someone who can juggle cups
And someone who can pour.

Then comes a busy session at
A flock of telephones,
When day and date is broadcast to
A hundred different homes;
From early morn till late at night
The merry game keeps up,
And ladies given bids to come
And share a cheering "cup."

At last the fateful date arrives—
Dressed in their finest clothes
The women foter to their guests
While conversation flows;
Results: a very happy hour;
Success—oh, quite immense.
For forty dollars worth of work
They take in ninety cents.

WOOLLEN WORKERS PLACED IN CLASSES AT CAMPBELLFORD

(Examiner Correspondence)

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 1.—Members of the Inquiry and Labor Board, under Chairman E. J. Young, met in the board room of the Campbellford Cloth Company, a subsidiary of the Barrymore Cloth and Carpet Company, Toronto, this afternoon.

Arriving in town at 4 p.m., the board met with the local superintendent, James H. Cunningham and in a session which lasted an hour, he outlined the various classifications under which the workers fell.

Mr. Cunningham stated that the employees fell into eight different wage groups with loom fixers being in the first and highest paid group, followed by weavers, spinners, warpers. Group 3: Perchers, warp starters, boss filling carriers. Group 4: Burlers and menders (groups 3 and 4 vary but slightly). Group 5: Drawers in. Group 6: Cpoolers. Group 7: Laborers. Group 8: Bobbin boys, doffers, etc.

It was learned that the piece work rates and all other wages were set by the Toronto office and also that in the case of piece work (weaving) done by both male and female, each was paid the same rate.

The superintendent pointed out that no finishing or dying was done in the Campbellford Mill, which employed during the past week a total of 227 workers, of which 61 were women.

An interested spectator at the meeting was Alex. Welch, United Textile Workers' organizer. Other members of the board were Messrs. H. B. Whitehead, J. C. Adams, and Miss M. P. Mangan.

Sued For Toys

"Someone stole your marbles . . ." goes a song supposed to be addressed to a little boy. But this is the grown up version of the affair. Miss Adele Royle, ABOVE, is being sued by 39-year-old Viscount Kingsborough, son of the Earl of Kingston, for the return of some toy trains, model soldiers, and toy guns with which he used to play "occasionally." Miss Royle says she sold the toys when she was destitute, but she was ordered to return them or pay the viscount their cash value.

PUNCTURES NECK AS COASTER WAGON CRASHES STUMP

BANCROFT, Dec. 1—While playing with his wagon on a steep hill, 10 year old Earl Morois of this village ran off the side-walk, striking a stump and injuring his neck so severely that he died on Sunday.

His playmate helped him to the Bancroft Red Cross Hospital where his injuries were found to be much more serious than they first appeared. Upon examination it was found that he had punctured his jugular vein. Sunday morning his condition became more critical and before arrangements could be made to move him to another hospital he had succumbed to the injuries.

The funeral was held from his late home on Monday afternoon at two-thirty to St. Paul's United church where service was conducted by Rev. W. J. Davis. Interment took place in Lakeview Cemetery.

ROOSEVELT PLANS TO LIBERALIZE LAW INCREASE BUILDING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1—(AP)—President Roosevelt asked the United States congress Monday to liberalize existing law to encourage billions of dollars worth of new housing construction in the next five years.

In a message to congress the president asserted the "long-continued lag in building is a drag on all industry and trade" and was "one of the principal reasons why general business failed to forge ahead" in recent months.

Declaring increases in hourly wage rates and material costs had been "too rapid and too great for the consumer to bear," and had checked production and buying in other industries, he said he would confer with representatives of industry, labor and finance in an effort to adjust such costs to consumers' means.

He proposed eight changes in the National Housing Act of 1934 to make possible, through federal insurance of low-interest mortgages, the private financing of large numbers of housing units.

Make Loans Easier

Amendments suggested included:

Raise the present insurable limit from 80 to 90 per cent of a property's appraised value in the case of loans to owner-occupants where the property does not exceed $6,000 in appraised value. The president said this was of "great importance" because it would permit persons hard hit by the depression to buy homes with a down payment as low as 10 per cent instead of 20 per cent, as at present;

Reduce the interest and service charge on insured loans from 5½ to 5 per cent;

Make the mortgage insurance premium ½ of 1 per cent on the "diminishing balance" of an insured mortgage instead of on the original face amount, as now required. Furthermore, cut the rate to ¼ of 1 percent on properties valued at not more than $8,000 and where the mortgage is insured prior to July 1, 1939;

Authorize insurance of mortgages up to $700,000 for construction of apartments and groups of houses for sale or rent, but limit the mortgage to $1,000 per room. Such insured loans are now limited to $16,000 for each project.

The president said his proposals could not be effective unless builders, contractors, manufacturers, labor and finance co-operate in producing housing within the reach of the incomes of the vast majority of the people.

RAWDON FARMER HAS BARN BURNED

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Dec. 1.—Fire of unknown origin destroyed a large barn on the farm of Frank Cain, 5th Concession of the Township of Rawdon, what is known as the Ryan Settlement, on Monday evening. The fire was first noticed at 6.30 p.m. Mr. Cain, having completed his regular work, had started off to see one of his neighbors on business, and when a short distance from his home noticed the barn in flames.

Neighbors were soon on the scene but the fire, fanned by a strong gale, had gained considerable headway. With the exception of two cows, all the livestock in the building was saved. All machinery and crops in the barn were destroyed. The loss will be quite heavy as only a small amount of insurance was carried.

The fire threatened the barn of Warren Harlow, which was situated near the burning building. However, with the assistance of fire extinguishers and water, the fire was kept under control.

Considerable damage was done over the weekend by the heavy gale and electrical storm. Hen-houses on the property of Garrance Wright were demolished, and fences and windows in buildings in the village were destroyed.

Grain thieves struck again in Centre Hastings County on Monday evening, when ten bags of seed grain were stolen from the granary of Melville Reid, resident of the Township of Hungerford.

B.N.A. ACT CHANGE APPROVAL ASKED IN PRINCIPLE ONLY

OTTAWA, Dec. 1 (CP). — The Dominion Government has made it clear it asks for the present approval in principle only of its request for Provincial agreement to a British North America Act amendment permitting the Federal Parliament to enact a national unemployment insurance measure.

After a Cabinet meeting at which several Quebec judiciary retirements and appointments were confirmed, one of them carrying with it necessity of a Federal by-election, Justice Minister Lapointe, acting Prime Minister, made public a letter in which Prime Minister Mackenzie King assured Premier Duplessis of Quebec that was the substance of his request.

In the latter, dated November 26, Mr. Mackenzie King told the Quebec Premier a draft of the proposed amendment would be submitted to all the provinces once they had agreed to the change in principle. Whether he had made the same reply to Premier Dysart of New Brunswick was not disclosed. Mr. Dysart requested further information before giving a final answer and said he would have to gain approval of the Legislature in his province to any answer he might wish to make.

No Details Ready.

Previously Mr. Mackenzie King had told Premier Aberhart of Alberta he could not give him details of the proposed insurance measure as they would not be disclosed before the legislation reached the House of Commons.

Premiers Duplessis, Aberhart and Dysart were the only three who withheld consent.

In the wake of yesterday's Cabinet meeting came announcement of two retirements from and three appointments to the Superior Court bench in Quebec. Recired at their own request and because of ill-health were Justices Pierre Bouffard and Emile Geoffy. Their retirement brought to three the number of bench vacancies as one was created last year by the death of Mr. Justice Wilfrid Mercier.

To fill the vacancies these were appointed Alphonse Decary, M.C., of Montreal; Alfred Savard, K.C. and Garon Pratte, K.C., both of Quebec. Mr. Justice Decary fills the vacancy created by Mr. Justice Mercier's death.

Paul Mercier, Liberal House of Commons member for St. Henri (Montreal) was appointed senior judge of the Montreal District Circuit Court, succeeding Judge J. A. Archambeault, who died a few weeks ago. His appointment left his parliamentary seat vacant and will bring the 17th by-election since the administration assumed power in the fall of 1935.

Crippled By Pains in the Legs.

Physical Instructor Loses Use of Limbs

If rheumatism is crippling your limbs and making life miserable for you, read how this man obtained relief from the same trouble:—

"I was a swimming and physical instructor. Early this year I had violent, stabbing pains in my legs from the hips to the big toe. In the mornings, I could not walk for three or four hours. Massage oil, pills, etc., did me no good. Someone begged me to take Kruschen Salts. In despair I got a bottle. After I had taken three parts of the contents, I was as fit as ever, except for a little stiffness of the joints, while in general health I was far better. Kruschen has put me on my feet again."—H.L.S.

Rheumatic aches and pains are often caused by the accumulation of too much uric acid in the system. Keep down the excess of uric acid, and it stands to reason you'll get glorious relief. That is just what Kruschen Salts does—brings quick relief from the cutting, stabbing pains of rheumatism, because it actually rids your blood of excess uric acid.—Advt

LIFER IS GIVEN SIX EXTRA MONTHS

KINGSTON, Dec. 1 — Already serving a life sentence for attempted murder, Pasquella Ferraiti, 36-year-old Italian, to-day was sentenced to serve "six additional months" for getting drunk and assaulting a prison steward.

"He did not knock me down, but my head rang for a week," Assistant Steward Frank Ellis told Magistrate Ambrose Shea.

Ellis, who is in charge of the vegetable cellar at the big prison, said he had found a pail of brewmash hidden among the potatoes and carrots. Ferraiti considerably intoxicated, came along just as the discovery was made and swung at Ellis with a powerful right first.

Ferraiti told the court he had obtained the "home brew from some one else" but that he had drunk "plenty."

For Bad Winter Coughs, Mix This Remedy at Home

Quick Relief. Big Saving. So Easy. No Cooking.

This well known recipe is used by many thousands of housewives, because they have found that it gives them a much more dependable remedy for distressing winter coughs. It's so easy to mix—a child could do it.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, a compound containing Norway Pine, in concentrated form, well known for its effect on throat membranes.

Then make a syrup by stirring two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. It's no trouble at all, and takes but a moment. No cooking needed.

Put the Pinex into a 16 oz. bottle and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of cough remedy, unusually quick-acting and dependable, and you get four times as much cough medicine for your money. It never spoils, and is very pleasant—children love it.

You'll be surprised by the way it takes hold of severe coughs, giving quick, satisfying relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Money refunded if it doesn't please in every way.

The children are taught only privately, by specialized tutors. When the divorce is granted, custody will be shared equally, it was announced.

The divorce will be sought on the grounds of mental cruelty.

KISSING THE BABIES IS GOOD POLITICS SAYS DR. WALLACE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 1.—Rev. Dr. Wallace, author, traveller, preacher, and newspaper man, was the guest speaker at the Rotary Club on Monday.

Introduced by Dr. H. B. Longmore, the speaker who thirty years ago came to Canada from Blyth, Northumberland County, England, and has since become the editor of Sunday School Publications, Toronto, dealt with what he termed the changed attitude of adults towards children. He declared that this changed attitude was one of the most outstanding things which had happened in the world in the past two hundred years.

Referring to Elizabeth Halden, who was over one hundred years old when she died in April, 1925, Rev. Dr. Wallace stated that she was one of the few people who had maintained her mental alertness to her death. In her book, "My One Hundred Years of Life," she asks and answers the question "What is the most wonderful thing I have seen?" It is the changed attitude of adults toward children. She could clearly remember when her three brothers, one of whom later became Lord Hailenby, Chancellor of the Exchequer, would be carried home one or the other black and blue from a flogging received at school. Until 1874 a man could flog a boy to death in the United States, and the only protection the courts offered such boys was under the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act. Children were at that time considered as little more than animals.

"If I were a politician, I would certainly kiss the babies," said the reverend gentleman. "You can talk till you're blue in the face and only once in a great while will you change an adult, and so it is amazing with 66,200 new voters coming of age in Ontario alone each year why the politicians do not concentrate on these people.

"It's a world of conflict between those youngsters and those who have been here for fifty or sixty years. When I talk to young people I ask them to be tolerant to the old people, and when I speak to old people I suggest that they should be tolerant to children."

According to historical data it was 2,500 years ago that the remark "the children are going to the dogs" was first recorded in ancient Athens, and yet I have a feeling that to-day the young people are as decent as they were in any other generation.

A vote of thanks was moved the speaker by Dr. Hugh R. McLaren, after which it was decided that the regular Monday meeting of the club for next week would be withdrawn in view of the meeting planned to be held at Petherick's Corners on December 9.

Seventy Years Old Never Lost Day's Work

As the years creep on little sicknesses and ailments become harder to shake off than formerly, and evidences of a breakdown appear.

Now is the time when aged people need a tonic, such as Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills to help them maintain their health, vigor and energy, and to brace up and invigorate the nervous system.

Mrs. A. C. Biggar, Palermo, Ont., writes:—"I am seventy years of age; never lost a day's work, missed a meal, or took any medicine in my life, but last year I had a nervous breakdown; had headaches; no appetite; hid from people; and was in fear and anxiety; had to have someone sit beside my bed at night until I went to sleep. Hell could not be worse. I began taking Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills, and from the first I became calm and collected, and to-day I feel the same as I did years ago."

In his presidential address, Mr. Wilkinson said the past year had brought a problem that will have to be solved next year as the Central Ontario District has shown a distinct percentage decrease in "first grade" cheese, some of the best makers in the district being the worst to suffer. "Probably we are resting too much on past laurels or have we a manufacturing problem that we are not able to solve?" asked the president.

Joe Burgess, Chief of the Division of Dairy Produce in Canada, will speak to-day on the subject, "Samples of Cheese from the United Kingdom, New Zealand, South Africa and Canada." H. L. Waters of the Ayres Company, Montreal., N. R. Nicholls, perishable traffic supervisor of the C.P.R. ,Dr. A. L. Gibson of the Eastern Dairy School at Kemptville, will be the other speakers. The newspaper added that the government seeks "to provide utter freedom for any commissioners who may be appointed under the Succession Duty Act or re-investigate estates."

Three Pupils Attend School

LONDON—With but three pupils—all in the entrance class—school section No. 7, McGillivray township faces the prospect of being converted into a community hall at the end of the school term next June, when the pupils graduate. Decision has already been made to wire the school for night gatherings.

Suburban Ratepayers Seek To Gain Control Of 1938 Council In Monaghan

Forming Of a Separate Municipality Discussed At Ratepayers' Meeting

Harold B. Rye was elected president of the North Monaghan Suburban Owners and Tenants' Association at its organization meeting in Confederation School Tuesday night. Herb Bourne is Vice-President and Mrs. E. Adnslie is Secretary-Treasurer.

The immediate objective of the Association is to obtain control of the North Monaghan council next year. It was stated that the suburban residents pay about 75 per cent of the township's taxes, and on that ground they were entitled to representation in the council proportionate to their percentage of the taxes.

In accepting the presidency, Mr. Rye said he had no municipal ambitions, and that he had given the township all the public service that could be expected of him.

"Our school problem is a big burden," Mr. Rye said, "and we are faced wit hthe need of increased accommodation in this school. If the council was unanimous they could make one school section of the whole township; but that would not be fair to the rural residents. Besides as they pay only twenty-five per cent of the taxes the relief we would get by that means would be very slight. Other communities are up against the same problem, and I understand the government is working on a Metropolitan School plan by which the city and its suburbs would be united for school purposes only. How they figure on adjusting assessments I don't know. Other methods would be county and State control, but they are not in effect here."

Replying to a question from the audience, Mr. Rye said No. 2 school section comprised of May's and Confederation schools. The other three sections, one, three and four, are in the rural part of the township.

"Sections two and four are the only ones paying school rates this year. One and three evidently don't need any. They raised more money than they needed and now are using up the surplus."

14 Mills School Rate

In answer to another question Mr. Rye said the school rate in No. 2 section was fourteen mills, and in addition there was a levy of four mills in the general township rate for the education of county children attending the Collegiate Institute.

"Why doesn't each family pay for the education of its own children?" one man asked.

"Not as long as the other fellow has to pay," Mr. Rye commented.

Discussion turned to assessments, and it was declared that the trend had been in favor of the rural property owners and against the interests of the suburban dwellers.

Assessment Disparity

"A new house was built on the highway," Mr. Rye told the meeting. "They used tapestry brick, and the assessment on that house was only $350. Another man in the country sold 2½ acres for $600. It was assessed to him for $60, and assessment of the property of the man who sold this lot was reduced by $300. So the net benefit to him was a reduction of $240 in his assessment. The year Mr. Waterman was assessor the assessment was raised all over this part of the township and lowered on the other."

"Couldn't we apply to become a village?" Mr. Rye was asked.

"If you were incorporated as a village you would receive the privilege of electing your own council, and you have got that in your hands today. It is just a question as to whether the suburban people intend to take advantage of it. You pay 75 per cent of the taxes, so you can ask yourselves what you are going to do about it. The late Tom Hunter used to say that the municipal tail wagged the dog, meaning that the suburbs were trying to exert an undue influence in the township. Now the dog is turned around, and on the basis of the taxes the suburbs pay we should have more to say in the township's affairs.

"A man from the city asked me why we didn't join up with the city and the rest of the township would go over to South Monaghan in Northumberland county. It might be that the taxes would be a little lower, but he overlooked Northumberland's road debenture debt of well on to one million dollars. It will take them a long time to pay that off, whereas Peterborough county's debt is one of the lowest in the province."

Meet December 7

Unanimous expression of a desire to organize was followed by the election of officers. The next meeting of the Association will be held Tuesday, December 7, in Confederation School and a later meeting, of which the date will be decided next week, will be transferred to May's School for the convenience of the owners and tenants in that section.

The membership fee is twenty-five cents a quarter (three months) and a membership committee was appointed to go into action at once, as follows—Leo Martyn, J. Doleman, C. Wilson, W. Bannon, J. Collins, W. Gady, A. Padgett, W. Carter, E. Ray, George Patton, H. B. Rye and H. Bourne. It is intended that every section of the suburbs will be canvassed, and that the Association will have candidates ready for the municipal nominations, Thursday, December 23. H. McLarnon was appointed to draft a simple constitution for the next meeting.

NEW C.N.R. COACH IS ON EXHIBITION

The last word in air-conditioned passenger coaches is now being exhibited at the C.N.R. Station in Peterborough, and is open for public inspection.

This coach is one of 50 passenger coaches to go into service on the principal trains of the Canadian National Railways before the end of the year, several of these have already been turned out of the shops and are now in operation, according to H. O. Bourlier, general passenger agent, Canadian National Railways.

"Thirteen of these air-conditioned coaches are now part of the equipment of 'The International Limited,' 'The Inter-City Limited' and 'The Lasalle' trains in service between Montreal, Toronto, Detroit and Chicago, in both directions. "Others are being completed each week and as they are received from the builders it is the intention to place those on other principal trains operating in various directions," stated Mr. Bourlier. These will include "The Continental Limited," between Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver, on the night trains between Montreal and Boston, "The Ocean Limited," between Montreal and Halifax, four trains between Montreal and Ottawa, and in the service between Toronto, Buffalo and other points. Other air-conditioned units have been in service for some time on trains in operation to some important centres, including standard and tourist sleeping cars, dining cars, compartment, observation and library cars, parlor cars, buffet club coaches and lounge buffet cars.

FEDERAL TORIES SPEED SHAKE UP

OTTAWA, Dec. 1. — A demand for a drastic reorganization and overhauling of the Federal Conservative Party is likely to result from the results of the by-election in Victoria on Monday.

Combined with other recent happenings, which have pointed not only to Conservative unpopularity in the country, but to some dissension in the rank and file of the party itself, the new defeat on the West Coast gave party stalwarts here a decided jolt. The Conservatives believe, as do many others here, that a Federal election is not far off. This fact, combined with a bitter memory of the Provincial party's defeat in the October 6 elections, may cause a speedy reorganization.

As in the Ontario party, the question of leadership is to the fore in the Federal party. It has not increased Right Hon. R. B. Bennett's prestige that his party lost in Victoria.

BODY IS RECOVERED.

Heiress Tours With Mrs. Roosevelt

On a tour of comfortable government homesteads and squalid mining areas in West Virginia, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the president, and Doris Duke Cromwell, the "world's richest girl", are pictured registered at a hotel at the Arthursdale project at Reedsville. They saw the squalid, dusty Scotts Run mining area and then went to an old-fashioned square dance, held over a hardware store near the Tygart Valley homestead at Elkins. Mrs. Roosevelt joined in the dance and called the reels, but the tobacco heiress remained on the sidelines.

SPOOFING ART JOHNSTON

Some friend of his gave Art Johnston half a deer a week or so ago after the hunt, and the proprietor of the Windsor had visions of prospective venison steaks turning high on him. Preliminary to putting it on ice or in cold storage he told one of the help to wash it under the pump, and this chap, who is somewhat of a wag suggested, "How about taking it over to the "Y" and putting it under the showers, Art?"

PLANNING DINNER.

J. W. Geraghty, president of the Peterborough Business Men's Association, proposed Monday night a dinner meeting in this city to which men of Port Perry, Uxbridge and other places along the newly adopted highway would be invited. The assistance of Peterborough is greatly appreciated in that section, and as promotional dinners have been held in several of those towns, it was believed that the cause could be still further advanced by a similiar meeting here. It will likely take place during the week of December 12th.

INTRODUCING TWO BANDS.

Max Swanston's Lions Club band isn't the only musical organization that will make its debut in the Santa Claus parade Friday night. The Examiner Newsboys' Harmonica Band, or mouth organ symphony, which Bert Cowan has been sponsoring, will be introduced on a decorated float making music for Santa. So Max Swanston, Lions boys' band chairman, will have some opposition from within the membership of his own club.

RESTING COMFORTABLY

Herbert Turen who suffered a lung puncture from fractured ribs and a disclosed shoulder when he fell from a roof he was shingling on Aylmer street last Thursday, is reported out of danger at St. Joseph's Hospital. Due to the complication of air escaping from his lungs into the body tissues, an ailment known as emphysema, his condition was at first regarded as critical. He was resting comfortably today.

APPRECIATED TRIP

William Heffernan of Asphodel has written to J.J. Duffus expressing on behalf of himself and the three members of his judging team their appreciation of their two days' trip to the Royal Winter Fair as guests of Mr. Duffus. It was the first time they visited the Fair, and they were delighted with the outing in addition to the honor of having won it.

SHORTHORN SALE

MAGISTRATE'S COURT.

When Norman Cowan of Ingersoll appeared on remand with a plea of not guilty to a charge of obtaining four dollars from Dr. J. A. Morgan of this city by false pretences, the Crown offered no evidence and the charge was withdrawn. One of the conditions under which the Crown withdrew the charge was that Cowan make restitution, which he undertook to do forthwith. The charge against Cowan alleged that he falsely represented the existence of a Cowan Surgical Repair Company, when actually no such company existed.

DEADLINE DATES.

Another reminder that its time to start buying those Christmas presents and sending them off is the circular distributed through the city this week by the Post Office staff. The circular suggests as deadline dates December 4 for overseas mail, December 10 for United States parcels, December 20 for Quebec and Ontario and December 21 for local delivery.

STAGE "SCAVENGER" HUNT.

Presumably the pre-Christmas house party season is in full swing. Last evening around nine o'clock three young women and a breathless youth rushed into Brooks' Grill, made a bee line for the kitchen, and requested the chef to give them a chili con carne recipe. The proprietor obligingly gave them the recipe they sought, and the quartette departed in haste, apparently to make further calls in search of other things demanded of them through their participation in the scavenger hunt.

Couple Of Weeks In Industry Enough Mayor George Macdonald Chides

During discussion of the Dominion - Provincial Youth Training Program at a meeting of the local executive Tuesday night, the Rev. P. J. Kelly related how at the age of 15 he worked in a Peterborough factory, "to get money to go camping". Among other things Father Kelly said he learned a little tinsmithing, but at the end of a couple of weeks he quit because, "I had other ideas about my future". When he was leaving, the speaker declared, "the boss said 'I'm sorry to lose you'". "You knew enough about industry after a couple of weeks that you decided to go into the ministry", Mayor George A. Macdonald chided. Father Kelly with a true Irish appreciation of humor joined in the laughter that greeted the Mayor's remark. The point Father Kelly sought to illustrate with the personal reference to himself was that most young people are readily adaptable to circumstances and are apt learners.

MRS. E. F. MASON IS LAID TO REST

An impressive tribute was accorded by citizens of Peterborough as funeral rites for the late Mrs. E. F. Mason were observed yesterday afternoon. A service was conducted at the home, 740 Water Street, following which a long cortege proceeded to Little Lake Cemetery, where interment was made.

Officiating at both the home and graveside service, Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church based an eloquent eulogy on the text, "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord." He said blessedness really meant happiness and that there are two sorts of happiness — the happiness which one finds in this world and that which remains in the world beyond. Happiness in this life consists in being useful, he declared.

Reminding that Mrs. Mason has lived an active life, Dr. Barr said she had brought to bear her influence with her cheerful disposition. Among various organizations in the community, her service in the church was especially marked. Gifts of her charity were oftimes in secret, he said.

Many flowers symbolized the tribute paid by the community. Serving as pall-bearers were Alexander Mowat, W. Kent, Peter Westbye, Herbert Conway, Roland Denne and George Garbutt. Among those in attendance from outside the city were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Conway of Brantford and Wade Morrow and Oscar Morrow of Brighton.

SOIL DEPLETION BEING DISCUSSED

The agricultural meeting at Bridgenorth this morning for the discussion of soil depletion was well attended by farmers from Smith Township. The day's program included an afternoon meeting at Young's Point and to-night at Lakefield.

Thursday's meetings are at Stewart's Hall, Otonabee, in the morning; P. G. Towns' Hall, Douro, in the afternoon; and Town Hall, Keene, at night; and for Friday, Brealey's School, North Monaghan, at 10.00 a.m.; Centreville Sunday School at 2.45 p.m., and the Orange Hall, east of May's School in the evening.

Professor Henry G. Bell of the Ontario Agricultural College is the main speaker at this series of meetings. His general subject is soil depletion of its mineral contents with resulting loss to agriculture, and also what steps can be taken to supply the deficiency.

A. D. Runions has also attended most of the meetings with J. J. Duffus, who has sponsored them. Alex. Huston was an additional speaker on Monday, and Gordon Hancock was on to-day's program. Howard Quinn will be present on Friday.

Farmers have shown their interest in local soil problems by their attendance and also bringing samples of soil for testing and discussion.

J. F. Marsh Asked To Explain Youth Training Programme

Peterborough Committee Lays Plans For Big Meeting In City

Deputy Minister J. F. Marsh of the Ontario Department of Labor is being invited to come to Peterborough to place before the public details of the Dominion-Provincial Youth Training Program.

Subject to approval of the Board of Education the meeting will be held in the Collegiate auditorium on the evening of December 9. Alex L. Elliott, M.L.A., will be asked to introduce the speaker and the chair will be occupied by Carl S. Browne, head of the local executive of the Youth Training Program.

Parents, young people over the age of eighteen years, employers of labor and anyone interested and active in civic service are urged by the local executive to attend the rally to learn how the scheme proposes to aid young men and women at present unemployed, to find places in industry and commerce.

The executive held a meeting last night and decided on a big public rally at an early date so that the youth training plan might be put into effect here without delay.

Seeking the closest co-operation of employers of labor throughout the city, the executive added to their number so that at present the executive committee includes a wide representation, as follows:

Wide Representation

Honorary President, Mayor George A. Macdonald; President, Carl S. Browne; secretary, Dan Douglas; employment-services superintendent and an executive committee consisting of, Alderman James Dutton Charles Elliott, Judge Sheldon L. Smoke, Fred Overend, F. E. Johnston, Rev. P. J. Kelly, Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, Thomas McMurray, Mrs. W. R. Morris, Miss E. Dearnard, D. G. H. Melton, I. F. McRae, A. D. Runions, Al Sharpe, Miss Leta Brownscombe, H. A. Cranfield, G. W. Craw, Herbert Cranfield, Thomas Stenton, Hy Wood, R. V. Dawson, Reuben N. Wilson, Charles Westbrooke, Gordon Fee, W. A. Richardson, Cecil Williamson, W. Gordon Hall, John R. Marshall, Robert Abbott, Charles Shaw, R. W. Lyon, George Hewitt, W. J. Beatty, also a representative of the Y.M.C.A. to be named.

When the Youth Training Program was launched here recently by Mayor George Macdonald, it was urged by H. C. Hudson, general superintendent of Ontario Employment Services: "The government cannot make a success of this plan. It must be done by citizens of the community and the employers. It is not an appeal on a charity or relief basis. We want to convince employers that it is to their advantage and to the advantage of the community and nation at large." The province has already extended the benefits of the plan to 900 young men and women and has as its objective 3,000 by next March.

Of such importance does the local executive believe the forthcoming meeting to be, at which the deputy minister has been invited to speak, that the publicity committee was instructed to request the clergy of the city to announce the meeting from their pulpits on Sunday next.

Suitable entertainment in connection with the meeting is to be provided. Details in this connection were left in the hands of a committee which includes: H. A. Cranfield, the Rev. Dr. Barr and Mr. Douglas.

GARBAGE CREWS WATCHED CLOSELY

Some individuals are addicted to following fire trucks when they go to the big city but the committee from the City Council Property Committee which went to Toronto Tuesday devoted itself to following garbage collection trucks up the Queen City's back alleys. They were bent on observing the mechanics of Toronto's garbage collection system and, after watching several crews in action, came away deeply impressed.

Composed of the chairman, Alderman Malcolm McIntyre, Alderman James Dutton and Alderman Roland Wilson, and attended by Deputy City Clerk E. A. Outram, the committee also went to Hamilton and made observations under similar circumstances. There they were less impressed, it is understood.

The delegation has been named in view of the imminent need of a planned garbage collection policy in this city. A report will be made by the delegation on its observations at the next Property Committee meeting.

American League Clubs Worry Over Strength Of Yankees

Tigers, Chicago White Sox And Cleveland Indians After More Players

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 1 (AP).—Everything was ice cold from beer to weather to player deals today as baseball moguls stalled about tightly packed hotel lobbies waiting for bargains.

Except for a few players transferred to minor league clubs, not a single deal of importance was revealed though rumors of sales and trades popped from every one of countless huddles. Many of the clubs said they hoped to announce a "big deal" momentarily but the general guess was it would take a week more of manoeuvring before they were forthcoming.

One Major Leaguer Sold

Out of yesterday's shopping tour, during which such names as Van Mungo, Ducky Medwick, Dennis Galehouse and Harlond Clift were mentioned, only one actual major leaguer was sold. He was Eddie Madjeski, reserve catcher of championship New York Giants, who was sold outright to Louisville of the American Association. Giants, where to strengthen their Jersey City farm, also sold Joe Dwyer, Jersey City outfielder who saw service with Cincinnati last season, to Little Rock.

New York Yankees also yielded a bit of news by selling outfielder George Stumpf of their new Kansas City farm to St. Paul.

After More Players

Most of the trading and selling that will occur before the mart moves to Chicago next week was expected to be made by the American Leaguers, who have to worry about Yankees 154 games a year instead of just a world series. There was quite a duel going on between Detroit Tigers, Chicago White Sox and Cleveland Indians for players, with St. Louis Browns holding a trump card in Clift. Cleveland, Chicago and Detroit all were after him while Brown officials played a waiting game.

Baseball President

FRANK SHAUGHNESSY

After leading the International league last year to one of the most successful seasons in history, Frank Shaughnessy reaped his reward yesterday by being re-elected to the president's chair for a term of three years.

Farr Accepts Bout For January 21st

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Date for a Tommy Farr-Jimmy Braddock fight in Miami has not yet been set, Promoter Mike Jacobs told the United Press last night.

"I cabled Farr an offer to meet an opponent, as yet unnamed, in Madison Square Garden, Jan. 21," Jacobs said. "He telephoned to accept the bout and asked for a shot at Jimmy Braddock, which he hopes will bring him a return fight with Joe Louis.

"I told him I'd get Braddock for him if he won his January match in the Garden. Miami would be the logical site for a big outdoor winter fight, for the date has not been fixed, nor even discussed."

REVIVE OLD RACE

LONDON—(CP).—The head-of-the-river race, abandoned this year because no suitable date could be arranged, will be held March 12 over the Putney-Mortlake course, subject to agreement with the university boat clubs.

TRAINERS LAX SAY STEWARDS BOWIE TRACK

BOWIE, Md., Dec. 1—(AP).—The stewards late yesterday issued the following ruling after thoroughly investigating the sponging of the horses Master Lad, White Sand, Buck Langhorne and Indomitable.

"The stewards of Bowie, after investigating the sponging cases of White Sand, Master Lad, Indomitable and Buck Langhorne, find that Trainers C. P. Miles, Jr., Feidner, and J. Simon Healy have been guilty of negligence, particularly pertaining to the proper inspection necessary to preclude the possibility of their charges entering the paddock in a tampered condition, that the respective grooms of the horses involved, J. Digby and Trowill, are guilty of negligence in the care of their charges, that Watchman J. Conway of the Paragon Stable is guilty of negligence in the night supervision of his stable. Therefore, the stewards of Bowie respectfully recommend to the Maryland State Racing Commission that an adequate rule be incorporated in the Maryland rules of racing which will provide for the drastic punishment of any parties proven guilty of negligence."

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (A.P.—Scouts report from Milwaukee: "Big baseball news here this week".... You're not only apt to see Dizzy Dean and Van Mungo traded, but the Yanks are more than interested in Joe Vosmik of the Browns....Also, the Indians have put Earl Averill on the block.....Can't say about the rumor that Ducky Wucky Medwick is signed, sealed, and all but delivered for the Giants, but Bill Terry is walking around looking like a guy who has just swallowed a nice fat canary.

Charlie Dressen already is in a jam at Nashville.....He gave out an interview saying the only way he ever would get another major league managerial chance was to win the Southern Association pennant by 20 games....Report went wrong, and he was quoted as saying that Nashville would win the pennant next year by 20....Lynn Waldorf, North-Western coach, claims the banquet record....says he has eaten only three meals at home from the close of the football season to Christmas in three years.

So it was Pit Lepine who holds the National Hockey League record for fast scoring....We always thought that grey-head could rattle 'em in with the best of the sharpshooters....Bad news from Milwaukee is that the Yanks are figuring on getting rid of Pat (Old Blubber) Malone....Say it ain't so, Joe McCarthy....Reason Pitt turned down all those "bowl" bids is because most of the team are juniors and seniors and have had plenty of travelling.

Eastern Gridders Favor Regina Bid

HAMILTON, Ont., Dec. 1 (C.P.).—Officials of the Hamilton Italo-Canadians football team, who play Ottawa New Edinburghs on Saturday for the Eastern junior championship, said yesterday their team would be willing to meet Regina Dales for the Canadian championship if victorious in the Eastern final.

Dales challenged Ottawa for a national final if New Edinburgh get past the Hamilton team, but New Edinburgh have replied they are through for the season on Saturday, win, lose or draw.

Cricketer Returns To Amateur Golf

LONDON, Dec. 1—(CP).—Walter Hammond, the ace cricketer, has turned amateur because he can't afford to be a professional any longer.

This isn't a typographical error. Its the way they do things in cricket.

A top-notch hockey player in Canada might earn better than $7,000 a year: Hammond gets about $1,500 from Gloucestershire. So he has turned amateur for financial reasons. He called together a few friends the other day and announced it was "time I got down to a job of work."

He said he was 34 years old and couldn't afford to be a professional any longer. He had accepted a directorship in a rubber company.

All he has to do to regain his amateur status in cricket is announce it and stop taking pay from the cricket club. He'll play for Gloucestershire next year just the same; and as an amateur he'll probably get a chance to captain England in the test matches.

But the old professional freedom will be gone. He can't eat and dress with the "players" any longer. Hammond's a "gentleman" now!

Girls Basketball

Annual re-organization meeting of the Girls' City Basketball League will be held tomorrow (Thursday) evening at seven o'clock in the Y.W.C.A. Teams should be represented by captains and coaches. Prospective entries are asked to have representatives on hand, when general business and plans for the season will be handled.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd C'uckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

FIGHT FANS will trek to the Brock St. arena tonight to see the Riverview A.C. make its debut in sponsoring a mitt card, starting at 8.30 o'clock. And not all of the fans will be men, either, quite a few of the fair sex being ardent followers of the "manly art of self-defence". The flatic program rates a big crowd of ring worms—and we hope the cool weather doesn't cut down on the gate. It shapes up like a slambang scrappy show with several slugfests listed among the seven boxing bouts and one rassilin' exhibition. Grapple fans will see two clever Toronto matmen in Scotty MacKenzie and Harry Burford, middles, going to a 30-minutes or one-fall bout. With Gene Hurtubise—who was on Peterborough's senior O.R.F.U. championship squad back in '07—the referee.

* * * * * * *

THE ORLANDO-CARTER tilt ought to be a honey. Ditto that Minicola-Genovese Italian war. And the Darnbrough-Low tussle. These are between Toronto and local gees. Other biff bouts will see Jordan and Bousley battle it out, Joiner and Packenham swap blows, and Belland and Chamberlain belt each other about. Plus a kids' curtain-raiser. Harry Hence is referee, with Archie Menzies, Jerry Coughlin and Jim Revoy the judges. Hop to it, fight fans, it will be an evening of action and thrills.

THE O.H.A. groupings we announced yesterday came as a complete surprise not only to puck players and fans here but to the Peterborough Hockey Club. We got 'em via Canadian Press and the a.m. papers missed the announcement. After thinking it over a bit—and most of the local officers declined to say much for the present—we gather that the gang here are satisfied with their senior "B" grouping of the Petes, Fliers, Queen's, and Kingston Gaetrisons. A long pair of trips to the Limestone City, but four first-rate teams. Group winner meets the winner of the intermediate "A" circuit of Belleville, R.M.C., Ganonoque and Kingston City. Incidentally, with a senior rating, we are permitted four imports instead of two—though it doesn't mean much now, since Oct. 15th was the deadline for imports.

* * * * * * *

OFFICIALS ARE not too well pleased with the three-team junior "B" grouping of our Colts, Havelock and Belleville. These teams are okay but we should have had at least four. It is the same setup as last year except that Havelock replaces Tweed. As for the intermediate "B" grouping of Peterborough, Oshawa, Whitby and Port Hope—well, that's up in the air yet, since the locals still dunno whether or not they'll have a team in this group or just go into playdowns. They will meet here shortly and see.

* * * * * * *

SIX TEAMS will operate in the Senior City Hockey League this winter, playing games at the Brock, with some also in Lakefield. Teams in are Lakefield, Millbrook, Bewdley, Hiawatha, Westclox and Southenders. It is really more of a district than a city loop now, eh? C.G.E. and Johnson Motors are still undecided, so they weren't considered. Lou LeBarr is referee-in-chief, and Kenny Kane—former senior O.H.A.-er—is the alternate ref. An all-star loop team will be picked halfway through the schedule to go into the O.H.A. intermediate "B" playdowns. This is quite apart from the league playoffs, won last year by Lakefield. Other dope is listed elsewhere.

* * * * * * *

THERE HAS been a switch in plans for the rugby game here this Saturday. Runnymede High School, Toronto district champions, will play P.C.I. Seniors at 2.15 in Riverside Park in a sudden-death Provincial final fray. The Western Ontario champs, Windsor, have dropped out for this year so 'tis Runnymede and P.C.I. for the title. Not figuring on much of a home gate, the visitors have agreed—for a percentage, of course—to the sudden-death tussle here, and it is hoped local fans flock out to support Coach Bamforth and his boys vocally and financially. The Garnet and Gray gang of gridders are on the spot, the chips are down and it is payoff time. Somehow, we have a hunch the locals will cop the Ontario championship in this tussle.

* * * * * * *

ORFUNS WILL go to Dundas on Saturday, leaving the "Y" at seven bells in the morn. When the O.R.F.U. secretary ordered the sudden-death school final here this weekend, the intermediate squad had to re-arrange their home-and-home series for the Provincial "A" pennant. Dundas agreed to open at home this Saturday—but their Hamilton gridiron is not available—and the lads will journey to the town five miles past Hamilton. Orfuns are practising hard this week for the points-to-count serial for the flag, and Mick Magee—out most of the season with an injured shoulder—expects to be back in the lineup. Ken Long, who played first for the Petes last summer, is with the Red Bombers of Dundas.

* * * * * * *

SARNIA SCRIBE says: "Showing only flashes of the fight that carried them to two straight O.R.F.U. championships, Sarnia's Wanderers bowed out of the picture here Saturday before the superior all-around ability and balance of Eddie McLean's Dundas Red Bombers. A first-half punch that counted eight points gave Dundas an 8-0 margin and a 13-6 score on the round. They will meet the powerful Peterborough Orfuns for the championship. Dundas carried too much power scattered evenly for Sarnia to cope with, and three stood out in particular. Cahill the fleet, Smilley the portly and Gurney the chunky, provided a backfield punch that was lacking on Sarnia's side. Bowling outpunted the homesters and, when he left with a bad knee, Gibb held his own. Big Mountain and Bud Donald spelled off the Cahill-Smilley-Gurney trio in ripping holes in a wobbly Sarnia line."

OBSERVATION PLATFORM: Admish for ladies at tonight's fight show here is two bits . . . . Belleville Redmen dropped a 5-4 decision to Trenton Fliers the other eve at the Harty Arena . . . . Quinte crew are crying now 'cause their juniors are in "B" group with our Colts; guess they wanted a "C" or "D" rating with the villages . . . . Flat Walsh coaches the Queen's squad which is grouped with the Petes, Garrisons and Fliers . . . . Jack Goodfellow who subbed for the Ponies last summer, went back to St. Lawrence U., N'Yawk, with Tony Paczkowski . . . . Southend Puck Loop reorganizes Dec. 6th at a meeting at eight at the Sacred Heart rink . . . . Winners last year were: Bantam for Examiner Cup—King Edward School; midget for Graham-Rogers Trophy—Canucks; juvenile for Schneider Trophy—P.C.I. . . . . Coach Doc Rowden put 30 senior puck prospects through an initial workout in Oshawa last e'en; Tony Meader, who ran out on Oshawa to go to St. Mike's a few weeks ago—and was then barred from playing for 'em—was back with the Motor City crew . . . . Group photo of the Orfuns will be run in this section tomorrow . . . . Montreal Rocklands, intermediate rugby champs of Quebec, challenge the Dundas-Orfuns victor to a sudden-death game for the Dominion title! . . . . We won't be out of the gridiron trenches in time for a Xmas grumstick.

Peden Brothers Determined To Win New York Bike Race

Torchy Regaining Lost Driving Power Of His Famous Legs

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (CP)—As a sort of cheery morsel for sport fans gripped by six-day bicycle daffiness, it seems those driving shafts of William (Torchy) Peden might be classed with the famed brook that "goes on forever."

And as long as the legs hold out the bike fans' favorite from Victoria is going to be wheeling around the pine saucers in the six-day merry-go-round that never breaks down.

This is the world right from the trackside; from no less person than the big red-head himself as he rested this morning in his Madison Square Garden bunk and let brother Doug keep up with the leaders alone.

"We've had our eye on winning this Madison Square Garden race for a long time," said the big Victoria rider. "Now my legs seem as strong as ever and, barring something unforeseen it looks as though we've got our best chance."

Doug echoed his sentiments as he addled off the track and Torchy took up the six-day grind again. "As near as I can see," volunteered Doug, "there's no difference in Torchy in the last three years. Ever since I've been riding with him he's been as fast as he is now and it will be some time before I have his strength or his tricks of the trade."

Both boys admitted feeling the grind the first three days because of insufficient training after the Toronto and Chicago races. They won the former in October and finished third in Chicago last month.

"But our legs are toughening up now and it should make us better than ever for the last part of the race," Torchy said.

First Western Bid Past Five Years

OTTAWA, Dec. 1 (C.P.). — For the first time since 1932, when Moose Jaw lost to University of Toronto, the West is seeking a shot at the Dominion junior football title.

Regina Dales, Western junior title-holders, have wired Ottawa New Edinburghs they are willing to pay their own expenses to the East. Burghs, who play Hamilton Italo-Canadians next Saturday in the Interprovincial Union's Eastern Canada final, replied they were through with football after the game, win or lose.

Regina, however, might challenge Hamilton if they defeat Ottawa and thus revive Canadian junior finals.

Somerville Once Scored Three On Alfie Moore In Two Minutes

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (C.P.).—Tiny Thompson, victim of Nels Stewart's stunt of scoring three goals in 7 minutes and 16 seconds in a National Hockey League game in Boston on Sunday night has a keen sympathizer in Stewart's New York Americans' team-mate, Sub-goaler Alfie Moore.

"Boy, that sure must have burned Thompson up," said Moore just before leaving New York to join the Amerks in Montreal for their Saturday game against Maroons. "I know how he felt, because Sandy Somerville (famous London, Ont. golfer) once scored three on me in two minutes. That was in the amateur game.

"Nels is my idea of a perfect athlete. He's the hero of the Beach the eastern lakefront section of Toronto, where he was raised. Mothers name kids after him and you can get into plenty of arguments if you call Lionel Conacher Canada's greatest athlete. Folks up there claim Stewart is or could have been if he had the urge.

"He uses the goofiest looking stick in the league. The blade is about three inches wide almost like a goaler's and the stick is shaped like a number seven, allowing him to shoot from a very short arc. Whenever I break one of mine I just tell Trainer Tommy Bell to give me one of Stewart's."

A torn shoulder ligament suffered in an early practice game has healed, and Moore is anxious to get into action and give Earl Robertson a rest. But Alfie is resigned to standing by as the clubs spare goaler until an emergency arises.

NEW MANAGERS SEEK PLAYERS FOR NEXT WAR

MILWAUKEE, Wisconsin, Dec. 1. Three of the four new major league pilots for 1938 were among the busiest individuals in the lobby of the Hotel Schroeder Tuesday on the eve of the opening of the annual Minor Leagues Baseball Convention.

The new pilots—Gabby Street of the St. Louis Browns, Casey Stengel of the Boston Bees, and Bill McKechnie of the Cincinnati Reds—started preliminary work which they hope will lead to deals during the minor leagues meeting Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, or the major leagues meeting next week in Chicago. The other new manager, Oscar Vitt, of the Cleveland Indians, won't arrive from his Oakland, Cal., home until this afternoon.

Street, who, at 56, is the major's oldest active man in uniform, isn't discouraged by the colossal task ahead of him in re-building the last place Browns.

No Easy Job For Gabby.

"I've never had an easy job in baseball," said Street, as he puffed on his ever-present pipe. "When I took over the Cardinals they had finished a bad fourth the season before. I won two pennants with them. The Mission Club I managed had finished a bad seventh when I was called in. The season before I piloted St. Paul the club had finished a bad fifth. I finished second with both Mission and St. Paul. So a tough job doesn't frighten me.

"My first task with the Browns is to plug the big hole at short and second. I was with the Browns as coach for about sixty games last season, and I saw enough to realize the first thing I have to do is get a shortstop and second baseman. That's what we'll concentrate on first. We have plenty of trading material on our club.

"Catcher Rollie Hemsley is definitely on the market. As far as that goes, I'll trade anybody on the Browns and that includes outfielder Vosmik."

Stengel Wants More Punch.

Casey Stengel's plans for revitalizing the Boston Bees centre around adding punch, speed and color to the club.

"The Bees have been a little drab," commented Stengel, "and I hope to liven them up somewhat. Our pitching is of first division class and our defense is good, but we need more power and speed. I'd like a hard-hitting left fielder, and more hitting strength at possibly short and first. Of course, we can't sacrifice too much defensive strength because we need it at home in our large park."

Bill McKechnie, who moved to Cincinnati after eight years at the helm of the Boston Club, expects to give the Reds a general overhauling and is willing to trade all but a few of his players if the right deal comes along.

KNOCKOUT FIGHTS ARE LIKELY HERE

Several knockouts are expected here tonight at the Riverview A. C. fight show in the Brock St. arena, starting at 8.30 o'clock. A number of hard-hitting local and Toronto pugilists have been matched, [illegible] gers who generally end their [illegible] suddenly with a kayo. All three of the main bouts promise plenty of hard ring action. Nick Orlando, ex-Montreal fighter who lives here now, expects to hand Bev. Carter, Toronto lightweight, his first defeat in over two years of campaigning as a headliner. Len Minicola, hard-hitting Peterborough scrapper, meets a very tough chap in Joe Genovese of Toronto, but feels he has a good chance of rocking him to sleep. Harry Low, local welter, believes his 10-pound pull in the weights, should give him a slight edge over the classy Darnbrough, Toronto lightweight, who will represent Canada in the British Empire Games.

Besides these three fine melees, all five two-minute rounds, there are several good all-local slugfests lined up, three three-minute heats. The Jordan-Bousley, the Joiner-Packenham and the Belland-Chamberlain jousts sounding like a lot of action. There will also be a curtain-raiser and a wrestling exhibition. This card should pack in a big crowd of fans in the first program presented by the new local Riverview A. C.

What! Training With Guards

By the looks of things, Eddie Wenstob, ex-Canadian cowpuncher and boxer, is not content to do his road work by himself. Although things are sometimes deceiving, it would look as though he were training with the guards in front of Windsor Castle. As it is, it was only an accidental meeting between the two parties mentioned. Eddie just happened to be passing at the time of the changing of the guard. He is in London, Eng., for several boxing matches. Wenstob is ranked near the top of the light-heavyweights by the National Boxing association.

ST. MIKE'S WINS S.P.A. TEST 4-2

TORONTO, Dec. 1.— St. Michael's Buzzers knocked Runnymede out of the S.P.A. series on Tuesday night at Mayle Leaf Gardens with a 4 to 2 win in a game which wound up in a brief fistic flurry between four players, two from each side. The Irish collegians held an edge in territorial advantages and rapped in a goal in the first and second periods and two for good measure in the last after Runnymede had rallied to deadlock the count.

The fistic affray in the closing minutes started between Husband of Runnymede and McAuley of the Irish, with Carty and Elgi chipping in for good measure. All were given major penalties.

OSHAWA SENIORS HOLD FIRST DRILL

OSHAWA, Dec. 1.—Oshawa's entry in the O.H.A. senior group had its first workout of the season on skates last night, when Coach (Doc) Rowden put them through a strenuous hour at the Arena. The workout was productive of two surprises, both Scotty McAlpine and Tony Meader turning out for the practice. McAlpine was believed to have left the city, while Meader was said to have entered St. Michael's College a week or so ago.

Manager Bill Tribble was more than pleased with the turnout of close to thirty candidates.

During last night's workout it was Oshawa's standbys like Lex Chisholm, Ab Barnes, Doc Rowden, Squeak Morrison, Chief Jamieson and Irv McCullough who drew the attention of the railbirds.

SCOTTISH CURLERS TO TOUR DOMINION

TORONTO, Dec. 1 (C.P.). — The roarin' game of curling will see a lot of international competition this winter. A group of Scottish curlers is coming to Canada for a tour that will take it as far West as Calgary and into the United States for a couple of matches. The schedule includes games at Sudbury, Timmins and Kirkland Lake.

Officials of the Dominion Curling Association expect about six rinks will make the invasion from the land where the game of besom an' stane originated.

Captain of the Scottish team will be William Henderson, who was a member of the first Scots team to visit Canada in 1903. This year's tour will be the first undertaken by a team from Scotland for several years. The invaders arrive in Halifax on December 31.

Hockey's Big 7

(By the Canadian Press.)

Doc Romnes, only National Hockey League scoring leader to see action last night, was shut out by Maroons along with the rest of the Chicago Black Hawks. Allan Shields' goal, only one of the night, was the first of the season for the Maroon player, and Toronto men continued to monopolize the scoring picture. Charlie Conacher and Bill Thoms Toronto, Nels Stewart, Americans, Marty Barry, Detroit, and Romnes are tied on the fringe of the big seven.

CRIMSON TIDE SELECTED FOR THE ROSE BOWL

BERKELEY, Cal., Dec. 1—(AP).—The University of Alabama accepted last night an invitation to play the Golden Bears of California in the New Year's Day Rose Bowl football classic at Pasadena.

Kenneth Priestley, graduate Manager of the University of California, announced negotiations had been completed by telephone with Alabama officials.

Alabama, which has played in the Rose Bowl four times, finished its season undefeated and untied.

The California Bears, Pacific Coast conference champions, are unbeaten but once tied, by Washington.

Priestly did not comment after announcing the selection of Alabama. He did not say whether invitations had been offered any other schools.

Fordham and Alabama had been considered about an even choice to receive the Rose Bowl plum following Pittsburg's decision last night not to play any post-season games.

Maroons Win On Fluke Goal Shields' Shot Beats Hawks

Victory Sends Montreal Into Second Place Tie In Canadian Section

TORONTO, Dec. 1 (CP) — Even when they're idle, Toronto Maple Leafs are making news. Their goal-getting bursts stand in bold contrast to the scoring attempts of the rest of the National Hockey League.

Montreal Maroons and Chicago Black Hawks gave an example of what's going on elsewhere in the N. H.L. when Maroons edged out the Hawks 1-0 at Montreal last night on Allan Shields' goal. Though the Leafs play but once in the next two weeks they probably still will lead the league in goals at the end of that period. With 39, they have more than twice as many as any other club now.

Shields' counter, coming in the middle of a quiet second period, was his first of the season. Any players in the game with hopes of catching Toronto scorers like Gordon Drillon and Harvey Jackson missed their chances to gain in the mild display.

Otherwise the contest was noteworthy through the fact the smallest attendance of the National League season was recorded. All but 4,000 Montreal fans stayed away, many of them awaiting tomorrow's battle between Canadiens and Boston, leader of the American division.

Shields scored on a lone rush, letting fly just after crossing the blue line. As it rose, the puck struck a defender's ankle and slipped past Goalie Mike Karakas before he saw it.

Herbie Cain, moved from a wing position to centre in Maroons' 3-1 victory over Detroit Sunday, pivoted the Baldy Northcott-Jimmy Ward line again. Pleased at his showing last night, Clancy said Cain would be left at centre.

The result broke Maroons' third-place tie with Canadiens and left the Habitants in the cellar, the Hawks are still above the last-place Detroit Red Wings in the American division.

Tampering Found Bowie Race Track

BOWIE, Md., Dec. 1 (A.P.)—Two more cases of tampering with race horses were discovered here yesterday, bringing the 24-hour total to four.

Small sponges were inserted in the nostrils of each of the four thoroughbreds. The sponges interfere with breathing and slow horses during races.

At least six horses were "sponged" during the meeting here last fall and track officials announced on Monday they had orderd a thorough prob of the latest tampering.

Sponges were removed to-day from: Buck Langhorne, owned by Mrs. Kenneth Gilpen, which ran third in yesterday's sixth race; Indomitable, owned by Taragon Stables which ran seventh yesterday in the sixth; W. E. Johnson's White Sand and Master Lad were found to have been sponged yesterday.

Connie Mack In A Buying Mood

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1.—(AP).—Connie Mack, veteran manager of Philadelphia Athletics, yesterday entered the baseball marts in a buying mood.

Mack said he would be in Chicago next week to attend a three-day baseball conference, and added he was going there to buy.

"I am going to strengthen the team if I can do so," Mack asserted. "I would rather buy than trade my players, and any deals will likely be made with cash."

SIX TEAMS ENTER SENIOR CITY LOOP

At a Senior City Hockey League meeting in Duffus' last night for the closing of entries, six teams entered: Lakefield, Millbrook, Bewdley, Hiawatha, Westclox and Southenders. They will play a double schedule, to be drawn up after the O.H.A. schedules are released, with majority of games at the Brock St. rink, and some also in Lakefield. An all-star league team will be picked by the executive and managers halfway through the schedule and will go into the O.H.A. intermediate "B" playdowns. The league playoffs will consist of home-and-home games between the first and second teams and between the third and fourth teams, the survivors in two out of three for the title.

Lou LeBarr was named referee-in-chief with Ken Kane appointed alternate referee. There were five applications. Teams agreeing to play in Lakefield must live up to this agreement after the schedule is drawn up, and the Lakefield management will pay the referee and give the visiting team 15 per cent of the net gate for games in Lakefield. Playoffs will be in Peterborough. The O.H.A. team will go under the name of the team in top place in the standing when the selection of players is made, and the sweaters of that team will be worn. The manager will be appointed at this time, also. The league may run a dance to help finance teams, this matter to be definitely decided later and such a dance run in January. A few other matters were discussed before the session adjourned.

Creeping Paralysis Strickens Athlete

OLYMPIA, Wash., Dec. 1 (AP).—A strange malady, which he blames on the frequency with which he gave blood transfusions to save more than 20 lives, is slowly paralyzing Roger Carr, 33-year-old former Detroit athlete.

He offered himself today as a human guinea pig to any doctor who thinks there is a chance of halting the creeping paralysis.

Carr's legs, which won many track medals, have grown heavy and slow. He has lost his sense of balance.

He spends his time weaving rugs to provide his only income.

Physicians diagnosed Carr's ailment as "spastic paraplegia, due to multiple sclerosis." This is the gradual paralysis of the lower half of the body and hardening of the spinal cord.

PEACOCK FEATHERS

By Temple Bailey

READ THIS FIRST:

Jerry, young son of a country clergyman in modest circumstances, looks back upon his first romantic episode. As a boy of 12, he had kissed a young Italian girl.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 3.

I had kissed Theresa and that was all there was to it. We were both very young and very innocent. My life had been lived with my father and mother and among my books. I was, too, singularly unawakened. I think that of the two of us, Theresa knew more of life and of the making of love.

I walked part of the way home with her. When I turned back, I had again to pass the cemetery. I stopped and stood leaning on the gate, looking in. The moon was hanging just above the horizon, thin and faint in a purple sky.

I heard my father's quick step on the path. "Hello," he said. "Jerry?"

I turned and met him. For the first time in my life I found myself self-conscious with my father. I blurted out the first thing that came into my head.

"When I am dead, don't bury me in there."

I was aware of his surprise. "Why not?"

"Oh, I'd hate to think, Father, that life was just walking up and down this road, and being shut in at the end by this picket fence."

He laughed a little. "Under the wide and starry sky dig a grave and let me lie?" Is that it, Jerry?"

"Oh, yes!" I was thrilled and eager. Stevenson was the object of my adoration in those days, and my father's understanding of my mood made me once more at ease with him. We walked along in silence, and then he said:

"Were you coming to meet me?"

I could have evaded his question. But I didn't want to. I wanted to talk about Theresa—to feel her name on my lips, to reveal in a description of our innocent amour.

So I began, as I have said, with the interrogation, "Have you ever kissed a woman?"

I shall never forget that night, or the way my father's mind met my own. He listened without comment until I had finished. Then for the first time he spoke to me as man to man. There were things I must wait for until I was stable and steady. If I did not wait, I might miss the best. A man who was master of himself was master of the world.

I did not kiss Theresa again, or any other of the Italian girls. My father gave me books that winter in which love was exalted. I read Dante with him, and longed for a Beatrice.

I was 16 when Uncle Jerry came from Colorado. He was much older than in the picture we had of him taken during the Spanish war, but he was still remarkably good-looking. He was not married and he was 45. He was like my father in many ways, but I was aware as the days went on that they were different in this: Uncle Jerry lived for himself—my father lived for others. My father was handsome in spite of the plainness of his garb. Uncle Jerry was handsome plus a picturesqueness which still belonged to the people of the west in the early part of the twentieth century.

Uncle Jerry brought with him all the glamor of the wide spaces of his adopted state. He wove about the plains and mountains the web of high romance. One found there the fountain of youth, the pleasures of Paradise. The part of the Rockies where he had his ranch was in effect the promised land!

I listened—and believed him. And then and there was born in me a desire to leave behind me the clean, bare house, the church which imposed upon my father long-tailed coats, the life which had to do with drudgery and dull dresses for my mother, dishes to be washed, cows to be milked. On Uncle Jerry's ranch other people did the work, while my uncle, in broad sombrero and other cowboy trappings, rode over his wide acres.

Uncle Jerry had, it seemed, money enough to spare. He spent freely, wore good clothes, and seemed to me to shine with a light which had illumined Robin Hood and Alan Breck, and all those gay and gallant heroes of my story-books.

He had worldly mind which fascinated me. His point of view was not muddled up or clouded by moral consideration. He took from life what it had to give. He did not believe himself in any sense his brother's keeper.

I think my father worried a bit about the effect on me of my uncle's paganism.

"But you're a man, Jerry," he told me; "you must learn to think for yourself."

I did think for myself. I saw Uncle Jerry's faults, but I was none the less drawn to him. I grew to understand that much of his speech was extravagant, but I lent an ear to it, so that some of the pictures he painted stayed in my mind and were hard to displace even when years later I learned the facts. I aspired more than anything to be a cowboy and live in a ranch house. After a time the thing happened, and it was then that the pictures Uncle Jerry had drawn faded forever.

Of the world of women, one felt, Uncle Jerry spoke with authority. He was, as I have said, unmarried. But he talked a great deal of his conquests. His good looks drew easily the eyes of femininity. He knew this, and basked in it, and boasted of it.

"Remember this, Jerry," he would say to me. "If you want to win a woman, you must make yourself her master."

My father would never have told me that. Indeed, I doubt if he knew it. I have often wondered what my mother would have done if my father had ruled her and had refused to wear his black coat when he wanted to be comfortable, and had made her milk the cows and wash the clothes like the other women in the town.

Perhaps he might have roused in her something which she never gave him. Yet she grew in those hard years, of which I shall write later, to lean upon his tenderness; and I like to think of him, a knight in his long black coat, rendering her the services which his great strength made possible.

Before Uncle Jerry returned to the west, he took me with him on a journey to the city of Washington.

He stayed at an old hotel on Pennsylvania avenue, which even then was antiquated and unfashionable. But there were a few congressmen who clung to it, and their satellites,

BEDTIME STORY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY CHASES HIMSELF

"Hurray! Hurray!" cheered Uncle Wiggily's old fur coat flipping and flapping and flopping out on the clothes line in the yard of the hollow stump bungalow. "Out you go!"

"Oh, please let some of us stay for the Winter!" begged the last of the moths that Nurse Jane hadn't beaten out with a stick.

"No! No!" said the old fur coat. "If you stay you will eat me all up and Uncle Wiggily won't have any old coat to wear in bad storms when he doesn't want to put on his best one. Out you go!"

So the last of the fur-eating flies were chased from the old fur coat, which continued to flip and flop on the line as the December wind blew harder and colder.

"Feels like Christmas weather," said the old fur coat to some November leaves that were scurrying around the yard looking for a place to hide before snow came.

Not Long

"Yes, only about three weeks now," said a little icicle that hoped to grow larger before morning. "Then hurray for Santa Claus!"

"And Christmas stockings!" said the old fur coat. "Uncle Wiggily will wear me if it storms, when he goes out to see some poor animal children. He will fill my pockets with presents. I hope the moths haven't eaten my pockets full of holes so the presents will fall out," he said anxiously as he flapped on the line.

"Nurse Jane will mend them," whispered the leaves.

"Yes, I guess so," agreed the old coat. "Say, what are you trying to do; blow me off the line?" he asked the wind, which was whipping the old coat to and fro.

"Just blowing away the last moth," chuckled the wind.

"Oh, all right!" laughed the old coat.

"Whee!" puffed the wind and just then Neddie Stubtail, the boy bear, came into Uncle Wiggily's yard to bring back to Nurse Jane a sauce pan his mother had borrowed the day before.

"Hello, Uncle Wiggily," said Neddie politely, for it was getting dark and he thought the flapping old fur coat on the line was the jolly old rabbit gentleman himself. "Hello!"

Of course the fur coat didn't answer him, and neither did the wind. But both laughed to themselves at the boy bear's mistake.

"That's funny — Uncle Wiggily doesn't answer me," said Neddie.

Runs Away

Then the wind blew harder than before. It blew the old fur coat off the line. It blew it right over Neddie and, dropping the sauce pan, the bear boy put up his front paws so they went right in the paw holes and he had on Uncle Wiggily's old fur coat.

"Oh! Oh! What's this? Uncle Wiggily has jumped on my back!" cried Neddie. For still he didn't guess it was only a fur coat. "Oh, please get off!" he cried and away he ran while the wind cracked its cheeks laughing.

Away ran Neddie in the old fur coat and just then in the dusky evening along came Uncle Wiggily.

"What's this? What's this?" said the rabbit gentleman, rubbing his eyes and his pink, twinkling nose. "There I go but here I am! This is very strange. I must chase myself to see what this means."

So Uncle Wiggily chased what he thought was himself, but which was really Neddie running in the old fur coat. And soon the boy bear stumbled and fell. Uncle Wiggily caught him and of course then the secret was out.

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed Mr. Longears. "Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed Neddie.

The old fur coat laughed too, but you couldn't hear that. Though you could have heard the wind if you listened closely. So it all happened for the best. And if the caraway seeds will stop jumping out of the rye bread to play tag I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's kindness.

council yesterday, unanimously endorsed this course of action. They are also backing Mr. Hepburn in the renewal of friction and bitterness that allegedly has developed between him and Prime Minister King. Mr Hepburn's visit to Ottawa—had it been successful—would probably have ended for all time the marked differences between the two Government leaders on various questions of interlocking policy.

Hepburn Snubbed.

"But the 'snub' which was administered Mr. Hepburn, not only by Mr. King, but by his ministers as well, was so emphatic, it is understood, that the repercussions within official circles at Queen's Park have become so pronounced that, following Cabinet Council yesterday, the corridors were fairly a-buzz with speculation as to the outcome of the delicate situation.

"Mr. Hepburn refused to comment as to the purpose of his Ottawa visit, as to the likelihood of any early Beauharnois contract; as to his future associations with Mr. King. 'I have nothing to say about anything,' he declared. 'And you can make that as strong as you like.'

"The Federal government remains silent on the point. Mr. King is said to have realized the seriousness of the situation that might arise immediately after he made his export decision on Monday, because he hurried away from his ministers to Mr. Hepburn's Ottawa hotel suite in a reported effort to placate his visitor.

Peace Effort a Flop?

"However, it is said, he had little luck, and Ontario's Premier returned to Toronto with his oft-referred-to 'break' with the Prime Minister now definite, beyond any shadow of a doubt.

"It was rumored in local Liberal circles that some efforts at reconciliation would be made within the next few days, but with Mr. Hepburn engaged with his special legislature session, it is probable Ottawa will hold its hand until the session is over."

Legislation passed at the 1935 session of the Ontario Legislature after prolonged debate cancelled power contracts with Beauharnois, the Ottawa Valley Power Company, MacLaren-Quebec Power Company and Gatineau Power Company. New contracts since have been made, but not with Beauharnois.

MAGICIANS FIGHT TO SAVE SECRETS

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 (AP).—Magicians from both sides of the continent today took steps to keep the public from finding out how they pull rabbits out of silk hats and perform other astonishing feats.

Horace Goldin, inventor of an illusion for sawing a woman in two, sued the J. R. Reynolds Tobacco Company in Federal Court here for $50,000. He charged the company exposed his trick in a cigarette advertisement.

On the west coast, the California section of the Society of American Magicians formally urged the ousting of Julien J. Proskauer, president of the society's New York assembly, on the grounds he had exposed magic secrets for commercial purposes.

and Uncle Jerry among them was in his glory. I knew nothing of hotels and found it all quite enchanting.

Uncle Jerry had, it seemed, a great deal to do with politics. He and the men at the hotel drank and smoked and dined together. I did not drink or smoke, but I ate the good food with a boy's appetite and listened with eagerness to the discussions. Indeed, nothing had ever interested me more than those voluble gentlemen who seemed to hold the future of the country in their hands.

We did not always eat at the hotel. There was a restaurant on the avenue where we went often for late suppers, and my memory of Uncle Jerry on these occasions is of his epicurean enjoyment of the steamed oysters which had made the old place famous. I can see him now—his red lips, his white teeth, savoring the succulence.

"Nothing like 'em," he would say, "anywhere!"

FIRE IN BARN FOUND TO BE ACCIDENTAL

Field of Toronto as counsel for the assured.

Text of Report

The text of the Fire Marshal's report states:

"No definite evidence was discovered as to the primary cause of the fire. It was another one of the threshing fires which have caused such great loss to Ontario farmers in recent years, in which the origin cannot be definitely established due to complete destruction not only of the barn but also the separator of the threshing machine. In this instance the total damage from the fire was adjusted at $4,123.00.

Conflicting Stories

"Several conflicting stories told during the investigation which followed the fire necessitated a public inquiry being held where all witnesses could be examined in detail under oath, and this public inquiry at Peterborough did result in entirely clearing up any suspicions which might have existed and in definitely establishing that the fire was a direct result of the threshing operations. Although no one saw any flame originate in the separator or come from the blower, the fire started in the straw-mow just at the point where the stack was blowing the straw resulting from the threshing operation. None of the workers at the threshing had been in that vicinity for some minutes before the fire originated, and the owner of the premises had not been in the barn for some little time before the fire started. Apparently nothing was out of order in the threshing outfit, no explosion or untoward happening was noted in the separator, and it seems probable that the fire was caused by a match going through the mill and becoming ignited as it was carried through the blower. The fire started at a point in the mow which was within the vision of almost all those working in the barn and spread with such rapidity that not alone could the separator not be moved out, but there was no time to even take off the belt from the engine to the separator. The direction of the wind, the structure of the barn and the point of origin all combined to make it totally impossible that any spark from the steam threshing engine started the fire.

A Parallel Case

"The origin of this fire seems almost exactly parallel to a case investigated by the Fire Marshal in Western Ontario about three weeks ago. In that instance the man working in the straw mow noticed a flare in the straw which the blower was depositing almost at his feet, and bending down picked up a match on which the head was still flaring. This match had obviously come out of the blower and had been ignited by the head striking the metal stack on its way out, and fortunately was seen before the flaring of the head of the match had time to even ignite the wood or to spread in the straw. This Western Ontario case is ample evidence that matches do cause threshing fires. In the Bertram fire there is no evidence of the carrying of matches or careless smoking, although no special precautions were taken against carrying matches, but on the other hand the owner of the premises had found an empty match box in the mow the day before threshing and had reported to the police his suspicions that some transient had been sleeping in the barn."

An all-time record was created at the end of October at the Sault when 83,391,382 tons of freight has passed through the locks since navigation opening. The total was 1,000,000 tons more than the previous record set in 1929.

Lad Names Assailant Of Parents

From the hospital cot in which he is shown (ABOVE), recovering from a beating he received from the murderer of his parents, six-year-old Larry Kuntz, of Wheat Basin, Mont., named the man who shot his parents and who later beat him unconscious. The man he accused—Frank Robideau, 55-year-old farmer—in a rambling signed confession, stated he and Mike Kuntz agreed to duel after an argument over 18 bushels of wheat stored in the elevator where Kuntz was manager. Part of the agreement, he said, was that if Robideau won he could kill Kutz's wife and child.

KILLING JOB SHOT NERVES IS PLEA

arraigned in Police Court here on Saturday on a murder charge. Preliminary hearing was adjourned until December 7.

Dr. Morton Hall, reporting his autopsy findings, testified the child's head and face bore "multiple external injuries" and said cause of death was a cerebral hemorrhage. He said the "most probable explanation" he could give for the injuries was that the baby "had been taken by the legs and struck against some solid object." He said he was convinced the injuries could not have been caused by a fall.

Couldn't Stand Crying

Detective William McDonald, coroner's officer, produced at the inquest a written statement which he swore was given him voluntarily by Damery shortly after the arrest. The document was read as evidence.

The statement quoted Damerly: "The baby kept on crying and would not take its bottle. I slapped it on both cheeks, not on the top of the head, also on the buttocks.

"The baby would cry a lot and loudly, and it seemed to get on my nerves. I felt that I could not stand the baby crying.

"I was working pretty hard at the Swift Canadian Co., Ltd., packing plant at the time, and when the baby started to cry I used to slap her on both sides of the face. I didn't know what caused me to do so, but it seemed that I could not control myself. I know I have a bad temper, but after slapping the baby it would keep quiet."

Would Shake Life a Leaf.

"There was an awful change in him—in his nerves—soon after he started the job there," Mrs. Damery said. "He'd come home and sit down and shake like a leaf."

At about the same time, she said his attitude "altered slightly" toward both the child and herself. "He wanted us to keep quiet. If I made a noise he'd ask me to try to keep quiet. He would pick up the baby and kiss her, and at first he didn't hit her when she'd start crying.

"One time he did hit her, and then he took her and loved her and kissed her and said he was sorry he had done it. I remember that on the 22nd he came home and pick her up and she started to cry because she had a new nipple in her milk bottle and didn't like it —and Hector slapped her then."

Cases Withdrawn Against Strikers

KITCHENER, Dec. 1.—(CP)—Sixty Twin City residents, many of them former strikers at the Kaufman Rubber plant here, were dismissed in police court today by Magistrate John R. Blake on charges of obstructing police and interfering with the operation of a railway. All were charged with the first offence and 27 also faced the latter count.

INFORMALITY WILL MARK OPENING

The Toronto Globe and Mail says in a newspage story to-day that Hydro's "long-considered power purchase" from Beauharnois Light, Heat and Power Company will be announced "probably before the special session concludes." If such a contract is made, it will replace one cancelled by legislative action in 1935.

Mr. Matthews, prominent Toronto financier, was sworn in yesterday by Chief Justice F. R. Latchford in a quiet ceremony at the Legislature. He succeeded Hon. Dr. Herbert A. Bruce, 69-year-old surgeon. With the retirement of Dr. Bruce, Government House as the official residence of the Lieutenant-Governor, disappeared. The $1,000,000 mansion in Chorley Park will be sold.

Six thousand brands of tea are being sold in England.

ORPHANAGE RUINED AS JAPS BOMB IT KILLING 86 KIDDIES

SHANGHAI, Dec. 1 — (AP). — The French ambassador said today that Japanese bombs had destroyed a Catholic orphanage at Kashing and killed 86 Chinese children.

He also said 150 refugees, four French sisters and five Chinese sisters who were at the orphanage were missing.

The reports came as the Japanese continued their advance on Nanking.

Two missionaries brought 44 young Chinese seminary students with them to Shanghai, but said all other residents of the Sisters of Charity orphanage were killed missing. They told Father Moulin, procurator of the Lazarist mission headquarters that the Japanese had bombed the orphanage frequently and had finally destroyed six buildings.

During the attacks, the missionaries said, the sisters herded their charges into a dugout on the mission grounds, but one bomb hit the dugout directly killing 36 girls while another hit the nursery, killing 60 babies and wounding two Chinese sisters.

Father Moulin said sisters took 150 other orphans and adults, including some wounded on a large skiff and fled toward the interior. He expressed fear for their safety as no word had been received from them.

Milk bottles having a total value of $800,000 were lost in England in the last year.

APPEAL RULING QUASHES SLOT MACHINE BY-LAW

TURNER ADMITS TIFF OVER SON DRINKING BEER

Says Lad Helped Self And Wife Blamed Him

WALKERTON, Ont., Dec. 2.—(CP)—Walter Turner, charged with the murder of his wife near Dresden Feb. 25, took the witness stand in his own defence today as the defence opened its case.

Garnet Turner, a brother of the accused man, and Margaret Law, a nurse who attended Mrs. Turner a year before her death, both testified they knew of no trouble between the couple.

Asked if his brother drank a lot Garnet Turner replied: "I never saw him take a drink in his life."

Walter Turner denied an accusation of Police Chief Blackburn of Dresden he had threatened to kill his wife. Questioned by G. C. Elgie, defence counsel, he said he never assaulted his wife. Turner said he was 34. He told of his life on a farm and of working in Chatham and Dresden. He was married in 1926.

"How much education did you have?" Mr. Elgie asked.

"I left school in the third book," Turner replied.

"Can you read and write well?"

"Not so good."

In the Fall of 1936 Turner said he was husking corn. He could husk 75 or 80 bushels a day, he told Mr. Elgie. He told of the visit of Chief Blackburn to the house.

"Was you wife a strong woman?"

"No, she wasn't," said Turner. "She had pneumonia twice while we were married. She weighed from 105 to 110 pounds."

Tells of Son Getting Beer.

The police chief was called on a Sunday morning, Turner testified. "My little boy ran to the pantry and helped himself to some beer. My wife came in and saw him and

SECRET GRENADE FACTORY FOUND

PARIS, Dec. 2 (CP-Havas). — Surete operators investigating the Cagoulard plot against the state today discovered in a forest a secret hand grenade "plant" and new supplies of hidden arms.

Police seized 2,462 hand grenades, raising the number of explosives of this type uncovered by the authorities thus far to nearly 6,000.

Searching a building located in the forest close to Echou Boulains, in the Seine-et-Marne department, near Paris, police found elaborate apparatus indicating it served as a hand grenade "plant" for the Cagoulards ("Hooded Ones"). It contained machinery for filling hand grenades with explosive powder.

The owner of the house, a Mme. Lecuyer, assertedly fled abroad when police started their investigation of the secret society's alleged plot to overthrow the government by armed force and establish a dictatorship in preparation for restoration of the monarchy.

Last Minute News Flashes

MONTREAL. — Silence and mystery today veiled the movement of 12 German representatives of industry and capital reported to be negotiating for the purchase of the Island of Anticosti, timber-clad tract in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

WASHINGTON.—John L. Lewis and William Green recessed their Labor peace conference this afternoon until later today without arriving at any conclusions.

MOSCOW.—Sigismund Levaneffsky and five companions who vanished August 13 on a trans-Polar flight from Moscow toward the United States were given up for dead today by Mihail Vodopyanoff, Russian Arctic flier. Upon his return from an extended search of the icy wastes in which the Levaneffsky plane disappeared, he said four search planes were remaining at Rudolph's Island to hunt for plane wreckage.

ROME.—The newspaper Il Messagero reported today that Italian aviators had brought down 455 government aircraft in the Spanish civil war. The newspaper carried the names of 35 Italian fliers who lost their lives in Spain.

1,000 CIVILIANS KILLED, WOUNDED IN JAP AIR RAID

SHANGHAI, Dec. 2— (AP). — Chinese dispatches from Hangchow to-day said more than 1,000 civilians were killed and wounded in a Japanese air raid on Hsiaoshan, about 12 miles south-east of Hangchow.

Five hundred dead and wounded non-combatants were reported found in the ruin of buildings destroyed by Japanese incediary bombs. Those buried in the wreckage were not immediately extricated.

Scores were made homeless by the destruction of 1,100 houses in Hsiaoshan.

CHANCE OF THEIR LIVES

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2—(AP)—Drudgery of work in laundry and beauty shop were forgotten to-day by two girls who expectantly faced the last hurdle to the possible accomplishment of their dreams—a career in the opera.

Rita Limerson, 21, who works in her father's laundry, and her friend Helen Dupca, 18, a beauty shop operator, have been invited to give auditions for the Philadelphia Civic Opera Company.

"There are parts open to them if they can make the grade," Francesco Pelosi, general manager of the company promised.

9 Men Seeking Work Find Lumber Camp Doors Shut

Groups From South Found Mostly Useless, Hungry Windsor Gang is Informed at Timmins

TIMMINS, Ont., Dec. 2.—(CP)—Nine hungry jobless men from Windsor, Ont., were turned away here last night when they applied for work in the lumber camps through the employment bureau.

Michael Brownrigg, gangling Essex county farm youth, said they had been given transportation by the welfare department of Windsor and expected to be taken on immediately in camps about here.

Superintendent Delbert Murphy of the Employment Bureau told the men pulp companies were unwilling to outfit and pay transportation for men who sought work. The Windsor men were lightly clad and had not a cent among them.

Reports from the employment branch have stated pulp cutters are wanted in Kapuskasing area, said Murphy. Nearest camps where men might be needed are 150 miles from Timmins.

Given Clothes, Rooms

Mayor J. P. Bartleman arranged to have the men properly clothed and lodged overnight. Mayor Wigle of Windsor had advised him over the telephone the border city would pay the cost of the men's stay, said Mayor Bartleman.

Murphy said he could not understand why the men were sent here under the impression work was waiting. "I told them I could use any

All World Liberty at Stake, Lloyd George Thunders

Flails Democracies As Quitters In Face of Rising Dictatorship Threats

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(CP Cable)—David Lloyd George spoke his mind today in plain, blunt words. Four huge maps—Africa, the British Empire, the Far East, and Europe—flanked him as he stood on the platform in Caxton Hall. Now and again, with a pointer as long as himself, he illustrated his theme.

But he was no politician turned schoolmaster. His survey of the international scene was such as no school ever saw. It wa sat once a bitter arraignment of the "feeble, flaccid" leadership of democracy and an appeal "to the great democratic countries of the world to stand up to protect freedom from the hand of the assassin."

He spoke of the onward march of resolute dictators, of democratic "quitters" blaming each other at every retreat. He told how the democracies under strong leadership stood the supreme test in 1914. Now for the democracies it was surrender after surrender. Autocracy had raised two or three great, resolute men, relentless, ruthless, unscrupulous, able, courageous, fearless. Democracy had fallen into limp, flaccid hands, which could not seize the sword for trembling.

Ethiopia One Small Part

The issue now was not merely one of the conquest of Ethiopia or the suppression of democracy in Spain. It had gone far beyond that. Liberty, democracy, and international rights throughout the world were at stake. There were enemies on the march, growing in strength and audacity and reckless power. That was the outstanding fact. World appeasement would not be found along the path of surrender.

"We have ridden that Rotten Row for five years and have got no farther," the former prime minister

ED. WYNN ON STAGE

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(CP)—Back on Broadway after a lengthy interlude as radio comedian, Ed Wynn tickled the funnybones of first-nighters last night in "Hooray for What?"

The musical comedy, with a strain of political satire, casts effervescent Ed as an eccetric inventor of bombs and gases who is pursued by all spies of Europe.

Brockville Offers Reward of $500 For Firebug Active in Area

Brockville, Dec. 2 (CP)

THE municipal corporation today offered a reward of $500 for the "discovery, apprehension and conviction" of the individual or individuals responsible for a series of incendiary fires here this year.

Suspicious circumstances have surrounded a number of fires affecting buildings, unoccupied at the time. Buildings burned included the former main building at the Brockville fair grounds, the new theatre, a portion of the the former Cossitt manufacturing property, the clubhouse of the Brockville Golf and Country Club and the mill of the Brockville lumber corporation.

Owners of some summer properties as well as of buildings throughout the town have engaged watchmen to protect their property.

As Much Gambling As Roulette Says Chief Justice

Municipal Licenses Against Criminal Code; Decision May Have Province-Wide Reaction

TORONTO, Dec. 2. — (C P) — Municipal authorities throughout Ontario studied with interest today a judgment by Hon. F. R. Latchford, chief justice in appeal, which quashed a Kingston by-law covering the licensing and regulation of slot machines.

The chief justice, handing down a decision at Osgoode Hall in Toronto yesterday, held the by-law was, in effect, an attempt to legislate on matters governed by the criminal code. Slot machines are "as definitely gambling devices as roulette wheels," he ruled.

The ruling was made when the court allowed an appeal of Vernon Morrison of Kingston against a judgment of Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier upholding, in part, the Kingston by-law. Under the municipal enactment, each slot machine in Kingston is subject to a $500 license fee.

Many Ontario municipalities have similar by-laws in operation, but pending study of Chief Justice Latchford's ruling no civic authority would comment. Certain types of the machines have been ruled upon as not gambling devices within the meaning of the criminal code.

Fees Run Up To $1000

License fees of $1,000 on each machine have been charged in several municipalities, including Guelph, Preston and North Bay. As a result, none of the devices are being operated in those centres and their use in other municipalities has been restricted by fees almost as stiff.

In Windsor, 296 licensed slot machines are in operation despite the existing $500 license fee on the first machine and $10 on each additional one operated by the owner. Assistant City Clerk Reginald Cooper said last night only "three or four" are $500 licenses, indicating that only a few persons run the 296 machines.

Action taken under Windsor's enactment has resulted in several convictions, owners of stores being fined for giving cash or merchandise in exchange for slugs from slot machines on their premises. No test case ever has arisen in Guelph or Preston; no machines now are being operated in those towns.

Mints Overlooked

In Brantford, mint-vending machines, ruled upon as legal in a court decision, are licensed at $100 each annually and are operating in many stores, service stations and other places. Some machines in operation in that city are not covered in the by-law. Kitchener charges $500 for the first machine and $50 for each subsequent one.

No slot machines have operated in North Bay for several months following a conviction under the criminal

TRUCK INDUSTRY IN FIGHT FOR LIFE PROBE INFORMED

TORONTO, Dec. 2.—(CP)— The motor truck industry in Ontario "is fighting for its life" before the Chevrier Royal Transport Commission, Lewis Duncan, counsel for the Automotive Transport Association of Ontario, told the Commission hearing to-day.

"This is very serious business with my clients," Mr. Lewis said. "The form of legislation enacted as a result of the Commission's report might mean life or death to the truckers."

Mr. Lewis was replying to criticism of other counsel that he was taking too long in cross-examination of witnesses.

"We should restrict this interminable cross-examination for we are only touching on the fringe of the inquiry," I. S. Fairty, counsel for the Gray Coach lines, stated. "If this keps up we will not be through till Easter."

No Report For Next Session.

Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier, Commission charman, said it would be impossible to have the report ready for the next session of the Ontario Legislature which begins at the end of January or in February.

Defending his lengthy cross-examination, Mr. Duncan said he was "laying the basis of information."

R. C. McLeod, assistant general freight agent of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, said there was a form of truck competition in Northern Ontario that his railway did not attempt to meet.

Referring specifically to the New Liskeard area, he said mine officials had found it cheaper to truck machinery from the New Liskeard foundry to mining areas in that area.

CHISEL WALL FOR $1,000

TORONTO, Dec. 2—(CP)—Thieves burrowed through a two-foot brick wall early today into the vault of the Sinnott News Company and stole approximately $1,000 in cash.

Harold Sinnott, manager of the company, said the money represented collections made yesterday after closing of the bank. The hole through the vault wall, large enough for a man to crawl through, was dug with tools owned by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, left behind by the thieves. Police believed the tools were stolen from one of the railway's tool sheds.

Burglars Hold Field Day While Police On Mat

Store Ransacked, Other Damage Done While Council Probes Street Death

PORT HOPE, Ont., Dec. 2 (CP)—A miniature crime wave hit Port Hope last night while the three-man police force attended a publicly-announced meeting, called by council to ascertain the delay in the police investigation of the death early last month of Walter French, found lying on a street.

The Maher Shoe Store was entered and $50 and a quantity of goods taken. Manager Roy Croft, who made the discovery, said the interior of the store looked "as though a cyclone had struck it." Racks of shoes were pulled down and other damage done.

An unsuccessful attempt was made to batter down the rear door of the Outram Hardware Store.

A man threw a brick through a window in Roy Everett's automobile, parked at the rear of a hotel. The London resident, visiting here, gave chase and caught the man by the foot as he clambered over a fence. The man escaped during a struggle.

In Jail For Speeding, Gets Parking Ticket

Indianapolis, Dec. 2 (AP)

IT WAS double trouble for Ross Apple, 24, today. Fined for speeding, he had to stay in jail several hours before he could raise the money. When he returned to his automobile, he found an overtime parking sticker. Judgment was withheld.

Want Singapore

Japanese objective in the present Sino-Japanese war is Singapore according to General Sir Ian Hamilton (ABOVE), who captured the British colony in 1913 with a single brigade during war manoeuvres. "Nothing less than Europe can definitely hold up that army", (Japanese) he told the Royal Scottish Corporation at a dinner in London. Singapore is Great Britain's Far Eastern naval base and one of the most important in the world.

CONANT RESHAPES JUDICATURE ACT FOR 2ND READING

TORONTO, Dec. 2 (CP).—A redrafted bill of amendment to the Judicature Act, altered overnight by Attorney-General Gordon Conant and law department officers, will be presented to the Ontario Legislature today for second reading.

In its new form, the bill would make officials acting under the Succession Duty Act immune from legal processes. In its original form, the bill would have forbidden legal processes against government ministers, their officials, other civil servants or persons specially appointed to carry out provisions of the Act.

Leopold Macauley, Conservative House leader, said yesterday when the bill was brought down that his followers would oppose it on the ground it deprived citizens of access to the courts.

Phantom London Flannel Foot Goes Down for Five Years

Defence Counsel Denies Prisoner Police Have Hunted Quarter Century

LONDON, Dec. 2.— (AP).— The man whom prosecuting counsel styled the phantom "flannel foot," the burglar who eluded Scotland Yard for 25 years, was sentenced to-day to five years' penal servitude on wholesale charges of burglary.

E. J. P. Cussen, counsel for the prisoner, Henry Williams, protested against the designation, however.

He said: "'Flannel Foot,' whoever he may be is not indicated in this court. It would be dangerous for anyone to assume, on what we heard in this court, that the person made known to the public as 'Flannel Foot,' is appearing here to-day."

The Clerk of Court said Williams—smiling, smartly dressed figure with neat moustache—when arrested had in his possession forty-seven keys, two table knives, one screw driver, a piece of wire, two torches, a pair of pliers, a metal grip, two safety pins, a pair of scissors, a pocket knife and a pair of gloves.

Prosecuting counsel Christmas Humphreys told the Middlesex Sessions Court that Williams, who pleaded guilty to 40 charges, chiefly housebreaking, was the ghost-like "Flannel Foot"—who usualy wore flannel socks over his shoes.

"Flannel Foot's" frequent use of a bicycle to make his getaway earned him the additional nickname of "Bicycling Demon."

Police arrested Williams Oct. 29, in Ruislip, West London, after trailing him to an unoccupied house.

Christmas always was a big time for "Flannel Foot." He usually phoned Scotland Yard to convey the season's greetings.

Amateurish efforts to ape the cycling wraith got many a would-be "mystery" burglar into trouble.

Bags Peeved Bear 10 Feet To Spare

Sudbury, Dec. 2

JULIAN Low, 21-year-old hunter of Killarney, feels lucky that he is alive and proudly displays the hide of a 400-lb. bear which he shot as it charged him.

Low was with a party of hunters near Killarney Village when he came upon a huge bear. Taking steady aim, Low fired at the animal, and shot it through the paw.

Wounded and enraged, the bear turned on Low, who didn't know whether to run or stand still. When the bear was 10 feet away Low again took aim and shot the bear through the head.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 2 (A.P.).—China to-day was reported to be massing a fleet of 300 Russian-built warplanes for an attack on advancing Japanese.

Well-informed and responsible foreigners at Hankow, one of China's new seats of government 300 miles up the Yangtze River from Nanking, said at least 20 twin-engined bombers had arrived there.

The planes were being tuned up at airfields in the vicinity. Foreigners who saw them in flight said they were 800 horse-power craft with a 2... mile-an-hour speed.

The remainder of the planes were said to be either at Sian, 400 miles north and west of Hankow, or on their way from Russia.

(The Manila Tribune said five of six heavy bombing planes unloaded there recently and consigned to H. H. Kung, Chinese Finance Minister, were on their way to Hong Kong aboard the British freighter Benmacdhui.

(Kung's name the newspaper said, was removed and the shipment readdressed to a British concern at Hong Kong. The planes were said to have been purchased by China in the United States and brought here by the motorship Talyin.)

Japs Protest in Hong Kong

(At Hong Kong, British Crown colony on China's southern coast, the Japanese Consul protested against what he termed the activities of anti-Japanese secret societies. He cited an attempt to bomb a Chinese store selling Japanese goods as evidence of the movement. The Hong Kong government was understood to have assured Japanese it would attempt to suppress any illegal activities.)

Meanwhile two Chinese airplanes raided Japanese positions at Shanghai in the first aerial attack in more than a month. One bomb dropped near the former anchorage of the

AMBROSE SMALL DAY IN TORONTO

TORONTO, Dec. 2 (CP)—This is Ambrose Small day in Toronto.

There will be no ceremonial on the city hall steps.

A few oldtime policemen still on the job in quieter divisions may be reminded of it and scratch their heads uneasily.

About the only definite observance is in one or two newspaper offices, where police reporters will look through dusty, partly yellowed files and then do a story about this mystery.

If Small was murdered, it was a perfect job. Not even a trace of him has been found since that evening 18 years ago. The last person to admit seeing him was the newsboy on the corner near Small's Grand Opera House. Informed persons say there were plenty of people who might have wanted to kill him.

If Small went away to start another life, which is not considered probable, he performed one of the most successful vanishing acts in history.

Detectives travelled 22,000 miles working on the case. Authorities offered a $50,000 reward for finding him. A million police circulars describing Small were distributed to police all over the world. Furnace ashes were sifted following reports that he had been slain and cremated in the cellar of the Grand Opera House. Toronto garbage dumps were explored and analysed. Down through the years there have been countless false alarms, and labyrinthine developments stemming from Small's disappearance and disposal of his wealthy estate. But no Ambrose Small.

It is said that one or two persons still alive who were closely associated with Small at the time of his life and disappearance may know what happened. Until they too pass from the earth, the slender possibility exists that the truth will out.

War Need of Glycerine Brings Famine In Edmonton Anti-Freeze

Edmonton, Dec. 2 (CP)

ARMED conflict may be the cause of frozen automobile radiators in Edmonton this winter, it was disclosed by a survey showing an anti-freeze famine.

Major ingredient of anti-freeze glycerine, also is used to manufacture explosives, a University of Alberta professor stated after it was found one brand of anti-freeze is available at only two of 71 service stations here.

"I cannot get any more of it and I understand it is because they are using the glycerine for war purposes," one service station operator said.

The Sino-Japanese conflict, civil war in Spain and armament programs of other nations were blamed by the university professor for the small supply of anti-freeze.

UPWARD BLOW THOUGHT CAUSE WOMAN'S DEATH

Doctor Suspects Pick Might Have Been Used

WALKERTON, Ont., Dec. 2. — (CP).—A strong upward blow caused the death of Mrs. Walter Turner last Feb. 25, in the opinion of Dr. E. R. Frankish and had she been lying on her back, with the head well back, a falling piece of wood from a woodpile in her Dresden, Ont., home could have fractured the skull.

But the medico-legal expert of the Ontario Attorney-General's Department, testifying here yesterday in the trial of Walter Turner on a charge of murder, would not agree with defence counsel's contentions that Mrs. Turner lying on a flat floor could get her head well back.

The body of the Dresden housewife was found in a woodpile in a woodshed in the Turner home. According to testimony in the trial, she died of a three-inch skull fracture and other injuries. Turner has been held on a murder charge and was brought to trial before Mr. Justice J. C. Makins here, a change of venue from Chatham being obtained by defence counsel.

Skeptical of Wood Theory.

Dr. Frankish said under cross-examination that to suffer such a fracture, Mrs. Turner "would have to be on her back and the chunk of wood would have to come in a position obliquely with the body and toward the nose into a point above the outward margin."

He failed to conceive how all the woman's injuries could have been caused by falling wood. The defence contends she met death

COLLISION IN FOG SINKS FREIGHTER

VANCOUVER, Dec. 2 (CP)—Marine authorities today waited anxiously for lifting of fog over Vancouver harbor to learn the fate of the 174-ton coastal freighter Eastholm, believed sunk last night after colliding with a timber scow. The crew of 10 escaped in lifeboats.

Captain G. G. Brown said when he last saw the 93-foot freighter, only the stern was above water.

The Eastholm, built in Vancouver in 1913 and owned by Frank Waterhouse Company of Canada, Limited, was outbound for Seattle with a cargo of hides and canned salmon when it collided in the dense fog with the heavily-laden scow just outside the harbor entrance.

Captain Brown changed his course toward the west Vancouver shoreline in hopes of beaching the craft but had proceeded only a mile when it began to sink. He ordered his crew to the two lifeboats. Their flashlight distress signals were seen by Captain Alex Wilson of the Union Steamship Company's vessel Venture.

The Venture, passengers lining its rails, stopped and picked up the crew. Meanwhile the barge, with a large hole in its side, was towed into harbor.

"The lumber companies have found that these groups of men shipped up from the south are not generally of much use to them in the camps." Murphy said his personal experience bore out the companies' contention the relief groups were not satisfactory.

Only one of the nine claimed to have any experience as a pulp cutter.

TRUCKER BREAKS BACK

OWEN SOUND, Dec. 2.—(CP)—Gordon Hayward, truck driver, suffered a broken back last night when he was struck by a motor car driven by Robert McMeekin. Hospital attendants said today Hayward would recover.

Hayward got out of his truck on a hill and stepped in front of the car.

New C.P.R. Engine Viewed at Station

Resplendent in a shiny coat of new paint, Canadian Pacific Railway locomotive No. 7060 passed through Peterborough at noon today en route from the shops of The Stone Franklin Engineering Company at Hamilton to enter service in the railway company's yards at Montreal.

A yard engine, the locomotive does not conform to conventional locomotive design, but is angular and boxlike in appearance. It is powered with four traction diesel-electric motors that develop 600 horse power. The locomotive weighs 245,000 pounds and is 43 feet 10 inches long.

Engineer E. Griffiths brought the locomotive into Peterborough. Others on the train included: J. A. McKenzie, divisional engineer; W. J. Stinson, assistant superintendent; J. S. Allen, divisional master mechanic; J. M. Jamieson, city passenger agent; D. S. Thomson, superintendent; and T. F. McArthur, city freight agent.

blamed me for giving him beer. She started to cry and my little boy ran to a neighbor.

Mr. Justice Makins, presiding at the trial, interrupted Turner's story, saying Chief Blackburn had testified Mrs. Turner told him that her husband had kicked her in the back."

"She said nothing of the kind," Turner answered.

Turner appeared in good spirits as he proceeded with his answers. He spoke clearly with a steady voice. The Bruce county court was packed with spectators.

The accused man said he ate breakfast with his wife the morning of her death and helped her with the dishes.

"We talked about a dance we were going to that night. Craig (a cousin living in the house) was getting ready to go up town. When he left I thought I would go back to bed.

Felt Like Going to Bed.

"She said she wished she could go, too, only she had an ironing to do. I went to bed and she came through into a room underneath the bedroom and spoke to me. I think she said something about the stove. The pipe runs through my room.

"I went to sleep," Turner continued. "The first thing I heard was a rap at the front door. I looked out the window and saw a neighbor's boy at the door. I thought my wife had laid down and gone to sleep."

Turner said he answered the door and the boy gave him a note asking his wife for a dress.

"I went to the kitchen and did not see my wife. I thought she had gone outside so I opened the door of the summer kitchen and then went to the woodshed.

"I saw my wife lying under the wood and I picked her up and carried her in the house and sent the neighbor's boy for the doctor."

"What was your wife's condition when you first picked her up?" Elgie asked.

Breathing When Picked Up.

"She was still breathing. I spoke to her but she did not answer me."

"When you carried her into the house did you notice her injuries?"

"I was excited and I did not notice anything but her arms were cold. I heard her make a funny gurgling noise in her throat. I was worried because the doctor was not there yet."

"What did you say when he arrived?"

"I said, 'Doctor, I am afraid you are too late'."

Turner said the doctor told him his wife was dead. He asked him to call an undertaker and notify her relatives.

"When you found your wife in the woodshed, in what position was she?" Elgie asked.

"She was lying on her back with her neck and one side of her head resting on a block of wood. Another block of wood was underneath her left hip."

Rails Admit Place For Trucks In Transport Field

Propose However Rates Be Made Subject To Code Of Some Sort

TORONTO, Dec. 2.—(AP).—The railway and the motor truck industry continued their rate dispute before the Chevrier Royal Transport Commission here to-day with the railways admitting there was a place for truckers in the transportation field, but suggesting a rate-control system covering both rail and motor transport.

Several witnesses on rates will be called by the Railway Association of Canada to-day and then the Commission will start its delayed inquiry into hours and wages of railway workers.

At yesterday's session, Arthur Roebuck, counsel for the automotive transport section of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, told the Commission that his association was aiming at the railway standard of wages, adding that "it was sort of an ideal."

J. A. Argo, chief of the Canadian National Railways' freight tariff division, answering a question concerning competition between railways and truckers, said: "I am firmly convinced that in the interests of both the users and the companies that there should be some well-ordered system."

"Well that must carry with it some question of control," said Joseph Singer, Commission counsel.

Suggest Rate Control

Mr. Argo said he believed there was a field for motor trucks in the transport industry, but stated motor truck rates and tolls should be filed and published by the companies.

"We have no way of knowing what motor truck companies are charging as rates," he said.

Witness objected to a suggestion by Mr. Singer that current railway rates imposed a "penalty" on some parts of the country.

The more populous sections of Canada pay a heavier share of railway costs, Mr. Argos said but, giving Western Canada as an example, contended markets in less populated areas served by the railways compensated for this loss.

MACAULAY TWITS HEPBURN IN TIFF

TORONTO, Dec. 2 (C.P.). — References to reported disagreement between Federal Premier Mackenzie King and Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario over the provincial desire to export power to the United States under contract was made as the Ontario Legislature opened yesterday.

Leopold Macaulay, Conservative House Leader, said he had read in a Windsor paper "the intimate, round-by-round details of the fight at Ottawa between Premier King and Premier Hepburn."

"McRae and Bennett set us a bad example," interjected Premier Hepburn.

Mr. Macaulay concluded by saying that the Opposition was behind the [illegible] in seeking Federal co-operation.

(Recent reports told of a disagreement between General A. D. McRae, Federal Conservative organizer in the 1930 general election, and Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative Leader.)

Ship Thought Sunk Found Awash

VANCOUVER, Dec. 2 (CP).—The water-filled hull of the 93-foot coastal freighter Eastholm was discovered afloat in Burrard Inlet early today, not far from the spot where she was abandoned by her 10-man crew after collision with a lumber barge in heavy fog.

The 174-ton craft, whose crew was ordered to boats last night after the collision and was picked up a half-hour later by the inbound coastal steamer Venture, was awash when found.

MARRIAGE ENDS OLD FAMILY FUED

EDINBURGH, Dec. 2—(CP)—The Marquess of Douglas and Clydesdale and Lady Elizabeth Percy, whose forefathers were bitter rivals in the days of raids over the border between England and Scotland, were married to-day in St. Giles Cathedral.

The Marquess, whose name is Douglas-Hamilton, comes of an old and distinguished Scottish family. Equally renowned in English annals is the family of his bride.

In the era of border raids bearers of the names of Douglas and Percy waged frequent strife upon one another. Douglasses fought at Bannockburn.

The Marquess led the aerial expedition which flew over the summit of Mount Everest in 1933. He is 34. His father, the Duke of Hamilton, is the premier Duke of Scotland.

said. "The result has been ignominious failure everywhere."

Mr. Lloyd George poured scorn on those who argued that suppression of liberty was no concern of Britain's so long as she was not attacked. With his pointer, he indicated growing Fascist power along the Mediterranean and down the Red Sea.

In the Great War the Mediterranean route for British merchant ships was kept open only with difficulty. If a great war came again that route would be closed to British ships.

"And there are still those," Mr. Lloyd George scoffed, "who say it is no concern of ours. Men who talk like that never bought a sixpenny map.

"Not our business! It is like saying to the house breaker: 'So long as you don't break into my house I don't care what you do to my neighbors. You can take his property, destroy his children and walk off with the loot.'"

MANITOBA THINKS OTTAWA HANDLING ONLY RELIEF CURE

By Carl Reinhe
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

WINNIPEG, Dec. 2 (CP)—National administration of unemployment relief was urged by Hon. Stuart Garson, Manitoba Provincial Treasurer, in a brief before the Rowell Commission today as the only system likely to work satisfactorily in handling Canada's greatest national problem.

Assumption of that responsibility by the Dominion would remove the inequities of the present relief burden as it falls on various governments, regardless of their ability to pay, and would provide a national minimum standard of relief for all destitute Canadians.

Equally important would be coordination of relief administration with a national unemployment insurance scheme and a national employment service, with the probable result that unemployment would be reduced more quickly than if the several agencies were operating separately, Mr. Garson contended.

Canada would then be dealing with a national problem by a national instrument on a national scale, which could be linked with national trade, monetary and tariff policies, he said.

Beyond the Province.

The present system of financing relief was quite beyond the revenue producing capacity of Manitoba and would cause the inevitable bankruptcy of many provinces and municipalities if continued indefinitely. Three provinces were now insolvent as a result of the relief burden and others might be approaching that state.

"The present joint system of municipal, provincial and Federal administration and financing of relief is unfitted to meet the exigencies of the situation," he said.

"Divided responsibilities and diversity of aims between different provinces, unequal development as regards numbers, types and functions of local offices, defects in provincial boundaries when used as economic administrative units have all tended to result in overlapping and inefficiency."

Experience in the United Kingdom was that joint administration was

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Firmness in outside wheat markets and continued pessimistic reports from the Argentine accounted largely for higher wheat futures on Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day. Final quotations were 2¾ to ¾ higher, December $1.75, May $1.13⅝ and July $1.08⅝ to ¾.

Absence of large-scale demand for Canadian and United States wheat to-day failed to send prices to lower levels except at opening trades when Winnipeg futures slipped almost a cent. Traders regarded prospects of moderate demand from importers as bright.

Winnipeg December future moved ahead nearly four cents with other options around two cents higher when mid-session dealings found offerings light and induced earlier sellers to cover.

CHAMPION STEER AUCTIONS AT $2.35

CHICAGO, Dec. 2 (AP)—Ashbourne Orange, grand champion steer, of the 38th international livestock exposition, sold at auction today for $2.35 a pound, 65 cents less than the price paid for the last three kings of cattle. Wilson and Co. bought it.

Oklahoma A. and M. College, which exhibited the grand champ, was expected to receive $2,622 from the sale.

The highest price ever paid for a steer was the $8.25 a pound which Lucky Strike, the 1929 champion, brought. The lowest figure was 16 cents a pound for King Ellsworth in 1909.

LETHBRIDGE VOTE MAY BE S.C. TEST

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Dec. 2 (CP).—Albertans can "very easily get rid of" the Social Credit Provincial Government, Premier Aberhart asserted here last night at the last meeting of the Lethbridge constituency Provincial by-election campaign. Voting is today.

"Vote us out, if you don't want us," the Premier told his audience at the rally in support of A. J. Burnap, Social Credit candidate.

"What about the Recall Act?" he was asked by a member of the audience. "We can't recall you."

"Well, what about it," fired back the Premier. "The Act was repealed by the Legislature. I voted against it."

"Do you call that British justice?" called another voice.

"Yes," replied the Premier.

Mr. Aberhart said the Province was facing "a crisis—the people against the money powers. We will go on whether Lethbridge helps us or not. It is a fight to the end. We would like to have your support."

Final meeting in support of the other candidate, Dr. Peter M. Campbell, Unity nominee supported by Conservatives and Liberals and some members of the United Farmers of Alberta, was held Tuesday night.

N.Y. County Clerk To Go On "Trial"

NEW YORK, Dec. 2—(AP).—Albert Marinelli, old guard Tammany boss, accused of unfitness for his job as New York County Clerk, had orders to-day from Governor Herbert H. Lehman to make answer to the charges by next Monday.

The New York State Governor thus proposed to put Marinelli on trial, as another Governor, Franklin D. Roosevelt, put former Mayor Jas. J. Walker on trial in 1932, for his alleged official sins. Walker resigned.

Governor Lehman yesterday received from Thomas E. Dewey, Manhattan District Attorney, a series of sworn charges against Marinelli, accusing him of political alliance with racketeers, of harboring a federal fugitive, of consorting with known criminals.

Contents Of Car Of Produce Brought Tears To Eyes Of Mothers, Children Shouted

Municipal Official In Distressed Area Tells Of The Arrival Of Millbrook-Peterborough Car

"The contents of the car received from you brought a tear to the eye of many a distracted mother and shouts of glee from the youngsters."

In this simple sentence is told eloquently the story of the welcome reception one of the freight cars of relief supplies made up by Peterborough, Millbrook, Cavan and South Monaghan contributors received when it arrived at Springwater, Saskatchewan. The sentence is included in a long letter of thanks despatched to the citizens of Peterborough by F. Freeman, municipal official in the distressed area.

The writer includes in the letter the names of many Peterborough people found on slips among the goods in the car and expresses the hope that his thanks on behalf of all his people will reach all contributors.

"We want you to know that your good-will, your generosity and kindness is fully appreciated," the writer states. "I know that I can speak for every recipient and state that the generosity of the people of other parts of Canada leaves the people here bewildered and almost speechless. The spontaneous response to the need of stricken Saskatchewan will live long in the memory of those who were facing, in many cases, real need. We are indeed thankful; your slogan 'They shall not want' is a glorious example of human kindness."

Conditions in Area

The letter continues: "Now you may be interested to know the conditions out here: Many of the notes received have asked that question. I will try to give you a brief and honest report of what has happened in this district. It is not one of the worst in the province for, as you probably know, there are districts where they save suffered six, seven, and eight successive crop failures. In 1932 we had a fair crop but the prices were so low that the farmers lost money. In 1933 it was practically a total failure, 1934 an average of four bushels, in 1935 we had a little crop, an average of about seven bushels, 1936 practically a total failure, average of two bushels per acre, 1937 a total failure.

"There is no feed except Russian thistle, a drought weed. It can be fed to cattle but not to horses. People are fairly well taken care of in the way of relief and there isn't anyone who need actually suffer. The needy are given relief groceries, fuel, clothing and feed for their livestock. During the past month the government has arranged to ship in carloads of carrots, turnips, cabbages, apples, cheese, beans, fish. This has been a wonderful help along with the voluntary car that has been received.

People Not Complaining

"The people here cannot complain, and indeed they are not. As mentioned before they are exceedingly grateful. The Government anticipates difficulty in getting sufficient fodder and a shortage is expected. Schools are operating on the school grant only, which means a hardship, but so far they have been kept open. The municipality is without funds due to inability to collect taxes, and consequently services such as medical attention is very badly lacking. The nearest doctor is 23 miles and with no money we are sitting here at present wondering what to do for the winter months should a doctor be needed, and surely he will be.

"The appearance of the country is gloomy. Instead of golden stubble we have a dark dismal shade everywhere. That is caused by Russian thistle which turns a dark color after they have matured and seasoned. The spirit of the people is wonderful and in spite of the financial conditions they carry on their social activities and make the best of it. Churches are experiencing difficulty and it is a heart-breaking task to raise sufficient money to meet the requirements."

The writer concludes: "Now, as mentioned before, I do not know where this letter should be addressed. I am sending it to you believing that you will, in some way, perhaps through the press, let the good people of your district, all of them, know how we feel and as an acknowledgement to one and all. The car was C.N. No. 203951 from Millbrook, Ontario. No doubt, the people who donated are from several parts of the Peterborough district. We do not want any one to feel slighted if their gift has not otherwise been acknowledged. Again, on behalf of the recipients, sincere thanks and may God bless you all."

The letter was addressed to the principal of Prince of Wales School since some of the donors were pupils of that school.

London Acquires Canadian Films

LONDON, Dec. 2 (C.P.-Havas).—A number of films depicting the scenic beauties of Canada's national parks have been added to the 1,279 films in the Empire Library at the Imperial Institute in South Kensington, it was announced to-day.

The Canadian films, together with a number from East, West and South Africa, were expected to ease the demand for Empire educational films from 2,400 schools and social institutions on the Institute's circulation list.

The Canadian additions include six on nature studies in the national parks, one on the production of coins in the Dominion's Royal Mint, and one on scenes in and around the famous Rocky Mountain resort at Banff, Alberta.

LONG LAC PROJECT 35 PER CENT. DONE

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Dec. 2 (CP—Clearing of a channel for the Long Las water diversion project of the Ontario government, which will add to the Lake Superior flow, was well underway today with 200 men on the job.

Under the scheme the Long Lac waters will be diverted from their usual northern course into Hudson Bay and will flow south to Lake Superior.

The project is about 35 per cent completed and finish of the job is expected next summer. It is a $750,000 scheme, largest of its kind witnessed in Northern Ontario and will link the southern tip of Long Lac with Lake Superior.

Workers are clearing a channel 100 feet wide with an average depth of 14 feet. Six huge steam shovels operate on the channel, moving 3,000 cubic feet of 4,500 tons of earth each day.

As part of task the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission is building a dam on the Kenogami River, 14 miles north of Long Lac, to control the flow of the water northward.

The six-mile channel will link a series of lakes extending south from Long Lac. From the mouth of the project at Long Lac's southern tip to Jackfish Bay, where Lake Superior is met, is 32 miles.

With the additional flow into the lake it is hoped to float millions of pulpwood logs to the Schreiber area where a new pulp mill is to be constructed.

DETROIT, Dec. 2 (CP).—Daniel Araise, of Texas, is a fast worker. Sunday he arrived in Detroit, and met a girl. He proposed to her on Monday, and was accepted. Tuesday he stole a suit of clothes, pawning them to get money for a marriage license. On Wednesday, after court conviction, he was fined $25. He took the optional 10-day jail sentence.

CANADA'S DRY LAW QUOTED IN DEBATE

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(CP Cable)—Canadian temperance regulations were mentioned last night during debate in the House of Commons on a bill to allow stand-up "pubs" at the Glasgow Empire Exhibition of 1938.

T. Johnson, Labor, said Bellahouston—site of the exhibition—is a dry area by local option.

He termed the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto and the Berlin Olympic games of 1936 successful "dry" exhibitions.

Rev. J. Barr, Labor, said the province of Prince Edward Island had prohibition while liquor was not obtainable, he said, at drinking bars in four Canadian provinces.

Walter Elliott, Secretary of State for Scotland, and Sir J. Gilmour, Conservative, defended the bill which obtained second reading by a vote of 159 to 96.

If It Started Earlier

When there was a strike in progress at the plant of the Kaufman Rubber Co. in Kitchener several months ago strikers sought to keep cars of material from entering or leaving the plant, and there were arrests made. In all 60 people were to face charges in court.

The strike has been settled and the plant is once more in operation, so when these cases were called in court the other day they were all dismissed because the Crown did not offer any evidence against the accused. And it would also appear that the Kaufman Co. did not desire to have the charges pressed.

That looks like a sensible and proper way to dispose of the case. The best way to forget trouble and unpleasantness is to leave it alone rather than open old sores.

If that same sort of spirit could be injected when a strike is in its early stages there would not be much difficulty in arranging settlement. Unfortunately hostility is a live and an active thing when a strike starts and the feeling of conciliation has hard work to try and make itself become an active factor. We dare say had those cases in Kitchener been proceeded with when the strike was on there would have been evidence and trouble enough. We would be doing well if we could to some extent reverse the order of things and have that spirit of toleration and "let's-forget-it" become operative while the strike was in the making or in its incipient stages.

We Hope It Spreads

Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews opened the short session of the Ontario Legislature in a speech of 200 words, and if he spoke rather slowly and deliberately, as he probably would on such an occasion, it would take just about two minutes.

It is also announced that the new quarters being arranged in the Legislative Buildings to house the Governor-General for official purposes are regarded as "very acceptable." They are the rooms formerly occupied by the Speaker who in turn will be furnished with accommodation which while adequate will be less pretentious.

One could well hope that this stepping-down process in address and quarters might indicate that the same thing was going to make itself apparent on our government in general. On the size of it, the extent of it and the cost of it. And that would go for all forms of government and all their ramifications.

Settled Out Of Court

In the non-jury Supreme Court at Kingston it was announced that three cases listed for hearing had been settled by consent out of court. From the brief resume of the cases published in the press it was plain enough they were of the sort which often hold the attention of court for a long enough time, where many witnesses are called to give evidence and where there is much cross-examination.

In each case brought to court there must be a certain degree of substance and reason, otherwise the case would be speedily terminated and dismissed. That degree of substance and reason exists in the same quantity before the case is tried as it does after the case has been concluded, and that is why it is possible to have a settlement by consent before court commences. The ingredients of settlement are all there and it remains for sensible people to make use of them. When ever it is announced that a case has been settled out of court it means there has been some sound legal advice given and also that the principals to the action have had sense enough to accept it.

They Are Not The Same

Recently there were published in Canadian and United States papers pictures of two girls in Austria. Twins they are and the claim was advanced that they were identical even to their finger prints. If that had been correct then it would mean the finger print system on which police the world over depend for identification of individuals, would have fallen to pieces, because that system operates on the sure knowledge that no two finger prints are the same.

Walter T. Fenton, chief of police in Blenheim, Ont., read the story and became interested because he has long made a study of finger printing. He became so interested that he wrote to the police at Vienna and Berlin asking for details of this newly reported case. Now he has received his answer saying that police have in their possession the finger prints of the twin girls in question and they are not identical.

There are thousands of prints stored away at Ottawa; thousands more in Washington, and each print is known to definitely mark some individual. The entire system is built on the fact that no two prints can possibly be the same. If twins in Austria had identical finger prints then that slight incident would have been sufficient to have wrecked the entire system.

He Will Not Change

Mr. and Mrs. Ely Culbertson are to separate. Mrs. has started off to Reno where she will stay for the required time and then apply for divorce, giving as her reason "the ultra-temperamental moods of her husband." They have been married since 1923, have two children and have made a good living out of playing bridge and advising others how to do the same thing. It is said there is sufficient in the family purse so each will have $100,000 a year income after the separation.

Mr. Culbertson admits his wife is a good sort and he wants to keep on playing bridge with her, but he should never have been married. He explains he is a married man with bachelor instincts. Going more deeply into the subject he claims "Complete solitude is often my most precious and most necessary requirement. In those moments I am a solitary animal and if disturbed I become unbearable."

A little analysis of this case would show that Culbertson, if he states his case correctly, is going to keep on doing exactly what he wants to do. If he is as he explains a sort of temperamental jackass then he desires to be nothing else. He is going to live exactly the sort of life he wants to live and if he has any silly traits in his make-up he is going to nurse them and cherish them and make no effort at correction. If he were not grown up we believe a darn good spanking might do him quite a lot of good.

Can't Find The Answer

The Examiner tried for quite a few minutes to figure it out, but the answer would not come. It was this way: Pasquella Ferratti, an Italian, is serving a life sentence in Kingston penitentiary for attempted murder.

There was some method of making brew mash developed by the inmates in the vegetable cellar, and when a guard came and made the discovery Ferratti struck him. He was admittedly drunk at the time. So for this offence he has been sentenced to "six additional months."

The only reason we can think of for such a sentence is that the prisoner may hope to earn a shortening of his sentence by good behavior, although the granting of freedom to those sentenced for life is something which is being more or less frowned upon.

But the plain problem of how a man sentenced for life was going to spend an additional six months in prison was a stickler. Not even Archie, the remarkable mechanical machine in the front office, could furnish an answer to that one. Archie can add, subtract, multiply and divide, and if necessary can work problems out in decimal points, but when that one about the prisoner sentenced to life having to serve an additional six months was submitted it left Archie cold. He never even turned a wheel or rattled a cog on it.

Then too we thought of all the problems which had been submitted in the little red school on the Tenth Concession about a farmer taking a load of hay to town and selling it and then proceeding to buy tea, boots and strips of calico, the trick being to find out how much money he brought home. But there was no help there. Nor could we get the answer by the Algebraic method of letting X equal the unknown quantity. Truth is we're stuck.

Three Pupils In School

Report from London, Ont., says that the "lonely little schoolhouse" of S. S. No. 7 in McGillivray township (Middlesex Co.) will be closed when the present entrance class passes. There are but three pupils in the school now and all are in the entrance section. There are plans being made to use the schoolhouse as a community centre. We learn there are no children in the district of school age, so it looks as though it would be impossible to run a school without school children.

Only a few days ago a gentleman was in this office and he was talking about the same thing. About a month ago he had been visiting at the farm home from which he came and found the school he used to attend had been closed because there were only six childrn who could attend it, and provision had been made for them to go elsewhere.

Looking back and recalling as best he could the number who attended the school in his time (39 years ago) he said there must have been at least 26. He named the families up and down the concession and the side lines and told of the number of children in the homes; he could recall those of school age and those who had passed through school. There were a number with six children; now and then a family with seven. Our informant then noted the number of people in these same homes today. In two or three cases the farm home was not inhabited at all as the land had been taken over by a neighboring farmer. He said he could recall only one home in that old school section where today there was a family of six children and four of them had already left the farm and gone elsewhere. There are six children of school age in the section now and arrangements were made to give them transportation to the nearest school which is open so getting to and from school is actually not as serious a matter as it used to be. So there are six children today where there used to be at least 26.

Statistics will bear out this man's experience and they will include not only rural school sections but schools in a number of our villages and towns. The increase will be found in the larger towns and cities. The change has taken place and we have to live with the results, and actually there is little to be said in favor of the change.

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's new station is to begin operating this month but if it does not succeed in smothering that powerful Mexican transmitter we are afraid a lot of expenditure will have been wasted.

This we read in the editorial columns of the Ottawa Journal:

"Beaten by the superlative kicking of a single man, they were never conquered. Driven back again and again to the shadows of their own goal posts by punts that soared often nearly 70 yards, they marched back with quenchless heart to within sight of victory, never for an instant struck their flag. Defeat in such circumstances has no sting."

We take it the Journal was trying to tell the folk that the home team had been defeated.

UNCLE EBEN

(By A. R. K.)

¶ When I sat in the family pew, I think it was in eighty-two, perhaps in eighty-three; we always had to sit up straight, and try and look right and sedate, stay quiet as we could be.

¶ Things always seemed so quiet in there, it was a frigid sort of air, 'fore service would begin; we had to firmly stand our ground, and couldn't turn and look around, to see folk coming in.

¶ And Sunday shoes worn once a week, we'd hear them come along and squeak, you'd hear them at the door; I listened for I always knew, that when they got into their pew they wouldn't squeak no more.

¶ And as the pews began to fill, and every person sat so still, it seemed so much subdued; it seemed as if I moved or stirred, or uttered even one small word, I'd be put down as rude.

¶ I'd see my Uncle Eben come, just when the service had begun, you'd hardly call him late; I used to turn and look at him, he seemed so tall and straight and prim, he also was sedate.

¶ But when all things were quiet in there, my Uncle Eben broke the air, the atmosphere got torn; he'd draw a kerchief from his clothes, and then he'd up and blow his nose—it sounded like a horn

NEED A U.F.O.

Editor Examiner:

Sir: I see in last Monday's paper that the County Council asks for a probe into price-spending. Reeve Anderson states: "As farmers we haven't as much knowledge of our own affairs as we should have." Why not start clearing up right at home?

At Keene we have a U.F.O. club (or I think they call it Co-operative Sales) which only handles hogs. The farmer wishing to ship hogs has to phone Mr. Elliott, truck driver, who collects the hogs at the farm and delivers them to Peterborough. All the separate statements are pinned together with a lump cheque and mailed to Mr. Taylor, manager of the club, who then mails each statement and cheque to the farmer.

We understand the C.P.C. pay the club 30 cents per 100 pounds, which in turn gives Mr. Elliott 17c per hundred lbs., leaving themselves 13 cents. On Monday I shipped 6 hogs at 200 each. The club gets 60 cents per hog or $3.60, the trucker got $2.04, leaving a balance of $1.56. Does it cost that to mail my cheque? The club does no canvassing whatsoever at present, all loss (housing, etc.) is deducted from the farmer, and the truck is heavily insured.

We were told we would get a bonus at the end of each year. I've waited 12 years for mine. The meetings are private and I have never seen a statement in print. We don't mind paying the freight, but what do the 30 odd members of this Society do with the balance?

MUST ORGANIZE

Editor Examiner.

Sir: The County Council decided to send a resolution to Ottawa asking that something be done to bring farmers' production costs and the price they receive for their products into line. The resolution will be received with a cynical grin and nothing will be done. Nothing has ever been done for farmers anywhere without first a strong farmers' organization being formed. Either they must do their own organizing or a Moses sometimes arises to lead them. A Lutheran—Bishop Grundtvig—led Danish efforts to organization to a splendid success; Sir Horace Plunkett led the Irish farmers; a noble soul (himself a farmer, American by birth) H. W. Wood, gave over a quarter of a century of his life to successfully organizing the farmers of Alberta. Farmers in Sweden, Norway, Finland, Australia and New Zealand, have also formed strong organizations. Three or more Roman Catholic clergy and professors of St. Francis Xavier University at Antigonish, Nova Scotia, have accomplished great things in the Maritime provinces and also in Newfoundland in organizing farmers and fishermen. The order is (1) adult education (such as the United farmers' meetings in Alberta, the folk schools of Denmark, the study clubs of Nova Scotia); (2) organization; (3) co-operation.

If the reeves really wish to serve they might write St. Francis Xavier University, Antigonish, N.S., asking for ideas for adult education. You cannot get farmers to co-operate without first teaching them to think. It is a hard task; leaders are misunderstood, mistrusted and rarely thanked. When the electorate is intelligent and strongly organized into farmer, labor and professional groups, governments dare not legislate for the machinery companies, the packers, the millers, the banks, the railways, etc., as they now do in Canada. Till farmers organize they will be "hewers of wood and carriers of water" for their capitalistic masters. Thanking you for space.

P. S.—I might add that the study clubs and co-operative groups in Nova Scotia and the other maritime provinces are non-denominational. Division of people by race and religion has always been a help in exploiting them. "Divide and rule."

Leader Who Sought Nothing For Himself

Henry Wise Wood Remains a Rather Poor Man; Outstanding Agrarian Leader Produced by the West

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review)

HENRY WISE WOOD, chairman of the Alberta wheat pool since its inception in 1923, retired last week from the board of directors and was made honorary president. He is 80 years of age. It does not seem so long, but it was 16 years ago, or thereabouts, that his name was a byword in a federal election campaign in which he was anathema to the tariff protectionists because of the Grain Growers' purchase of farm implements from the United States.

Mr. Wood, a native of Missouri, migrated to southern Alberta in 1905 and at Carstairs became identified with the agrarian movement. In 1916 he was elected president of the U. F. A. and became recognized mouthpiece of the farm movement in his province. The political aspect developed strongly, and after the election of 1921 the United Farmers controlled the Legislature. Henry Wise Wood was offered the premiership, and like J. J. Morrison in Ontario, declined, but for years was regarded as the power behind the throne.

In 1929, while Saskatchewan was agitated by the compulsory or 100 per cent. pool project, Mr. Wood came out decisively opposing the scheme on principle, and his utterances drew the fire of Aaron Sapiro, then campaigning for the plan. But at that time the three provincial pools, operating through their selling agency, were marketing more than 50 per cent. of the wheat of Western Canada, and had built up a worldwide organization. They have made a remarkable comeback since the crash of 1929, and according to J. H. Wesson, president of Saskatchewan Co-operative Wheat Producers, "the demand is still strong for a national marketing agency for the grain crop of Western Canada."

Through good and bad times, Henry Wise Wood has been perhaps the most outstanding figure, politically and economically, the agrarian movement in the West has produced. He sought no personal honors, but wielded discreetly the authority vested in him, and is said to be a comparatively poor man.

Can Japan Remain With Safety in China?

Getting Farther From Her Base As She Proceeds; Recalling What Happened to Germans in Great War

(St. Catharines Standard)

THE QUESTION: Is China beaten? is answered with an emphatic "No!" by a writer in The New York Sunday Times, who is regarded as an authority on conditions in the Far East, where he has spent some years. The Chinese Red army, allied now with Nanking, could keep an army of 400,000 Japs indefinitely busy, and prevent Japan from realising on victory, no matter what ports or strategic territory might be held. Japan must replenish at once all the resources spent in Chinese conquest, because there is always Russia in the background, and no responsible Japanese believes that defences against Russia can be let down. The weakness in Japan is economics, and in the past few years there has been failure to meet normal expenditures. The weight of one war and preparations for another are a very heavy burden.

The ultimate fate of China seems to resolve itself around the question as to how long war can be maintained against Japan, even with Nanking gone. The writer concludes:

For one year Japan can continue. But that she can continue for two or three years can at least be doubted. Here the outcome of the war will be determined. If Japan can hold on, then she wins the war and the control of China. If she cannot she must make terms with China directly—terms acceptable to China—or she must make terms at the dictation of the Western nations—terms that will constitute renunciation of the fruits of victory. Then Japan will not be able to answer the rest of the world as she did at the Brussels conference.

This is the issue of the Far Eastern war, an issue still to be fought out. It has not been touched by what has happened thus far. The Japanese victory at Shanghai and before Nanking or even in North China has had little effect.

It is also set forth that the further penetration of Jap troops into China will mean heavier expenditure in men, money and munitions, and time would be the deciding factor. When the German armies penetrated far toward Paris in 1918, creating great salients, it was the beginning of the end. There is an analogy in the retreat of the Chinese before superior forces, which is said to be now happening.

A Bible Message For To-day . . . .

HEAR YE the word which the Lord speaketh unto you, O house of Israel: Thus saith the Lord, Learn not the way of the heathen, and be not dismayed at the signs of heaven; for the heathen are dismayed at them. . . . But the Lord is the true God, he is the living God, and an everlasting king: at his wrath the earth shall tremble, and the nations shall not be able to abide his indignation. Thus shall ye say unto them, The gods that have not made the heavens and the earth, even they shall perish from the earth, and from under these heavens. . . . They are vanity, and the work of errors: in the time of their visitation they shall perish. The portion of Jacob is not like them: for he is the former of all things; and Israel is the rod of his inheritance: The Lord of hosts is his name.—Jer. x: 1, 2, 10, 11, 15, 16.

For though there be that are called gods, whether in heaven or in earth, (as there be gods many, and lords many), but to us there is but one God, the Father, of whom are all things, and we in him.—I Cor. viii: 5, 6.

MY FRIEND (who shall be nameless here) owned a beautiful pine grove on the shores of a lake with a white sandy beach. For his and his friends' use, he had built a table and benches under the trees along the shore.

The public soon moved in and he found that he had a steady job picking up tin cans, banana peels, bottles (many of them broken), paper plates, and all the attendant picnic refuse. It got so, even, that he couldn't walk down through the grove without coming across a dozen or so people changing their clothes in the bushes.

He appealed to the police, but it did no good. The intruders were defiant and would not leave.

So, he just made note of the licence numbers of the parked cars. Then next day he gathered all the discarded rubbish, packed it in cartons, tied it securely, and, after getting the names of the car owners, sent the parcels express collect.

He has almost rid the place of intruders.

TORONTO - 240 JARVIS STREET

LONDON HAILS JOHN GIELGUD IN DUAL ROLE

LONDON, Dec. 2—(CP)—Shakespeare—Richard II—John Gielgud: between the three they've got the London theatre season off to a good start.

Gielgud's debut as actor-manager has won great acclaim. The critics were delighted with his dual role because the season didn't look as though it would be any too brilliant unless Gielgud's four presentations proved exceptionally worthwhile.

After "Richard II", which Gielgud intends to run for only eight weeks, are to follow: "Merchant of Venice", "School for Scandal" and "The Three Sisters." Thus with Shakespeare, Sheridan and Chekhov on his fare the theatre-going public were equally delighted at his auspicious start.

Of Gielgud's portrayal of the unfortunate Richard II, The Times said it held a "rare directness and integrity." The Telegraph felt inclined to take his superb acting for granted and devote praise to his work as producer, which was "masterly." Said the Evening Standard: "Mr. Gielgud cannot sing the music of Shakespeare as it should be sung; but he can bring to it a memorable note of sincerity and an unforgettable pathos."

Peggy Ashcroft will play leading lady in all four of the Gielgud productions. Her first role is a minor one, but, to requote The Telegraph: "If anybody can make more of Richard's poor little anonymous Queen may I be there to see it when it happens." And to the rest of the company went kind words, to Leon Quartermaine, Michael Redgrave, Glen Byam Shaw and George Howe. As The Express remarked: "These are the kind of people who make Shakespeare intelligible—which he always was, of course. A traditional, ritualistic evening."

Before passing from "Richard II" the initial paragraph of Stephen Williams in The Evening Standard is perhaps worth repeating: "One might sum up Shakespearean tragedy by saying that it depicts the man of contemplation forced into becoming the man of action and making a glorious mess of the job."

Says Gielgud about long and short runs: "It's true that I had one much too short lately, 'He Was Born Gay', but before that I had played 'Hamlet' in America for six months on end, sometimes nine performances a week which is murder for an actor. 'Richard of Bordeaux' ran more than a year, 'Musical Chairs' more than six months."

Not all the Gielgud roles will be important and it is understood he is more interested in setting up a good repertory with a permanent company than in confirming his own reputation. He hopes to visit America later.

Other Success

Next in the list of new successes is J. B. Priestley's "Time and the Conways" which owing to its curious manner of turning the clock first slow then fast has aroused a lot of interest. But it is more than a stunt, as witness The Spectator's unqualified comment: 'Time and the Conways' is Mr. Priestley's best play."

The first and last acts occur in 1919 and the second 18 years later. That it has a touch of the fatalist about it is not one of its happier features, but Miss Jean Forbes-Robertson, Miss Barbara Everest and Miss Eileen Erskine enact it in a memorable manner, under the producing guidance of Irene Hentschel.

Edna Best is leading lady in "The Phantom Light," a sea-faring story with a lighthouse drama written by Evadne Price, Dodie Smith's new play, "Bonnet Over the Windmill," is doing comfortably well in its early days but doesn't seem to have hit the stride of her earlier successes, "Call It a Day," or "Autumn Crocus". As might be guessed from the title, it is the story of a girl who broke the conventions.

Sean O'Casey's famous piece, "Juno and the Paycock," recently finished a term at one theatre but the public still clamored and it has ben moved to another stand although Arthur Sinclair has left his accustomed role in the lead to head a murder play at another house.

"George and Margaret" and "French Without Tears," two big London successes which show no sign of closing up, are to be staged in New York this season.

Noel Coward has made the press twice in a short period. Once to say he wasn't going to Hollywood and the other in an item announcing his election to the exclusive Athenaeum Club. He now is one of two actors belonging to that hostel, the other being Robert de la Condamine who acts under the name of Robert Farquharson. It used to take 20 years to get into the Athenaeum; now just three.

Christopher Shawe, writing in The Spectator, didn't think much of the movie "Parnell," with Clark Gable and Myrna Loy. "I think Messrs. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer have been too timid: having cut adrift from all plausibility they should have gone and engaged Tom Mix and Mae West."

Thieves Overlooked This Gem

LILY PONS WEARS BIRD FEATHERS

But when a producer tried to tell Grace Moore how to sing—well, she packed up and left with husband Valentin Parerra Sunday for New York. She's going back to the Metropolitan Opera after an absence of two years.

The departing Miss Moore said: "I was seldom accused of artistic outbursts until I entered pictures. But what can one do if protesting a producer's dictates as to how to sing a song or what to sing is called temperament?"

Miss Pons rather likes the freedom of the movies and her role as a "bird girl."

"I have as much right to show my figure as Marlene Dietrich," she said.

She intimated that perhaps the reason most Grand Opera singers wear lots of clothes on the stage is their figures are rather plump.

Miss Swarthout did not say she liked the idea of being pelted with squishy tomatoes, but when Director H. C. Potter instructed the make-believe audience to hurl them straight and true, she did not protest.

He was back in a few seconds leading Constable W. Hudson by the arm. He was not arrested.

NEWSPAPER JIBES AT GIRL ATHLETES

ROME, Dec. 2 (CP-Reuter's). — Photographs of Fascist girl athletes whose annual championship meet was watched by Premier Mussolini, have led to a clash between the official Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano and the Fascist press.

Photographs of the girls in their sports kit appeared in Fascist newspapers, but not in the Osservatore Romano.

The girls' shorts were too short, said the Osservatore, their shirts too tight, their championships "disgusting and unseemly."

"Let those who are in favor of these contests for girls take a look at these photographs," the newspaper added.

"Let them ask themselves if they would go to those winning posts to choose their partners for life. Do they find the real Italian woman in these masculan muscles, these horse-like leaps, these twisted faces?"

PREHISTORIC TUSK FOUND BY TRAPPER

EDMONTON, Dec. 2—(CP). — Relic of the days when bands of shaggy ancestos of the modern elephant roamed the Arctic wastes, a large mammoth tusk passed through Edmonton the other day on its way to a museum in Ames, Iowa.

Found by a trapper this summer on the shores of Edward Island in Coronation gulf, the six-foot ossified bone was presented to Associate Biologist J. Gillham of the United States department of surveys.

Gillham is still conducting field work in the Arctic and little information was available concerning the kellowed bone. Weighing 160 pounds, the spiral tusk was examined by curious bystanders as it was unloaded by train baggagemen at Edmonton, ending a 1,300 mile trip south by boat and train.

Origin Of Kilt Brings Argument

BELFAST, Dec. 2—(CP).—Is a kilt an Irish costume? Suggestion that children wear kilts when the King and Queen visit Belfast at the end of July to an exchange in the correspondence columns of the Belfast Telegraph on this question.

"Common Sense" opposed the idea, suggesting it would be more appropriate if the children wore typically Irish costume. Next day came support for the kilt from "Lady Student," who replied the kilt is "the national dress of Irish girls and boys." As if to clinch the argument, "Lady Student" added that the kilt was a common-sense costume for warm weather.

FIRE DESTROYS BARN

LINDSAY—A steel threshing machine and steam engine were lost in a fire of undetermined origin, which destroyed the barn owned by Wesley Frise in the Village of Seagrave today. A bucket brigade was formed by neighbors, who prevented the flames from spreading to the adjoining United Church.

Sheriff's "Human Fox Hunt" With Convict Brings Protests

Citizens In Arms Over Fugitive Sideshow In California

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov 24—"Yoicks!"

That "green light" signal cry for fox hunters not only sent 200 Contra Costa county "sportsmen" dashing into the hills hunting for a "human fox," but set a thousand bay region citizens in pursuit of the political scalp of Sheriff John A. Miller, perpetrator of the amazing and spectacular "human fox hunt."

"Tally-ho!"

That victorious huntsman's triumphant cry rang out as the "human fox"—a prisoner temporarily released for the chase—was lassoed by a fair member of the houndless pack; but the hunters seeking to terminate Sheriff Miller's political career have yet to shriek "Tally-ho!"

Creates Real Stir

It is a far cry from Contra Costa's bayside undulating hills to the wilds of Melton Mowbray, fox hunters' paradise in Merrie England. But, though scarlet coats and visored caps, bugles, whippers-in, hounds, and all the glittering litter of shire equipage were wanting, the "human fox hunt" and the barbecue that followed—with the captured quarry as guest of honor—may go down in history—labor history.

The western version of the sport of kings, as conceived by Sheriff Miller, was staged recently for the delectation of the horseback-minded in his constituency. The youthful shire-reeve of Contra Costa thought it would be a delightful pastime wherewith to entertain a host of riding friends.

Labor groups in the bay region and wrathful citizens thought contrariwise. But if Sheriff Miller, facing possible re-election soon, thought the stunt would provide plenty of publicity, he guessed aright. The tale of his "human fox hunt" has stirred citizens from coast to coast.

Ostensibly, it was all planned for the purpose of training Martinez citizens in the art of hunting down fugitives who might escape from San Quentin, on the opposite shore of the northern arm of San Francisco bay.

Human Quarry

The "fox" was Lloyd Hosington, a San Francisco youth convicted of robbery and sentenced to serve one year in the Martinez jail. Good behavior had won him the status of trusty. He was to be released soon and the sheriff selected him as the human quarry for the chase.

The chase and subsequent barbecue were held on Sunday morning a fortnight or so ago; and the reverberations have been constant ever since, with indications they may expand to nation-wide proportions.

Suddenly given his freedom and allotted two hours to find a hideout in the wooded hills between Avon and Port Chicago, a stretch of eight miles, Hosington was told that if he were not captured by 12 noon he could go free. He was to get $10 and his captor was to be awarded $20 at a public ceremony in Martinez park, scene of the barbeque.

At 11.30 a.m., Hosington crept stealthily out if his hiding place on a shelf of Mount Diablo, and began the downward trek, sure of freedom. Out of the brush dashed Mrs. Juanita Patricia Shaw astride her charger, lariat awhirl. The fugitive "fox" broke into a run, but the lasso cut short his flight and ended the spectacular "human fox hunt."

Guest of Honor

Noisily escorted into town by the galloping gallants of Contra Costa, Prisoner Hosington was made the guest of honor at the picturesque barbeque, presented with his cash reward, and returned to his cell to finish out his allotted term for having robbed the wrong bank in Walnut Creek.

Hardly had the equestrain horde settled down to enjoy the barbeque as guests of the imaginative sheriff than the hue and cry of irate citizens was heard. Chief among his denouncers is the People's legislative conference, numbering several thousand members.

Vigorously did they whereas and resolve. Irked by the arranged jailbreak and the cheriff-staged chase, the organization declared that the sheriff had "seen fit to use his position to bring calumny and ridicule upon the citizenry of Contra Costa."

They dubbed the stunt "as silly as it was meaningless." And "resolved, therefore, that this branch of labor's Non-Partisan league strongly denounce and condemn the act, as one of the lowest moronic shamelessness and of bad judgment."

Seeks Re-election

Sheriff Miller remains unperturbed by the commotion his Sunday morning party has caused. He has become something of an engineer of publicity provoking stunts in this, his first term as sheriff. He would like to be sheriff another term, as it is much more interesting than the job of postmaster at Richmond, his erstwhile function.

In fact, the whole country seems aware, and in some sections astir.

Invasion Rumor Scares Tsingtao

TSINGTAO, China, Dec. 2 (A.P.). — Rumors that Japanese intended to land troops at this Shantung Province seaport precipitated mass evacuation of civilians to-day.

Outgoing ships were crowded. Other vessels stood by with steam up, ready to sail. All Chinese banks closed their doors.

Some 200 Britons and Americans and members of the German and Russian communities made no plans for departure. Last July 20,000 Japanese civilians evacuated, leaving cotton mills and other properties valued at $300,000,000. Chinese were said to have mined the properties, planning to blow them up if Japanese attempted a landing.

SEES U.S. FRIENDLY TOWARD BRITAIN

SOUTHAMPTON, Dec. 2 (CP-Havas)—The friendly attitude prevtoday by Viscount Cecil of Chelwood on his return from a visit to Canada and the United States.

Arriving aboard the Berengaria, he said he had "found the greatest friendliness toward this country and toward those things for which this country stands."

"There is the greatest interest in foreign politics in America at the present time," he added. "More people are coming to the belief that international co-operation is the only way out of international questions."

Referring to recent international talks, Lord Cecil, awarded the 1937 peace prize, said "Anything that improves the relationship between this country and other countries, especially with France with whom we have worked so many years, is all to the good."

HELPFUL HINTS

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 2 (AP).—Nurses were urged today to hold hands with their patients.

Dr. Ansel M. Caine, of Tulane University medical school, in making the suggestion before the Southern Medical Association, advocated it, not as a boon to budding romances, but as a help in soothing the nerves of patients on the operating table.

He said that "a gentle pat" on the cheek and a "a light squeeze of the hand" by the nurse "is very helpful"

Fair Hunter Lassoed "Fox"

The prisoner was given his freedom and if not captured by 12 o'clock noon he could go free. At 11:30 a. m., Hosington crept out of his hiding place. Out of the brush dashed a fair hunter and lassoed the fugitive "fox". His dash for freedom had ended.

Sheriff John A. Miller of Contra Costa county, California, whose human fox hunt has caused nation-wide reverberations.

ASK KINDLY VIEW NARCOTIC ADDICTS

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 2.—(AP) Formation of a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Narcotic Addicts was suggested today in a study of successful treatment of the habit by two officers of the U. S. public health service.

Reporting to the Southern Medical Association, Dr. Lawrence Kolb, medical director of the service, and Dr. W. F. Ossenfort of the National Narcotic Farm at Lexington, Ky., said many addicts can be restored to normal life by proper treatment and a sympathetic attitude from the public.

Many persons have been "cured of the narcotic habit" by being treated "as patients to be cured," instead of being imprisoned, since the narcotic farm was opened in 1935, Dr. Kolb said. Society must recognize, he said, that it will benefit economically as well as socially in treating narcotic addiction as a disease.

The "rational treatment" evolved by the service after long experience consists of gradual withdrawal of the narcotic from a patient, restraining him as little as possible, and providing work and recreation which will restore normal physical strength and eliminate the need for stumulants, Dr. Kolb said.

In addition to this treatment, he added, thorough psychological examinations are made on every patient in order to stimulate mental resistance to narcotic temptation after release, and every effort is made to place patients in better social surroundings in which they can work normally and be free from tendencies toward their old habits.

LAYMEN PROPOSE EUCHRE TOURNEY

(Examiner Correspondence)

MARMORA, Dec. 2.—The regular meeting of St. Paul's Laymen's Association was held in the Parish Hall on Wednesday evening, with the president, H. B. Smith, in the chair.

During the business session, a report was given of the annual banquet and mention was made of the forthcoming euchre tournament. W. J. Cottrell and H. R. Pearce were appointed as program committee for the ensuing year.

The program opened with a song by Percy Gray, with Gladney Hodge instrumental selections by Eddie Pusse, mandolin banjo, and Jack Patkus, accordion.

Rev. F. A. Smith, rector of St. George's Church, Trenton, guest speaker of the evening, gave an able discourse on the problem of human suffering, in which he asserted that suffering is not Divine punishment.

Refreshments were served at the close of the program and a pleasant social hour ensued.

POLARIZED BRIDGE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2—(AP).—Having trouble with your bridge game?

Then polarize your table the next time you sit down for a session.

That's one suggestion offered today by some of the crack players here for the annual national contract bridge tournament.

It's simple—merely keep one corner pointed toward the North star.

Fall Down Stairs Kills Poet

PARIS, Dec. 2 (C.P.-Havas). — Raoul Ponchon, French poet and member of the Academie Goncourt, died to-day from injuries suffered in a fall down a staircase early this year.

Born at La Roche-Sur-Yon, in the Vendee, he came to Paris in 1860 and participated in the defence of the capital during the Franco-Prussian War of 1870. It was during this time that he composed his first notable verse, "Chanson des Mobiots" (The Song of the Militiamen).

His verses were widely printed in newspapers and magazines, but it was only in 1920 that he decided to assemble his poems in a volume, entitled "La Muse au Cabaraet."

LUXURY LINERS MAY BE HELD UP

LONDON, Dec. 2 (CP Cable) — Hector Bywater, writing in The Daily Telegraph, today said construction of two "luxury" liners for the Canadian-Australian service, approved at the Imperial Conference this summer, was in danger of being held up indefinitely by a complication raised by New Zealand.

He said the New Zealand government was endeavoring to have one of the ships registered in that Dominion to bring the liner under its own rules in regard to conditions of labor and pay, which the New Zealand labor government claims are the best in the world.

Mr. Bywater, the paper's naval correspondent, said the proposal was opposed by Canada, Australia and the United Kingdom on the grounds it would create administrative difficulties.

Meanwhile, the writer added, shipbuilding costs are mounting steadily and it is doubtful that the ships could now be built for the original estimate of £1,500,000 ($7,483,125) each.

Belgium Not Giving Congo Up

LONDON, Dec. 2—(CP-Havas). — Belgium has informed the British Government she will not agree to turning any part of the Belgian Congo over to Germany, it was reported here to-day.

It had been said an attempt might be made to satisfy Germany's colonial demands by combining the Belgian Congo, or part of it, with Portuguese Angola to form a colony which would be controlled by Germany under mandate.

A semi-official communique in Brussels yesterday said Belgium had no intention of yielding the Congo or any part of it.

SEEK BETTER TYPE IN CHEESE LINES

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Dec. 2 (CP) —Close co-operation between the laboratory and field work in the industry is the only way to bring about new and better types of cheese, according to W. H. Sprague, professor of dairying at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

He told the closing session of the 10th annual convention of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association here yesterday that the college will extend its research into new types this year. Particular study is being made of Roquefort and Camembert cheese, he said. Also under study is a "green cheese" of a new type.

The first problem of the cheese industry, M. H. Hudson, chief of the dairy branch in Quebec, told the convention, was the butter-fat production of the dairy cow owned by the back-concession farmer.

"The production of butter-fat per cow is probably one of the most important factors which is delaying the continued progress of the dairy industry in Canada," he said. The average in Quebec in 1936 for all cows was 154.5 pounds of Butter-fat; average for cows supplying creameries was 107 pounds, while cows supplying cheese factories was only 88.6 he said.

Earlier, Allan C. Fraser, secretary-manager of the National Dairy Council, said cheese-making was the "balance wheel" of the dairy industry. He felt improved conditions now prevailing in the industry would be "cumulative and permanent."

HUNTING A MEDAL

MONTREAL, Dec. 2 (CP).—Eight-months-old Micheline Paradis will undergo an operation today for removal from her intestings of a safety pin and a small religious medal.

The child was taken to hospital when the mother found her gasping for breath. An X-ray examination revealed the objects, which had been pinned to the child's underclothing. Authorities said they expected the operation to be successful.

St. Nick To See New DeSoto

DeSoto will be represented in the Santa Claus parade on Friday evening with this beautiful 1938 Four-Door Touring Sedan.

Conacher Refrains From Taking Seat

TORONTO, Dec. 2.—Lionel Conacher, Liberal M.L.A. for Toronto Bracondale, did not occupy his seat in the Legislature at its opening Wednesday upon the advice of his counsel, Arthur G. Slaght, K.C., pending the final disposition of the legal proceedings concerning his election. He has been sworn in, it was revealed, and he could have taken his seat if he had wished to. Mr. Conacher may take his seat Thursday, or may not, the decision probably resting on the outcome of the Bracondale election appeal which is to be heard at Osgoode Hall.

9 GREYHOUND BUS LINES RUN AGAIN

CLEVELAND, Dec. 2 (A.P.). — Nine Greyhound Bus Lines resumed normal operations in 16 states today—a compromise agreement negotiated by a United States Government labor conciliator, ending a strike of drivers called by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

John L. Conner, labor conciliator who flew here from Washington when the strike was called on November 25, announced the settlement reached last night, was "satisfactory to both parties."

Conner said that under the terms of the agreement, the companies granted wage increases, but refused B.R.T. demands for a closed shop.

Plastic Surgery Gives Boy 4 First Use Of His Eyes

Muscles Grafted From His Hips Raise Lower Eyelids Year After Operation

CALGARY, Dec. 2—(CP).—Dr. Fulton Risdon of Toronto will always rank as a hero to a four-year-old Calgary boy, for it was through an operation performed a year ago by the eminent eye specialist, the boy's eyesight was restored to normal.

The boy was born without the muscles that raise and lower the eyelids. Through plastic surgery, muscles were taken from his hips and grafted into the eye sockets. The lids now move normally.

Physicians here did not care to tackle the delicate performance. They said Dr. Risdon was the only doctor who had successfully performed a similar operation.

The boy's eyes were normal in themselves, although their growth had been retarded. But it was only through raising his eyelids by hand and holding his head far back that he was able to see; and then it was only through a narrow slit.

Parents of the boy are on relief. The city unemployment committee could not pay expenses for the trip to Toronto because of department regulations, but a local service club (Lions) agreed to defray the transportation of the father and son.

LAST QUARANTINE LIFTED.

TORONTO.— Last quarantine for poliomyelitis in Toronto was lifted yesterday, health authorities announced to-day. The city was the centre of an infantile paralysis epidemic which attacked more than 700 persons since June.

Jersey City Warns C.I.O. Leaders

JERSEY CITY, N.J., Dec. 2 (AP) —New Jersey leaders of the Committee for Industrial Organization, declaring today they would continue efforts to organize Hudson County workers despite an initial rout by Jersey City police, called a momentary halt to handbill distribution as they sough bail money and habeas corpus writs for 13 men jailed in the opening encounter.

They faced a warning by Police Judge Anthony Botti to state C.I.O. Director William J. Carney to "keep out of Jersey City with your C.I.O. Hoodlums."

"The C. I. O. leaders in Newark should have let Jersey City alone," Judge Botti said. "There'll be no C.I.O. violence here like there was in Detroit and other places."

ANONYMITY?

SAINT JOHN, N.B.—(CP). — A local bus company received $1.25 "conscience money" with an unsigned letter saying, "Please accept this money which is due to you. Don't try to find out why. You'd never discover. Just accept it, that's all." But the money was sent in the form of a postal note bearing the sender's name and village of residence.

Germany's postal department now handle sover 50,000,000 letters a month.

MARMORA

CORDOVA Y.P. VISIT MARMORA GROUP

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Dec. 2. — The Young People's Union of St. Andrew's United Church met on Monday evening in the church, with the president, Hubert Hollingsworth, in the chair.

Following opening exercises, a solo was rendered by Grace Prentice. James Marett then gave a reading. The Cordova Young People's League, who were guests of the evening, were responsible for the next two items on the program, which consisted of two mouth-organ selections by Mr. Briggs, and a solo by Miss Steenburgh. After some community singing adjournment was made to St. Andrew's Hall, where a recreational period was led by the Cordova group.

A debate on topic, "Resolved that women's noses are shinier than men's," was held, the affirmative being taken by Miss Theresa Henry and Mr. Steenburgh, and the negative by Miss Scully and Mr. W. W. Fraser. The result was a draw.

Several games were then played and a splendid lunch was served by the Marmora group before the gathering dispersed.

TO BREED BLUE FOX

CHARLOTTETOWN, Dec. 2.—(CP).—Blue foxes will be farmed in Prince Edward Island this fall for the first time since 1913.

It was recalled that in 1913 the late Crisp Moore of Westmorland, P.E.I., was successful in breeding blue foxes but as the whole fox market went to pieces with the advent of war the blue fox pelt prices were low and the venture was discontinued.

Parties in Summerside, P.E.I., it was learned, have imported blue foxes from Greenland. They are slightly smaller than the Alaskan blues and are of good quality. If they can be persuaded to breed here they should be profitable because of their extreme prolificness, litters of 10, 12 and 14 being not uncommon, it was said, and there should be no danger of off-color troubles which torment the silver fox farmer developing.

Deserted In Stolen Car After Wreck Girls Tip Police To Flighty Pals

London, Ont., Dec. 2 (CP).—On his way to search for motor car thieves in Elgin county, last night, Provincial Constable Ben Milligan had his car wrecked by another machine that had been stolen in the city.

Although two occupants of the stolen car fled, city detectives later took two London youths, Edward Rooke, 17, and George Barnett, 19, at their homes. They will appear in city court today jointly charged with theft of Lieut.-Col. R. B. Ross' car.

The provincial officer was enroute to the Wallacetown district to assist in a hunt for automobile thieves when a speeding car crashed head-on into his vehicle.

Two youths jumped out and fled but Milligan detained two girls who were in the car and through them the arrests were made.

RE-ENACT CRASH TO FIND CAUSES

JAMALPUR, India, Dec. 2—(CP). —In an effort to fix responsibility and avoid recurrence, the authorities provided a spectacle of a 600-ton train hurtling at 50 miles an hour to destruction during official tests into the causes and nature of the derailment at Bihta, Bihar, of the Punjab Express when 100 people were killed.

Plunging on after passing over a deflected rail the engine leaped at a buffer consisting of 500 tons of earth. The noise of a heavy explosion and a momentary "black out" of flying earth, stones and timber followed. The first four coaches were telescoped and smashed to splinters. It is believed that this is the first time such an experiment has been carried out in India. Crowds which gathered to see it were kept well out of the danger area.

Earlier experiments were confined to slow derailments under a variety of circumstances. Examination carried out at Bihta by experts immediately after the disaster and the collation of data thus obtained led to certain lines of thought as to the cause of the accident.

For a more detailed study of these problems, the circumstances attending the Bihta affair were duplicated as nearly as possible at Jamalpur. An engine of precisely the same type was selected.

NO SOFT 'SNAP' FOR SCHMELING IN THOMAS BOUT

NEW YORK, Dec. 2. — Because he is a swinging puncher like Max Baer, some of the boys have an idea that Harry Thomas may stir up some trouble for Max Schmeling in what generally is expected to be nothing more than a warm-up for the ex-champion at the Garden, on December 13. It will be recalled that Baer, bringing roaring round-house blows via the Holland Tunnel, smacked Schmeling all over the place and stopped him in ten rounds one scorching June night in 1933.

The man warning Schmeling in sterner fashion is Jack Hurley, who managed Thomas for a spell. Hurley is the chap who brought out Billy Petrolle, the old Fargo Express, and is a pugilistic prognosticator of some repute. While Schmeling's staunchest admirers were feeling sorry for the Black Uhlan, Hurley was telling the cock-eyed world that the Pretzel Pounder would belt Joe Louis all the way back to the Buckalews. Hurley also predicted that Jim Braddock would treat Louis similarly. The Dakota cauliflower dealer was wrong on that occasion, but the error can be traced to the fact that he'd make Freddie Bartholomew a favorite over Louis, so little does he think of the Brown Bomber.

Hurley isn't exactly picking Thomas, but insists that Schmeling selecting the Minnesotan from a list submitted by Mike Jacobs once more illustrates just how little Joe Jacobs has to say about his matches.

"Joe Jacobs wouldn't make this mistake," asserts Hurley.

"Granting that Schmeling can beat Thomas, it's still a bad match for the German is likely to break his right hand on Harry's head. Harry keeps his noggin down as well as anybody you ever saw.

"If Schmeling could hook with his left, I don't suppose he'd have too much difficulty with Thomas, but all he can do is put jumps on top of Harry's coco with his straight right, and that won't get him very far.

"Thomas is an awkwardly clever plodder capable of flattening anybody with either first. He can take it like the Michigan football team. As slow as he is, he's as fast as Schmeling. He isn't afraid, and he likes to fight."

Larger Membership In Hastings Club

HASTINGS, Dec. 2.—The Hastings Badminton Club has shown a tendency this year to lean toward a much larger membership than last year. On Monday night, twenty-five members and prospective members were present at their tri-weekly games, which are held in the Town Hall.

As soon as enough members have joined, the club intend to draw up a schedule for the winter season. While members are playing in the hall, other members awaiting their turn may indulge in a game of table tennis, which is set up in the Council Chambers.

ORGANIZE YOUTH IN EMPIRE WAYS

LONDON, Dec. 2 (CP).—The visit of the 350 Canadian school boys and girls to England for the Coronation and the Empire Youth Rally in Albert Hall addressed by Lord Baldwin has had an interesting sequel.

It is now proposed to organize an Empire Youth Movement with something of an "Order of Chivalry" in its constitution. The purposes are to be educational and Imperial with the object of consolidating the Empire Youth as a world force for peace, goodwill, and co-operation.

Plans are being made for a magazine, the interchange of students, rallies in different parts of the Empire and at longer intervals in foreign countries, to be both recreational and cultural in nature.

Arrangements are also on foot for the organization of a Parliament of Empire Youth, a "City of Youth" with headquarters in some easily accessible and suitable building.

TORONTO, Dec. 2. — Victoria College won the Mulock Cup, symbolic of interfaculty football supremacy, for the third successive year, when an 8 to 6 victory over St. Michael's College at the U. of T. bowl on Wednesday afternoon. Injuries and fumbles played an important part in the result of the battle which was waged on a frozen, concrete-like gridiron.

Ottawa Expert Will Study Alberta's Dinosaur 'Eggs'

ALBERTA'S DIN OSAUR "EGGS."

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Dec. 2. — In Southern Alberta on the verge of becoming one of the great dinosaur regions of the world? Recently Dr. C. M. Sternberg, paleontologist, member of the Geological Survey of Canada, discovered the well-preserved fossil remains of a flesh-eating dinosaur in the "bad lands" of South-eastern Alberta. These monsters, he says, roamed this region perhaps 60,000,000 years ago.

Now comes "the announcement that in the Waterton National Park a "nest" of dinosaur eggs has been discovered; and if these specimens prove to be genuine it will rank among the epic scientific finds of modern times.

Up to the present the only dinosaur eggs found have been in the deserts of Mongolia. The petrified eggs are nine inches long and six inches in diameter, while the "iron nest," as the road crew who blasted out the rock that revealed the specimens call it, is three feet in diameter.

For ages this deposit of eggs, probably those of a duck-billed dinosaur, has been protected by a crust of rock. It was only when a road crew were excavating for the new Chief Mountain Highway linking Waterton and Glacier National Parks, that the "nest" was uncovered.

"May" Be Genuine.

Advised of the discovery, Dr. Sternberg says it is "possible, but not probable" that the "eggs" are genuine, but he is interested, and "chips" of the nest may be sent to him at Ottawa for examination. The specimens are at the office of the park engineer and have been scrutinized by scores anxious to glimpse this possible link with the prehistoric past.

The dinosaur, recently uncovered near Comrey Alta., by Dr. Sternberg, was well preserved and has been crated and shipped to the National Museum at Ottawa.

Dr. Sternberg, for the past 25 years has been scaling cliffs and searching the valleys of Southern Alberta for vestiges of the remote past. This year has yielded some highly significant discoveries. He says life has been on this planet for a billion years at least, and it is definitely established that the duck-bill dinosaur was an inhabitant of Alberta, as a dozen different species have been found here, also specimens of horned, armored and flesh-eating types. Imprints of foot tracks of the giant lizards are frequently found on the rocky ledges of this region.

MOTOR SALES UP

OTTAWA, Dec. 2 (CP).—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today Canada's October sales of new motor vehicles totalled 5,847 units at $6,552,251, against 4,021 at $4,590,475 in October, 1936, an increase of 45.4 per cent. in number and 42.7 per cent. in value.

OLD-TIMER AT 88 WANTS ADVENTURE

GLEN'S FALLS, N.Y., Dec. 2.—(CP).—The spirit of adventure still flames in the 88-year-old breast of "Bronco Charlie," squaring his jaw cribes himself as the last of the pony express riders.

"I've driven stage coaches before and I can still drive 'em," asserted "Bronc oCharlie," squaring his jaw and taking a hitch in his pants.

Miller, a picturesque figure with flowing gray hair tumbling about his shoulders, described the four-horse stage coach he will drive from Wyoming to Pennsylvania as "the original stage that carried to mail to Deadwood, S.D., more'n 60 years ago."

He said he had a contract to drive the stage "from the front door of the 'Buffalo Bill' museum in Cody" to the Philadelphia museum, where it wil become a permanent exhibit. The lumbering vehicle now is on the old Cody ranch.

Miller said he would start west to take the rein in a few weeks and estimated he could make the trip in a month-and-a-half.

Cancer Martyr

Several hard bumps are reported forming on the left arm of Dr. Mathis Duque (ABOVE), Cuba's first secretary of health, who was inoculated four times with filtrates of cancerous elements to become a human guinea pig for a cancer experiment. Dr. Duque, who lost two members of his family because of the disease, retired from active practice several years ago to devote himself to cancer research. Though the small lumps have been forming for a month Dr. Duque says he cannot, as yet classify them as the beginnings of a cancerous growth.

SET WHALE HUNT WITH OLD TOOLS

QUINCY, Mass., Dec. 2—(CP).—New England has set out to revive the romance of whaling days. Two descendants of old-time whalers, Captain Edward Cory of Tiverton, R.I., and Captain James W. Clark of Onset, Mass., are joint leaders of an expedition that will return to brains and brawn and danger in the hunt for Moby Dick.

They will use hand-hurled harpoons and their ship will be a real windjammer. The two captains have reconditioned the old Stone Horse shoal lightship for their project, have fitted her with gear to handle the big carcasses alongside at sea and have installed huge kettles on deck to fry out the whale oil.

But where an old-time whaler would be gone for three or four years, the modern vessels and crew will be out only three or four months. They will search the whaling grounds off Cape Hatteras.

Cory and Clark expect to sneak up on an unsuspecting leviathan, throw the "lily iron" into his side and then go on for one of those rip-roaring "Nantucket sleigh rides" as the aroused behemoth tries to shake out the iron.

If everything goes as planned, the whales will be killed with lances as of old, and made fast to the side of the Stone Horse, where the blubber will be stripped off and cut up for the kettles on deck. This contrasts with the modern methods where huge vessels, built like factories, open huge doors in the bows through which the whole carcass is drawn up into the slip for processing.

If the first venture succeeds, Cory and Clark say, next year they may take out a few sport fishermen and give them an opportunity to end forever clubroom fish stories by telling of the really big ones they caught.

TRAFFIC SAFETY IS BEING SOUGHT

VICTORIA, Dec. 2 (CP).—As Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer considered the possibility of bringing before the British Columbia legislature new laws to reduce the toll of traffic accidents, the provincial department of education today took the "less accidents" campaign into its high schools.

The department's new course in "Safety Education" was ready, and will be put in effect next year as a compulsory study for all senior high school pupils.

Part of the three-year health course, safety education will be studied in the second term, which will not be effected by regulations of the new British Columbia public schools curriculum until next fall.

Students will first receive instructions in walking safely, receiving detailed instructions of the duties of pedestrians in reducing street accidents.

Then they will study the causes of automobile crashes—"our greatest safety problem"—and finally a section headed "The Adolescent Bicycle Rider."

Street accidents, however, form only a part of the wide scope of mishaps which will be studied. The course also covers safety rules to be obeyed at home, at school, in play and in work.

Santa Claus Going To Visit More Homes This Christmas

Return To Real Home Spirit Evident In Many Of The Suggestions

Advance glimpses into Santa's gift bags indicated that this jolly old traveler has brought an extra sleigh caravan filled with gifts for the home. This is due to the great increase in delightful home living and home entertaining, it was rumored.

Celebrating the return of prosperity and the return to a real home spirit, Santa announced that he has gathered together home gifts for every member of the family. Special thought has been given to those who live in small homes and apartments, as it is believed that Christmas cheer should be bountiful everywhere.

Electric Gifts Will Sparkle

Actively campaigning for better eye-sight and better health among all his loved boys and girls, Santa is bringing many new lamps for the home and study. For health and comfort, he has announced many new health lamps, sun lamps, and other electrical health equipment. Home conveniences, such as new electric washing machines, ironers, dish-washers, etc., are considered health gifts, too.

Special electrical gifts for the woman will include complete breakfast sets, and hostess trays, fully equipped. But father has not been forgotten, and smoking sets, shaving sets, and other electrical gifts are planned for his comfort and convenience.

New Dishes Won't Break

Actually, Santa is bringing new dishes that won't break. There are sets for the children, sets for breakfast and informal dinners, picnic sets and party sets, all in the gayest of gay colors. They're made of a new composition which does not chip or break. Other smart new dishes, nonbreakable, include wooden and metal salad sets, fruit dishes, and many others. Cooking sets which will stand heat and cold are gayly decorated so that they may be used on the table too.

Silver Makes Lasting Gifts

Economy and lasting beauty are suggested by Santa in silverware gifts. Arriving this week, his extra sleighs are bringing many new styles for every member of the family, from baby's first set to a new silver set for mother. Beautiful, hammered silver bowls and trays, lovely carving sets, and monogrammed silver sets for the dresser or table are included Sterling silver or guaranteed plated styles may be had.

For especially nice gifts, Santa suggests jelly sets, cheese sets, a new coffee percolator and tray, cake plates, relish dishes, sandwich trays, or any one of the smart new silverware for the table or for parlor entertaining. And because Santa has been too rushed to have these all monogrammed for you, the local stores will do this without cost.

Gifts for Students

Beautiful book-ends, new study lamps, desk sets, world atlases that have all the newest changes, typewriters, portable desks, and many other comforts are in Santa's sleigh for the student. And for real comfort while studying, Santa suggests a set of big, soft, sofa pillows and a warm wooly robe!

Santa Brings Warm Gifts

Not forgetting the importance of real home comfort, Santa announces that he has brought a special sleigh of soft wooly blankets, downy filled comforts, always so welcome. Big, soft cushions for the floor in front of the fireplace, and smaller pillows for the living room sofa are also in his bag.

For those who like to take their warmth with them, Santa suggests a new portable electric heater which will bring comfort to any cool spot in the home.

Gifts for Christmas Hostess

Big baskets and boxes filled with luscious fruits and candies are suggested for the Christmas hostess. Many of these come in boxes or baskets which may be used by her for sewing baskets or beauty boxes afterwards.

There are many other suggestions for your Christmas hostess, such as guests towels in bright new linens, dainty tea or cocktail napkin sets, bridge luncheon sets, exquisitely embroidered pillows or bedroom linens, or towels.

Bay Bulls Is Partial To Single Name Oodles Of Williamses Make Confusion

BAY BULLS, Nfld., Dec. 2—(CP)—They call it Bay Bulls, this thriving fishing centre 18 miles south of St. John's. But it just missed being called Williamstown. Literally hundreds of the 1,200 population bear the name Williams.

Yet a great number of those who have the name are unrelated to their next door neighbors with the same name. It just happened that family after family came in to settle the town and that a majority of the settlers were named Williams although each new family bore no relationship to those already there.

Because of the confusion that arose over the duplication of names, the inhabitants have worked out a complete and complicated system of nicknames, uniquely satisfactory. Two systems of naming were used in the process.

Most common scheme was the combining of the first names of man and wife for a brand-new surname for the family. Thus, several heads of families might be Joe Williams' but by a combination of wives' names they are now known as Minnie-Joe Williams, Mary-Joe Williams or Milly-Joe Williams. The combinations are endless in possibilities.

Descriptive names have also been used. There a Big Tom Williams, a Little Tom, and a Raw Tom, a Big Fred, a Little Fred, and Milfred, a Bill, a Billy, and a Billy-Dandy Williams to say nothing of a Connie Crow, a Bumble and a Jumper.

So these robust fishing folk, many of them descendants of early Welsh settlers of Newfoundland, have settled their problems of names just as they have solved greater problems to be met by all who go down to the sea in ships.

MINING ENGINEER COMMENDS PROJECT

"The property certainly warrants development work being done, with a good chance of success," is one of the recommending comments by John W. Shaw of Toronto, consulting mining engineer, in his recent report of the extensive examination he made of the Ackerman Gold Mines Limited property east of Marmora.

Mr. Shaw is especially highly regarded in the Red Lake area as an authority on gold bearing veins in granite formation similar to the rock country around Marmora in which the Bloomfield vein is being thoroughly explored.

In his comprehensive report after spending a day and a half in a personal survey of the Ackerman camp, Mr. Shaw reviews the work that has already been done, traces five "roughly parallel" veins, mentions surface samples showing gold values ranging from $8.20 to $41.38 in the preliminary progress and declares the ore can be treated with cyanide.

"My experience with geological conditions similar to those on your property leads me to the conclusion that these are favorable for the occurrence of gold bearing veins of commercial value," Mr. Shaw states. "There are five Parallel veins. Two of these are on your property and the others will enter your property at vertical depths averaging from 300 to 550 feet."

44 NAZIS TRADED ON SOVIET CREWS

MOSCOW, Dec. 2 (A.P.). — Forty-four German prisoners were reported by diplomatic sources to-day to have been deported from Russia in a virtual exchange for crews of two Soviet ships recently released in Spain.

The exchange involved crews of the Komsomol, sunk by Spanish insurgents, and the Smidovich, seized in Spanish waters. The 44 Germans and approximately 500 others still under arrest were among hundreds of aliens caught in the drive against foreigners, on spy and wrecking charges.

Diplomatic sources said that because 500 Germans still are under arrest, the German Embassy was not satisfied by the single exchange.

The crews of the Russian ships recently returned to Russia from Spanish prisons. They were brought out of Spain on German ships because Soviet vessels were unable to reach Spanish insurgent ports.

CAUSE FOR SHAME

BRANTFORD, Ont., Dec. 2 (CP).—Refusal of the nine-power conference to take any definite action in the Sino-Japanese conflict was deplored by Bishop C. A. Seager of Huron in addressing the annual banquet of the men's club of Grace Church of England last night.

"I hope that we may find in our hearts an indignation and a resentment that Great Britain, France and the other nations concerned slunk home with tails between their legs because they lacked the moral courage to work together, because they were caused as are all with a sin of limitation," the Bishop said.

30,000-Mile Flight To Test Planes

PLYMOUTH, Devonshire, Dec. 2 (CP).—Five Royal Air Force flying boats took off today on the first leg of a 30,000-mile flight to Australia and back. They are to participate in the 150th anniversary celebrations of the birth of New South Wales.

The first hop will be a 700-mile flight to Berre in Southern France. After refueling they will proceed with stops at Malta, Alexandria, Karachi, Calcutta, Singapore and Port Darwin.

Wing Commander K. B. Lloyd was in charge when the flying boats left the Mount Batten base here.

BOY ACTOR GETS $50,000 RAISE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2 — (AP). — Freddie Batholomew got a $50,000-a-year pay raise but his troubles aren't over yet.

Nov. 1 comes a hearing on his parents' suit to set aside his adoption by his aunt, Miss Mylicent Bartholomew, on grounds of deception.

The 13-year-old boy actor won a new contract yesterday, giving him $2,000 a week (and $1 a week spending money) for two years.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil L. Batholomew, charge Freddie's aunt gave them a written agreement they could have him back anytime they wanted him. They said they believed the agreement was binding but that Miss Batholomew refused to surrender her guardianship. The father, a Canadian war veteran, expressed satisfaction with the new film contract.

The child star's old contract brought him $1,100 a week. Under the new he will get $2,000 a week for 40 weeks and $3,000 weekly for six weeks of personal appearances. Miss Batholomew will get $4,000 a year for taking care of him.

"We picked three of our best boys and three of our worst," Gettman said. "All six returned right on the dot when their holiday at home was over."

CAPE FOLK KEEN FOR PAINTINGS

CAPE TOWN, Dec. 2 (CP).—The British public is less interested than the South African public in buying paintings, in the opinion of Gregoire Boonzaaier, the South African artist who has returned to Cape Town after studying in Britain.

Mr. Boonzaaier said there were very few self-supporting artists in England today. "Most of them have to supplement their earnings by teaching in art schools," he added.

"The reason for this is the lack of support from the general public, for, apart from collectors and specialists, very few people buy paintings."

"In South Africa," he added, "there are large numbers of picture buyers outside the ranks of collectors—doctors, lawyers, business men and so on."

Men Find "Gift Sets" Solve Many Christmas Problems

Choosing Is Easier Because Of Such a Wide Variety

Following the feminine psychology may have been difficult in choosing gifts in the past, but this year stores are ready for the men shoppers with new complete "sets" or ensembles which have already been carefully matched into sets. Beautiful utility cases or bases are used for these, which may be used long after the holiday season. Nothing, it has been discovered, so delights the feminine heart as a set of matching group of desired garments or personal articles.

Negligees Smart Again

Lounging ensembles, composed of gayly colored pyjamas, with matching robe or house coat, is the most popular gift for wives and sweethearts, and very easy to select this year as almost all of the colors are flattering. New styles include comfortable quilted jackets with silk pyjamas, as well as beautiful velvet or corduroy lounging coats for general home wear.

The man who desires a truly feminine gift may choose one of this year's softly flattering negligees of shimmering fabrics. They follow the new lines that are slenderizing to women, and trail gracefully in the new "grand manner" women love. Some have wide sleeves, but many youthful models are made with short full sleeves.

House coats, which women have learned to love for their trimness and comfort, are also an excellent choice. These are liked by women who entertain, as they replace the hostess gown of former year, and are neat in appearance for informal wear. They may be found in either dress length or floor length, in bright fabrics of rich colors.

Matching the negligees or lounging ensembles, this season's boudoir slippers are a delight to the feminine eye, (and to the masculine purse). Of rich woven fabrics, and lovely colors, they may be found in many styles that resemble glorified evening slippers. Some are feather or fur trimmed, to give the utmost in beauty and comfort.

Evening Accessories Popular

What woman doesn't love a party? And what wise man will fail to give her some pretty gift to make all her parties happier? Matching sets of evening accessories are perfect gifts. Gayly colored or jeweled handbags may be found with wispy large handkerchiefs that match. Evening slippers with exquisitely matching sheer hosiery is another happy choice. Hair ornaments, dainty flowers to pin in her curls, or adorable sparkling jackets or evening caps (often with flattering veils) are also welcomed by the feminine heart. For those of more conservative taste, nothing is better than a plain, but good, pair of long evening gloves, with a jeweled evening handbag.

Beauty Sets for Every Woman

Whether his "best" Christmas gift is for a college girl, a traveling mother-in-law, or a distant sister, the puzzled man shopper need not worry. They all want beauty sets, with good quality cosmetics and it's usually easy to find out which brand they use. There are travel sets, overnight kits, week-end bags, completely outfitted with the finest beauty preparations, all on display for the masculine gift hunter. For the more modest gift, a bathroom set with fragrant bath powder, soap and cologne, is always a welcomed gift. And what woman doesn't love a small bottle of really fine perfume!

Hostess Gifts Welcomed

Since it's the fashion this year to entertain in the home, the wise man will look out for his own future happiness, and give hostess gifts. Trays, beverage sets, convenient electric appliances that dress up the Sunday breakfast table, and complete salad and sandwich trays to make Sunday supper a real party, are all available. Glassware, amusing painted china, and glamorous metal or modern painted wooden sets are popular for all informal occasions from breakfast to midnight supper.

WANDERING YEARS AMNESIA VICTIM WAKENS IN JAIL

REDWOOD CITY, Cal., Dec. 2 (U.P.).—A man recovered from the oblivion of amnesia in a jail cell yesterday and remembered for the first time in thirty months his name, his wife and his home.

It was as if he never had ceased to know those things. His name was Jimmy Saunders. His wife was Kathryn Saunders. Together they had operated a cafe in Cincinnati, O., called "Jimmy's and Katy's Restaurant."

When he awoke from his long "sleep," during which he had been listed as probably dead, his first words—a cry, bewildered and angry—were:

"Where am I, and why am I in jail?"

Jail attendants calmed him. It was no longer 1935 — the year he last recalled—and he had suffered loss of memory, they explained. He blinked, unable momentarily to comprehend. He later said he recalled that a man named Landon was running for President against Mr. Roosevelt, a vague recollection in the swift march of events that had passed him by.

He recalled clearly everything up to and including May 12, 1926. The last thing was this: He had sold his restaurant and was looking for a job. With two friends — he knew the names, Harry Henderson and Frank Graham—he was riding in an automobile between Akron and Cleveland, O.

"That's the last picture I can see. From then on all is blank."

Wife Waiting.

Last night he heard that his wife was working as a waitress in Cincinnati, that she had kept fresh the hope that he would turn up and would be "overjoyed" to see him.

He asked about her and said: "I want to go back to her and go on just as if I hadn't lost two years of my life."

At 1 a.m. on Monday a Redwood City policeman, C. V. Stafford, found the middle-aged former cafe operator wandering about the streets — a thing he evidently had one in many places during the time his mind was blank.

He couldn't explain why he was there, couldn't give his name. So h was taken to jail an suspicion of vagrancy. A police doctor examined him and said he believed the man was suffering from amnesia.

Dr. Roy G. Labachotte, a chiropractor, was called yesterday. He found Saunders had a neck vertebra out of place, probably as result of an injury. The doctor adjusted the vertebra, which was pressing on the brain. Saunders went to sleep.

"When he awakes, he'll know his name," said Dr. Labachotte.

Yesterday morning Saunders awoke. He was behind bars. This angered him and his shout and frantic beating on the bars of the cell called attendants who heard the story. Police prepared to release him so he could return to the Ohio city, and his wife and friends.

Now That Is A Matter Which Is Very Easy To Explain

. . . It was nothing at all, Andre Kostelanetz seems to be saying in the LOWER picture after his happy reunion at San Francisco with Opera Star Lily Pons. He might be laughing off the other picture at the LEFT in which petite Lily is soundly smacked in greeting by Caetano Merola, conductor of the San Francisco Symphony orchestra. Lily and Andre still refused to reveal whether or not they have been married.

FAMED CONDUCTOR WILL BE DIVORCED

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Dec. 2.—(AP).—The frequently denied separation of the Leopold Stokowskis was confirmed yesterday when the famed concert conductor's wife filed suit for divorce. She has been a resident of Nevada six weeks.

She charged the Philadelphia Orchestra leader with extreme cruelty. Although a waiver and a stipulation denying the charge was filed by Stokowski's attorney, G. D. Breese, he said the action would be uncontested.

The Stokowskis have two daughters, Gloria Luba, 10, and Andrea Sadja, 6, whose custody was given their mother in a property settlement signed last Oct. 8. Details of the settlement which provides for support of the children, were not made public.

The marriage, the director's second, took place in New York, Jan. 6, 1926. The present Mrs. Stokowski was formerly Evangeline Brewster Johnson, of the New Brunswick, N.J., surgical equipment manufacturing family.

Stokowski was divorced by Olga Samaroff in 1923. She obtained custody of their daughter, Sonia.

Mrs. Stokowski to-day asked that the divorce suit papers be sealed and that the hearing, scheduled for this afternoon, be closed. She also requested the terms of the property settlement be incorporated in the decree.

CHAPLIN'S PICTURE EARNED $4,000,000

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 2—(CP). — The returns on Charlie Chaplin's film, "Modern Times," released 21 months ago, have "dwindled" to $3,000 a week. Alf Reeves, who was an actor with Charlie in 1910 and has been his business manager since 1918, is the authority for the figure.

Reeves says Charlie's end of "Modern Times"—with United Artists' 25 per cent distributing charge deducted—will be about $3,000,000. The film cost $1,250,000.

"City Lights," the previous Chaplin film, brought in nearly $4,000,000 and Alf says he and Charlie were confident the latest picture would better this figure by at least $600,000.

"But several things happened that we didn't count on," Reeves says. "Germany banned it because Hitler got an idea that Charlie is part Jewish. He also saw 'communistic propaganda' in it.... The Italians love Charlie, but Mussolini banned it, too. Communistic stuff, he said. "So we've been 'done out of' at least $1,000,000—maybe $1,500,000."

HERE'S MAN'S JOB

SUCCESS SECRETS OF GREAT DOCTOR SHOWN IN BOOK

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP).—What it takes to be "the most sought-after" doctor in the greatest city of the United States is told by a physician in a new book, "Harlow Brooks, Man and Doctor."

Harlow Brooks, who died last year, was the doctor more sought after than any other in New York City. The qualities he used are told by his intimate friend, Dr. John J. Moorhead, writer of the book.

Dr. Brooks was a genius for making friends among patients and staff. Even the captain of a ferry boat on which Dr. Brooks rode nearly every day never failed to put back to the dock if he saw Dr. Brooks arriving too late to catch the boat.

He not only checked a patient's personal history but the history of his family as well. He really liked people, Dr. Moorhead said, and added:

"Time and again I have seen Harlow Brooks look around a patient's room for some indication as to the person's character or interests."

He had the ability to get wayward children to come and see him and to reinterest them in their parents. He had kindly ruses to get husbands whose wives were worried about them to see a doctor.

He put the study of a patient as a human being ahead of the findings which might be made by test tube, microscope slide, and other apparatus, although he, himself, was one of the leaders in developing the scientific and laboratory side of medicine.

Hoboes Lived 2 Weeks In Big Cylinder Railmen Baffled By Additional Weight

EDMONTON, Dec. 2 (CP)—While most people accept the old adage "travel broadens" harrassed freight checkers of the Northern Alberta Railway were temporarily at a loss to explain the gain of 500 pounds "put on" by a huge distiller tank shipped through Edmonton to McMurray recently.

When the tank was checked out of Caspar, Wyoming, for Edmonton, official weight appeared on the freight bills as 47,000 pounds. But when railroad checkers rolled the flat car carrying the big cylinder on scales here for a routine check, the "needle" clocked off 47,900. So the oil company in McMurray, Alta., was billed for the additional poundage.

"Well, that's what she weighed in the yards here," was the railways come-back when company officials questioned the extra weight.

And how were they to know that seven "gentlemen of the ratle" had chosen to ensconce themselves in great steel trailer for a 600-mile journey or that they were inside comfortably munching sandwiches when the tank rolled on the scales.

The mystery was solved when the oil company superintendent inspected the tank. Out walked seven grimy passengers, who opened the conversation with a nonchalant "how about a job at the plant?"

They were hired.

Suggested Sword Be Changed To Bugle

In the little town of Santa Claus, Ind., there is quite a controversy raging over the painting of the merry old fellow himself. Artist Emil Strauss first painted Santa with a sword in his hand, as shown ABOVE. An art group who rejected the painting, suggested the sword be changed to a bugle, as shown at LEFT.

Tiny Town That Bears Name Of Santa Claus Argues Over Picture Of "Old Nick"

When Artist Portrays Chris As a Soldier There Is Trouble

SANTA CLAUS, Ind., Dec. 2. — That crafty old reindeer driver whom scientists and mythologists are trying to discredit as "the big, bad Christmas fib" that shouldn't be told to children any longer is even on probation in the lile town that bears his magic name.

Tourist promoters and art judges who are transforming this back country settlement into a child's fanciful dream of the Christmas Kris Kringle's North Pole abode cannot agree on a "just right portrait" of the true Santa Claus. He seems to mean different things to different people.

A painting represented as the Yuletide saint which its artist, Emil Strauss of Chicago calls "a genealogically correct conception of the historical St. Nicholas that blends the Christmas legends of all nations through 16 centuries of worship and changing conception of him" has been placed on exhibition in the candy castle, unframed, signifying its probationary tenure.

Different Conception.

Instead of 'the right merry old elf" of genial amplitude which Dr. Clement C. Moore's famed poem, "A Visit from St. Nicholas" inspires in the minds of millions of children, Strauss has pictured Santa Claus as a lordly, white-bearded aristocrat in red clork and doublet with an armorial sash of authority across his prideful bosom. Booted for advnture, his rioutous laughter smacks more of revelry and wassail than of "Heigh, ho! my merry children."

Not only the 67 residents of Santa Claus and the 300 or more farmers of the countryside who make the jolly old gentleman's fame their year-round concern denounce the Falstaffian figure, but the canvas has also drawn indignant criticism and ridicule from hundreds of visiting tourists.

"The old Philistine! Who is he, really?" asked the elderly postmistress of Fort Wayne, Ind., of the assemblage in the rotunda of the make-believe tower. She was but one of the several hundred affronted postmasters and postal employees to view the painting with more or less perplexity when they held their state picnic at Santa Claus recently.

With more awe than worshipful vlee children remark about the toy trumpet in Santa Claus' hand.

What! A Soldier?

"With which he proclaims Christmas," apologizes Milton Harris, the promoter of Santa Claus' fairy tale town. But little ones who are used to seeing a picture of Santa Claus with the bundle of toys over his shoulder do not care to see him as a soldier with a sword in his hand! Valiant is the cause of the oppressed, the first St. Nicholas carried a deadly weapon.

When the painting was rejected by Dorothy Somes Harris, art judge for the group sponsoring the transformation of Santa Claus town, she explained, "Mr. Strauss painted out the sword and substituted a toy trumpet, leaving us ithout the just right Santa Claus which we had hoped for from his description of an 'historic, genealogically correct St. Nicholas'." Mrs. Harris says she desired a likeness of "Santa Claus as the sovereign of a mythical wonderland whose merry twinkle sugested his ability as a chimney tumbler and the filler-up of children's sockings."

Lived in 300 A.D.

In defence of his painting, Artist Strauss contends: "The legendary hero of Christmas comes to us from a celebrated figure in religious history, the Bishop of Myra back inquire, "Is Santa Claus a soldier?"

So the incredible story of the painting of the likenes of Santa Claus got out, and the good people of the village are aghast, with Pastor Andrew W. Jarboe of the local Methodist Episcopal church and camp ground giving it the fitting name of "the Cavalier Santa Claus."

Strauss first painted the figure known as St. Nicholas who lived in Asia Minor, 300 A.D. Besides being a saint of the early Christian church, he was a soldier, and a defender of the weak. After his death, legend made him the patron saint of children because of his great generosity to boys and girls during his lifetime. Also, he became worshipped by all unmarried girls, for when living he found them wealthy husbands.

"Titian the master painted St. Nicholas as the holy saint and his canvas in the Church of San Sebastiano, Venice, portrays the facial characteristics in eyes and beard which I have imitated, except that in his forehead, cheeks and the shape of his mouth I have blended several national legends into his more jolly features. I have done this in somewhat the same manner that the Santa Claus name came into existence.

Genesis of Name.

"Saint Nicholas became to the Latin Church, Sanctus Nicholas, then was Germanized into San Nic-klaas, which the Dutch remoulded into Saint Klaas and English-speaking people misspelled as Santa Claus. Their degree of worship through habits and customs and the saint's growing amplitude and jollity are the changing features interwoven into my paintings which is cavallerish in one aspect, for he was and still is to some nations. I tried to paint Santa Claus of the world, and I feel he is 'De Zeitgeits Santa Claus' meaning 'the spirit of all ages.'

"The ancestral Santa Claus was an aristocrat and carried a sword. My research revealed that once, at a conference of the Holy Brothers he buffed a fellow bishop on the jaw when that dignitary indulged in an untruth about a young lady.

It is now the plan of Mrs. Harris who is carrying ahead the changing of farms and ideas into storybook structures here, to secure the opinion of a commission of experts, selected by national manufacturers who cater to children, their needs and dreams. Their judgment will pass upon the already reproved portrait.

More Exhibitions.

"If they turn it down, we will have an annual exhibition of the accumulating Santa Claus likenesses until we get a just right portrait," Mrs. Harris and her husband insist.

"As the presiding idol of the only town in the world named in his honor, Santa Claus should meet with the approval of every believer in his existence as the saint of childhood, however difficult it may be for an artist to capture both history and legend," the Harrises state.

Pastor Jarboe inclines toward the Santa Claus of imagination, saying: "If parents didn't have a Santa Claus, it would be necessary to invent one." Then, he adds: "Like the three wise men who brought gifts to the Christ child, Santa Claus is childhood's beloved minister."

FINDS ANCIENT COIN

CHERRY VALLEY, P.E.I., Dec. 2 —(CP)—Almo Praught, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Praught found what may prove to be one of the oldest coins ever discovered on Prince Edward Island.

The youngster, while driving the cattle across a sod field which his father had ploughed picked up a coin which he took to his dad. After scraping some of the foreign matter off, figures were found which resembled 1292. On the other side enough of the lettering was legible to give the impression the coin was French.

Mr. Praught is taking steps to find out more about the coin and believes it may prove a valuable discovery.

Trio Arrives In New York After 22,000 Mile Car Drive From South America

A BATTERED old car put-putted through the Holland Tunnell into New York and drove to a hotel. Two men and a woman climbed stiffly out. It was the end of a 22,000-mile auto jaunt from Buenos Aires.

Miguel Divo started out in the ancient car on a dare 22 months ago. He told a stirring tale of his adventures. A conjuror by trade, Divo found his magic came in useful when dealing with doubtful Indians in Central America.

Two companions died on the way, Divo said. Two others were left behind in hospitals. In Nicaragua he was joined by his wife and Francisco Delcasty, Argentine newspaperman. They managed to finish the course.

The Andes cost the expedition its first casualty. Altitudes of 13,000 feet got Pedro Ficheras and he took to a sanitarium in Santiago, Chile. Heading north to Peru, Divo picked up Bernardo Rodriguez. Trouble came next in the Tacoma Desert when the car buisted its radiator on a rock and lost its water. For six days they crawled on, out of food and water. Rodriguez died of thirst, Divo said, but Divo was saved by a chance meeting with a caravan.

In Lima, Antonio Vega and Jose Morales climbed in. Northward to Equador they drove over roadless stretches of sand. For 600 miles in Colombia they had to hack a path with machetes. In Panama, Vega died of intermittent fever.

Costa Rica took a crack at the expedition when a raft sank in the Colorado River and the car drifted 4½ miles downstream, remaining under water for 15 days. Morales fell ill in Nicaragua and retired to hospital.

After picking up Mme. Divo and Delcasty Divo drove through Honduras and Mexico, much of the time across open country and completed the journey by Texas and the Atlantic seaboard.

FOOD WAS GIVEN TO 300 FAMILIES

(Examiner Correspondence.)

KEENE, Dec. 2. — In a bag of potatoes sent out in one of the cars from Peterborough shipped to the Saskatchewan drough area, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Kylie of Keene put a note and they have received the following reply:

Wishart, Saskatchewan,
November 20, 1937.

Dear Mr. Kylie:

This is an answer to your note enclosed with supplies sent in the Western relief car that was distributed here on November 8. Everything arrived in splendid condition.

The committee unloaded part of the car into the Town Hall, and it was distributed by the Round Plain Homemakers' Club to some three hundred families.

In this part of Saskatchewan it is the first complete failure the farmers have had. Further south and west of here they have had no crops for nine years. I guess they are pretty desperate there, as I don't see how a person can keep going so long without crops or gardens.

We are hoping this is the last failure here, as all the farmers have had to reduce stock on account of feed shortage.

There was more rain in the eastern section of the province, so better prospects for next spring. There has been only a very light snow here yet, but expect we will get a real snowstorm soon.

Thanking you for your kind wishes,—I remain,

Mrs. Randle McRae.

(2) OUTSIDE—Pasmore's 2-Purpose Chest-Rub loosens "tightness", draws out the soreness, helps break up congestion. It acts like a poultice on the chest—the vapors, inhaled during sleep, continue the healing action.

Player Trade Plans Held Up As Disposal Of Van Mungo Remains The Big Problem

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 2 (AP)—One of baseball's most famous "bad boys," the temperamental Van Lingle Mungo of Brooklyn Dodgers, bobbed up Wednesday as the "monkey wrench" which held to a standstill the major league's buying and selling machinery.

As the minor leagues formally opened their convention, the name of Mungo, one of the greatest fast ball pitchers in the National League, suddenly highlighted a reported Dodgers-New York Giants deal expected to touch off a burst of major league trading activity.

The Giants, according to rumor, are willing to give Al Schumacher, pitcher, Gus Mancuso, catcher, and either Johnny McCarthy, first baseman, or Hank Leiber, outfielder, for Mungo and one other player, brilliant young Buddy Hassett, Dodger first sacker.

The Dodgers, with Mungo and Hassett their best pieces of trading "ivory"-also are reported to be asking a chunk of cash—the amount of which is holding up the transaction. Also after Mungo are Chicago Cubs and the tip was out that owner P. K. Wrigley was ready to loosen up the purse strings to get the big right-handed hurler, who squabbled constantly with Manager Burleigh Grimes last season.

It was learned a Chicago Cubs-Pittsburgh deal involving Shortstop Arky Vaughan had fallen through. The Pirates demanded either Bill Herman ace second sacker or Frank Demaree, who virtually constituted the entire Cub outfield. Manager Charlie Grimm turned down the proposition.

Manager Jimmy Dykes of Chicago White Sox went into a huddle during the day with Pilot Mickey Cochrane of Detroit, with Detroit reported on the verge of buying Merritt (Sugar) Cain, Sox catcher. The White Sox, according to Manager Dykes, still are after Harland Clift, St. Louis Browns' infielder. The Dykesmen and Washington Senators also were dickering with the possibility Buddy Myer, Senator infielder, might go to the Sox.

Nick Orlando Is Awarded The Decision

Nick Orlando, local lightweight, and the colored Toronto flash, Bev. Carter, square off in the main bout of the Riverview A.C. boxing show here last night. Orlando was awarded a questionable decision on points. Harry Hance is the referee.

LIONEL CONACHER GETS POSITION ATHLETIC BOARD

TORONTO, Dec. 2.—Lionel Conacher, for twenty years a competitor in sport, now becomes one of its administrators. The appointment of Big Train II to the Vice-Chairmanship of the Ontario Athletic Commission was made Wednesday evening.

Conacher will take to the Commission first-hand knowledge gained from almost every line of athletic endeavor, and can be depended upon to offer some constructive ideas for the development of the younger athletes. That, and the supervision of professional sport, were the two duties to carry out which the Commission originally was formed. In view of his professional career, "Con" also will be valuable in the supervision department among the salaried athletes.

While Conacher's appointment is the only Commission change announced officially, it is understood that other shifts in the personnel of the O.A.C. will follow. The name of Toad Farr, former Weston lacrosse star, is one which may be on the Commission letterheads when new ones are printed.

Dr. Percy Moore of Hamilton has been Vice-Chairman for some time but it was not stated whether he would, in relinquishing the position, remain as a Commissioner.

Since his election to the Provincial Legislature Conacher has studied Commission problems, and he is ready to advocate a number of changes. He thinks that the Commission can be interlocking with the youth movement, of which he is a leading sponsor. He also believes that the Commission camp at Lake Couchiching, at which a splendid work with track and field athletes has been done, can be put to more extensive use.

TENNIS STARTS EARLY

LONDON—(CP).—In an effort to repover the David and Wightman Cups—both held by the United States—England's players will start training for team selection early in the new year.

LACROSSE TEAMS GIVEN WARNING

TORONTO, Dec. 2 — Believing that enough is enough and a little more is just a bit thick, as they say at Rutgers, the Canadian Lacrosse Association has taken steps to protect its rightful property—players who perform under its banner.

This is the jest and gist of Gene Dopp's telephone communication on Wednesday night. Speaking for the O.L.A., Mr. Dopp revealed that get-rich-quick Wallingford promoters from across the line have again invaded Canada with the written word and the promise verbal of a promised land in California for all first-rate lacrosse players, and the O.L.A. is on arms to police what they hold in their private property.

Why Not Travel.

Consequently any players who journey from our fair land to sunshiny California to play lacrosse this winter are liable to two years' automatic suspension from lacrosse in Canada. Mr. Dopp pointed out that too many times previously United States promoters have enticed the cream of our Canadian lacrosse crop across the border, and after using them, cast them off as the proverbial old shoe, and left them to return home as best they can. This unduly cricket and the O.L.A. is determined to stamp out the practice. Another thing, too, players that take part in th sport here for six months and a like time in the States are not doing themselves or the game any good by year-round participation.

The amount of money the C.L.A. has expended in lacrosse's advancement here is something that can't be disregarded and our lacrosse fathers are not interested in extending cash along these lines for some promoter across the line to capitalize on.

Orillia players, in particular, have been in receipt of offers from California, while other individuals have had bids, too. That's why the O.L.A. acted. Beating the boys to the punch, as they'd have it along rue de cauliflower.

At Home On Horses Than In Automobile

BRANTFORD, Ont., Dec 2 (CP).—Bobbie Fair, pint-sized jockey and adopted son of Jim Fair, Brantford race-horse owner, doesn't need company while piloting thoroughbreds at race meets—but driving an automobile is another matter.

Bobbie paid a $10 fine and $2.75 costs Wednesday after pleading guilty to a charge of operating a motor vehicle without having obtained a permit. He had a beginner's permit, but drove a car without being accompanied by a full-fledged driver.

"That amount will buy oats or gasoline," A. H. Boddy, K.C., defence counsel, said as the jockey paid the fine. "He is one of the best known jockeys in Canada, and while he got into trouble driving an automobile, he is more at home on horses."

WAR NURSE DIES

OTTAWA, Dec. 2 (CP).—Mrs. Braywick Wyndham, nursing sister with the Canadian forces during the Great War, is dead in London, England, according to word received here last night. She was 46 and a native of Quebec City.

Formerly Kathleen Lambkin, she was decorated with the Royal Red Cross by King George for her war services.

Hunter is Drowned As Wife Watches

NORTH BAY, Ont., Dec. 2 (CP).—The drowning of a man named Matallic in the west arm of Lake Nipissing was confirmed today by Provincial Police Constable R. Eddington of Warren.

After investigating reports of the tragedy, the constable said the man slipped from the rocky shore of a small island in the arm Sunday afternoon while trying to retrieve his boat which had broken loose and was drifting away.

The man's wife, who had accompanied him on a duck hunting expedition, was forced to remain on the island two nights before help arrived to take her to the mainland.

The woman had recovered from hunger and exposure when the constable visited her.

Matallic's body was recovered on Tuesday.

Do You Suffer From Headaches?

Headache is a source of great suffering and often leads to serious derangements of health.

Headache is nearly always symptomatic of some diseased condition, rather than a disease itself, but in most cases comes from a disordered stomach, or poor circulation of the blood, and the cause must be removed before relief can be had.

Burdock Blood Bitters helps remove the cause of headache by acting on different organs of the body to regulate, strengthen and purify the system.

MRS. ARTHUR J. WILLIAMS, Lac Ste. Anne, Alta., writes:—"I suffered for years with dizzy headaches, and sometimes they were so bad I could not get any sleep.

My neighbour told me about Burdock Blood Bitters, and after taking several bottles my headaches had disappeared.

My husband was troubled with pimples on his face, causing him great discomfort when shaving, but after he had taken two bottles of B.B.B. he got rid of the pimples."

OKLAHOMA STEER BEST AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Dec. 1 (AP).—Agriculture's ruling family was almost complete today as International Livestock Exposition enthusiasts turned their attention to the sales which highlight the later half of the eight-day show.

The major excitement will be reserved for Saturday's auction of the grand champion steer, Ashbourne Orange, a roan Shorthorn from the Oklahoma A. and M. College Farm, which ascended the throne of beef-dom yesterday.

Meanwhile interest centred about the disposed of breeding animals, auctions of the grand champion carlots of beef, lamb and pork animals, the junior feeding contest champion steer, and what remains of the judging of breeding animals.

Ashbourne Orange's victory gave the Oklahoma school its second straight presentation of the premier beef at the international.

TAX PREPAYMENT PLAN TOO SUCCESSFUL

Special Committee Of Council Recommends Discontinuance Would Reduce Tax Penalties

Treasury Received More Money Than Was Needed During First Of Year

Discontinuance of the tax prepayment certificates that were in effect this year will be recommended to the city council by its special sub-committee which last night decided to advise the council to reduce the penalties on arrears of 1938 taxes.

Alderman Hamilton presided with Mayor Macdonald, Alderman McIntyre and Dutton and City Treasurer M. E. Shaver present.

The proposed graded penalties on unpaid taxes next year were: 3 per cent on the first instalment, due July 9, if the taxes are not paid on that date; 2 per cent on the second instalment of taxes, if not paid on the due date, September 9; and 1 per cent on the third instalment if not paid on the due date, November 9.

And there is this supplementary exception: the penalty will be only one per cent on any instalment of taxes if they are paid within the calendar month in which the instalment is due.

"That's meeting the taxpayers half way," Alderman McIntyre commented at the close of a long discussion in which the prepayment plan was considered unsatisfactory as a means of assisting property owners who have difficulty in paying their taxes. A discount plan was also discarded as failing to meet the desired purpose of helping the smaller taxpayer. Extending the instalments from three to four encountered probable clerical obstacles, and finally Mayor Macdonald urged that an effort be made to cut down the penalties.

The motion to abandon the tax prepayment certificate system was made by Alderman McIntyre and seconded by Alderman Dutton; and the motion to reduce the penalties on arrears was moved by Mayor Macdonald and seconded by Alderman McIntyre.

Flaw In Prepayment

Objection to the tax prepayment certificates was that this plan was too successful. The city treasury received more money than was needed during the usually lean months until the taxes began to flow in with the first instalment in July. It was Mayor Macdonald who remarked the plan was entirely too fruitful. Sale of the prepayment certificates totalled $194,000 and the bank overdraft at the beginning of this year was around $80,000 leaving $100,000 to the city's credit in the bank, earning 1¼ per cent and, at that, not keenly wanted as a deposit, while the purchasers of the certificates benefited to the extent of about 4 per cent.

The plan accomplished one thing the council had sought. It brought in abundant money at the beginning of the year, but, as conditions turned out, the need of excess funds was not so sharp as three or four years ago at the peak of the depression. And in the final analysis the certificates were largely bought by financial and industrial companies who had the money to take advantage of them, with virtually no aid to the taxpayer of small means who usually has to tighten his belt to raise enough money to pay his tax bills.

Interest Account Less

Mr. Shaver informed the committee that the city's interest bill totalled $8,514 up to the present this year. Of that amount $4,898 went to the buyers of prepayment certificates, and bank interest was $4,898. In 1936 the city paid $11,000 in bank interest, so in that account there has been a fairly substantial saving.

"Let's cut out the prepayment plan," Ald. McIntyre said when the net results of that experiment were scanned in actual figures.

It was also pointed out that the property owner whose taxes fall into arrears pays not only the penalty but he also paid his proportion of any system of discount that was afforded to those who had ample cash on hand.

A proposed discount of 3 per cent would add $34,000 to the new year's budget, because it actually represented an amount of taxes that would not be collected. The ratepayer got the benefit to that extent by taking advantage of the discount he was offered for either prompt payment or prepayment. And as it is likely that the new year's budget will include $10,000 or thereabouts for uncollected taxes due in 1936, the total setback would be $24,000, or one mill and a half on the tax rate. So that suggestion

Crowe of Davenport, Iowa, in Sacramento, Cal., while on a trip to the western and southern states for the winter. He was born in Ashburnham (East City) July 15, 1873. His last of many visits to his brother in Peterborough was in May of this year. Joseph Crowe of Brock Street is the eldest and the only one surviving of the seven sons of the late Charles Crowe, Sr., and his wife, Margaret Jane Hall. The funeral of Charles H. Crowe will take place in Davenport, Iowa, on Monday.

BARBERS COME UNDER NEW CODE ON DECEMBER 7

Gazetted in the Ontario official publication which arrived in Peterborough yesterday, the Industry and Labor Board's schedule governing prices and conditions in the local barbering industry will go into effect December 7. Prices for men's haircuts will be boosted from 25 and 35 cents to a uniform 40 cents throughout Peterborough and within a mile radius of the city.

Other prices on the schedule of the code to which the local industry agreed when Mediator Louis Fine visited the city early in the Fall are: Children's haircut, 25 cents; shave, 20 cents; singe, 20 cents; tonics, 15 cents; shampoos, 35 cents; massage, 35 cents; ladies neck trim, 15 cents; razor honing 35 cents. These prices will be the legal minimums after December 7.

The action of the provincial government was the result of a petition from Peterborough barbers and a later enquiry here by the Industrial Standards Officer. The schedule of wages and hours applies to the barbering industry in its following operations: haircutting, shaving, singeing, shampoos, application of hair tonics and scalp treatments, massaging of the face, honing and sharpening razors, and all other work usually done by barbers.

Observance of Holidays

Barbering may be performed on any day in the week except Sunday and the following holidays: New Year's Day, Good Friday, Victoria Day, Dominion Day, Civic Holiday, Labour Day, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas Day, and every Wednesday after 12.30 p.m. except the Wednesday in a week in which one of the holidays occurs. Working periods are from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. on all days except Saturday or on any day before a public holiday when the hours will be from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Employees are classed in three categories: (a) those who work full time on straight salary basis; (b) those who work full time on a percentage or commission basis or who is paid a salary plus commission; (c) those who work part time on salary or commission or on salary and commission.

Salary Schedules

Employees in class A, straight salary shall receive $35 a week; Class B, salary and commission, $15 a week plus 25 per cent of the proceeds in excess of $22 from the work performed by the employee, plus an additional 10 per cent of such proceeds in excess of $30.

Wages of casual barbers in class C are based on the period of employment. For nights and Saturdays, four hours a day from Monday to Friday, and all day or less on Saturday, $10 a week plus 50 per cent of the proceeds in excess of $15 from the work of the employee.

Those who work only on Saturdays or the day preceding a holiday, and on the previous evening only, $7 a week, plus 50 per cent of proceeds in excess of $10. Those who work only on Saturdays or the day before a holiday $5 a day or part thereof, plus 50 per cent of the proceeds in excess of $7. Persons working on days other than Saturday or the day preceding a holiday, $2.50 a day plus 50 per cent of the proceeds in excess of $4 from the work of that employee.

The following have been named by the Industry and Labor Board as the local advisory committee to govern conditions here: Roy Bacon, Harry Gainey, Harold Freeman, Roy Sedgwick and J. F. Robertson.

was emphatically ruled out of further consideration.

Penalties Too High

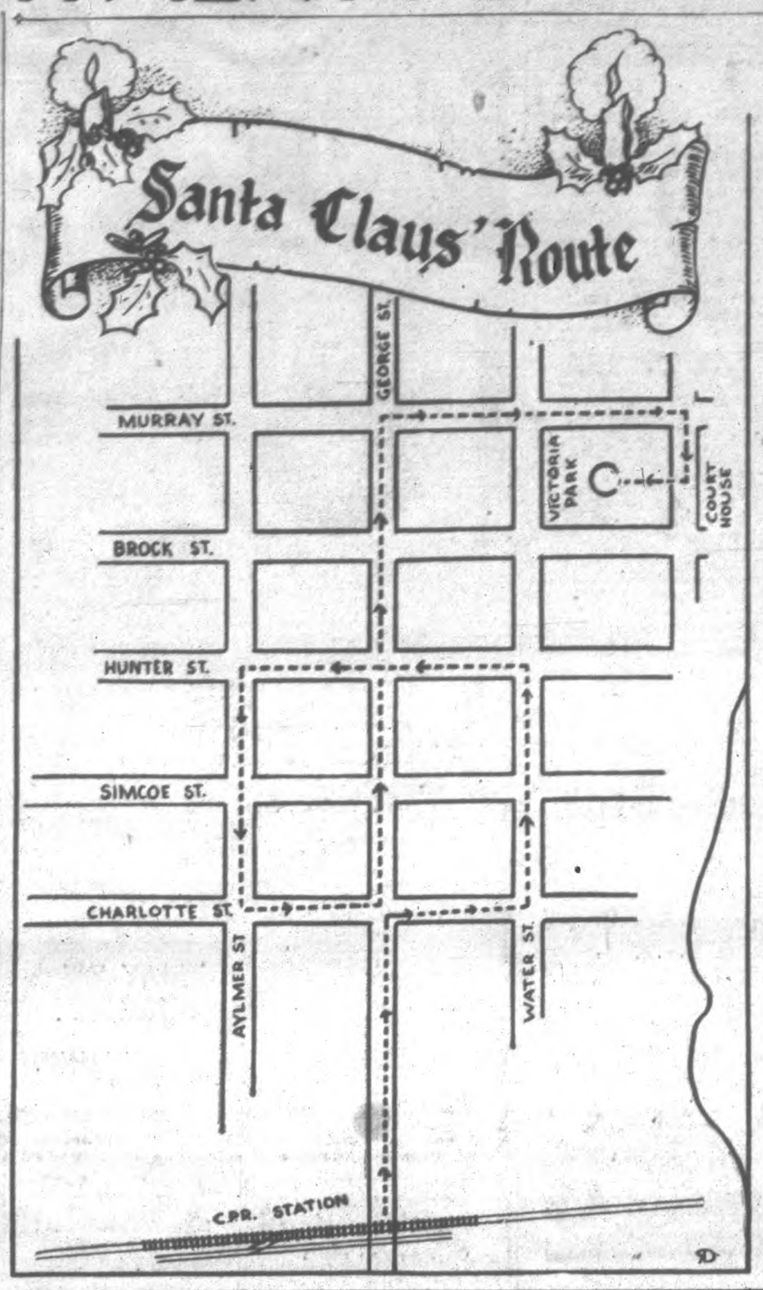
"The only way you can help the poor man," said Mayor Macdonald, "is to wipe out the penalties for tax arrears, and you can't do that."

Sentiment of preceding council that had carefully canvassed the possibility of eliminating penalties concluded that too many ratepayers would not pay their taxes on the due dates. Their attitude would be to square their account with the city when they felt like it, or something easy and convenient to that effect.

So the committee went at the Mayor's plan of cutting down penalties. Not so long ago a Peterborough taxpayer who failed to pay on the line on the fixed date immediately incurred a penalty of five per cent. That was reduced to four, and for a year or two it has been down to three per cent.

In spite of the easing of the penalty, approximately 90 per cent of the taxes on this year's roll have been collected, Mr. Shayer said. Hence, any concession that could be devised to facilitate the paying of taxes when they became due really would be intended for the remaining ten per cent of the property owners. To remove the excessive feature of immediate application of a penalty, for instance in the case of a man who forgot the due date, or another man who could make up his tax instalment within a week or two after it was due, the highest penalty of three per cent on the July instalment becomes only one per cent if the money due the city is paid into the treasury during that month. And so one with the September and November instalments. On the last instalment, however, the penalty is only one per cent to the end of the year when the statutory penalty of ½ of 1 per cent is substituted.

The new scale of penalties, Mr. Shaver said, averages 2 per cent over the year as compared with 3 per cent at present.



Santa Claus Parade Will Start From Canadian Pacific Depot

Peterborough's gala Santa Claus parade Friday evening will start from the C.P.R. station about 6.10 o'clock on the arrival of the North Pole Special. The route lies up George Street with Victoria Park as the destination and the scene of the official reception to the rubicund visitor from Toyland.

Leading the parade as outriders will be four traffic officers on motorcycles. Following them will be Fire Chief George Gimblett in his automobile and a detachment of his local Nurembergers, the spare time toymakers of the Department, riding on a fire truck.

The parade will then string out as follows:—

Group of clowns.
Reception committee — Mayor Macdonald, W. J. Geraghty, Alex L. Elliott, M.L.A., Fred J. Overend.
Clowns and Fairies.
Business Men's Float.
Boy Scouts.
Float with Lions' Boys' Band.
Peterborough Ski Club in costume.
Peterborough Examiner Float with Newsboys' Harmonica Band.
More Clowns and Sprites.
Peterborough Rangers' Band.

Y.W.C.A. Float.
The new 1938 automobile models.

As indicated above, the parade will proceed north on George to Charlotte; east to Water; north to Hunter; west to Aylmer; south to Charlotte; east to George; north to Murray, and then east to Victoria Park.

St. John's Choir will sing Christmas carols at Victoria Park. Santa Claus will be greeted by Mayor Macdonald on the band stand, and a loud speaker will convey the brief speeches and music to all corners of the park.

JAMES DORAN IS BURIED IN LINDSAY

Prominent Ontario officials of the Canadian National Railways attended as the late James Doran, popular C.N.R. uptown agent, was borne to his grave Wednesday. Rev. Father Killen of Cobourg, brother-in-law of Mr. Doran, celebrated requiem mass at St. Peter's Cathedral interment was made in St. Mary's Cemetery, Lindsay.

Present in the sanctuary were Rev. Father Wolff of Cobourg, Rev. Earl Grant and Rev. P. J. Kelly. A gathering of friends awaited the arrival in the cemetery at Lindsay, Mr. Doran's early home. Graveside services were conducted by Rev. Father Killen, assisted by Rev. J. V. Gillogly of Ennismore and Rev. C. McCarney of Lindsay. Rev. Monsignor McColl was also present at the interment.

Pall-bearer were John Sullivan, H. T. Hickey, James Skinner, Fred Overend, H. J. McCannon and Cecil Wolff. Among those representing the C.N.R. were H. F. Tilley, district passenger agent; Harvey Scott, travelling passenger agent, and H. C. Bourlier, general passenger agent, all of Toronto; and Ed. Ryan of Windsor, formerly ticket clerk here.

CLUB SECRETARY EXPLAINS MIXUP RUGBY PLAYOFFS

The following statement for the press, explaining the present misunderstanding in rugby playoff games concerning Peterborough, has been issued by the secretary of the Orfuns' Rugby Club:

"In communication with the Dundas club on Sunday, the local executive agreed to play the first game here on Saturday, December 4th. This arrangement was confirmed by the O.R.F.U. secretary, R. H. Bailey, in a letter to both clubs, received Tuesday morning.

"In the meantime, H. Bamforth, coach of the Collegiate team, was endeavoring to secure information as to whom his team would play and where. The notice to play Runnymede Collegiate of Toronto was received on Tuesday morning, leaving final arrangements with both coaches as to where and when games would be played.

"In conversation with Mr. Bamforth, we agreed to change our game to Dundas on December 4th, thus allowing the Collegiate team to play a sudden-death game here that date. Dundas agreed to such a change at 6.30 Tuesday evening, provided they were properly notified by R. H. Bailey of the O.R.F.U. early Wednesday morning. Mr. Bamforth telephoned Mr. Bailey at 11 Tuesday evening and received his sanction for the change. At the same hour Mr. Bailey promised Coach Bill Turnbull of the Orfuns that he would notify Dundas early Wednesday morning of the change. Such notice evidently was not given the Dundas executive, and the latter completed arrangements for a special train to come here this Saturday."

Campbellford Girl Prize Winner

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 1—Miss June I. Bartlery of Form III, Campbellford, High School won the bread baking contest, sponsored by the Robin Hood Flour Mills of Montreal, P.Q. This contest, open to all girls between the ages of 11 and 13 was held on November 15th under the supervision of the Domestic Science Teacher, Miss K. O'Shaughnessy, B.A. Mrs. C. Macon acted as judge. The medal is to be presented at the annual commencement exercises on Thursday evening.

MOTORCYCLE CLUB TO ADMIT WOMEN INTO MEMBERSHIP

Another field of sport was thrown open to women officially here Wednesday night when the Kawartha Motorcycle Club amended its constitution to allow the gentle sex into its membership, at their annual meeting in the Chamber of Commerce. Girls, either riders or non-riders, will be welcomed to the club rolls if they are actively interested in motorcycling, President Sam Carew said.

Four girls became interested in the cycling sport this year through their boy-friend members of the club. Of the four, three have now learned to handle the machines themselves and one owns her own machine, he said.

Sam Carew was re-elected president for the coming year as the annual business of the club was conducted. Other officers named were: Gordon Collmer, vice-president; Jack Skitch, secretary; Harold Choate, treasurer; and Horace Guppy and Bruce Elliott, directors. Presentation of the club's financial statement by retiring treasurer Clifford O'Brien revealed the club to be in a fair position with a $200 surplus.

It was announced that the championship meet of the Auto Cycle Union would likely be held in this city again on August 1. The A.C.U. has reserved the meet for Peterborough, Sam Carew said. Held under the sponsorship of the Lion's Club, the meet here this year was a big success.

Harry Vass and Wellington Wood handled the meeting while election of officers was taking place.

Charge Withdrawn In Wright Case

Recently sentenced to a term of 2-months imprisonment after being found guilty of a criminal negligence charge, Brock Wright, of Howden avenue, North Monaghan Township failed to answer to a further charge of drunk-driving this morning.

After hearing an explanation for the non-appearance of the accused from his counsel T. J. Carley, K.C., the Crown withdrew the second charge.

Mr. Carley declared his client had been taken out of gaol by virtue of Departmental instructions and had been removed to a sanitarium at Brantford.

When Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., intimated he would endorse the record "Crown not proceeding," Mr. Carley objected. He argued that the charge had either to be adjourned, withdrawn or dismissed otherwise the accused might be kept in gaol until the Crown saw fit to proceed with the charge.

After some discussion Mr. McElderry agreed to a withdrawal of the charge and His Worship endorsed the record accordingly, agreeing that such a course was the only one under the circumstances outlined by defence counsel.

Charges against Wright arose as the result of an accident at Lakefield on the evening of October 20 last in which William Brown of Young's Point was injured while changing a tire at the roadside.

FOUR CHIMNEY FIRES

Another false alarm to add to a long series this Fall was recorded at the Fire Department at midnight last night. The call was rung in from box No. 14 and brought the Department to the corner of Westcott and Aylmer street on a futile run. It is reported police were given a clue on which to work.

Four chimney fires were attended overnight. They were at the homes of J. Wiley, 502 Stewart street; Harry Castle, 573 Romaine street; D. Wright, 283 King street; and Mrs. Clayton, 246 Antrim street.

A few dollars damage was caused by a small fire which broke out in a greenhouse owned by Sam Gentile, 469 Parnell street, yesterday.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

By an Examiner Reporter.

BANK CLEARINGS.

Total clearings passing through the Peterborough house during the past week totalled $694,265, while for the same period one year ago the amount was $649,251.

$28 CLOCK MAKERS.

A recent issue of "Tick Talk," shop organ of the Western Clock Company, declared that the number of employees in October was 220.

LAKE FROZEN OVER.

Chemong Lake is reported to-day as frozen over for the first time this winter and the approaches to the bridge, and the dangerous condition of which was mentioned in this column yesterday, in even worse shape as the result of being coated with ice.

WHO WAS IT?

It would be interesting to learn the identity of the motorist who drove north on Water street at 6.55 o'clock Wednesday night, moving at a lively rate and swung west into McDonnel street without giving any signal, and cutting the corner at the same time so that a man and boy who were on the crossing had to jump to avoid being knocked down.

IT'S GETTING CLOSER.

Another sign that winter weather cannot be so far away was the fact that the bay at the Goose Pond was discovered imprisoned with a sheet of ice this morning. Small boys are warned, however, that skating at this point will not be safe for some time.

TO TAKE A BOW.

The Collegiate Institute rugby team, C.O.S.S.A. champions, will be introduced from the stage of the Capitol Theatre Friday night. Sponsors of the idea simply wish to stimulate local interest in rugby by enhancing the personal touch. The Collegiate team plays Runnymede Collegiate here Saturday for the provincial championship in the secondary school class.

ICE ON LITTLE LAKE.

Wide fringes of thin ice covered with a light sprinkle of snow traced Wednesday night's advance of winter toward the stream channel in Little Lake.

COMPARATIVE INACTIVITY.

Building permits for November last totalled $4,133, and marked a decrease over the corresponding period of 1936 of $27,646. For the first eleven-month period of the present year the permits aggregated $198,751, a figure which also showed a decrease over a similar period last year of $66,826.75.

ALL READY FOR SANTA.

The Utilities Commission has completed the job of putting up Christmas lights on the downtown streets of the city and on Hunter street in East City. The lights will be tied into their circuits to-morrow and turned on as dusk falls for the Santa Claus parade. It is expected the intersection clusters along George street and at the corner of Water and Hunter streets will be particularly effective.

PUTTING IN NEW POLE.

Work of Hydro linemen which necessitated a power interruption of several hours to rural hydro users east of Peterborough this week has been completed. The men were carrying out a change over on some poles along No. 7 highway.

VIEW C.N.R. COACH.

CHRISTMAS TREES ARRIVE.

Stores throughout the city are already beginning to stock Christmas trees for sale through the next four weeks. A number of loads of the trees have been noticed on their way from northern Peterborough County through the city toward Toronto and the larger centres.

OBIT

WAS WINNER AT ROYAL.

"Sunray," a mare owned by Mrs. T. M. D. Kelly of Peterborough, took first prize in the Canadian harness class at the Royal Winter Fair. Mrs. Kelly's recent success at the Royal adds to her many other "wins" in the horse show ring at Peterborough and other exhibitions.

VITAL STATISTICS.

There were 54 births in the month just ended, an increase of 20 over the corresponding period of last year, vital statistics reveal. The number of marriages also showed a lesser increase, the total being 30 as compared with 28. The death rate remained on the same level with 41 for November last year and this year.

ORGANIZE GARAGEMEN.

Richard Riley, A.F. of L. organizer for the International Association of Machinists, said to-day he believed preliminary work had advanced sufficiently that a garage mechanics' local can be organized here at a meeting which has been called for Friday night. Temporary officers will be elected at the meeting and an application for a charter, signed by a representative group of members, will be sent to the union headquaters at Washington, D.C., he said. The third meeting of garage mechanics and apprentices, it will be held in the Labor Hall.

TO ATTEND SEED FAIR.

Peterborough County is to be represented at the annual meeting of the Quinte District Seed Fair in Belleville Monday afternoon. The group going from here will likely include Gordon Hancock of Smith, vice-president of the Fair; Howard Quinn of Douro, Ralph Drummond of Otonabee, Alex Huston of Otonabee and Willard Waterman of North Monaghan, directors; and Agricultural Representative A. D. Runions. The next fair is being held in Peterborough next March.

POSSIBLY TWO GAMES

No settlement had been made by the O.R.F.U. this afternoon regarding the mixup in rugby playoffs in Peterborough this Saturday. The senior school final between Runnymede Collegiate and P.C.I. is scheduled here Saturday, and the Dundas-Orfuns' intermediate final has also been ordered for here. At present, indications point to both games being played this week-end in Peterborough, though only one suitable field is available. President John DeCruchy of the O.R.F.U. is trying to arrange a satisfactory compromise.

TWO BREAK-INS DURING NIGHT ARE REPORTED

For the third time in a week the premises of The Scott Coal and Lumber Company have been entered by burglars.

On Thursday night of last week there was a break-in at the George Street office of the firm. Tuesday night when there was a series of five break-ins throughout the city the Dalhousie Street office was entered and a safe was removed and cracked open. Again last night the Dalhousie Street office was visited, but on each of the three occasions the crackamen drew a blank.

Last night burglars also entered the office of The Peterborough Fuel and Transfer Company, bringing the total number of break-ins under investigation by the police up to seven.

The entire series of burglaries netted only three dollars, it was estimated. This amount in small change was filched from a cash drawer at the Curtis Service Station on Charlotte Street during the Tuesday night epidemic.

Police are inclined to believe they are up against a gang of professional crackamen, and are at a loss to know how the burglars have managed to slip by the police patrols.

Following discovery of removal of the safe from the office of The Scott Coal and Lumber Company by Sergeant William Wigg while he was on his beat in the early hours of Wednesday morning, police patrol cars scoured all sections of the city, and at one of the service stations that was subsequently entered no less than four visits were made there by police within half an hour, it was learned on reliable authority.

Relic Of Pioneer Days In Chandos

Reputedly the only butternut tree in Chandos Township is not the only interesting feature of the tree pictured alongside. It is a relic of pioneering days and a monument to the hardihood of the early settlers. About 60 years ago John Faires walked all the way from Monaghan to his homestead, a distance of more than 50 miles, carrying on his shoulders a young butternut tree which he planted in his garden. Today, standing in a small clearance, it is the only evidence that a homestead once existed there, and one feels that from a historical standpoint it deserves to be preserved and protected. It is becoming weatherbeaten and some of its branches are decaying. The picture was taken late in September of this year.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Wanted To Be Screen Designer

By LILLIAN CAMPBELL

MOST LITTLE girls like to cut out and play with paper dolls. But when Helen Taylor was a little girl she liked to draw and paint paper dolls for other little girls to cut out and play with.

Helen Taylor is now under contract to a Hollywood producer to design and make costumes for screen lovelies. But she reached that "consummation devoutly to be wished" by a circuitous route.

Her youthful ambition was to be a dress designer, but when she interviewed Earl Carroll at the time he brought the first edition of his Vanities to Boston prior to the New York opening, this petite student of the Academy of Design found she had a job—as one of the glorified beauties of the show.

The next season Miss Taylor went on tour with another New York musical comedy, when it was tried out in Boston, but when she reached New York she left the cast and got a job with a prominent dressmaker.

Makes Romantic Marriage.

Next she met a young college graduate who persuaded her that she didn't really want a career, and once again she put aside her personal ambition, this time for a romantic marriage, which took her to Hollywood on her honeymoon. In Hollywood she has remained ever since.

Talking pictures and musical pictures brought out another of Miss Taylor's talents—singing—and a contract as a singer-actress was soon hers. For the next two years she appeared in pictures and on radio programs, her interest in designing strengthening until she determined to become a motion picture designer.

When Walter Wanger became an independent producer, Miss Taylor was given her opportunity. She loves to work with lace, and has at least one lace gown in practically every picture for which she designs.

WE SUGGEST - For Junior - AT CHRISTMAS

New automobiles and officer's uniform

By LILIAN CAMPBELL

When you go toy buying, better be careful and not get anything too frivolous for Junior, sister or the baby. Educators are telling us that even the baby's rattle has a definite educational effect on his young mind. So watch your step!

Junior and his playmate from next door may think that these toy autos and policeman's suit are only given them to play with. They stage a smashup just for fun, with the third boy in policeman's uniform taking the names, addresses and particulars, etc. But these boys, unknown to themselves, are learning the procedure in case of a real accident—and let us hope, learning, too, how to avoid them.

There are many different types of wheeled playthings this year—more than ever, and perfectly fascinating even to the adults who buy them.

The autos are streamlined, you see, and they range in size from the scooter-type for the we tot, to huge things just like the real article.

"Children of 1937 want toys that will help them imitate grownup activities in every possible way," says a leading toy manufacturer. "Because of autos, radio and movies, children have broader experience today. More than ever before they are sticklers for toys which reproduce the very newest adult designs. By increasing the purposefulness of playthings, their imaginative appeal and educational value has been greatly increased and, consequently, the market for toys has steadily broadened. This year many former 'luxury' toys have been produced for the first time in low price ranges."

Bell(e)s of The Black Watch

is to be stationed at Parkhurst on the Isle of Wight.

Thoughtful Princess

Princess Louise, Duchess of Argyll, 90-year-old daughter of Queen Victoria and one-time chatelaine of Rideau Hall, Ottawa, gave London a lesson in kindness when she presented the prizes and certificates at Charing Cross Medical School recently. She apologized to the students for not giving them a little speech she had prepared as she "was not up to saying it." However, she told them, that as some of their number were absent owing to illness, she would write each of the absentees a little note with the few words she had thought of for them.

Another elderly woman who has made London smile with admiration lately is Dame Ethel Smyth, 80-year-old music composer, pioneer and suffragette. Asked to write in an article for a metropolitan paper what she wanted from life, she headed her list with a "A good big table....because my major demand of life is some interminable job of work and how can one tackle such without a large steady table?" Also on Dame Smyth's list of requirements are "Freedom to choose my own company (and my own hats)" and "a dog, whom, when he dies, you must instantly replace no matter how reluctantly, with another dog."

When the modern girl chooses a husband she has no drastic list of requirements, according to Rt. Rev. A. B. L. Karney, Bishop of Southampton who started a controversy by saying: "When a modern young lady counts the cherry stones on her plate to see whom she is going to marry she does not go through the old formula of 'tinker, tailor, soldier, 'She says, 'highbrow, lowbrow, middlebrow, oaf.' She likes the idea of marrying an oaf, because she thinks she can do what she likes with him."

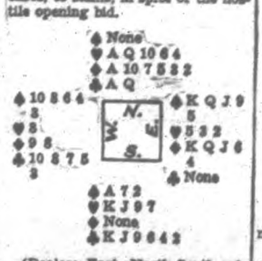
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

REPLY WITH A MAJOR

WHEN your partner doubles one major suit informatively, he usually hopes for a response from you in the other major and is prepared to support you if you have even a mere four little cards of it. Even a six-card minor suit should seldom be preferred in response to such a double unless the suit is quite strong and the hand in general has enough power to give your partner a jump. Such sound responding with the other major can lead not only to game contracts, but in rare cases, to slams, in spite of the hostile opening bid.



(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

Here East opened with 1-Spade, South passed, West bid 2-Spades and North doubled. South bid 3-Hearts, which North raised to 4-Hearts. Even though the opponents had opened the bidding, South tried 5-Hearts and North took the contract to 6-Hearts.

Against this contract, West led a club, which East ruffed, and he returned the diamond K. From then on South had no difficulty in fulfilling his contract.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

How should South play to make 4-Hearts, after three diamond tricks have been cashed and a spade led?

Women Satisfy Staid England In Keeping With Men's Work

LONDON, Dec. 2 (CP). — Celebrating her 102nd birthday, Mrs. Hannah Kettlewell of Newcastle-on-Tyne told London reporters "I would like to broadcast and tell the world just what I think of modern young women." And she shook her head.

Undeterred, however, modern women have been acquiring new occupations in London in an amazing way. They are branching out in municipal politics. In elections for 28 London boroughs, 552 women candidates were among the 2,700 nominated. Results showed 248 of the 552 elected.

Even the conservative Royal Philharmonic Society, oldest orchestral society in Britain, broke with tradition and invited a woman conductor, Nadia Boulanger, to appear at one of its concerts.

During the Christmas season Esme Beringer will play "Hamlet" at the Westminster Theatre, the first woman to attempt the part for nearly half-a-century. Sarah Bernhardt 48 years ago was the last of her sex to impersonate the gloomy Dane.

The usually unbending British Broadcasting Corporation officials have requested radio page editors to announce they want more women in their talent-finding amateur hours and have given Mrs. Olga Collett, B.B.C's only woman commentator, a bigger share of outside broadcasts.

Mrs. Collett described the Lord Mayor's banquet in the Guildhall and on Nov. 15 will describe the arrival of the King and Queen at the Palladium Theatre for the royal command performance.

Another new job for a woman—in a different sphere—is that now occupied by Sister Steele, first woman nurse to be apointed by the Home Office, as an experiment, to treat convicts in prison hospitals. A cheerful, sensible, older woman, she

The bride and groom were given seats of honor beneath an archway decorated with white bells, and were presented with many attractive gifts that were piled in a gaily decorated basket. Rita Noan, sister of the bride, and Lucy Rochetta, sister of the groom, brought in the basket. Refreshments were served at midnight, by Mrs. J. Morrison, Mrs. N. JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

What might not have not been done by woman?
Who was it betrayed the Capitol?
A woman.
Who lost Mark Antony the world?
A woman?
Who was the cause of a long ten years' war,
And laid at last old Troy in ashes?
Woman,
Destructive, damnable, deceitful woman!"

—Thomas Otway.

(For women only.)

Dear Friends:

I feel like saying "Ouch" when Thomas goes on like that about women. What men would do if they did not have women as the goat for everything I shudder to think.

Do you think women had the making of themselves any more than men had? Did they get any choice at birth? Are they to blame for BEING women? And when you think of their faults, men, do you ever think you may be to blame, for the way they are treated?

From birth women are made to feel inferior, and only God knows why. She is not as strong physically as men, but she is not a whit more changeable than men.

I like women, always have and always will. Life is hard for them, and they are hard on themselves. Do you think for one minute that women enjoy their nature, their intuitions and their soft-heartedness, their tendency to tears when they are hurt?

Do you think they like to be blamed for everything from the troubles on the stock-market, to the children's measels? Can you imagine them liking to be the picker-uppers after men, whether it be in the office or in the home? Don't be silly.

How many women work shoulder to shoulder, late and early, through sickness and health, with their men, then stand back and see their men get all the credit, also the pay check.

Sure there are silly women, extravagant ones, treacherous ones, bad ones. But isn't there the same thing in men? Can any man say no other man ever let him down? Then why crab at women all the time and blame everything on them?

You hear men say in a disgusted tone, "I'll never understand a woman." Gosh, do you think women understand men? Men pride themselves on never growing up as an excuse for lots of foolish things. Women do grow up, because someone has to do it.

Women are in a measure nearer to God because of their spiritual nature, but do they get any more consideration because of it? I think not.

The whole trouble is that women are trying to live up to what men seem to like in them. Take one girl who is sweet and clean, no paint, no powder, no nail polish. She dresses sensibly, wears low shoes, is good company and good looking. O. K.

Take another who uses all the art she can to improve her appearance, dresses to attract, accentuates every bit of charm she has. Which does the young fellow pick to take places and do things? Right, he takes the second, while the other sits at home and wonders what is the matter with her.

So, when you condemn, don't forget that you men set the standard and women are simply trying to please you. Don't forget either, that when your men friends have turned thumbs down on you when you have got yourselves into trouble, always in the background there is a woman ready to bind up your wounds and stand by you, whether it be mother, maid, or wife, sister or aunt.

Then, let up a little. Give women a break for the cards were stacked against her at birth.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

Facts and Fancies

Washing Knit Suit

Before attempting to wash a knitted suit or sweater, test a zample of the wool in lukewarm water for four minutes to see that the color does not run. If you have no sample, select a part of the garment which is inconspicuous and test that. Don't worry if the water is only slightly discolored. If the color runs you will have to work fast in the washing!

Next pin a sheet to a firm pad and lay your garment on the sheet, tracing out an accurate outline of the garment to be washed.

Launder knitted garment in soapy lukewarm water, squeezing very gently, and then rinse in lukewarm water three or four times. Don't ring out. Squeeze out suds and water.

After this you are ready to shape garment to the outline. Do this gently, too, and then fasten securely with pins which won't rust.

To hasten the drying lay garment on a Turkish towel, put another towel on top of it, roll up, and then knead is if you were kneading bread.

To give your garment a professional look and a nice finish, you can finally lay a dampened cloth on the wrong side and, with a moderately warm iron, let the steam rise by lifting iron from place to place. If your knitted garment has a ribbed design you can give it a final very light pressing with iron on the right side.

They Made a Ton Of This Pudding

Working in the tiny kitchens of two dining cars, one at Montreal and one at Winnipeg, Canadian National Railways chefs made a ton of plum pudding to be served to travellers this Christmas.

Here is the recipe—an old English one—for a family-size pudding. It will make two and a half pounds, ten generous individual portions.

Ingredients—½ lb. bread crumbs, ½ lb. beef suet, 2 oz. flour, ½ lb. brown subar, 2 oz. mixed peel, pinch salt, ¼ teaspoon baking soda, grated rind and juice of half a lemon, ¼ pint milk, 3 eggs, ¼ lb. sultanas, ¼ lb. raisins, ¼ lb. currants, ¼ oz. cinnamon, ¼ oz. nutmeg, ¼ oz. allspice, 1½ oz. brandy.

Procedure—Mix the dry ingredients together thoroughly, then add the beaten eggs, milk and brandy, and mix all together thoroughly. Grease inside of pudding bowl or covered mould to prevent pudding from sticking. If pudding bowl used, cover bowl with floured gauze placed tightly around bowl to keep moisture away from pudding. Boil pudding for three hours. Heat thoroughly before serving, then unmould on dish. Serve with sprig of holly on top.

Hard Sauce

Ingredients—¼ lb. butter, ½ lb. powdered sugar.

Procedure—Mix butter and sugar until the mixture becomes snow white; add a few drops of lemon extract. Roll in wax paper, place in refrigerator until hard. Cut in slices. Serve slice on top of Plum Pudding.

Custard Sauce

Ingredients—2 eggs, ¼ cup powdered sugar, 2 cups milk, 2 tablespoons Corn Starch.

Procedure—Beat up eggs, corn starch, sugar together thoroughly; add milk; beat together again. Place in double boiler. Allow mixture to become hot at same time beating it up to prevent it from becoming lumpy. Add few drops vanilla extract. Allow mixture to thicken. Serve hot over pudding.

If it is desired to serve brandy with pudding, unmould plum pudding on dish, place sprig of holly on top of pudding, pour brandy around base, light brandy with match.

THE STARS SAY

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLLE

For Friday, December 3

Lively conditions, with much enterprise in launching new undertakings, ill read from today's planetary configurations. But this progressive situation is menaced by disturbed and agitated conditions, with upheavals, disrupted plans and possibly by treachery, intrigue and deception, if not fraud. The consequent confusion and perplexity may best be met by vigilance and a composed and sagacious review of the situation in jeopardy.

Those whose birthday it is may feel their energies and spirit of enterprise and initiative stimulated to high purpose during the year, but the validity of this will be put to the test by disturbed and agitated situations, with unsettlement and new factors to consider, probably in strange places or with strangers.

A child born on this day may be lively, energetic and talented, but unsettled and fond of the strange and the new. It may also be shrewd and crafty, taking pleasure in intrigues and secret organizations.

TRAPPIST FATHERS AND TRAPPISTINES HAPPILY SECLUDED

ROGERVILLE, N.B., Dec. 2—(CP)—The rush of modern life seems a world apart from secluded communities of Trappist fathers and Trappistine sisters here in Northumberland County.

Both the Monastery of Our Lady of Calvary and the Trappistine convent are almost entirely self-contained. Few purchases are necessary and there is little contact with the outside world.

A group led by Father Hippolyte Bru founded the monastery in 1902. They had left France voluntarily when a movement started for the exile of cloistered religious orders. At the same time Trappistine sisters built their convent two miles from the monastery here.

Unlike pallid monks of fiction, the Trappists are rugged men with broused faces. They work hard in their fields, operate a lumber mill, grind their own flower and card the wool for their clothes.

The fathers wear white robes with black surplices, while raiment of the Trappist brothers is all black. They wear the flowing robes with pointed hoods throughout the day, no matter how warm the weather. Their only concession in summer is to go bareheaded or wear, incongruously, a cap or straw hat.

The Trappists live in self-denial, eating frugally and avoiding meat. They go to bed at sundown and arise at 2 a.m. Their days are strictly regimented. They sleep seven hours, devote seven to prayer and spend four at hard labor. Most give another three or four hours to reading.

In addition to producing lumber the Trappists have marketed oka cheese for years. This product is aged in a natural rock cave.

Known As Saintly Men

The villagers know them as kind, saintly men. "You can go to them for help at any time of the day or night," a nearby farmer said. "They will never refuse you. They are fine, good men." He had heard that four had inherited wealth and devoted it to the order.

The main building, a large, gray, stone structure with a graceful minaret, accommodates the 40 to 50 Trappists. They prefer not to talk about their activities but male visitors are welcome to look around. Women are not allowed on the monastery property. The Father Superior, Father Richard, appears no more than 29 years old and was born in New Brunswick.

Manner of life at the convent is similar. The 50 sisters, cloistered ones in white and others in brown robes, toil as hard as men in the fields. Last year they harvested 500 bushels of potatoes and 400 bushels of turnips. They have 10 cows and three horses, and cut enough hay to meet the requirements.

They, too, are vegetarians, arise at two o'clock every morning and devote seven hours of the day to prayer. All spend two hours in the forenoon and two in the afternoon at manual labor.

Despite the heavy work and long hours of prayer the sisters find time for other things. They make homespun cloth, keep bees and pack honey, and do fine art work in the form of artificial flowers, beaded pillow covers, embroidery, etc.

Like the Trappists, the Trappistines seem to have achieved a state of infinite content and happiness in their life of seclusion.

TOP RADIO SHAFT BY BEACON LIGHT AS PILOTS' GUIDE

VERCHERES, Que., Dec. 2—(CP) A steel shaft towering 586 feet above the placid St. Lawrence River soon will be the hub of words and music revolving over French Canada.

The giant mast casts its shadow across the little French-Canadian village of Vercheres, named after Madeleine de la Vercheres, 17th-century girl heroine who led a handful of boys and men in successful defence of a fort against an Iroquois attack.

Built not far from where the likeness of Madeleine, in flowing skirts, defiantly points an old-time "muzzle-loader" over the river, the tower is part of Canada's first high-powered broadcasting station. The heavy, quadri-section mast, visible for miles around, dwarfs the modernistic little building housing nearly $250,000 worth of equipment, and is part of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's 50,000-watt station CBF.

CBF is the first of several stations with which the corporation is planning to span Canada. Another equally powerful transmitter is under construction at Hornby, Ont., and a third will be built in Western Canada. All will be similar in design.

The squat white quarters on the south shore highway 36 miles miles east of Montreal contain the latest broadcasting equipment to which finishing touches are being applied.

The tower is an antenna, and buried below it is a network of wire—more than 19 miles of it—laid in the form of spokes of a wheel, the hub of which is at the antenna. There are 120 spokes, each 600 feet long with smaller ones between. Every piece of metal in the building—radio and electrical apparatus, water pipes, conduits and metal window frames—is electrically connected with the ground system to prevent loss of energy radiated from the antenna.

Technically, the station has a broadcasting radius of 150 miles, but actually, programs transmitted may be heard many miles further away. Not only does the tower serve as an antenna, but it is an aviation aid as well, with lights at each 100-foot level of the structure, topped by an aviation beacon.

Power in Reserve

To assure continuous service to the listener, the station is fed by two independent power lines. If one line fails, the transmitter is changed immediately to the other. And to assure further continuity of service, all vulnerable components of the equipment are provided in duplicate.

The two $3,000 100-kilowatt output tubes, largest in use in North American broadcasting, are cooled with distilled water. Heat is removed from the water by means of an air-blast and is used to heat the building partially, resulting in an annual saving of 1,000 gallons of oil.

Requirements call for the building to house a 50,000-watt transmitter with provision for a short-wave transmitter. In addition there is space for the transformer, fences, switching equipment, work shop, tube store, cleaning and ventilation, offices, staff room, kitchen, toilet and garage for two cars.

Largest of the rooms is the transmitter control room, where a linoleum floor forms a colored map of Canada with names of cities having radio stations inlaid. The station's control circuits all focus at the operator's control console, back of the map and facing the transmitter panel. The control room is supplied with daylight through a glass brick wall on one side of the room.

CBF will transmit programs originating in the corporation's Montreal studios or elsewhere and will serve mainly the rural and predominantly French sections of the province. CBM in Montreal will serve the metropolitan area, with English programs featured. Maintenance of the new station is in the hands of a staff of nine skilled men under Chief Engineer Gilles Saraut of Montreal.

WOMEN REFUSE TO PAY.

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 2 (C.P.)—After reaching a peak price of 42 cents a dozen, egg prices in Windsor are declining. Dealers say the drop is due to housewives being unwilling to pay the high price, and also that the Toronto market is not bidding for eggs.

LONDON FEELING AN ACHING VOID IN ACTOR DEATH

LONDON, Dec. 2—(CP). — In November two events alternately quickened and slowed the pulse of London's music and theatre life. Toscanini came, Forbes-Robertson went.

Both left a deep impression; the latter's death recalling greater days, the former's genius contrasting significantly with contemporary entertainment.

Forbes-Robertson, of whom St. John Ervine said: "This was the noblest Hamlet of them all; a prince from head to foot, a prince in the very marrow of his bones," was 85.

Toscanini is 70. Seats for his concerts were taken months in advance. In two concerts he drew from the British Broadcasting Corporation Symphony Orchestra such music as the London critics had not heard from it before.

Toscanini may return again, although he is finding the task of rehearsals with strange orchestras increasingly hard on him. And if it comes to a decision between relaxing the intensity of his rehearsal work and dropping his guest-conductor role there's no question which way this exacting artist would rule.

Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson will not return. But his death roused from the more experienced critics memorable eulogies and disquieting remarks about the present state of the theatre.

Stage Picture Sticks

To quote again from St. John Ervine's article in The Observer: "We are now in the age of manipulated photographs and sometimes that appalling fact becomes oppressive. Yet when I feel most despondent about the stage I remember that I saw Irving and Ellen Terry when I was young and that I can recall Forbes-Robertson's Hamlet. Will you tell me, gentles all, how much you can remember of the film you saw last Tuesday? What! Nothing at all! . . It is nearly 40 years since I first saw Forbes-Robertson and Henry Irving and Ellen Terry, but the memory of their acting will never fade out of my mind."

Forbes-Robertson's death broke nearly the last link between the company of great English actor-managers that held forth in pre-war years: Irving, Tree, Alexander, Wyndham, Waller and others. The grand style of acting that is now referred to as rhetoric and the shawl and sword melodramas with their sweep and surge—these "tintypes" provoke laughter on today's screen but in their time it was not so.

The Times correspondent has written that Forbes-Robertson never liked acting, thought himself "temperamentally unsuited" to its rigors. But he added: "The graciousness of his stage personality, the sweetness of his imagination—above all, perhaps, the matchless beauty of the 'violoncello voice,' upon which he so exquisitely played, combined to make him an actor of a peculiar and irresistible appeal. His Hamlet was all grace and beauty."

Toscanini and Forbes-Robertson had at least two things in common. Both were very modest and the public found it difficult to believe they were not consciously robing themselves in white. Forbes-Robertson was the embodiment of good manners and good looks yet he did not lose the common touch. Toscanini, the man who can name his fee and terms, insists on the credit going to the orchestra. They were also unlike, as unlike as two men can be. But in their separate ways they have given London's rather complacent outlook an uncomfortable feeling of emptiness.

STATE ADVISER OF POETIC MIND

LONDON, Dec. 2—(CP)—From a background of Eton College and an austere diplomatic career, Sir Robert Vansittart writes successful plays, poetry and other literature.

His duty as permanent undersecretary of state for foreign affairs is to keep the British foreign office running smoothly, whoever the foreign secretary is or whatever the political crisis. Vansittart has been a real "man behind the scenes" in the foreign affairs department at Whitehall for eight years.

He was an important figure in the Ethiopian crisis, the Spanish situation, the Mediterranean 'piracy' conference and other serious diplomatic developments. Yet he found time to write "Passion B," a light comedy.

His latest play, to be produced this season in London's West End, is a captivating romance. It deals with the love of a rich conservative peer's daughter for a socialist candidate for Parliament.

"I am very pleased," he said, "as it has been more than 15 years since I had a play on."

Writing has been Sir Robert's hobby since his days at Eton. At 16, he wrote a play in French which was produced in Paris. A book of his poems was published last year. Once, before the Great War, he had two plays running in London at once.

Son of an army captain and grandson of a colonel, he entered the diplomatic service in 1902 when he was 21 and has held many appointments at home and abroad. He has served under a procession of premiers and foreign secretaries, the latest of the latter being Anthony Eden.

A robust, vigorous man, Sir Robert several times has been mentioned for an ambassadorship, twice for the post at Washington. His first wife was the daughter of the late General William C. Keppenheimer, banker and business man of Jersey City, N.J. They had a son and a daughter.

Lady Vansittart died in 1928. Three years later Sir Robert married Lady Barclay, daughter of Herbert Ward and widow of Sir Colville Barclay.

Mother Is Burned Saving Her Baby

ACME, Alta., Dec. 2 (CP) — Mrs Ansel Fischer was burned seriously when gasoline exploded while she was cleaning her dress at her home here forty-five miles northeast of Calgary, but after putting out the flames by rolling in the snow outside she dashed back into the blazing house and rescued her small baby.

Then she drove her husband's truck four miles to a physician, who said she had received severe burns on arms and back. Meanwhile neighbors put out the flames, saving all the house except the kitchen.

DON'T LET

1 Usually common constipation is the result of eating meals low in "bulk" or fiber. Headaches, poor appetite, loss of energy are some of the effects of constipation. It keeps you from looking and feeling at your best.

2 Relieve common constipation with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. This wholesome ready-to-eat cereal absorbs water and softens like a sponge — forming a soft mass which aids elimination from the colon.

RUSSIA MARKING ITS NEW BIRTH LEARNS TO VOTE

MOSCOW, Dec. 2—(CP)—Celebrating its twentieth birthday, Soviet Russia, in the midst of its first general election campaign with voting Dec 12, is having a drive to overcome industry's lag and is undergoing another purge.

On Nov 7, 1917, Alexander Kerensky, chief of the tottering provisional government, sped away from Petrograd, now Leningrad, in a commandeered automobile. Nicholas Lenin emerged from hiding and took command of Russia's destiny in the name of the revolutionary military committee of the Petrograd soviet.

Since then Russia has undergone civil war, famine, terror and change. The Union of Socialist Republics has become the "fatherland of toilers—workers and peasants."

One hundred million soviet voters are being instructed in casting their ballots in the nationwide legislative election. Thus choosing of the new supreme soviet, or bicameral council which is to replace the indirectly elected central executive committee that has been functioning all these years, is cited daily in the press as a great socialist event, fitting to commemorate the revolution of 1917.

It is cited also as showing the advantages of the constitution given to the people by the chief of the communist party, Joseph Stalin. Foreign observers regard the election as one of the few positive products of the constitution. As for such guarantees as freedom of speech and of the press, they know that no Russian would dare to utter a word of criticism of the Stalin regime within hearing of a policeman. Numerous editors have been removed because their papers seemed to deviate from the straight line of Stalinism.

Thousands of propagandists and agitators have been sent to factories, apartment houses and collective farms over one-sixth of the earth's surface—the area of the Soviet Union—to explain the election laws and intensify mass education in voting for "politically-reliable" candidates.

Most observers believe the blood purge has strengthened Stalin's power for the elections. Some believe the elections were delayed until the various republics which form the Soviet Union had been purged of his enemies.

Stalin Still Strong

With many, if not most of the old Bolsheviks out of the way, Stalin and communism are generally conceded by foreign observers to be as strong as ever. The soviet press insists they are stronger.

Not all trials are for political plots. Hundreds are for wrecking trains or power plants, or for disrupting collective farming by unproductive methods, the latter tending to create discontent with the soviet regime.

Greatest of soviet achievement to many is its industrial development which, however, has slowed down this year to such an extent that some observers talk of industrial crisis.

This year the output of soviet industry is estimated at 97,500,000,000 rubles (about $19,369,000,000 at the arbitary official exchange rate), or nearly 10 times the output in 1913. Coal mining has climbed from 29,000,000 tons to 128,000,000 tons, pig-iron production from 1,500,000 to 16,000,000 tons, steel from 2,000,000 to 15,500,000 tons.

The increase in production of manufactured goods is proportionate. The shoe, clothing and knitting industries have outputs four-and-one-half times what they were in 1913.

Five-year plans have industrialized Russia. Machine building has increased 10-fold since the revolution, the soviets like to boast. Yet industry is found to be seriously lagging behind its schedules in this anniversary year.

For this lag, soviet leaders mostly blame "wreckers" who were followers of Leon Trotsky, regarded as the arch-devil of communism, or spies in the pay of capitalist countries with war-like designs on Russia.

This so-called wrecking in industry and agriculture appears to be one of the reasons, if not the chief reason, for the purge which has meants death, imprisonment or exile for thousands.

URGE SCIENTISTS' UNIONS CO-OPERATE

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(CP)—Active cooperation between scientists and trade unionists in Britain for the advancement of social progress is in the process of organization.

A dozen scientists, distinguished in biology, physics, economics, agriculture, chemistry, geology, astronomy, genetics and dietetics have already met a like number of trades union leaders.

The idea has been credited to Ernest Bevin, general secretary of the Transport and General Workers' Union. When he spoke of the scheme at a recent meeting Mr. Bevin said society had not kept pace with the progress of science. There was not only a time lag, but an inertia and rigidity of the social structure which had to be overcome.

"The General Council of the Trades Unions," he said, "believes men of science can make a great contribution to progress by assisting in such a movement as ours with their counsel and knowledge."

Choosing Gifts For Men Easy For Women Today

Practical Gifts Of Something Beautiful To Wear Are Attractive

One of the best reasons for believing that this is not a "man's world" will be found in the men's stores in Peterborough during the days from now until Christmas. Women have taken over this domain as their own and are finding the task of choosing the right gift for the right man made that much easier. Unusual large selections of good-looking wearables are featured in every store and for the most part prices are low enough to keep you well inside of your Gift Budget.

Glamour In Wearables

Off-hand you might think that something to wear would have to be void of glamour and Christmas cheer. That isn't so. Aren't you always thrilled when your gift from him is a dainty negligeee, a luxurious gown or a fur peice? Well, he'll be just as thrilled if you give him a comparable gift. You can go right through the list from ties to handmade silk robes and find romance and glamour everywhere. There are no more commonplace gifts, even suspenders and garters are thrilling.

You don't believe that? Then wait until you see the Alpine motif carried out in ties, garters, braces, hose, handkerchiefs, Edelweiss and Alpine climbers gambol around in colorful surroundings. And this is only one instance of how new colors and designs have brightened up the entire accessory department.

Not Too Many Shirts

If it's true that no mean ever has too many shirts, as is often claimed, then we know just the shirts that will prove to be most welcome. If he's following the return to formality as so many men are, then for him there are solid tone and striped madrases with white French cuffs and separate white collars. If he prefers casual comfort then keep away from the extremes. Instead select a collar attached shirt, but don't for one minute think that it means giving an ordinary shirt.

New tabless-tab collars, long point collars, the clever fused stand-up collars that look as though they are starched — but aren't — these and many others bring smartness to shirts, smartness that you wouldn't think possible.

ADVICE TO LOVE LORN NOT MODERN

HALIPAX, Dec. 2—(CP). — Interesting history is revealed in the University of King's College library, one of the oldest in North America.

Exhibits include the autographs of many English kings, queens and men of letters. An alabaster slab, relating to the year 880 B.C., is the oldest possession of the library and was taken from the northwest palace of Nimroud.

The general subject matter of the slab is the name of Sardanopaulus, his father and grandfather, and a thanksgiving to the great gods for having given him victories over his enemies. Names of conquered countries and cities were also inscribed upon it.

The slab and two vases were stolen by a sailor as it lay exposed on the bank of the Euphrates and was sold to an officer of the navy who presented it to a Mr. Desbrisay of Seigmouth.

A copy of Bligh's Voyages, upon which the Nordhoff-Hall story "Mutiny on the Bounty" was based, is also in the library. A similar copy brought a high price at a public auction recently in the United States.

A modern slant was seen in publication "Cupid's Chronicle and Matrimonial News," issued in 1670. The idea that advice to the love-lorn columns originated in modern tabloids is debunked, as the issue answers problems of 17th century lovers.

The collection includes 42 books printed before 1500 and 10 manuscripts from the 13th century. A newspaper titled "The Commonwealth Mercury," dated Sept. 9, 1658, announces the death of Oliver Cromwell.

Food And Wine Are Stolen From Church

COPPER CLIFF, Dec. 2 (C.P.)—Intruders enjoyed a light lunch with wine last night when they broke into the Finnish Lutheran Church here. Although they bundled up the church silverware, they failed to take itaway, and nothing was missing but some food from the kitchen and a quantity of sacramental wine. The entry was discovered to-day by Rev. E. A. Kyllonen, pastor of the church. Police are investigating.

CAPACITY CROWDS AT GUELPH SHOW

GUELPH, Ont., Dec. 2 (CP)—Success of "The Provincial" seemed assured today after yesterday's capacity crowds at afternoon livestock judging and the light horse show at the Ontario Provincial Winter Fair.

Judges in the livestock division were pressed to complete adjudication of the heavy entry lists in time for the horse show at night. Clydesdales, Percherons and Belgian horses were judged yesterday.

N. Wagg of Claremont had the best Clyde stallion shown on the tanbark and was awarded the purple ribbon. Haas Brothers of Paris had the champion stallion in the Percheron class.

At night the outstanding rider was young Eileen May of London, who won the hurdle event after a jump-off with Bob Moore, also of London. The two riders scored perfect performances over the 10-hurdle event, then in the jump-off Miss May rode Hickory Grove around the ring with only one fault. Moore had two faults before the half-way mark to finish second.

The presentation was the sixth in the New Brunswick branch of the department since the medal was struck in 1902.

9 PLANES DOWNED IN SPANISH FIGHT

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Dec. 2 (AP).—Seven Spanish Government pursuit planes and two insurgent bombers were reported shot down Wednesday in a struggle for air supremacy in the civil war.

Aerial squadrons clashed over Alcala de Henares, about 15 miles east and slightly north of Madrid, heavily bombarded by the insurgent airmen during the last three days. Government reports said five persons were killed and 20 wounded.

Twenty-three insurgent ships flew over the city yesterday and 16 government fighting craft took off to engage the enemy in "dog fights."

Government and insurgent fleets swept back and forth over disputed Eastern Spain. Government advices said the Barcelona airmen attacked Calatayud, Baroca and Teruel.

ALBERTA'S OIL RICH HERITAGE UNDER CONTROL

CALGARY, Dec. 2—(CP)—Prosperity has returned to Turner Valley, Canada's greatest oilfield. A 22-year-search for the "crude-pool" has ended and now, with a $10,000,000 development program near completion, operators of the 27 producing wells are searching farther afield for markets for an ever-increasing flow of oil.

The third largest field in the British Empire—Trinidad and Burma are the Empire's main sources of supply—Turner Valley, according to competent observers, will have a potential output of 10-000,000 barrels annually by the end of 1937. It now has a potential production "of approximately 7,000,000 barrels a year," says Hon. N. E. Tanner, Alberta Minister of mines.

Major wells are on a pro-ration schedule at present, which at first limits production to 45 per cent of capacity, with a further cut of 35 ordered later. Provincial government figures, covering the first nine months of 1937, show the output, under the restricted schedule of operations, was 1,749,615 barrels to the end of September. October brought record yields, unofficial reports show, with many new wells blowing in. The entire production in 1936 was 1,320,442 barrels.

Set amidst rolling prairie land in the foothills country, 40 miles east of Calgary, Turner Valley today is dotted with oil derricks, extending south and west of the discovery well, a naptha producer, sunk in 1914. Early wells were all naptha producers and it was not until June of 1936 that the first crude oil well blew in to bring fortune to many.

Turner Valley Royalties, said to be the deepest producing well in the Empire—6,824 feet—was the first crude producer in the foothills field. With a roar that could be heard for miles, it came into production June 17, 1936. Its initial production was 1,500 barrels daily and is now averaging 600 daily.

From then until May of this year progress was slow. Only three or four crude wells were brought into production. But then the boom got underway. New wells "blew in" almost daily with more than 20 new producers opening up so far this year. Eeigh more wells are due before the year ends.

Home Among Flares

New towns have been established —"Little Chicago" and "Little New York"—housing hundreds of workers, living in modern homes surrounded by fiery flares from the nearby producers. Older towns like Turner Valley and Black Diamond grew more prosperous as the era of unemployment came to an end.

The latest devolpment program, started in May for the rich crude flow, has brought more than a score of wells into production. They range from the giant Davies Petroleum—even under the pro-ration schedule Davies produces 1,400 barrels a day —to the smaller wells with an output of from 150 to 200 barrels daily.

Prairie Oils, not on a pro-ration schedule, has an estimated production of 2,871 barrels at flush output. It is expected to have a yield of 2,300 barrels when settled. Commoll, a new well, is on pro-ration at 1,600 barrels daily. Several others, notably Monarch, Royalite Sterling, Model Spooner and Royal Crest, show daily report sheets of from 500 to 1,500 barrels each.

Discoverer of the Turner Valley field in 1914, W. S. (Won't Sell) Herron, who, in the early days, had holdings valued at more than $1,-500,000, is still prominent in the field's development. The discovery well was brought in in May, 1914, by Herron and the late A. W. Dingman, another pioneer in Alberta's oil industry.

Boom days were short-lived. The Great War brought a halt. Then, in 1924, Royalite No. 4 blew in with a naptha flow of 20,000,000 cubic feet to revive the boom. The depression years brought another halt until Turner Valley Royalties soared in on a bright June day.

Talk of Pipeline

A dream remains unrealized but is always a live topic in the oil fields—the building of a pipeline 1,000 miles long from Turner Valley to the Head of the Lakes. It would carry the crude oil production to eastern markets. A pipline was considered by United States interests some years ago, to run into Montana, a distance of 200 miles. The plan never materialized. The main objective was the piping of gas from the Valley for home and industrial heating.

The dream of a pipeline was envisioned by Pioneer Herron. In discussing the possibilities of the field, he said "the Western Canada market will never absorb all the oil Turner Valley is going to produce." The oil, he added, "must be piped to eastern markets or south into the United States."

There is a wastage of more than 200,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily in Turner Valley. The flares from the burning pools light up the southern sky each night and are visible from Calgary. In the valley, home fires are never out. Jets flare in cook stoves and heaters day and night. In the backyards, incinerators take care of the garbage disposal. Calgary, which burns 2,000,000 cubic ft. of gas daily, heats its homes and buildings by the natural gas piped from the Valley.

He said he had received official notification of the drowning but did not know who the man was, if the body had been found or details of the tragedy.

Yukon Annexation Is Delayed Pending Commission Probe

Merging Of B.C. And Yukon Awaits Report Of Rowell Commission

DAWSON, Y.T., Dec. 2—(CP)—The Yukon Territory's 4,000-odd residents today awaited with unusual interest the deliberations of a Royal Commission not intended primarily to deal with their problems.

But indirectly the oppintment of the Rowell Commission to investigate Dominion-provincial relations has already had an effect on the northern Territory. After an October conference with Dominion authorities, Premier T. D. Pattullo said the scheme for inclusion of the Yukon in British Columbia was definitely in abeyance until the commission made its report.

First announcement of the proposal by Premier Pattullo on April 26 last resulted in an immediate flood of protest from the northland. Within four days the Yukon territorial council, meeting here, demanded a plebiscite be held before the proposal was carried out.

Mr. Pattullo said the Yukon would come to the province without debt and for the first five years the federal government would pay British Columbia $125,000 a year as a special grant to cover cost of instituting public services by the province instead of the Dominion.

All that was needed to accomplish the amalgamation, he said, was assent by the Dominion parliament, and the legislature of the province.

The three-man Yukon council countered with this statement:

"The people of the Yukon are outraged at what they view as a cold bargain under which the territory and its people are to be literally sold and delivered to a province in which they have no desire to be merged."

The Yukon of today is governed by a Comptroller and the Territorial Council. It became a separate Territory in 1898 when an estimated 30,000 gold-seekers trekked into the sub-Arctic after startling quantities of the metal were found Aug. 17, 1896, on Bonanza Creek.

Added to British Columbia, the Yukon would increase the province's area to 573,331 square miles, second only to Quebec's 594,534. But only a few more than 4,000 people would be added to British Columbia's estimated population of 750,000.

Last year the auditor-general's report showed administration of the Territory cost the Dominion $96,902. This included $36,902 in salaries and expenditures of the Yukon Council, together with the cost of surveys and other matters. In addition, a grant of $60,000 was made for road work.

Premier Pattullo counted on the Territory's wealth to offset the expenses its acquisition would require. The Dominion's five-year annual grant of $125,000 would provide immediate funds, pending expansion of revenue to the provincial treasury, he said.

The premier, himself an old Yukoner who went from Galt, Ont., in 1896 to serve for three years as assistant gold commissioner at Dawson, said he believed acquisition of the Territory would find response from youth of the province seeking adventure and fortune in a land of romance.

Without amalgamation the Yukon this year experienced the biggest trek back to the famous gold-fields since the turn of the century. But the prospectors who haunted the Yukon hills and streams have given way to modern machinery, and hydraulic dredges comb the rivers where sourdoughs once reigned.

Annexation would forge an old link between province and territory. Vancouver boomed as men and supplies poured out of that port in gold rush days, and a steady trade in supplies has continued through the years.

Sir Wilfred Laurier's administration proposed a railway to run from Glenora on the Stikine River, via and eventually to Dawson, but that Teslin Lake into the Yukon basin bill died in the Senate.

Amalgamation might have some bearing on completion of today's alternative — a highway through northern British Columbia and the Yukon to Alaska—which Premier Pattullo has said "definitely will come."

Philadelphia, Dec. 2.

CHILDREN whose religious beliefs forbid them to salute the American flag cannot be expelled from the public schools for failure to do so, Federal Judge Albert B. Maris ruled today.

His ruling came in the case of two children, members of the "Jehovah's Witnesses" sect, who were expelled from a Minersville, Pa., school two years ago.

SENTIER DU LAIT MEETS AT CAVAN

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAVAN, Dec. 2. — On Saturday, the second meeting of "Le Sentier du Lait" was held at the home of Mrs. D. Tinney. There were fourteen members present: Helene Smith, Jean Trumpour, Mrs. N. Braithwaite Gwenyth Staples, Nan Fallis, Bernice Richards, Norma Gillis, Beatrice Fallis, Dorothy Armstrong, Joyce Trumpour, Mary Richards, Audrey Nill, Jean Gillis, and Elaine Argue.

The meeting opened with the president, Helene Smith, in the chair. The roll-call was answered by "One reason why milk is a good food." The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. It was moved by Joyce Trumour and Beatrice Fallis that Jean Gillis and Nan Fallis be dishwashers at the next meeting. Mrs. Carley's offer of her home for the next meeting on December 31 was accepted. The roll-call for that date was announced as "Do's for Home Dairies."

Audrey Nill and Norma Gillis were appointed to demonstrate the making of white sauce and home pasteurization of milk, respectively, at the next meeting. Mrs. Carley read an article "Play Safe with Milk," which stressed the importance of the cleanliness of everything and every person in contact with the milk. The practical work of the day followed. Mrs. Tinney and Mrs. Carley demonstrated home pasteurization of milk, and the making of a cocoa paste from which cold drinks might be made. The home assignment consisted of making one milk drink, the results and recipe of which were to be put in the members' record books.

A hearty vote of thanks to Mrs Tinney for the use of her home was moved by Audrey Nill and seconded by Beatrice Fallis.

CANADIAN TELLS DARDANELLES TOUR

CHARLOTTETOWN, Dec. 2—(CP)—One of 10 members of an excavation staff, all students of the University of Cincinnati, conducting excavations in Troy, Cedric Boulter, B.A., has arrived home to spend a vacation with his parents, Mr and Mrs. J. W. Boulter.

While in Troy, as a member of the staff, it was Mr. Boulter's duty to take charge of one area of the excavations.

The project involves a scientific investigation of a prehistoric settlement of immense power, located near the mouth of the Dardanelles, a situation of great strategic importance both in prehistoric times and at present.

The earliest settlers came about 3,000 B.C., and occupation on the site was continuous until about 1,000 B.C. and intermittently afterward until well into the Christian era.

"The site was a great fortress, the home of a strong prince, who doubtless drew his power from his control of the Dardanelles, the key to numerous trade routes," Mr. Boulter said.

Excavations began April 22 and the staff employs 100 Turkish workmen. The excavations are carried on by permission of the Turkish government and financed by the University. Findings are now on exhibition at the National Museum in Stamboul.

when struck by wood which fell from the woodpile. Dr. Frankish said he believed a pick or some heavy instrument caused the injuries.

On exhibit in the courtroom was the skull of the dead woman. "Is it true Mrs. Turner's skull was a thin one?" asked Goldie Elgie, defence counsel. "Oh, no," Dr. Frankish replied, picking up the two sections of the skull. "I would say it was a pretty normal one."

Dr. Frankish was called in to perform an autopsy and later made an analysis of the stomach, skull and of blood spots found on Turner's shirt. He said death had occurred about a half hour after the last meal. This had been breakfast at 9 a.m., according to a statement made to police by Turner.

Crown evidence was completed with Dr. Frankish's testimony. The defence will present its case to-day.

A by-law in effect in Toronto bans slot machines as illegal because of being gambling devices. Slot and pin game machines are licensed at $500 each annually by London, with only a few licenses issued. Simcoe has a by-law licensing the machines at $500 for the first and $30 for each subsequent one.

Sarnia City Council never has attempted to regulate the operation of slot machines. A few mint-vending devices are in operation there. Peterborough issues a license for a $50 fee.

Scores Once Again At Winter Fair

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 2. — Consistent winners at the Royal Winter Fair for the past twelve years the Trent Valley Creameries, operated by H. N. Carr, M.L.A., were this year awarded second prize in the "salted butter" class.

It will be remembered that several years ago at the International Dairy Exposition in competition with creameries from all over Canada and the United States the Trent Valley Creameries were awarded first prize for Ontario, second prize for Canada, and fifth prize for North America.

Another record is held by the Creameries who for three years in succession have won the first prize for Ontario for the purest butter produced based on samples taken from every churning throughout the summer months.

Following the discovery of a nation-wide rightist plot to overthrow the Popular Front government of France and establish a monarchy French police arrested several titled Frenchmen as well as prominent businessmen whose stores contained huge supplies of arm and ammunition. In custody of government agents are the three men shown ABOVE. At the LEFT is M. Moreau de la Meuse, French textile administrator, who is accused of being one of the leaders of the recently-discovered plot of "les Cagoulards" (The Hooded Ones) to seize control of the government. The Duke of Pozzo di Borgo (CENTRE), former lieutenant of Francois de la Rocque and head rest charged with 'having relations with wrongdoers." EGG SHIPMENTS NEARLY DOUBLED IN PAST 5 YEARS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 2. — F. Bucker of Brockville was the guest at the annual meeting of the English Line Egg Circle held on Tuesday afternoon when the officers for the year 1937-38 were elected.

Mr. Bucker told the meeting that the manner in which the circle conducted its business in eggs, live and dressed poultry, reflected considerable credit on the management. Although commending the operations of the circle, he suggested that the amount of live and dressed poultry shipped was not in proportion to the shipment of eggs. However, with the more adequate cold storage facilities supplied by the Eastern Ontario Co-operative shippers he expressed the feeling that this branch of the business would increase.

The proper care and diet of poultry as outlined by the Ontario Department was briefly given by A. H. Martin of Brighton, who also addressed the meeting.

Thomas H. Rowe, manager of the Circle, reported that of 61,233 dozen eggs shipped, 34,364 dozen were grade A-large, and 13,530 dozen were grade A-medium.

An interesting fact mentioned by Mr. Rowe was that during the month of October the English Line Egg Circle was rated as the fourth largest shipping association in Eastern Ontario. In the past five years the number of eggs shipped by the Circle has nearly doubled, jumping from 36,915 in 1933, valued at $5,461.25, to 61,233 dozen in 1937, valued at $13,393.25.

The officers elected were: President, E. J. Bonney; vice-president, Harry Barnum; secretary, William McKelvie; auditors, Lindsay Anderson, P. B. Nelson; directors, Mrs. William Stephens, Mrs. Fred Todd, Herbert Stotts; manager, Thomas H. Rowe.

MISS TAMAZEN DOROTHEA MITCHELL

One of the oldest residents of this district passed away on Sunday, November 28, in the death at the old homestead in Emily township of Miss Tamazen Dorothea Mitchell in her 87th year.

Miss Mitchell was the last member of the family of the late John Mitchell and Mary Jermyn, pioneers in Emily, Mr. Mitchell settling there 114 years ago.

A resident of the township all her life, she leaves no relatives nearer than nephews and neices and many of these she had never seen. She had always been a willing supporter and well wisher of all workers laboring to extend God's kingdom. Miss Mitchell enjoyed the regard of a large number of kind friends to whom she was truly thankful, especially those who were attentive to her in her later years.

The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon with a service in Trinity United Church, Omemee, with the pastor, Rev. P. C. MacTavish, officiating and taking as his text "God is Our Hope and Our Refuge." The pall-bearers were three nephews, Thomas and William Jermyn of Omemee and S. H. Mitchell, of Peterborough, and three cousins, Victor and Walter Mitchell and Wesley Morton of Omemee.

Interment was in Emily cemetery.

unsatisfactory and joint financing unsound, he said.

An improved and uniform service might cost the Dominion more, but it would not increase the cost to the taxpayers as a whole, rather the opposite. It would remove a serious part of the disequilibrium caused by the present Dominion-Provinial financial set-up in general and the division of responsibility for relief in particular, he argued.

BLUE, GREEN LEAD RESTFUL COLORS

MONTREAL, Dec. 2 (C.P.). — If you want to stay around awhile and talk about that operation, don't bother about the color effects in your room. But if you want recovery swift and sure, pay close attention to the hospital's decorations before choosing a room.

Proper color selection as an aid to therapeutics is discussed by Dr. A. G. Nicholls of Montreal in an editorial in the current issue of the Canadian Medical Association Journal. Color in hospitals can be used to create an atmosphere of cheerfulness or to excite a definite mental reaction in the patient, Dr. Nicholls says.

"Not only does the mind react variously to the stimulus of different colors, but the muscles and the skin likewise," the editorial explains. Listed as "stimulating, exciting" hues are red, orange, and yellow, while blue, green and violet are "restful, tranquilizing."

"A color scheme that would be helpful to the convalescent patient might be quite unsuitable for the restless or delirious one," Dr. Nicholls continues. "We have, therefore, in the decorating of hospitals and asylums to use discretion, having in mind the end we wish to attain."

The conception that walls in hospital wards must be white—"because white suggested purity"—is passing. "It should be obvious that white objects can be as dirty and germ-laden as colored ones, of course, and trade unionists in Britain for

Color schemes may be daring in mental hospitals. During tests "in every group of insane patients blue was found to be the most pleasing color. Green was a distant second."

CHINESE MASS 300 WARPLANES TO MEET JAPS

Japanese flagship Idzumo, near the Japanese Consulate, but did no damage.

Japanese said that in an air battle near or over Nanking six Japanese planes shot down 13 of China's new Soviet-built airplanes.

On the Yangtze delta battleground Japanese fought their way toward objectives, where groups of foreigners were believed to be in danger.

Planes Bomb Path.

Heavy Japanese bombers showered projectiles ahead of infantry units driving toward Nanking and Wuhu, Yangtze River port 60 miles south-west of the almost-deserted Chinese capital.

Another Japanese column was aimed at Hangchow, Chekiang Province seaport to the south.

The United States Consulate and mission authorities expressed fears for the safety of 13 Americans, mostly women and children, marooned at Mokanshan or nearby. Mokanshan, near the Chekiang-Anhwei provincial border, is an isolated region in the heart of the Chinese-Japanese battleground.

Chinese press reports from the war zone were that Chinese forces had launched a counter-attack south of Shanghai. The reports said Chinese had captured Kwangteh in Anhwei Province and still held Kiangyin forts, the key of Yangtze River defences north of Shanghai.

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Dec. 2—(CP).—Grey Owl, well-known Indian writer and naturalist, is preparing for another lecture tour—this time through England and Scotland.

Accompanied by his wife and secretary he will display at different theatres throughout the United Kingdom his film "The Trail," depicting Canadian woodlore and wildlife.

Grey Owl has voluntarily resigned his position as wild life expert on the National Parks staff for seven month sof each of the next three years in order to fulfill his lecturing obligations, but will spend the remaining five months at Beaver Lodge near here.

When interviewed he said he left his "pets," the beavers, in trustworthy care of "Billy Clare," "Jelly Roll" and "Rawhide", three Indian friends.

Grey Owl has been taken into the Indian Confederation of North America, an honor which he cherishes very highly when he was made First National Scout.

Secure Footprints Of Giant Beast

NEW YORK, Dec. 2—(CP).—Footprints of a prehistoric beast which could have crossed a road in one stride and looked in at a fourth-storey window without craning its neck form a special exhibit at the Museum of Natural History here. The prints are those of a dinosaur. Two in number, they are preserved in eight tons of sandstone, cut out of the Mesa Verde rock formation of Wyoming.

The prints are semi-circular in shape, each with three prongs where the toes pressed down, and about three feet square. Curator Barnum Brown said the prints and bones date from the cretaceous period 80,000,000 years ago when dinosaurs were as common as donkeys are today.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 2.—Members of the "Busy Bees" Class of St. John's United Church were the guests at a pre-nuptial shower for Miss Isabelle McComb, which was held at the home of Mrs. Roy Thomlinson on Tuesday evening. Miss Vera Clark and Miss Helen Pallister received at the door, and following an address given by Mrs. H. Clark, Miss Jean McArthur presented the bride-to-be with a decorated basket of gifts for the pantry shelf.

"When we learned you were taking this irrevocable step," began Mrs. C. Clark, "we felt we could not let it come to pass without at least having one more gathering with you. So we have gathered here tonight, your old Sunday School class-mates, as well as the newer ones, the class in which we have frequently enjoyed such happy gatherings both for social and study purposes, the class to which you have been so faithful. We hope we shall have you often with us and that this fellowship will always remain fresh and helpful to us all."

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (A.P.).—Smashing of a $1,000,000 international narcotics syndicate which hired women to smuggle heroin with the connivance of bribed customs agents was claimed to-day by Federal agents.

One hundred agents in secret raids yesterday arrested 15 men and five women on charges of smuggling and bribery, and sought 10 others including Louis (Lepke) Buchalter, labeled by Special Rackets Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey as the United States "Public Enemy No. 1."

The 20 arrested, including the customs inspectors, pleaded not guilty.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 2.—The members of the Campbellford Boy Scout Troops will hold a banquet in the Parish Hall on Friday evening, it was reported from their weekly meeting held on Monday.

Forty-five boys met for the meeting this week, with twenty-five Cubs, who are showing a keen interest in the work under the leadership of Cubmaster Hilton Beatty and the assistant, R. Hazell.

Three of the Wolf Cubs who have passed their Tenderpad were invested and given badges by the Scoutmaster.

Last Friday the Scouts had a hike which took them to Gibson's Hill, where a large camp fire was built, and the afternoon spent in playing various games.

It is expected that on Saturday next an all-day hike will be held when the Tenderfeet will be given an opportunity to pass their fire-lighting and cooking tests.

SEE AUTOMOBILE FOR FIRST TIME

CHARLOTTETOWN, Dec. 2.—(CP).—Margaret Grace, six, and Ronald William, five, children of George Laing, wireless operator at Cape Whittle on the lonely Gulf shore near the Strait of Belle Isle, saw a horse and an automobile for the first time when they arrived here with their mother after their father had been transferred to a station in the Maritimes.

The children were extremely anxious to see a train and were greatly surprised to see the throngs of people leaving St. Dunstan's Basilica, wondering where "all the people were put."

Mrs. Laing, a native of England, spent seven years on Cape Whittle with her husband who was operator of the radio beam station here. She described Cape Whittle as a "very small rock, six miles from the mainland. On the rock is also located a lighthouse.

Accompanying Mrs. Laing to Charlottetown on the Canadian Government steamer Aranmore were Mrs. Fred Osborne, wife of the lighthouse keeper at Belle Island, North East, and two children, and Mrs. M. Thomas, wife of the lighthouse keeper at Belle Isle, South West, who left for Port Burwell, Ont., to spend the winter with her son, a radio operator there.

There are no horses in the Canadian Labrador as there are no "made roads," Mrs. Laing said. "We travel by dog team in the winter and during the summer months motor boats, about 30 feet long, are the only means of transportation."

The Laing family resided in the village of Harrington Harbor, a fishing village, during the winter months—about nine months of the year—where the children attended school which is conducted under the Quebec Educational system. There is also the Grenfell Mission, a Hospital and an Anglican and United church. Fishing and hunting are the only industries.

Only two steamers call at the point where they were stationed, the Aranmore and Sable Island. Last year for the first time an airplane landed at their lonely settlement with mail.

Although the temperature dropped below zero, the weather was no more severe than in Ottawa where she resided for some time, Mrs. Laing said.

India Goes Dry In Small Areas For Prohibition Experiment

Idea Popular With Hindu And Moslem But It Is Question Of Revenue

CALCUTTA, Dec. 2—(CP).—The Congress ministries now in office in seven Indian provinces have been too busy with budgetary and land problems to bother much about constitutional conundrums. They are set on economy in government, larger expenditure on social services and a much better livelihood for the rural poor.

When Pandit Govind Ballabh Pant took office in the United Provinces he faced the thankless task of paring the budget for administration cost and increased outlays on schemes for the peasants' welfare.

Congress wants to spend heavily on the education of the poor, on improving their methods of earning a living, on giving them better surroundings, better sanitation and so on. It wants to develop the work that previous governments have done under all these heads. At the same time it wants prohibition because of the harm, it says, drink does to the poor. In this program it is supported by orthodox Hindu and Moslem opinion, to which the drinking of alcohol is repugnant.

With the caution that has marked their proceedings so far, Congress ministries have decided at first to experiment with prohibition only in one or two small areas in each province, with the aim of realizing total prohibition in three or four years. The first to go "dry" is the district of Salem in Madras Presidency, where a prohibition officer, a European, is in charge of the experiment with local committees. Congress ministries have exempted Europeans.

Prohibition is not easy in a vast country with provincial, centrally-administered and state territory intermingled, not to mention French and Portuguese India. But Congress has strong faith and a stout heart. Recently at Salem, Indians with crowbars broke bottles of toddy ("country liquor"), carried others in funeral processions and buried them, held weird ceremonies to exercise the "drink evil."

Popular With Parties

Prohibition is popular with Indian parties whatever their creed but its financial results will make provincial governments think. Excise duties on Indian-made liquor give them from a fifth to a quarter of their total revenue. The rest comes from chiefly land revenue and stamp duties.

The new constitution has filled the legislatures with representatives of the rural masses, who are constantly reminding governments of their election promises, especially those relating to the land. Assemblies have debated their demand that the peasantry should be relieved of half of the present land taxes. Ministries also want to discourage litigation. That means a smaller yield from stamp duties on top of smaller revenue from land and excise.

Actual loss of revenue so far has not been serious as ministries are acting cautiously, but in view of possible difficulties in the future they are looking round for additional or alternative sources of revenue.

In four provinces the ministries (one non-Congress) have passed or are contemplating legislation that has both objectives: and this legislation is at the expense of the zemindars or landholders, all Indians.

To the man with radical ideas in India the typical zemindar is a good-for-nothing rack-renter (oppressive landlord), who, if not actually an absentee from his estates, is indifferent to his tenants' welfare.

The zemindars retort that for centuries they have been the country-side's leaders, solicitous of its people's welfare and that the Indian cultivator can be made richer not by taking money from his landlord but by curing him of thriftless ways and uneconomic methods of production.

The zemindar system is prevalent in four provinces: Bengal, Bihar, Orissa and the United Provinces. Elsewhere the peasant mostly has the state as his direct landlord. Those four provinces have all elective legislatures composed mainly of representatives of the tenants, hostile on the whole to the zemindar class. The result has been legislation that has made the zemindars voluble in protest and active in organization. The United Province government has obtained the passage of a bill stopping court proceedings against cultivators in respect to all but the most recent arrears of rent due to land holders, stopping also suits for the enhancement of rent, ejection of tenants and so on.

Fear Class War

The landholders protest that now cultivators were withholding even current rent and that they are being ruined. The ministry retorts that these complaints are unjustified. In Bihar by 96 votes to 27 the Assembly has agreed to the government's proposal to tax agricultural incomes, in other words the landholders' incomes.

At the opening of the session thousands of peasants swarmed round the Assembly Chamber shouting "down with the zemindars." The zemindars met in solemn conclave and decided that if the tax and a Tenancy Bill were enforced they would start civil disobedience.

In Bengal, where the ministry consists of a coalition of Moslem parties, a Tenancy Bill was hastily introduced in the Assembly and passed despite protests by zemindars and their sympathizers, including some Congress newspapers. Most of Bengal's peasants are Moslems, while majority of the landholders are Hindus.

A Calcutta Congress newspaper, deploring the priviliges that the Bill takes from the zemindars, fears that if the ministry goes on like this, "we shall be in for a class war perhaps sooner than many of us expect." Class-war, Socialism and Communism are bogeys haunting many Indians of the propertied middle-classes, according to their own statements.

In Madras the Congress ministry has brought in a Bill providing for a moratorium on cultivators' debts to private creditors, pending comprehensive measures for dealing with rural indebtedness.

The Madras agricultural classes owe their creditors thousands of dollars. The relation of state, landholder and peasant is the biggest domestic question in the provinces today.

CAMPBELLFORD

A. J. Meyers and Forest Dennis were the winners at a stag bridge party held on Monday evening under the auspices of the Campbellford Tennis Club. The evening formed part of the plan sponsored by the individual members to assist in reducing the clubs' deficit. Wilbert Kingston was the host of the evening.

SEES MODERN ART ON LOW LEVEL

CHELMSFORD, Essex, Dec. 2.—(CP).—Some modern art and literature reflects a definite swing towards a low moral level in the opinion of Rt. Rev. Henry Wilson, Bishop of Chelmsford.

He declared the so-called "new morality" was actually the "old immorality." It was a moral squint which puts bad in the place of good.

"We are invited," he said, "to admire a statuary which portrays figures with the face of a gargoyle and the body of an ape with its limbs dislocated."

It had also appeared in literature. He had read a biography which lauded King Charles II., another work which whitewashed Judge Jeffreys—the "hanging judge"—and still another which disparaged the work of John Wesley, founder of the Methodist Church.

"We are now awaiting authors who will tell us that St. Francis of Assisi habitually over-ate and died leaving vast wealth; that King Herod had a great love for children and that Nero was deeply attached to his mother and fainted at the sight of blood."

SILVER FOXES MORE POPULAR

CHARLOTTETOWN, Dec. 2.—(CP).—Silver Fox was enjoying a popularity that would go on increasing year by year, said George A. Callbeck, Summerside, P.E.I., manager of the Fur Department of the Canadian National Silver Fox Breeders' Association, on a visit here.

"Fashion will occasionally call for changes in the color phasing but the inimitable beauty of Silver Fox will always have a special appeal to women. I believe there will continue to be a profitable market for high-class Silver Fox skins, and hence a permanent field for the keenly-observant rancher who will apply himself to produce the kind of article required."

Although a decline had taken place in the price of skins since 1934, Silver Fox was now in good demand and prices had been generally maintained since the London March sales, Mr. Callbeck said.

"Of the unprecedented numbers placed on the sales last year fewer than 17,000 skins remained to be offered on the London October sales, in comparison with 25,000 skins a year ago.

"Silver skins are still selling for higher prices than those of other color classes. Full Silvers of the October sales registered a slight price decline, while the half-silver skins were in good demand at prices fully equal to those of the June sales.

"The demand for Silver Fox is being maintained, and barring further serious European complications firm prices are anticipated."

Fear 2 Fishermen Huron Victims

ST. IGNACE, Mich., Dec. 2.—(AP).—Two young fishermen who set out from St. Ignace Sunday to lift a net apparently perished in Lake Huron although Coast Guardsmen continued to search for them to-day.

The missing men are Carl Mattson, 26, and Raymond McLean, 29, both of St. Ignace.

A coastguard crew from Mackinac Island station made a futile search for them yesterday.

Mattson and McLean were in a 16-foot row-boat.

LEGION TO HOLD AMATEUR NIGHT

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Dec. 2 — Marmora Branch No. 227 Canadian Legion met in the Legion room on Monday evening with the president, Comrade T. Cousins, in the chair.

It was decided to hold an Amateur Night in the Town Hall on Friday, December 10, the proceeds to be for the Christmas Cheer Fund.

Initial plans for the Christmas Cheer work were drawn up and a committee was appointed to meet the village and township councils with a view to getting their co-operation for a Santa Claus parade as held two years ago.

St. Paul's A.Y.P.A. met in the Rectory on Monday evening for the regular meeting, the president, Joyce Smith, occupying the chair. Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell opened the meeting with prayer. Ewart Haacke then followed with an interesting talk on his visit to England when he attended the Coronation ceremonies and also had the experience of attending some English boy schools. The various features of his talk were followed closely by his hearers. Final arrangements were made for the attendance of branch members at a social evening in Belleville on Wednesday evening upon the invitation of the Christ Church A.Y.P.A. of that city. The branch decided to make a grant of ten dollars to the missionary apportionment of the parish.

EMPRESS A POET

TOKYO, Dec. 2—(AP). — Empress Nagako wrote today her second poem since the outbreak of hostilities in China, dedicating it to the spirits of Japanese slain in battle.

Composed in the ancient "Uta" form known only to a handful of classicists, the poem compress a single thought into 32 Japanese syllables. It reflects the Japanese faith in immortality:

"Take sweet seeming sleep
"In the name of the sovereign
"Thou spirits of the brave
"Who sacrificed for the homeland."

Britain To Consult Dominions Over German Colonies

Three, Australia, New Zealand And South Africa, primarily Concerned

LONDON, Dec. 2—(CP Cable)—Great Britain is to consult the dominions over Germany's old colonies. Three dominions are primarily concerned—Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa.

These three dominions all hold former German colonies under "C" mandates. The Union of South Africa holds Southwest Africa. Australia holds German's former territory of New Guinea. New Zealand has Samoa. Great Britain, Australia, and New Zealand jointly administer the small island of Nauru.

Under "C" mandates a former colony is administered by the mandatory power as an integral portion of its territory, subject to safeguards in the interests of the native population.

Great Britain herself holds former German East Africa, now Tanganyika, with part of Togoland and the Cameroons. These are held under "B" mandate, stiffer than the "C" class of mandate. This requires the mandatory to promote to the utmost the material and moral well-being of the inhabitants, to abstain from militarization, to repress slavery, and to maintain equal economic opportunity for all members of the League of Nations, plus the United States.

Great Britain and France made it clear in their joint communique yesterday they cannot consider Germany's colonial claims "in isolation." Otherwise expressed, they are willing to consider revision of mandates providing Germany is prepared to make a material contribution to a peace system which would end the arms race and restore Europe to normal conditions.

Stirred Italians

Because of a speech he made at Toulon, France in which he stated "war with Italy was bound to come" Cesar Campinchi (ABOVE) French naval minister, almost caused serious diplomatic complications until the Italian government indicated it had received "satisfaction". Italian newspapers aroused public feeling to the extent extra police guards were placed about the French embassy in Rome. The French naval ministry declared the quotation was "complete invention."

Duce Holds Japan Invulnerable To Britain, U.S., France

Claims China's Hopes Suicidal In Thinking She Can Get Outside Aid

MILAN, Dec. 2—(AP). — Premier Mussolini's newspaper Il Popolo d'Italian warned China today she could expect no help from other powers in the conflict with Japan and advised her to ask Japan for peace terms.

The editorial, generally ascribed to Mussolini himself, while offering this counsel, referred pointedly to the recent inconclusive Brussels peace conference.

"If China still believes in any assistance of a collective character," the newspaper said in part, "this means it is destined to suicide.

"It may displease the humanitarian spinsters but public opinion now holds that the cannon roaring in the Far East will be heard louder and louder in the present and future meetings at Geneva and elsewhere."

Informed persons saw in the suggestion that China seek peace terms a possible hint of Mussolini's willingness to mediate.

"Collective action having failed once more, it remains only for China to demand Japan's peace conditions," Il Popolo d'Italia said. "These conditions may not be as severe as one might think.

Changing The East.

"But one thing is certain—Japan is changing the geographical map in the Far East, and anyone who thinks differently has taken the wrong bearings."

The article said:

"Now the first American participation in a European conference for collective action for which participation the Chicago speech has ignited such flames of hope has had a sequel unhappier than ever.

"Norman Davis (the United States representative at Brussels) henceforth will be convinced there is never any need of convoking conferences the futility of which would be clear to a baby.

"A little knowledge of history, geography and the forces in play are sufficient to convince one that nothing may be done against Japan. What, can the United States, France or Great Britain do separately against Japan, or together? Japan is invulnerable."

New Cardinal

Here is the latest studio portrait of the Most Rev. Arthur Hinsley, archbishop of Westminster, who is one of the five new cardinals named recently by Pope Pius XI. The son of a Yorkshire carpenter, Dr. Hinsley attracted national attention when he defended Italy's program of conquest in Ethiopia after it had been denounced by the Archbishop of Canterbury.

FIND CAPRICORNI IS THREE STARS

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 2—(AP). —The naked eye sees B Capricorni as one of the sky's brightest stars.

The telescope shows it to be two stars.

Now, Dr. Roscoe F. Sandford, using a spectroscope attached to one of the Carnegie Institutions Mount Wilson Observatory reflectors, discloses it as three.

"Binaries, two stars revolving about a common centre of mass, are comparatively common," the astronomer said to-day.

"But to find a system of three stars is unusual. In fact, in ways it is the first of its kind discovered."

If the "Fission" theory is correct, one star breaks off from another and the two go whirling around in a ring-around-Rosie, and "always they keep the same face toward each other," said Dr. Sanford.

"In the case of B Capricorni, the larger star might have given birth to another and then the daughter became the mother of the third.

"The daughter and grandchild rotate about a common centre of mass over a period of 8 2/3 days. While they keep up this motion, they together rotate about a common centre with the grandparent star over a period of 1,275 days.

The baby star is about the size of our sun, the mother is four times as large and the grandparent is six times as large as the sun.

ICE BOWL BATTLE

KING ISLAND, Alaska, Dec 2 (AP) —The Eskimos will have their New Year's football classic, too—the ice bowl battle for the Arctic championship.

"Coach" Ken Chisholm showed the islanders motion pictures of famous games in the United States. They look to the sport like a baby seal to water.

Both teams will use Notre Dame's system, which Chisholm played at Santa Clara University before he joined the Rev. Bernard Hubbard, "Glacier Priest," on Alaskan exploring trips.

CHINESE TROOPS ON EDGE OF TRAP

NANKING, Dec. 2—(AP)—A Japanese drive toward Wuhu, Yangtze River port, 69 miles southwest of Nanking, threatened today to bottle up thousands of Chinese troops defending the nation's capital.

Chinese commanders were expected to disclose soon whether they will follow advice of foreign military experts and save a dozen of their strongest divisions by withdrawal or stake all on a finish fight just outside the city walls.

Retreat under fire would be virtually impossible across the broad Yangtze, north and west of Nanking. There are no bridges and river craft would be at the mercy of Japan's warplanes.

Japanese were advancing steadily from the east, and retreat to the south would be cut off if Wuhu fell into Japanese hands.

Until today, when the Japanese advance on Wuhu and Nanking became more threatening, it was thought Chinese could retreat to the southwest, enabling Japanese to capture Nanking without a decisive battle. The retreat could have been covered by a stand at the semi-circular defenses some 30 miles east of the city.

SERVICE IS HELD BY YOUNG PEOPLE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

OMEMEE, Dec. 2. — On Sunday evening the Y.P.U. of Trinity United Church, Omemee, took charge of the service. Mr. Edward Lopes, vice-president, was in charge, in the absence of Mr. Arthur Williamson, president. Miss Dorothy Dayman gave the address, in which she compared "Life" to a tree, and in a most helpful and inspiring way brought a real challenge to the congregation to guard well the way in which their lives were being lent.

Rev. P. G. MacTavish, following the address, conducted a reconsecration service, in which the congregation was asked to stand, expressing their willingness to reconsecrate their lives to the service of God.

The choir rendered a suitable anthem, and Misses Mary Faulkner, Doris Vaughan and Jean MacTavish sang a trio, "Nun Danket."

Despite the stormy evening, a large congregation was present.

Helen Menken Scores Success In Radio's 'Second Husband'

Feminine Lead Is One Of Broadway's Most Versatile Actresses

Helen Menken, starring on the radio in the Famous Actors' Guild production, "Second Husband," grew up in the theatre. The glow of the footlights has been upon her ever since the night, when she was five years old, that she first appeared on the professional stage as one of the fairies in "A Midsummer Night's Dream" at the opening of the Astor theatre in New York. Now a reigning favorite of the stage and one of its most versatile and accomplished actresses, Miss Menken has turned to radio to bring the theatre as near as possible to its widespread audience.

In Many Hits

From that part in "A Midsummer Night's Dream" to the present moment, Miss Menken's active life has been built on the skeleton of successively important roles in the theatre, highlighted by an extraordinary chain of successes, until her position in the foremost rank of today's actresses has become unchallenged. Shortly after "A Midsummer Night's Dream" she appeared in "Humpty Dumpty" and then for many months was in "The Pied Piper of Hamelin." Subsequently came "Mr. Hamlet of Broadway" with Eddie Foy, and "The Silver Star" with Adeline Genee. Her dramatic experience was extended by playing in stock companies touring the United States.

Then came the roles of Blanche Amory in "Major Pendennis" with John Drew, and Virginia Embury in "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath." Her first great personal triumph was scored in the role of Miss Fairchild in the greatly successful "Three Wise Fools." Several appearances followed, both on Broadway and on the road; and then her career was punctuated with another exclamation mark of public acclaim when she created the wistfully appealing role of Diane in "Seventh Heaven," a part that she played again in 1927 when she made her first appearance on the London stage, at the Strand theatre.

Recently Broadway has seen her in "Congai," "The Infinite Shoeblack," "Rock Me, Julie," "Saint Wench," and Maxwell Anderson's "Mary of Scotland." A member of the Chicago Civic Shakespeare society, she has played with that company in New York as Portia in "The Merchant of Venice," Calpurnia in "Julius Caesar," and Ophelia in "Hamlet." At the Empire theatre, in January, 1935, "The Old Maid," a play by Zoe Akins, opened with Miss Menken in the role of Charlotte Lovell. A hit from its opening night, "The Old Maid" won the Pulitzer prize and added generously to Miss Menken's laurels as a ranking actress.

Exhilarated by Radio

Blonde, captivatingly vivacious, and completely charming to everyone from the neighbor's cat on up, Miss Menken is enthusiastic about radio, and she's enjoying her role of Brenda Williams in "Second Husband" as a new and refreshing experience in drama. Intensely alive herself, she is exhilarated by radio's precise rapid-fire technique. And she is eagerly looking forward to television, which she is confident will extend radio's already broad scope and add another phase to the development of drama on the air.

Miss Menken, who is a sister-in-law of Bert Lytell, lives quietly in an apartment overlooking Central Park in New York. One of her most beloved possessions is Jockey Boy, a dog she won in a charity raffle held by stage hands during her appearance in "Seventh Heaven."

Miss Menken likes to tell of the time she took Jockey Boy to a performance of "Seventh Heaven."

In the play she had a cruel sister who beat her as they made their entrance upon the stage. Hearing her screams, Jockey Boy dashed out on the stage to her aid, in full view of the audience. The audience didn't mind but the producer, John Golden, was furious. That was Jockey Boy's first and last stage appearance. He never left the quiet of her dressing room again, screams or no screams.

Admiration

John Timmy, 20-year-old Detroit youth, was arrested in Los Angeles for allegedly sending a $1,000 extortion note to Marion Davies, seen here in a recent pose. Timmy had walks of his rooms covered with pictures of the film star.

After a December broadcast, Bobby Breen will give away a record on one of his songs in "Hawaii Calls" to any blind person who writes to him. The child star foots half the cost himself and his producer-boss, Sol Lesser, pays the rest. Studio figures on calls for at least 5,000 records.

If you can believe M. G. M. Hollywood contains only one squirrel trained for picture work. The studio tried to get it for "The Girl of the Golden West," and found it was working at another studio. An attempt was made to persuade an ordinary tame squirrel to eat out of Jeanette MacDonald's hand, but it was no go. So they are having to shoot around the sequence until a squirrel actor can be found.

Chatter. . .Hollywood hospitality must have quite a reputation down in South America. Twenty-two members of the Bogota Typica orchestra of Colombia have informed Grace Moore that they'd be glad to be guests over the Christmas holidays . . .The Raymond Scott Quintet walked out on Selznick in a huff when he wanted them to wear white wigs and knee britches in a picture. Working for Zanuck now, they'll do their number, "Minuet in Jazz", in "Sally, Irene and Mary". Their costumes for the number will be white wigs and knee britches . . .Nice tribute to Jimmie Anderson, Al Santell's assistant on "Having a Wonderful Time". Sixty girls in the picture presented Jimmie with a wrist watch on his birthday. And Ginger Rogers, the star, baked him a cake with her own hands . . . . And no wonder Harold Lloyd is filmland's most popular magician of the moment. He is learning some of his tricks from "Alexander the Great," who lives on a yacht at Balboa.

Speaking of hair, Shirley Temple goes to bed each night with hers done up in bobby pins. She has natural curls, of course, but her mother keeps them in order this way. Mrs. Temple also tells me that Shirley's hair has grown much darker in the last two years. As a child, Mrs. Temple's hair was about the color of Shirley's. Now it is dark brown, almost black.

Personalize Gifts With Monogram

He may like the shirt or muffler you give him, the sterling buckle or tie case may be just what he wants, you may be thanked profusely for giving a robe or pyjamas, but if you want to double that thanks see to it that what you give him is monogrammed!

By having his initials placed on his gift you immediately take it out of the "gift for anybody" class and make it his alone! And in most cases the addition of his initials will not increase the cost of the gift too much. As a matter of face, there are any number of things to give him that have metal initials that can be clipped on without delay. However, fabric gifts generally have to be embroidered and that is why we suggest that you buy his gift in plenty of time.

Band Spreading
TUNE IN SHORT WAVE as Easily as Local
Marconi, with Band Spreading, ushers in a new era of tuning ease. You don't have to hold your breath to tune in short wave. You have all the scope in the World to bring in your favourite stations in full, rich, resonant tone, actual "face to face" reception. Think what this means in added entertainment. Think of the fun in store as you embark each evening on a simplified "Marconi Tour" of the World's great radio stations. Remember, Marconi has everything — Ten-Station Automatic Tuning, Electric Tuning, exclusive Exponential Baffle and Band Spreading, the greatest forward stride of the day in simplified tuning. So why be satisfied with less when Marconi brings you so much more at no extra cost.

Actually it is easier to tune short wave on the Marconi band spread dial than to tune your local station on standard broadcast. The reason is simple: on the new Marconi dial the standard broadcast band and each of the five short wave bands have separate scales as shown on diagram, upper left, each clearly marked and extremely easy to read. Old style receivers had one scale for standard broadcast and only one scale for all five short wave bands, shown at lower left. That means many stations crowded into very short space, making separation and tuning very difficult.

Fans Strong For Chihawks Whether Good-Bad Hockey

Owner McLaughlin Suffers No Reverses As Result Of Non-Winning Team

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Chicago somnow continues to be one of the best hockey towns on the North American continent, the Blackhawks apparently suffering no blight from their cellar status of last season.

There are several odd features about the popularity of the Blackhawks, aside from their drawing power when they are not playing good hockey. They have a way of busting loose with a surprising game just when the customers begin to mutter that they are all washed up as turnstile chumps. Then the customers warm up again and it takes several bad games to get them in a swearing off mood again. They always put over that win-em-back performance just in the nick of time. The psychological effect is just like that birdie on the 18th green that brings back the golfer after he has sworn off as a result of dubbing 17 fairways and greens.

Even Canadians Not As Loyal.

Hockey fans in other cities, especially the Canadian centres, are perhaps more appreciative of the finer points of their national game than are the fans on this side of the border. But they don't turn out with the dogged loyalty that Chicago followers of the Blackhawks display season after season.

Hockey in Chicago is almost exclusively a game for Chicagoans and citizens of the immediate environs. Few persons living 250 miles in several directions from Chicago scarcely know who the Blackhawks are, what they are doing or anything more about hockey than that it is played on skates by men swishing sticks.

Because hockey games are not finished until 11 o'clock at night, morning papers can not carry detailed stories of games in all mail editions. The afternoon papers the following day present warmed over details, but emphasis is placed on personality features, which are interesting enough to the hockey sophisticates, but not worth the printers' ink in so far as stimulating interest of the hot sports from the outposts is concerned.

Small Towners Most Rabid

Small town sports fans usually are the most rabid once the interest is stimulated. The Green Bay pro football team is one of plenty of proofs that the boys from the small cities are great fans. The Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals can supply bales of evidence of the way the small city fan warms up to his sports. And how about Indiana basketball.

The Hawks have on their list of regulars a few of these small town fellows who fell for hockey after attending a game or two quite incidentally. But, as we started to say, a Chicago hockey crowd is almost exclusively a crowd of persons who live in Chicago and immediate vicinity.

And this group has convinced the Hawk ownership that it will keep coming out with just an occasional shot in the arm in the form of a game which the Hawks win from an infinitely superior team. No effort is made to increase the establishment 'sucker list.

Major Moves Efficiently.

That, perhaps, is why owner Frederic McLaughlin is so smug in the handling of his team. Other hockey nabobs harp on the fact that if the major would spend $50,000 in build up his team he would get back $150,000 to added business. But the major just puts another rubber band on his hockey wallet to further entrap the moths therein. And forthwith enjoys bigger gates than those of his advisers.

Announcement of the appointment of Lionel Conacher, formerly Canada's outstanding all-round athlete, to the vice-chairmanship of the Ontario Athletic commission was made Wednesday.

SCORED FROM OUTSIDE

GREENS TRIUMPH 1ST TOURNAMENT ARMOURIES CLUB

Armouries Club held the first club tournament of the current season last night (Wednesday), it being a mixed doubles affair entirely. Bill Brown captained the winning group, fittingly classified as the Browns, and Dr. Jack Green had charge of the Greens, who won 8 matches to the Browns' 12. The strength of the club was pretty well divided as the complete tally indicates.

The type of badminton on exhibition was possibly the best so far displayed in mixed doubles competition. One of the finest struggles of the night was that between Dorothy Moore and Bob Hewitt and Mrs. J. Mathews and Dr. Jack Green; the first two just pulling out a win in three smart games. Hewitt, hitting 'em hard and often, was extremely effective. Bill Brown himself came through with all sails flying as he and Mrs. (Dr.) Green turned back Doris Ackford and Al Drynan on a count of 15-5, 15-9. Mrs. Johnny Sparrow and Ken Anderson impressed with a close three-game triumph over Marcelle Garvey and Gord Armstrong. Fire two games were split on extra points, and the last score was 15-11. Both men frequently engaged in a personal feud, with the girls getting in many deciding shots at the net. Mrs. Sparrow plays a man-sized sort of game, and Miss Garvey was getting away with some mighty expert kills.

Comedy features were supplied in part of Noel Rishor, giving erratic support to Miss Jennie Batten until he began to hit his stride in the dying moments of the match. Complete game scores were not kept, but a list of the winners is as follows: Dorothy Moore and Bob Hewitt over Dr. J. C. Green and Mrs. H. Mathews; Ken Anderson and Mrs. J. Sparrow over G. Armstrong and Marcel Garvey; Jean Harvey and Toby Westbye over Mr. and Mrs. Morphet; Mrs. K. Sheehy and J. Gillespie over Isobel Reid and Jack Richardson; Helen Cole and Howie Shields over Aileen Comstock and G. Rishor; Jack Richardson and Isobel Reid over Mr. and Mrs. G. Maniece; Mrs. V. Selkirk and Max Rishor over Dr. Preston and Mrs. Preston; Mr. and Mrs. L. Copp over Dorothy Finnie and L. Sorby; Mrs. (Dr.) Green and Bill Brown over D. Ackford and Al Drynan; Vi Davidson and D. K. Anderson over Mrs. Clifton and Gord Tollington; Mr. and Mrs. G. Putnam over Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Allin; Mrs. H. Walker and Russ Kitchen turned back Dr. and Mrs. Preston in a torrid tussle only after three very close games; Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Lewis over Mr. and Mrs. George Cunningham; Myrtle Burns and Cliff Cadd over Mary White and Grant Gillespie; Elizabeth Scott and J. K. Sheehy over Jennie Batten and Noel Rishor; Mr. and Mrs. Art Jones over Amy Soulby and J. Baker; Mrs. L. Dawe and J. G. Lewis over D. McGregor and Helen Banks; Miss Donohue and Bob Baker eked out a win over Col. and Mrs. C. H. Stuart, first two games being taken on points and winning the last 15-8; Dorothy Finnie and L. Sorby over Pat McClelland and Ernie Braund; Vi Davidson and Grant Gillespie over Mrs. G. Hall and Gordon Dobbin.

Final score—Browns, 12; Greens, 8.

Remember When—

(By the Canadian Press.)

Tommy Farr, then Welsh light-heavyweight boxing champion, won a dull-10-round decision over Eddie Wenstob of Viking, Alta., at London, two years ago to-night. There was nothing dull about "Tonypandy Tommy" when he stunned experts on August 30 this year when he stayed 15 rounds with Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis.

Harry Low Takes The Count

Flat on his face on the canvas, Harry Low is shown being counted out by Referee Harry Hance at Wednesday night's boxing show here. The local fighter was kayoed in the third round by Art Darnbrough of Toronto, who will represent Canada at the British Empire Games.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd C' ackle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

ONE OF the smartest rugby teams to ever represent P.C.I. will be seen in action here Saturday 'gainst Runnymede in a sudden-death senior school Ontario grid final. Starting at 2.15 in Riverside Park. Coach H. L. Bamforth has a well-balanced, tricky outfit that will make a real bid for a Provincial pennant in this fixture, and the contest rates a record crowd of fans. Runnymede represents the Toronto district senior school teams, while P.C.I. mopped up on the C.O.S.S.A. competition. The visitors no doubt will be just about as classy as the St. Mike's squad that rubbed out P.C.I. here a year ago, but the locals look extra strong this year. They have speed, beef and a flock of tricky open plays. Plus first-rate hoofing. A dandy team.

* * * * * * *

IN HIS fourth year as coach, Harvey Bamforth has moulded together a powerful Provincial contender in senior school ranks. Every season he breaks in a bunch of new players and every season his team is away up in the race—having won the C.O.S.S.A. title the past three years! So fans should support this smart squad, and the customers will have no complaints—they'll see a swell scrap for the flag. Incidentally, the majority of the Orfuns are P.C.I. grid grads, such players as Marsh, Weir, Magee, Giardino, Williams, Gerow, Broadley, Grosse, Pulkinghorn, Hendren, Ascott, Archibald, McIntyre and Sloan. Curtin and Creighton of the present P.C.I. team also performed for a season with the O.R.F.U. intermediate entry.

* * * * * * *

YE ORFUNS play Dundas on Saturday in the first of their home-and-home O.R.F.U. intermediate "A" finals with the Red Bombers. Return joust, points counting, will be Dec. 11th. It is for the Ontario title and the Montreal Rocklands, Quebec intermediate champs, have challenged the winner to play a sudden-death tilt for the Dominion championship—there being no intermediate winner in Western Canada. Rocklands suggested that the Dundas-Peterborough series be a sudden-death game this Saturday, and the Dominion title could be settled in another sudden-death scrap a week later.

* * * * * * *

HOWEVER, the O.R.F.U. ordered the two-game Ontario final series and this will stand. Lou Brooks, local club prexy, said Orfuns might be interested in such a series after the Ontario championship is settled—if Orfuns won out and enough dough could be raised. Dundas has agreed—if that team wins—to play Rocklands a sudden-death contest Dec. 18th. Of course, the Montreal rugbyists may decline to play at such a late date. Anyway, that's the dope as it stands now.

* * * * * * *

THERE IS much confusion about town now as two grid playoffs are scheduled for Peterbirough this Saturday. Both the P.C.I.-Runnymede tilt and the Dundas-Orfuns' scrap. The former definitely will be played at 2.15 in Riverside Park, while efforts are still being made to change the spot for the latter game. It was originally billed for Dundas or Hamilton, but the O.R.F.U. secretary failed to notify Dundas officially and the latter club paid a guarantee for a special train to bring the team and supporters here this Saturday. They claim it can't be changed now and that the O.R.F.U. will back them. Orfuns apparently have no grounds to play on here, unless they put on an am. tussle at Riverside or move to the Exhibition Grounds. It is a heck of a mess but may be cleared up today or tomorrow. Neither the P.C.I. nor the Orfuns should be blamed as both have tried to cooperate on this matter. It is too late now for P.C.I. to switch—as they offered to do—and they have given Runnymede a $75 guarantee as well as a cut of the gate. It is the fault of the O.R.F.U. and that body should fix it up.

* * * * * * *

RIVERVIEW A.C. put on a good fight card at the Brock yester gloaming and some 700 fans braved the cold to yodel and cheer the action dished up by the gloved gladiators, three of them Toronto pugs and the rest local leather-ladle-outers. It was a successful show and the customers stayed to the finish and seemed to enjoy it—all but a couple of judges' decisions that had a slightly sour odor. Even the grapple match was okay, although Referee Gene Hurtubise could have taken them both on handily! Our congrats to Norm Bowler and his buddies for bringing back the boxing game. They now hope to run another show, maybe using the same four guys that appeared in the last two bouts, in re-matches. This show is planned for right after New Year's, if a suitable place can be obtained.

* * * * * * *

TWO KAYOES marked the card, the curtain-raiser ending abruptly when Izzy MacIntosh chipped a bone in his elbow and his surprised 85-pound opponent, Buddy Redmond, was the winnah by a technical knockout! You could have bowled him over with a crowbar. Bill Joiner nudged out a nod over Mal Packenham in a pretty fair encounter, the victor's margin not being too big. Jerry Belland blasted his way to a handy decision over Jack Chamberlain, but the latter was game and kept slugging back. French Bousley had it over Pat Jordan with hard blows to the head, but the referees gave it to Pat. The latter put up a good fight and outboxed Frenchy, but Bousley staggered him in the second and cut his face. We figured Bousley a close winner.

* * * * * * *

ART DARNBROUGH of Toronto had too much experience and too much right hand for Harry Low and won by a kayo in the third. Len Minicola was given the decision over Joe Genovese of Toronto, the judges figuring Joe held too much, hit in the clinches and was not the aggressor. It was a doubtful one and Genovese should have had a draw at least. He made quite a fuss arguing about it afterward and nearly started a riot. Nick Orlando finished strong against Bev. Carter and got the decision, though the colored boy had a big edge on points the first three rounds with a dandy left—even if it couldn't break a pane of glass. These two latter decisions caused much argument afterward among fans. Some fans feel that local boys should get all the edge, while others think Toronto toreadors should always beat homebrews—but both factions are screwy. Fancy stepping around doesn't mean a thing but aggressiveness does, since it would be a poor fight if each waited for the other to lead. Both bouts could well have been ordered to go another round, and the results might have been interesting. But 'twas a good card.

* * * * * * *

GRAB-BAG: Orfuns have got in touch with Prexy John DeGruchy of the O.R.F.U. over the mixup in grid finals and he has promised to do what he can today . . . . Those draw ducats for the Hockey Club here have not been selling so well lately . . . . And the puck officers feel they may have to tack another nickel or dime on seats for senior "B" games here this winter—as they have a bunch of long trips to make . . . . Girls' City Basketball League has its annual meeting tonight at seven in the Y.W.; prospective teams should be represented . . . . Belleville and Kingston are arguing over who should have three Napanee players, and the O.H.A. will decide which town is closer; both should be ashamed—why don't they develop their own? . . . . Who said: the same to us? . . . . Quinte gang also kick 'cause they've been jacked up to intermediate "A" and group winner plays our group winner . . . . Bobby Coulter's brother Jack is a star backfielder with the Runnymede College squad which will give P.C.I. a battle here Sat'day . . . . Len Minicola's ring absence hasn't slowed him up much; he is still a cool boxer with a hard wallop . . . . Why not pair those two former curtain-raisers, Belland and Jordah, in the next program? . . . . Efforts will be made to run that local intermediate "B" team in the Lakeshore puck group this winter . . . . Orfuns' secretary has published a statement elsewhere tonight . . . . Wish the fare to Florida was only five bucks.

PICK STIRLING ON ALL-EASTERN FOOTBALL TEAM

TORONTO, Dec. 2. — The two-cylinder O.R.F.U. and the little-recognized power packed into its two big games have come at last to win the spangles and strappings of all-stardom. On the sixth annual All-Eastern football team are three 200-pound Sarnia Imperials.

Only unbeaten team in the sector as they prepare to play Toronto Argonauts, Big Four champions for the eastern title here Saturday, the Imperials gained places on the first team for Hugh (Bummer) Stirling, Ormond Beach and Mike Clawson. The other nine positions were filled by Big Four players.

Selected for the Canadian Press by sports writers and coaches, the teams have a total membership of fourteen from the Big Four, seven from the O.R.F.U. and three from the Intercollegiate Union.

Bummer Honored.

Stirling, 207 - pound kicking, plunging and passing back, was given twenty-two first-team ballots by the twenty-three selectors. The 30-year-old Imperial star, greatest of Canadian punters, came closer to a perfect tally than any player considered. He was placed on the All-Eastern a year ago by a much smaller vote.

Runner-up in the voting was the massive Beach, 235-pound giant from Kansas, who is Stirling's plunging partner and rates as the best defensive halfback in the east. In addition he is a brilliant forward passer. Beach was given eighteen first-team votes, far more than he needed to win a place on the 1935 team.

Third Sarnia selection, Clawson edged out Tommy Burns of Montreal for a middle wing position. Also from Kansas, Clawson weighs 208 pounds.

Ottawa Roughriders outnumber other teams with Stan O'Neil at halfback, Arnie Morrison at quarter, Tiny Herman at inside and veteran Dave Sprague at middle. On the All-Eastern for the fifth time in six years, Sprague received seventeen votes to head the poll for linemen.

Except for Clawson, the wingline was taken without change from the Big Four all-star team announced last week. Dave Ryan of Montreal is at centre with Herman and Jim Palmer of Toronto Argonauts at inside. Sprague and Clawson at middle and Wes Cutler of Argos and Jimmy Simpson of Hamilton Tigers at outside.

Only serious challenger of the Sarnia machine in the O.R.F.U., Toronto Balmy Beach placed three men on the second team and Captain Ab Box failed by a scant few votes to win a back position. The Beaches held Imperials to a tie and were beaten later at Sarnia. Third team in the group, Hamilton Panthers, failed to win or come close to winning.

The Beach contribution to the all-stars is Jack Taylor at snap, Bill Irwin at inside and Syd Reynolds at outside. Alex. Hayes, veteran Sarnia quarterback, who, a few years ago, was one of the fleetest backs in the country, won a second-team place.

First team—Ormond Beach, Sarnia, flying wing; Stan O'Neil, Ottawa, half; Hugh Stirling, Sarnia, half; John Ferraro, Montreal, half (second defence); Arnie Morrison, Ottawa, quarter; Dave Ryan, Montreal, snap; Tiny Herman, Ottawa, inside; Jim Palmer, Argos, inside; Dave Sprague, Ottawa, middle; Mike Clawson, Sarnia, middle; Wes Cutler, Argos, outside; Jimmy Simpson, Hamilton, outside.

Alternate team—Ted Morris, Argos, flying wing; Abe Eliowitz, Montreal, half; Huck Welch, Hamilton, half; Bob Isbister, Argos, half (second defence); Alex Hayes, Sarnia, quarter; Jack Taylor, Balmy Beach, snap; George Horning, McGill, inside; Bill Irwin, Balmy Beach, inside; Tommy Burns, Montreal, middle; Andy Anton, McGill, middle; Bernie Thornton, Queen's, outside; Syd Reynolds, Balmy Beach, outside.

Stewart Hailed As Referee's Friend Yet To Challenge Official Decision

Bille Stewart is manfully living up to the promise that he made himself when he took over the Hawks. He has yet to challenge the decision of a referee.

"It's better to go along with the officials than to be continually on them" is his motto. Recently in Detroit the writers there had a chance to compare Stewart and Jack Adams. The latter who is known as "Jolly Jack" away from his bench, really goes to town when he thinks a referee is wrong.

"We were very bad" is all Stewart would say regarding a recent game when it was suggested that officials may have been at fault. So William still continues in a unique role.

He claims a record in hockey and recalls a time when he was handling a game in the old Canam that he and Ag Smith penalised thirty-five players in one game.

Stewart believes his big task is to restore confidence in the Hawks. They are starting to believe in themselves. There is Doc Romnes who is well up on the scoring list as pacemaker. The team last year had been so derided that they lost faith in themselves.

Now they are figuring out they can make the play-offs. There is no longer a defeatist attitude.

Those who were prone to scoff at Stewart at the start of the season, are now inclined to think he has a little something on the puck.

In the meantime Bill goes along making no claims, other than promising action. He believes the club will start to justify his confidence in them. He also refuses to rate the other clubs and holds to the theory that his main worry is his own club, and the other managers can look after their own aggregations. In the meantime he still qualifies as the 'Referee's Friend.'

Lively Boxing Program Held By Riverview A.C.

Two Knockouts And Couple Of Doubtful Decisions Staged Before Good Crowd

A crowd of 700 fans yelled agroval last night at the Brock St. rink as seven lively boxing bouts and a wrestling match were staged by the Riverview Athletic Club. Two knockouts, one of the technical variety, and a couple of booed decisions sprinkled a good program. Art Darnbrough of Toronto kayoed Harry Low in the third round of their bout, and Buddy Redmond won by a technical K.O. over Izzy MacIntosh when the latter had to leave the ring with a fractured elbow at the end of the first round of the curtain-raiser.

Harry Hance refereed the fights, while Gene Hurtubise was third man in the ring for the wrestling. Judges were Archie Menzies, Jerry Coughlin and Jack Revoy. Jack Withers and Fred Scates did the announcing, and Don Weese was timekeeper. Norm Bowler of the Riverview A. C. was the promoter.

Toronto Pugs Lose

In the three main bouts, featuring Toronto-Peterborough pugilists, local fighters were given two of the decisions, the other ending in a kayo for the visiting ringman. Len Minicola was given a close nod over Joe Genovese, and Nick Orlando had a close one over Bev. Carter. In the prelims, Bill Joiner outpointed Mal Packenham, Jerry Belland earned the decision over Jack Chamberlain, and Pat Jordan got a questionable decision — which was booed — over Frenchy Bousley. In a lively exhibition of wrestling, of the pro style, Scotty MacKenzie defeated Harry Burford, both Toronto middles, with a fall in 20 minutes.

The curtain-raiser saw Redmond and MacIntosh, 85-pounders, put on a lively round with the latter having to quit at the end when he chipped a bone in his elbow. The first prelim was a lively one with Bill Joiner taking two rounds over Packenham and one being even. Bill had his rival going in the second with a hard two-fisted attack to the head but failed to follow up. It was tamer in the third with Joiner the aggressor but the gallant Packenham staying in there and landing a few.

Belland A Winner

Jerry Belland opened his bout with a windmill flurry that made Jack Chamberlain look bad, but the latter kept fighting and lasted it out. Belland had more speed and condition and earned an edge in every round with two fast mitts and a rushing style, while Jack countered and clinched more. It was a good bout with plenty of action and some hard blows struck. Jack was slowed down considerably and hanging on through the third.

A slambang slugfest marked the go between Pat Jordan and Frenchy Bousley. The former outboxed Frenchy and rapepd him often with straight lefts to the pan, but the Frenchman proved stronger and hit much harder. The first round was about even, with Bousley shading Jordan in the second as he staggered him with a barrage of lefts and rights upstairs, and opened a cut on his face. Jordan rallied in the third and both were slugging hard most of the way. It was anybody's round. The judges awarded the decision to Jordan but it was roundly booed by many of the fans.

The first main bout, of five two-minute rounds, saw Darnbrough put Low to sleep in the third heat. The hard-hitting Toronto welter packed dynamite in a right uppercut and he had his game opponent going in the second round, after they had sparred evenly in the first. Art nailed him twice with rights to the jaw in the third and Harry began to wilt against the ropes, taking a count of one. He went back gallantly for more and Art smashed him to the floor with another hard right to the whiskers, knocking him cold.

Italians Mix It

Len Minicola and Joe Genovese, lightweights, dished up a dandy scrap. Len got the decision but there were boos mixed up in the cheers. He was the aggressor, the cleaner puncher and the harder hitter, but Genovese turned in a great display of infighting and clever boxing. He lost the first round by sparring, but held his own in the second heat. Len tried to measure him in the next two rounds and kept plowing in but Joe tied him up and then pounded him in the clinches. He landed oftener but did not hit as hard. Both finished strong in a hectic fifth round, Len measuring his rival and ripping in hard blows while Genovese slapped the other often but lightly and had an edge on infighting. It might well have been called a draw.

The final fight of the evening saw Nick Orlando get the nod over Bev. Carter, Toronto lightweight who had been undefeated in two years. It was another questionable decision since the Toronto lightweight had a decided edge the first half of the fight with a flashing left hand that scored points repeatedly and had Nick baffled. However, the latter kept boring in and making it a fight and he partly solved the other's style [illegible] hard right smashes to the jaw, especially in the fourth [illegible] the colored boy backing up and punching during the later part of the fight. It was a speedy go most of the way and could have been ordered to go another round. The decision was greeted by boos and cheers.

VAN MUNGO MAKES BURLEIGH GRIMES POPULAR TRADER

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—It is going to be an awful shock to National League umpires to discover for the next week at least the bane of their lives will be the most sought after and popular man in baseball.

The man, of course, is Burleigh Grimes, rough-tongued, pugnacious manager of the Dodgers, who admits, with great glee, he has more suitors than a millionaire's deb daughter and expects even more at the minor and major league sessions in Milwaukee and Chicago.

Next to Grimes in popularity is Horace Stoneham, youthful owner of the Giants, who has a quarter of a million bucks ready to lay on the line to improve his club.

Jake Set To Trade

And running No. 3 in the popularity stakes is Jake Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, who will have a raft of minor league trades to make and jobs to fill.

Grimes has no illusions about the cause of his sudden popularity. He knows every body wants to land his temperamental fire ball pitcher, Van Mungo.

Grimes has held a long conference with the Dodgers' board of directors and while all hands insist Mungo will remain a Dodger unless they get what they want for him, everybody knows it would be impossible for them to keep him.

The Dodgers admit the Giants, Cubs, Pirates, Cardinals and Reds have made offers but they insist nobody has yet offered what they think Mungo would be worth.

The Giants recently denied they had offered Gus Mancuso, Hal Schumacher and Mel Ott to the Cards in exchange for Joe Medwick that would surely be a foolish trade for the Cardinals.

Might Be

But the same trio of Giants might be acceptable in exchange for Van Mungo. Mungo never yet has had a 20-game year, although he might win that many or more for a new club. Therefore, Schumacher figures to win just as many for the Dodgers as would Mungo if they kept him. In addition, the Dodgers would get that slugging left hand hitter and classy catcher Grimes says he has to have if he lets Mungo go.

Bill Terry has said repeatedly he would like to have Mungo and would give more than any other club to get him. Schumacher and Terry never got along very well and there is no doubt he would let Hal go without a qualm. He might let Mancuso go readily enough but it is doubtful if he would want to let Ott slip away.

The Dodgers intimate the Cubs have made the best offer to date, although they refuse to state just what that offer was. But this may be only a bait tossed out to get another and better offer from Terry.

In any event, the Dodgers have given Grimes a free hand to make a deal for Mungo and within a week we should know the result.

Notre Dame-Michigan To Fix Grid Breach

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Dec. 2.—The Wolverines of Michigan and the "Fighting Irish" of Notre Dame last night made tentative overtures which athletic officials believed would lead to a renewal of football rivalry between the two schools by 1941.

Fielding H. Yost, grand old man of Michigan football, said coaches of spring sports at the two schools would confer in Chicago this weekend. He said he had talked informally with Elmer Layden, athletic director at Notre Dame. Their discussions, he said, settled differences that separated the two schools away back in 1909.

LONDON—(CP). — Next year's Amateur Athletic Association's championships will be decided at White City, July 15-16; the second annual international meeting August 1, and the Britain-France match August 13.

FOOTBALL TITLE AT STAKE HERE

Runnymede Collegiate plays P.C.I. Seniors here Saturday at 2.15 o'clock in Riverside Park in a sudden-death final game for the Provincial secondary school senior championship of 1937. Arrangements between these two teams were completed yesterday, the visitors agreeing to the sudden-death game here for a percentage of the gate. Runnymede is the championship squad of the Toronto district, while P.C.I. won the C.O.S.S.A. title. The Western Ontario winner, Windsor, declined to continue in the Provincial playdowns, which left the Toronto and Peterborough outfits to tangle for the Ontario title. A huge crowd of fans is expected at this fixture Saturday as two fine outfits will be battling for a pennant.

Coach Bamforth's squad is in fine shape, everyone being ready for action except Duncan, out with an injury. He will field a strong, fast and tricky team—probably the best P.C.I. senior squad in a good many years. The Runnymede crew are reported powerful, too, and it promises to be a grand game to wind up the school football season. Plenty of wide-open rugby is assured between these powerful young gangs of gridders and, with so much depending on the outcome, fans can bank on about the most exciting fray of the year.

Soviet Russia reports that 234,450,000 acres of grain was harvested in 1937.

ENGAGEMENT

The engagement is announced of Dorothy, youngest daughter of Mrs. Curtis and the late W. T. Curtis, Havelock, to Robert Roger McMillen, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McMillen, Norwood; the marriage to take place in December.

DIED

IN MEMORIAM

LONG.—In loving memory of Robert G. Long, who died December 2, 1936.

What would I give to clasp his hand,
His happy face to see;
To hear his voice and see his smile
That meant so much to me.

—Ever remembered by his Wife, Elizabeth G. Long.

HARRIS.—In fond and loving memory of Evelyn Isobel Harris, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harris, who fell asleep in Jesus one year ago to-day, December 2.

Our lips cannot tell how we miss you,
Our hearts cannot tell what to say;
God alone knows how we miss you
In a home that is lonesome to-day.
Fond are the ties that are broken,
Dear is the one who is gone;
In memory we shall always keep her
Because she was one of the best.
The flowers we place upon her grave
May wither and decay,
But our love for the one who sleeps beneath
Shall never fade away.

—Sadly missed by Mother, Father, Brother and Sisters.

PEACOCK FEATHERS

By—Temple Bailey

READ THIS FIRST:

Jerry, young son of a country clergyman in modest circumstances, look back upon his first romantic episode. As a boy of 12, he had kissed a young Italian girl. A few years later, Jerry goes to Washington for a brief visit, with his wealthy uncle from Colorado.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 4.

On the third day of my sojourn with Uncle Jerry in Washington I was disturbed by something new in him—a change. He found excuses to be away from me; sent me to a matinee alone; left me in the senate gallery for hours while he met some mysterious engagement. And that night he told me with some embarrassment that he would not come back for dinner.

"You won't mind, will you?"

I didn't mind in the least. I wanted to write a long letter to my mother. I decided to take the evening for it, and found it a fascinating occupation to fill sheet after sheet of elaborately lithographed hotel paper with an account of my adventures.

When I finished, Uncle Jerry had not come. I lounged for a while in the lobby. Then I went out and walked along the lighted street. It was too late to attempt to take in a play, so I strolled up the avenue to where it turns at Fifteenth street, and came down the south side.

It was late when I passed the restaurant where Uncle Jerry and I always went for oysters. It was cold outside (have I said that it was in February?) and I was tempted by the thought of the comfort and coziness within. I climbed a long flight of steps to the upstairs dining room. I felt more at ease there with men and women than with the men alone at the downstairs counter. I was given a table far back, and ordered a milk stew.

It was not until I was seated that I saw my uncle. He was at a table by a front window and was eating steamed oysters with his air of prodigious enjoyment. Opposite him sat a woman. In front of her was the scarlet shell of a lobster, but she was not eating. She was talking in a vivacious manner and smiling. Uncle Jerry leaned forward and spoke to her, and his eyes had a warm eager look. I had never seen him quite like that, but I thought him very handsome and the lady pretty.

She had a great deal of blond hair curled across her forehead, and her cheeks were very pink. Few women rouged in those days, and artificial complexions were unusual. But I did not know it was artificial, and, as I have said, I thought her pretty. Not as Theresa was pretty: she was, rather, like the girls on the billboards in front of the theater next door. She had on a silk blouse and it was trimmed with blue. There was a blue rose in her hat, and on her hands were several flashing rings.

I ate slowly, watching Uncle Jerry and the woman. I was glad that I was half-hidden by the people at the tables in front of me, and by an overhanging palm. I had a feeling that Uncle Jerry would not care to have me see him with the little blond woman.

It was while I was in Washington that a thing happened which was to color my dreams for all time to come.

Every day during our sojourn in the city we had gone up to the capitol. Uncle Jerry spent his time in committee rooms—"wire pulling," as he expressed it. There were certain things that he wanted done in his western country, and his vigorous personality was a great asset in pushing his claims.

I haunted the galleries, leaning over the rail and listening spellbound to the thundering of the gods. It was in those fascinating days when Theodore Roosevelt was the sturdy and idealistic president of the United States. The war between him and the legislative bodies was, in some respects, a merry one. It was, indeed, at times as good a tilt as if it had been done with lances on caparisoned steeds. There was one senator from Missouri to whom the name of Roosevelt was a challenge for battle. He denounced in no uncertain terms the arbitrary methods of the chief executive. According to him, young Theodore was a menace to the liberties of the sovereign states. The danger of centralized government was the warning which his voice toiled.

He was a handsome man, with a crest of gray hair and a gray mustache. He wore always a frock coat and a flower in his buttonhole. The elegance of his dress and of his manner was as oldfashioned as the rather florid eloquences of his speeches. And while I resented the epithets which he hurled at my hero who sat in the White House, I was none the less aware of the charm of his elderly and picturesque enemy.

It was on the day that my dream was born that I went into the senate lunch room with my uncle. I remember he had ordered a great planked steak, and that my mind was on it and on nothing else! I was at the moment just plain, hungry boy—rather material, it must be confessed—wanting nothing better at the moment than the hearty food and the steaming coffee that came with it.

Yet in the twinkling of an eye I was transformed. Never again was I to be happy in the way I had been—satisfied to eat and drink and take the days as they came. Henceforth I was to be consumed by restless longings— vague aspirations. Moreover, I lost forever a certain complacency. For the first time I saw myself awkard, crude, a country boy.

The senator from Missouri sat at a table near us. Opposite him was a girl—a girl-child indeed. She was perhaps 13. She wore one of the thin high-collared white blouses which were then fashionable, and a small black velvet hat with a peacock's feather caught up by a buckle. Her waved russet hair was tied at the neck with a wide black ribbon.

But it was none of these things which held me; it was, rather, an effect of poise, of finesse. She kept her eyes to herself. For all her consciousness of them, there might have been no one else in the room. She was vivid, girlish, gay—holding the old man enthralled while she talked to him, using her hands expressively, delicately, so that I was aware of their loveliness—but always there was the effect of being a thousand miles away from the world about her.

Her detachment affected me strangely. I was used to country girls who were embarrassed or overbold when out in company. But here was a girl who did not blush, who did not stare, who was as remote as a fairy princess in a tall tower.

My uncle saw my eyes upon her. "That's Mimmi Le Brun," he said, "the senator's granddaughter."

"Is she French, Uncle Jerry?"

(To Be Continued)

BEDTIME STORY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S KINDNESS

"Well, of all things!" squeaked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy.

"What's the matter now?" asked Mrs. Longears of her muskrat lady housekeeper.

"Uncle Wiggily's old fur coat," said Nurse Jane, holding it up to look at "I put it out on the line yesterday to air and rid it of moths."

"I know you did," said Mrs. Longears. "Don't tell me it is still full of the little pests."

"It isn't that," said Nurse Jane. "But the wind blew the coat on Neddie Stubtail and he ran away with it and Uncle Wiggily, thinking it was himself, chased his old fur coat and now it is so mussy I'll have to put it on the line again."

"I'll do that for you," offered Mrs. Longears. "You go on with your dish-washing, Nurse Jane."

So the muskrat lady housekeeper did, tying a rag on the end of her long tail and souzling it in the soapy water. Mrs. Longears hung Uncle Wiggily's coat on the line again. But she fastened it with many clothes pins so the wind couldn't blow it off.

No Adventure

"Ho, hum!" said Uncle Wiggily as he hopped past it on his way to look for an adventure. "I'm not going to be fooled again today—chasing that old fur coat thinking it is myself. Ha! Ha! Ha! Ho! Ho!"

The rabbit gentleman hunted up and down in the woods, and also sideways, looking for an adventure but none could be find.

"I guess it's too near Christmas," he said, twinkling his pink nose. "Adventures are too busy doing their Christmas shopping. I'll sit down and rest on this flat stump and then I'll go back to my bungalow."

While Uncle Wiggily was sitting on the stump, thinking what a happy time Christmas would be, all of a sudden he heard some squeaky little voices saying:

"Mother, I'm cold!"

"Mother, I'm shivering!"

"Mother, I'm freezing!"

"What's this?" asked Mr. Longears for the voices seemed to come out of the very stump on which he was sitting.

"Oh, it is my little children," said a mother field mouse as she popped her head out of a hole in the stump. "We just moved in here from a corn field where we lived all Summer," she said, "but it is very cold."

An Idea

"Why don't you put some warm fur suits on your mice children?" asked Uncle Wiggily as he saw a number of the little mice peering out of the front door of the mouse hole house back of their mother.

"Alas, we are so poor I cannot buy warm fur coats for my little ones," said Mrs. Field Mouse.

"Can't you?" asked Uncle Wiggily and his pink nose twinkled so fast that it grew quite warm and red in spite of the cold day.

"Alas, no," said the mother mouse.

"Ha!" said the rabbit gentleman. "I have an idea."

"Does it hurt you?" asked the mother mouse.

"Just the opposite. It gives me pleasure," said Uncle Wiggily. "I am going to do you a kindness, Mrs. Field Mouse."

"What do you mean?" she asked in her squeaky voice that shivered in the cold. And the little mice also shivered.

"Send your little mice into the warmest part of your stump house and come with me, Mrs. Field Mouse," said Uncle Wiggily. "I will show you the kindness I hope to do for you."

"I'll tell you about it in the next story which will be named Uncle Wiggily surprises Nurse Jane. But please don't let the Police Dog arrest the fire hydrant for parking too near an automobile.

PARADE BOMBED, JAP TROOPS SEIZE SETTLEMENT

ONTARIO THIRST AT $54,000,000 BEST SINCE '29

Profit Nears $9,000,000 Including, $33,000 Fines

TORONTO, December 3—(CP).—Ontario's thirst approached pre-depression dimensions last year, total outlay for liquor, beer and wine topping $50,000,000 for the first time since booming 1929, Chairman E. G. Odette of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario reported yesterday to the Legislature.

Total sales made under the board's supervision amounted to $54,015,199.31 in the fiscal year ending last March 31. This compared with $49,335,011.41 in the previous year and with $56,360,569.81 in 1929. The 1929 figure is high for Ontario's 11-year post-prohibition period.

Mr. Odette reported net profits of $8,960,600.96 for the 1937 period, compared with $7,862,719.73 the previous year. The 1929 high was $9,681,448.60. Leaving itself a balance of $956,368.75, the board turned over to the Provincial Treasurer $10,000,000 last year.

Liquor stores, beer warehouses and wine stores did a bigger business than in the year ending March 31, 1936. Liquor store sales were up 11.99 per cent at $20,733,367.71, brewery and beer warehouse sales advanced 7.6 per cent. to $31,621,194.25, and wineries' sales increased 17.9 per cent to $1,660,637.35.

During the year Ontario and its visitors consumed 1,294,471 gallons of hard liquor—1,095,456 domestic and 298,925 imported. Beer consumption reached a high of 23,317,146 gallons, and the wine gallonage was given at 1,480,203.

Beer Tops All

Value of beer sold in 1929, fourth year public beverage rooms have been in operation for sale of beer, was $19,621,165.10 as against the 1937

ROEBUCK SNUBBED, NO BID TO CAUCUS

TORONTO, Dec. 3 (CP).—Progress of negotiations for a new contract between the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission and the Beauharnois Light, Heat and Power Company was expected to be discussed today at a Liberal caucus called by Premier Hepburn.

Queen's Park gossip was that details of a new agreement, replacing the contract cancelled by the government in 1935, would likely be made public in a week or two.

Arthur Roebuck, former Attorney-General, was not invited to attend the caucus. A private member since he resigned his portfolio in April, following a difference of opinion with Mr. Hepburn over the Government's Labor policy, Mr. Roebuck was the only Liberal m mber not invited.

David A. Croll, former Minister of Labor and Welfare, who resigned his portfolio at the same time as Mr. Roebuck, and also sits as a private member, received an invitation to the caucus.

CALGARY TO GET AIR FORCE UNIT

CALGARY, Dec. 3.—(CP).—Establishment of a permanent Royal Canadian Airforce unit here is forecast by Defence Minister Ian Mackenzie.

"It is our hope to establish a permanent unit of the R.C.A.F. in Calgary as soon as it is possible to do so, although I cannot say when that will be," he said yesterday in an interview.

He said a squadron probably would be stationed here, but "the number of planes varies of course to the type of squadron."

The base would form a key unit in second line coastal defences, developed as a reserve base.

"Calgary has a very definite place in ultimate air development," he declared, "and is linked up most definitely with coastal defences."

"There is great activity at Albert Head, 12 miles out of Victoria, in connection with the new coastal defence base located there," he said. "The place is like a German military camp—you need a pass to get through the lines. There are 200 men working on day and night shifts."

DRASTIC SHAKE-UP OF ARMY COUNCIL HAILED IN BRITAIN

LONDON, Dec. 3—(CJ Cable).—War Secretary Leslie Hore-Belisha's drastic overhaul of the Army Council was the main topic of discussion in the press, parliamentary corridors and the street to-day, with the general reaction one of approval.

While it is admitted the minister may have taken his political life into his hands and that disappointments are certain to be vented, the step variously is hailed as audacious and timely, and as an act of urgent necessity for the future and safety of the British Empire.

It was stressed the changes as a whole were not an indication of anything approaching a crisis for the service, but were construed as a natural and inevitable policy in the interest of safety and efficiency.

Young Ideas Needed

Mr. Hore-Belisha was particularly praised for his realization, after taking the War Office post, that the soldier must be offered a career with better prospects, and that men with virile, youthful ideas must guide the British army of to-day.

It was pointed out the minister had accomplished both within six months.

In parliamentary corridors the opinion was expressed that criticism was likely to come from friends of army careerists who may feel they have been rather harshly treated. Debate is expected to be provoked in the House of Commons on Monday when Labor will ask for a full statement. Arthur Greenwood, Deputy Leader of the Opposition, likely will raise the question in the absence of

DEATH SENTENCE APPEAL IS WON

QUEBEC, Dec. 3 (CP). — Quebec Court of Appeals today quashed the conviction of Georges Grenier last spring on a charge of murdering his wife and annulled a death sentence imposed on the 34-year-old Sillery resident, by the trial judge.

Grenier was convicted by a court of King's Bench jury of causing the death of his 28-year-old wife May 12 and Judge Lucien Cannon sentenced him to hang June 25. He was granted a reprieve when he appealed the murder conviction a few days after trial.

Mr. Justice Reeves Hall read the Appeal Court's decision, stating "the only actual fact presented to the jury during the murder trial of Grenier was that his wife died of a heart attack."

Trick Able To Make 20 Men Invisible Offered War Office By Magician

London, Dec. 3 (CP).

HORACE Goldin, magician of note, has confounded many an audience with his tricks, but the magic he has wafted in the past is just child's play, he says compared with his latest discovery.

Goldin claims to have perfected a new form of camouflage which renders a person invisible and has submitted his idea to the British war office, believing it could be used effectively in shrouding the movements of troops in wartime.

The idea of the invisible camouflage, Goldin said, had come to him some years ago.

He explains there is a definite limit to the size of the subject to be camouflaged, but declares 20 men could march across "no man's land" into the enemy's general headquarters, capture the officers and never been seen.

Goldin declined to go into details about his discovery.

Santa Claus Is On His Way To Visit Peterborough

Examiner Reporter Interviews Santa Claus on His Northland Special Train

(By Our Own Reporter)

ON BOARD THE NORTH POLE SPECIAL TRAIN. — I had trouble enough trying to find where I could get on this train because it makes so few stops. I found one place where it would halt for water a great distance north of here. When it came to telling train officials I wanted to ride toward Peterborough and interview Santa Claus they were doubtful. No person had ever done such a thing before, but they would find out if it could be arranged. It was cold enough standing on the outside waiting, but I forgot that when the conductor came and said: "Come along. Santa Claus is wide awake and has nothing to do for the next half hour."

I have interviewed a number of people in a good many places, but I had never interviewed Santa Claus before. In fact I had never actually seen him, but I had a fairly good idea what he would look like. The train started away as soon as I got on, and the conductor took me straight to one special coach, opened the door and told me to go in.

And there he was. Just like I thought he would look. Red toque,

FLYING MINERS CRASH

THE PAS, Man., Dec. 3—(CP).—Two young miners, whose names could not be learned, escaped death last night when their small airplane crashed on the ice of Schist Lake in Northern Manitoba. 72, Wed Only Month Nabbed For Bigamy

Hamilton, Dec. 3

MARRIED less than one month ago, 72-year-old Ira Taylor, well-known West Flamboro farmer, was arrested tonight on a bigamy charge by Constable Donald Shervill of the Provincial Police. The officer took the aged prisoner into custody at his home and he will appear in Police Court in the morning.

Taylor married Mrs. Mary Hamilton of West Flamboro on Nov. 6 last, and it is alleged that his first wife was at that time alive and residing in Hamilton.

5,276 TONS GRAPES MADE INTO WINE

TORONTO, Dec. 3 (CP). — Ontario's 31 wineries used 5,276 tons of grapes and 377 tons of cherries in wine-making operations last year, Chairman E. G. Odette of the Ontario Liquor Control Board commented today in his annual report to the Legislature.

He noted marked improvement in manufacturing facilities, substantial expenditures having been made for construction of new plants and equipment. Increased application of technical knowledge by wineries also was noted.

Mr. Odette said 1,143 hotels held licenses to sell beer and wine.

SENSATION HINTED TRANSPORT PROBE BY COMMISSIONER

TORONTO, December 3—(CP).—Regulations of the United States Interstate Commerce Commission should be applied to the Ontario Motor Transport Industry, Fred May of Hamilton, President of the Ontario Movers' Association, said to-day before the Chevrier Royal Transport Commission.

Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier, commission chairman, forecast that proceedings of the commission next week would provide some sensational revelations that would enable newspapers "to flare up headlines."

Cross-examined by Lewis Duncan, counsel for the Automotive Transport Association of Ontario, Mr. May charged one transport company in Ontario offered a driver $15 for a 1,000-mile trip from Hamilton to Drummondville, Que., and return.

May recommended that a government board be given power to make movers come together and enforce a rate schedule.

Fines to Block Hi-jackers

Adoption of "terrific" fines to prevent "hi-jacking and shanghai-ing" of furniture loads was urged by May. He said that if the board had adequate powers to punish offenders the movers could police each other by reporting to the board.

"The present condition in our history is chaotic," he continued. "It is also unfair to the railways. The majority of operators would like to have the industry regulated.

"Selfishly we would like one rate in our industry but that might not be in the public interest."

Operators in the industry were quarrelling and showed no inclination to come together and fix a schedule of rates, he said.

JUST SKIRMISHING

HENDAYE, Franco - Spanish Frontier, Dec. 3—(AP). — Spanish troops, government and insurgent, fought a series of localized, indecisive battle to-day on the Aragon and Teruel fronts.

Reports from both sides said the skirmishing resulted in little change in positions. Artillerymen joined in the fray.

Many auto owners in Czechoslovakia are "de-licensing" their cars to avoid taxes and operating costs.

STAY IS SHORT AFTER POWERS MAKE PROTEST

U. S. Marines Threaten Trouble Over Invasion

SHANGHAI, Dec. 3.—(CP-Havas)—Withdrawal of Japanese troops from the International Settlement's central district tonight ended fears, for the time being, the Japanese army would use today's bombing of its "victory parade" to remain in the Settlement.

Five persons, three Japanese, a Chinese constable and a British police sub inspector were wounded when an unidentified man hurled a grenade at a marching column of 5,000 Japanese soldiers as it came abreast of the Sun department store on Nanking Road.

Killed by Settlement police on the spot, the bomb-thrower was identified as a Korean. A spokesman of the Japanese embassy said he was Chinese.

After the initial confusion the Japanese spread patrols over a large section in the heart of the Settlement. Mounting machine guns at street corners, they extended the zone of occupation westward past the foreign Y.M.C.A. and the Park Hotel, Shanghai's 21-storey skyscraper.

After a few hours during which it seemed the occupation was meant to be permanent, withdrawal orders were issued.

Marines Get Into Dispute.

(The withdrawal was preceded by a dispute between Japanese and United States' marine officers, according to the Associated Press. The Americans protested Japanese troops had invaded the United States' defence sector.

(Immediately after the explosion the Japanese surrounded and cleared an area of some 30 blocks around the scene. Part of the occupied area was United States-protected territory and Colonel Charles Price, the American commander, immediately made a sharp protest. The Japanese agreed to withdraw from the sector.

(Later the Japanese troops were withdrawn from the Department Store district where the bombing occurred and the Shanghai Municipal Council undertook to deal with the incident.

(As a precaution against possible Japanese invasion, French troops were placing sandbag redoubts and barbed wire barriers in the Siccawei Creek area, dividing the French concession from Nantao, which is occupied by Japanese).

The Embassy spokesman said Japan did not intend to use the incident to claim special powers in the Settlement. Asked if the Shanghai Municipal Council would be held responsible, he said: "We hope the Council will not try to evade its re-

Willing For One Unit On The Prairies Bracken Claims

Premier Denies West Looking For Any Handout Or National Underwriting of Uneconomic Industry

WINNIPEG, Dec. 3.—(CP)—Western Canada is not looking for any hand-out from the nation or the national underwriting of an uneconomic industry, though its finances are in a precarious state, Premier John Bracken said today in a new section of the Manitoba brief presented before the Rowell Commission.

"All Western Canada seeks is equitable treatment and some measure of assurance that if it continues production through periods of depression, to the great benefit of the nation as a whole, it may at least expect that a minimum standard of public services shall be provided at all times, but particularly in those periods of distress," he said.

In a nation with such a varied economy as that of Canada, subject to violent fluctuations, national administration of social services was the only fair way of distributing the burden and guaranteeing citizens in all parts of Canada a certain minimum standard of welfare, he contended. Mr. Bracken stressed the disabilities affecting the west.

Consolidation of the governments of the three prairie provinces into one administration has the full support of the Manitoba government, Premier Bracken told the commission yesterday.

Proposed Years Ago

Such a proposal was made by the Manitoba government a few years ago, Premier Bracken said. If a similar proposal again is not accepted any more favorably than the last, there is not much hope, he added.

There were "very great difficulties" in working such a scheme out in a practical way, but he favored a thorough exploration of the possibilities, he said.

The matter was raised by Chairman N. W. Rowell. The commission has received numerous representations from individuals, Mr. Rowell said. Wednesday one was received criticising nine provincial administrations for 11,000,000 persons as wasteful.

This representation suggested consolidation of administration services into five units, one for the Maritimes, one for Ontario, one for Quebec, one for the prairies and one for British Columbia and the Yukon.

The commission would be glad to receive submissions on the suggestion, he said. Mr. Bracken promised to deal with the matter.

DOCTORS BELIEVE WOOD TO BLAME IN TURNER DEATH

WALKERTON, Ont., Dec. 3 (CP)—Counsel in the murder trial of Walter Turner clashed today as they made their addresses to the jury. Turner is charged with slaying his wife at their Dresden, Ont., home last February.

G. C. Elgie, K.C., of Toronto, counsel for Turner, charged the Crown neglected to call its most important witnesses. H. D. Smith, K.C., of Chatham, prosecuting attorney, said it was "none of Elgie's business" whether he called such witnesses or not.

Mr. Elgie referred to the presence in court of the coroner who handled the case, Dr. MacMurchy, and Dr. Kelvin, who first performed the autopsy on Mrs. Turner's body. The physicians were not called to give testimony before the petit jury, said Elgie. "These witnesses were here. Why didn't he call them?"

The defence pies closed with a reference to the eight months Turner has spent in jail since his wife's death. "Surely you men of the jury will send him back to his home rather than convict him on this evidence," said Mr. Elgie.

Skeptical of Axe Blow

Winding up the defence case, Dr. D. Concelli of Toronto said fractures in the skull and body of Mrs. Turner were compatible with falling wood. In answer to a question by Mr. Elgie, Dr. Concelli said the fractures "are more compatible to having been caused with falling wood than with an axe or a pick."

Dr. E. R. Frankish, medico-legal expert and chief crown witness, has testified the three-inch skull fracture had been caused by a strong upward blow from some object. He said he believed a pick or some heavy instrument had caused the injury. He agreed with defence counsel that some of the injuries could have been caused by falling wood.

Dr. E. Henry Bottrell, University of Toronto, testifying for the defence, said it was quite possible the woman had suffered the skull fracture and other injuries by wood falling from the pile in the Turner woodshed. He said that in his opinion neither an axe nor a club could have caused the type of injuries suffered by Mrs. Turner.

REV. CHAS. LEWIS DIES, BELLEVILLE

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Dec. 3 (CP)—Rev. Charles Thomas Lewis, 73, who retired four years ago after a half-century in parishes in Quebec and Ontario, died in hospital today.

His retirement, caused by ill-health, ended 25 years as rector of St. Paul's Anglican Church at Bury, Que. Ordained in his native England at the age of 21, he started parishes in the Algoma and Kingston districts, where he was instrumental in the building of three churches.

Later he was in charge of the parish of Calebogie and then Tweed, leaving in 1899 for Quebec, where he took charge of the parish of Melbourne. Ten years later he became rector at Bury, moving to Belleville upon retirement.

Survivors include a brother, William Lewis of Winnipeg, and a son, Horace N. P. of Toronto.

LOSES TWO SPRINTS

TORONTO, December 3—(CP).—A fleeing alleged thief hardly had a chance in downtown Toronto yesterday. Constable Arthur Keay was in pursuit. Keay is a former Ontario open mile track champion, and in 1929 won the United States Y.M.C.A. championship.

Keay caught the man after a short chase. But the fleeing thief slipped out of his coat and continued his flight. Half-a-block farther on, Keay caught him again.

Later, James Graham, 27, was charged with theft.

Girl Enlists Aid Of 6 Governors In Search For $500 Spouse

Says She Resembles Late Jean Harlow And Two "Match-Makers" Offer To Help

CUMBERLAND, Md., Dec. 3 (AP).—Governors of at least six states have been asked to act as match-makers for a young woman willing to marry "any respectable man in the world for $500 cash."

Miss Maureen Donnelle, who said she was 20 and "greatly resembled the late Jean Harlow," wrote the governors she needed $500 for an operation for her mother and didn't mind marrying to get it.

She gave her address as "Post Office, Cumberland," but the Post Office said it had never heard of her. And neither, it seems, has anyone else in Cumberland.

Gov. Harry W. Nice sent a "small cheque" to Miss Donnelle in care of the Post Office. It also is holding for her a letter bearing the return address of Gov. Richard C. McMullen of Delaware.

Other governors asked to help her find a husband with $500 include George C. Perry of Virginia, George Earl of Pennsylvania, Gordon Browning of Tennessee, and Carl E. Bailey of Arkansas.

INDIAN BURIAL PLOT

BRAMPTON, Ont., Dec. 3 (CP)—Discovery on an Equesing township farm of what apparently is an Indian burial site was reported yesterday. Two copper pots, a quantity of wampum of the disc type and two complete Indian skeletons were found.

A member of the Indian Association of America made an examination of the spot today. The find, A. E. Cooper, authority on Indianology, said, may assume importance as an archaeological find.

Sunday, Day Of Rest For Bunnies Too

Winnipeg, Dec. 3 (CP)

SUNDAY is a day of rest as much for rabbits as it is for humans, it was stated in Police Court here today by Magistrate T. J. Murray, who convicted two hunters for killing rabbits on the Sabbath Day. The fines totalled $50.

A WHITE ACCIDENT

WILSON, N.C., Dec. 3 (AP).—A truck owned by J. Oliver White and driven by Carson White collided with a car owned by John White and driven by his son, William White.

The accident occurred in front of the home of Mrs. J. E. White. The officer who investigated was Robert A. White.

To make the record complete: The truck was painted white and it was loaded with milk.

Scot Pupil Balks At Knitting Lesson, Gets Expelled Till He Will Learn

Perth, Scotland, Dec. 3 (CP)

TO knit or not to knit—that is the question of the moment for the Perthshire education committee.

Here's the situation. An eight-year-old schoolboy of Cupar Angus refused to do knitting as part of his class instruction. His father instructed him to refuse.

Gravely the committee deliberated this defiance of authority and upheld by a vote of 14-9 the decision of a sub-committee that the pupil must conform to school regulations.

A dissenting member of the committee called to mind Scotland's great figures of the past. What would Robert the Bruce, or Wallace or Bobby Burns have said about boys learning to knit in school?

He said: "You are making them sissies enough without making them any worse."

But the committee refused to be turned aside.

The non-knitter is excluded from classes until the parent allows him to knit.

Shortage Of Mice Sends Arctic Owls Pirating In South Ontario

Toronto, Dec. 3 (CP)

SNOWY owls are invading Southern Ontario this winter from the northern barren grounds of Canada.

The large birds—the females have brown marks on all parts of their bodies except the face, but the males are white—only make large scale immigrations to the settled parts of Canada when their favorite dish becomes scarce.

Dr. J. R. Dymond, director of the Royal Ontario Museum of Zoology, said today that the snowy owls feed on lemmings, the long-haired mice of the Arctic.

When lemmings become scarce, as they evidently are this winter, the snowy owls swoop down on Southern Ontario.

YOUNGER BLOOD GETS COMMAND BRITISH ARMY

Minister Demands It On Par R.A.F., Navy

LONDON, Dec. 3 (CP)—In a bold step aimed at revitalizing the high army command with younger blood, the war office today announced sweeping changes, without regard to seniority.

Field Marshal Sir Cyril Deverell, chief of the Imperial general staff, and two other members of the army council resigned to make way for younger officers.

The young, bachelor civilian minister of war, Leslie Hore-Belisha, appointed "Tiger" Gort—Major-General Viscount Gort, V.C.—a dynamic, driving junior major-general as chief of staff and promoted him to general. The changes take effect Jan. 1.

It was the first time in history an officer of major-general's rank was promoted to such an important office. To assist him the war office appointed colonel—acting major-general—Sir Ronald Adam as deputy chief of the Imperial general staff, a position that has been vacant for some time.

It is perhaps significant that both Lord Gort and Col. Adam have had close acquaintance with air problems. Lord Gort is the only British general to hold a pilot's license while Sir Ronald has been actively engaged in air co-ordination duties.

Three Forces On Par

The changes were regarded as in line with Mr. Hore-Belisha's determination to reorganize drastically the army to bring that service up to a fighting par with the Royal Navy and Royal Air Force, which it has been trailing.

In the changes Major-General Clive Gerard Liddell was appointed adjutant-general to succeed General Sir H. H. S. Knox and Engineer-Vice-Admiral Sir Harold A. Brown became master-general of Ordnance, succeeding Lieut.-General Sir Hugh Elles.

Admiral Brown retained his position as director-general of munitions production. To assist him Lieut.-General M. G. Taylor was appointed deputy-master-general of ordnance.

Outstanding "fighting generals" such as Major-General A. P. Wavell and General Sir John Dill will hold area commands, unfettered by duties in the war office or on the army council, in order to ensure against any delays in time of emergency.

Brings Dad's Body

Pictured upon her arrival at New York from Egypt is Princess Almenia Ali, who brought the body of her father, Prince Hadji Ali, to the United States for authorities at John Hopkins university to study. Hadji was reputed to have two stomachs to which he attributed his success as a fire swallower. His explanation was that gasoline he drank to feed flames blown out his mouth went into one stomach, while water with which he extinguished the flames went into the other.

RAILWAYS CLAIM LOW TRUCK RATES ARE DUE TO WAGES

TORONTO, Dec. 3 (CP)—Lower wages and longer hours of motor transport company employees assist in making it possible for the companies to offer a lower rate to shippers than railways, the affiliated railwaymen's organizations of Ontario told the Chevrier Royal Transport Commission.

In a brief filed with the commission yesterday, the organization charged the railways were penalized by the exploitation of the employees of a competing agency of transportation."

The provision of a right-of-way, built and maintained by Ontario taxpayers and free to the highway transport industry was a case of the subsidizing of an industry by the government, the brief charged.

"The railway companies are compelled to build and maintain their own right-of-way and are further forced to pay taxes on such right-of-ways," the brief continued.

"Part of such taxes so paid on such property is used to provide a right-of-way to an unregulated and unfair competing agency of transportation.

THREE OF FAMILY DIE IN COLLISION

BRANTFORD, Ont., Dec. 3 (CP).—Police investigated today a highway traffic crash that took the lives of three members of a Brantford district family within a few hundred yards of their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Cook and their 26-year-old son, James, were killed last night when their automobile crashed with a truck driven by John Sinclair (113 Colborne Street), Chatham. Sinclair suffered hand and facial injuries.

The three occupants of the Cook car were sent through the roof by the impact that wrecked both car and truck. The front of the truck was stove in, while the automobile was folded up like an accordian.

The car was following a farm wagon while the truck was preceded by a dump truck. Sinclair told police the Cook machine swerved out into the path of his truck. He believed the driver of the automobile was either blinded by the lights of the dump truck or suddenly became aware of the wagon in front of him.

Coroner Dr. A. J. Craven and Crown Attorney F. E. D. Wallace ordered an inquest, the date of which was not set. One of the first on the scene was Harold Cook, another son, who was unaware the victims of the crash were his parents and brother. Also surviving are three other children: Edna, Aleta and Elon.

LETHBRIDGE VOTES AGAINST ABERHART

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Dec. 3 (CP)—Carrying the colors of the unity group, Dr. Peter M. Campbell today became member-elect for Lethbridge constituency in the Alberta legislature.

With a majority of 770 in a record vote, Dr. Campbell defeated A. J. Burnap, Social Credit candidate, in yesterday's by-election made necessary by resignation of Hans E. Wight, Social Credit member, when he moved from Lethbridge to Calgary to make his home.

It was the first defeat for a Social Credit candidate in a constituency made vacant by a Social Credit member since the general election of Aug. 22, 1935, when Premier William Aberhart was swept into power, ousting a United Farmer of Alberta administration.

The final count gave Dr. Campbell 3,980 against 3,210 votes for Burnap. The vote of 7,190 exceeded the total poll of 1935 by 529. The number on the voters list was 8,888.

TORIES FIND AID IN FRASER HUNTER PROTESTING BILL

TORONTO, Dec. 3 (C.P.). — Arrangements were complete to-day for the prorogation of the first session of Ontario's 20th Legislature after a session lasting only three days, during which the Government is passing three measures designed to make easier the collection of overdue succession duties from large estates.

As the House adjourned yesterday afternoon, Premier Mitchell Hepburn announced Hon. Albert Matthews, Lieutenant-Governor, who as his first official function opened the Legislature session on Wednesday, would be on hand to prorogue it today. The sitting will last only 15 or 20 minutes, it is expected.

Conservatives in opposing a measure to grant judicial immunity to the Provincial Treasurer, his representatives and appointees in carrying out provisions of the Succession Duty Act had unexpected support from Fraser Hunter, Toronto Lib-

Labor Leader Clement Attlee, visiting Spain.

Britain's Air Strength?

Meanwhile, W. R. Perkins, Conservative, has given notice of a motion which will come up Wednesday, asking for a secret session of the House for a full and frank discussion of the position of British air strength in relation to all other countries within striking distance of the United Kingdom.

Military writers forecast far-reaching changes as a result of the shake-up in the Army Council. It is suggested one immediate effect will be reinforcement of the garrisons at Hong-Kong, Singapore, Egypt and Cyprus.

Among other moves predicted were: A clean definition of the army's responsibilities on the continent; acceleration of the mechanization process, including the territorial army; stimulation of recruiting by increased pay; the calling on officers for harder work, with less regimental entertainment and luxury; and more commissions from the ranks and the placing of a premium on brains and ability over private financial means.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Spasmodic trading in wheat futures led to an erratic session on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day. Final quotations were ⅞ cent lower to ¼ higher, December $1.16½, May $1.13⅞ to $1.14, and July $1.09¼ to ⅝.

Higher North American wheat prices of the past three days tended to check export business. Sales of Canadian wheat were estimated below 200,000 bushels, while sales of United States wheat to European countries was only moderate.

Prices responded easily to light buying or selling. December wheat advanced 1¼ cents, while July moved ahead 2¾ cents at top levels. However, futures occasionally eased below yesterday's close. Volume of business was not large, involving local spreading and inter-market trades.

sponsibilities, which will be determined only by inquiry."

Britishers Almost Mobbed

A few minutes before the bombing a British lawyer named Maitland was almost lynched by Japanese civilians when he seized a Japanese flag from one of them and broke the staff across his knee.

An angry crowd milled around him. He was rescued by police.

When the parade passed the great world amusement centre a Chinese hurled himself to death from the third storey. On the window sill before he leaped he shouted: "Long live China!"

Japanese held the victory parade despite protests of foreign officials and municipal authorities, who had feared an outbreak from the 3,000,000 Chinese residents.

Hundreds of Japanese troops were marching along Nanking road, in the heart of the settlement, when the bomb exploded in their midst. Those near the explosion broke ranks, taking cover in doorways of the rich department store section.

Frightened Chinese civilians stampeded. A rifle cracked. Japanese troops rushed to the spot where the rifle was fired, and found that an excited Japanese soldier had discharged his gun. The soldiers surrounded the district. Order was restored. The parade re-formed.

While the conquerors paraded, fighting went on. Chinese asserted their troops still held Kiangyin forts, the Yangtze River barrier Japanese must take in order to bombard Nanking from naval vessels.

Chinese denied Japanese assertions 13 Chinese planes were shot down at Nanking yesterday. They said Chinese anti-aircraft guns destroyed four Japanese craft.

Threat From Tokyo.

TOKYO, Dec. 3 (CP-Havas).—Unless effective control is established in the Shanghai foreign areas over anti-Japanese activities, the Japanese army will be compelled to step in to maintain peace and order, an army spokesman said here today after receipt of news of the bombing of Japan's "victory parade" in Shanghai.

The spokesman declared control of anti-Japanese agitation in the international settlement and French concession was "not satisfactory" despite the repeated warnings of the Japanese Commander-in-Chief at Shanghai, General Iwane Matsue.

London Concerned.

LONDON, Dec. 3 (CP Cable).—Grave concern is felt in London over the menacing situation in Shanghai.

R. G. Howe, the British Charge d'Affaires in China, is on his way there from Hankow, but several days must elapse before he can arrive. Owing to fighting, the train in which he is travelling has to proceed via Hong-Kong, from where Dr. Howe will go to Shanghai by sea.

He is travelling over a rail route which the Japanese have already bombed. The Japanese government, which has been notified, has given assurances that the safety of the train will be respected.

Mr. Howe is accompanied by small parties from the British Embassy and the French Consulate.

BRIDGE HARD ON BISHOP

BRANTFORD, Ont., Dec. 3 (CP)—Bridge is good discipline, according to Bishop C. A. Seager of Huron. In an address here, His Lordship declared he was the worst player in the diocese. "I therefore find it pretty hard to maintain a Christian spirit when I note my partner's expression of disgust or the searing gleam in the eye of an opponent when I make a blunder," he said.

TWO GREAT CITIES ARE COMPARED BY REV. DR. WALLACE

(Examiner Correspondence)

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 3.—A large gathering attended the illustrated lecture sponsored by the Young People of St. John's United cruch on Monday evening.

Rev. Archer Wallace, author, editor and preacher took as his subject "The Tale of Two Cities" around which he wove an interesting story of the contrast between two of the world's greatests cities, London and New York.

A frequent visitor to both cities the speaker declared that one of the most significant things happening today was the standing together of the British and American people. They were closer together now than at any time in history. Newspapers he said were one of the greatest mediums for prompting understanding between the two nations the speaker declared.

Rev. Wallace supplemented his lecture with over 100 beautiful slides depicting many scenes in both cities.

St. Andrew's Y.P.S.

Miss Reta Hutcheon, the social convenor, was in charge of the program at the meeting of St. Andrew's Young People's Society held on Monday.

The topic "What our Church is doing for the Young People," was given by Rev. B. Simpson Black. Mrs. Roy McGee gave an interesting report of the conference held in Port Hope.

During the business portion of the meeting the members were urged to investigate the sale of tickets for the lecture which is being given in the church next Tuesday by Ken Weldon, entitled "Vagabond Adventures."

Youth Group Meets

Mrs. C. Sharp was in charge of an interesting program of games which were the feature of the Monday meeting of the Campbellford Youth Group held in the Salvation Army Citadel. The evening was begun with a short devotional program after which the business period was conducted by the president. Following a lunch which consisted of hot dogs and coffee, the meeting concluded with the benediction.

A.Y.P.A. Session

A humorous reading by Mr. H. Thomas formed an interesting part of the program presented before the weekly meeting of the Anglican Young People's Association held on Monday. The president, Mr. R. C. Ramsden, presided and also favored the young people with a brief impromptu talk on the subject of life insurance.

During the business portion of the meeting a sum of money was voted to the Wardens, as a contribution to the church treasury. A committee was appointed to make arrangements for the dance to be held in the Parish Hall on Friday, Dec. 10th.

MERCHANTS FORM NEW ASSOCIATION

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, Dec. 3.—The Millbrook Business Men's Association was organized at a meeting of the merchants of the community held in the Town Hall on Monday evening, the following being the slate of officers:

President, R. A. Ford; vice-president, D. R. Fowler; secretary-treasurer, Harold Bigelow; executive—Ivan Gray, N. Chiles, and George Ellsworth, junior.

Improvement of local business conditions, stimulation of Christmas trade, friendship and good fellowship are the objectives in view, the business men being on hundred per cent behind the organization. The yearly fee was fixed at two dollars, and after the New Year it is hoped to arrange a regular schedule of meetings, with occasionally an outside speaker to address the members.

With a view to improving Christmas trade locally, and prevent too much outside buying, coupons will be given with purchases at all stores, and each Saturday night until Christmas week Reeve P. Stinson will make the draw, before the Town Hall, at 10 p.m. Christmas Day coming on Saturday, the draw will probably be made on Wednesday evening of that week.

Ten dollars is the amount to be given in the weeky draw, divided five, three and two, each holder of a lucky number to be awarded dollar scripts, to the value of the prize money won, good for the purchase of goods in any store of the village.

The numbered coupons are already in the various stores and with each purchase of merchandise will be distributed; the first draw will be on Saturday, December 4, at ten o'clock in the evening in front of the Town Hall square.

MILLBROOK

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Edmunds and family have moved to the fine large white brick residence, King street, which he recently purchased, and which was, in former years, the homestead of the late T. G. and the Misses Mary and Annie Kells.

Mrs. John James Russell, who has not been in good health for some time, was taken to the Port Hope Hospital on Monday, for treatment.

Mrs. John Hatherly, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Will Jones, and Mr. Jones, in Toronto, returned home at the week-end.

Mrs. F. P. Johnson spent the last week-end with her daughters, Miss Beryl, of Detroit, and Mrs. (Dr.) Clifford Reynolds, of Toronto, the three going on to Owen Sound and visiting another daughter, Mrs. J. Jackson, and Mr. Jackson, before Mrs. Johnston returned home.

Mr. George Hales, a former Millbrook boy, and now residing in British Columbia, is home for a visit with his sister, Miss May Hales.

Inspector F. D. Rendal, of Toronto, was in the village on Wednesday, making his official visit to the Continuation School.

16-tube performance
This greatest of all Marconi receivers embodies all the latest features known to radio. Fan-spreading on all short-wave bands. Electric tuning dial, plus the exclusive Marconi Exponential Baffle. Beautifully matched walnut cabinet..... $324.00

Actually it is easier to tune short wave on the Marconi band spread dial than to tune your local station on standard broadcast. The reason is simple: on the new Marconi dial the standard broadcast band and each of the five short wave bands have separate scales as shown on diagram, upper left, each clearly marked and extremely easy to read. Old style receivers had one scale for standard broadcast and only one scale for all five short wave bands, shown at lower left. That meant many stations crowded into very short space, making separation and tuning very difficult.

A Thin Kind Of Loyalty

We have had cases in this country where children have been barred from school for refusing to salute the flag, and there have been a number in United States. Whether all countries have them we do not know.

Federal Judge Albert B. Maris made a ruling in court at Philadelphia affecting two children who were attending one of the rural school not far from the city. They had refused to salute the flag at school and had been expelled. The father of the children took the case to court and the ruling of Judge Maris was that children shall not be compelled to salute the United States flag if they consider this a violation of their religious beliefs. Actually it is not the religious beliefs of the children which are at stake, because the children are undoubtedly doing as they are directed by the parents.

Apart from that we believe there is a certain degree of substantial merit in the ruling of Judge Maris. The reason for having children salute the flag of United States is to give them a feeling of loyalty for the emblem of their own country. And that in itself is right and proper. But we can conceive of nothing poorer or thinner or more anaemic in the shape of loyalty than a salute delivered to a flag by a child or an adult who does not want to do it, and who salutes only for fear of the consequences of refusing.

"Flannel Foot" Arrested!

It is said on the authority of Scotland Yard that his name is Henry Williams, and we learn he was sentenced to prison for five years for burglary.

And Henry Williams was the famous "Flannel Foot," who has been playing with Scotland Yard for a quarter of a century and never before was he caught. Just how the police of Old London are certain they now have the real "Flannel Foot" is not stated.

There will be a good many otherwise law-abiding people in London who will feel a bit of regret that "Flannel Foot" has been taken. He has furnished Londoners with a good deal of entertainment for years. He never did pull a very large job in the world of burglary; he never attacked or injured people, but he was remarkably clever. So clever he could not be caught. It was his custom to telephone Scotland Yard on occasions and tell them he had returned to the city and was intending to start operations once more in a certain section. It is said he has even called to tell police of some place he visited and robbed and given a fair account of how he had done it.

Just how he happened to trip up at the end of his 25 years of freedom is not stated. The dignity of Scotland Yard may be less ruffled now that "Flannel Foot" is in prison. For 25 years London has smiled broadly at the exploits of this remarkable burglar and the smile was also extended to include the efforts of Scotland Yard to try and capture him.

Not A Good Plan

When Attorney-General Conant moved first reading to the amendment to the Succession Duties Act he explained that it had been found one of the important provisions of the Act might not be entirely constitutional. The purpose of the amendment which the Government proposed to pass was to make this particular section capable of operation.

It is difficult to agree with that sort of reasoning or with that sort of action by an governing body in this country. Whether we agree with the constitution or disagree with it does not alter the fact that the constitution remains as the sandard against which all enactments have to be measured.

If there is a section which does not conform with the provisions of the constitution then the mere fact that a legislature says such section shall be declared workable does not change matters at all. The weak or objectionable section which is recognized as not being entirely constitutional will continue to retain its inherited weakness, and the time will arrive when it will be challenged and defeated.

Not A Failure

When the infantile paralysis epidemic was at its height a few months ago there was a suggestion made locally that there should be a clinic arranged where the zinc sulphide spraying of the nose could be carried out as a preventive measure. There were many places where it was done, and United States entered more heartily upon it than did the people of Canada.

In Ontario there were 5,000 cases treated by this method, and the results showed that it had little or no merit at all. It is explained that much of the work was not properly done; possibly in the haste which generally accompanies anything which is being done to meet an emergency the necessary technique might have been ignored or have been only partially observed. Whatever the reason, the spraying system for which so much had been promised turned out to be a failure.

A failure in such work is not necessarily a failure in the accepted meaning of the work because it has identified that course of treatment as being not the proper one to take. That in turn means that research workers have been told and warned not to expend any more of their valuable time in that direction. In that way what seems to have been a failure has actually made its contribution to the quest for the proper method.

The German Method

Reference was made in this column recently to an utterance by the New York Times urging the necessity of joint action by United States and Britain in dealing with a good many problems which are facing the democratic nations of the world.

An utterance by the Times on such a question is considered of sufficient merit to quote elsewhere in the world and it was at once cabled to Germany. It was not well received there. Berlin newspapers considered it highly offensive.

They went farther and demanded that the United States government should take immediate action to stop such articles appearing in the Times, and if the government did not do so then it would be considered as favoring an attitude such as was enunciated in the editorial columns of the Times.

Apart entirely from what the New York Times had to say the reception accorded its editorial in Germany and the suggestion that the Times should at once be denied the right of further utterances gives to our people a fair idea of what the press censorship in Germany would mean if applied in United States or in our own country. The New York Times is probably the greatest paper in United States; it is not sensational. It has the greatest world news service of any paper of which we know. Its columns are clean and well-edited. When the Times speaks of an international question it is reflecting its own views honestly and sincerely and all the money in United States could not influence those views. A voice such as that is a national asset; the highest form of free speech and freedom of the press. When the Times pointed to the similarity of British and American interests in world matters it was merely saying something which was true and which needed saying in United States. There are places in United States where its views would be as vigorously resented as it was in Berlin.

The German idea would be to suppress such a paper to the point where it could not speak what it believed to be true; where it would have to print only that of which the government would approve. It is the good fortune of United States that it has a New York Times, and also the good fortune of United States that the Times will not be suppressed.

Slot Machines Are Illegal

A case which had its origin in Kingston becomes one of province-wide interest. It started when action was launched against a bylaw which placed a license of $500 against slot machines in Kingston. The first hearing upheld in part the Kingston bylaw, but Hon. F. R. Latchford, Chief Justice in Appeal, has since given a ruling which quashes the Kingston bylaw governing the licensing and regulation of slot machines. The reason which Mr. Justice Latchford gives for his finding is that the Kingston bylaw attempts to deal with something which is already dealt with under the Criminal Code which does not recognize or countenance slot machines at all. According to the Chief Justice in Appeal they are "as definitely gambling devices as roulette wheels."

Ontario has a regular hodge-podge of regulations in various municipalities for governing these machines, and it is about time we seriously aproached the business of securing uniformity. There are municipalities where the fee for the machines has been placed as high as $1,000, and that is the fee in Preston, Guelph, and North Bay. The reason for the fee being placed at that figure is to make it prohibitive and it works out that way in practice. No test case has ever been taken against the $1,000 fee because none of the machines operate in those municipalities.

In London there is a fee of $500 for each machine, but only a few of them are operated. In Toronto there is a bylaw which bans slot machines entirely on the ground that they are gambling devices and therefore illegal. We believe Ottawa has for some time had the same sort of a civic bylaw.

The real point seems to be that the municipalities are seeking to regulate something which is already dealt with in the Criminal Code, and local authority has not yet reached the point where it can challenge or supersede the provisions of the Criminal Code. In view of the finding and decision of Hon. R. F. Latchford the municipalities have but one course open to them, and that is to abide by the provisions of the criminal code which says that slot machines are gambling devices and therefore cannot be operated at all.

He Lived In Fear

A story from Sudbury tells of a man being convicted in court, and sentenced to Guelph Reformatory; tells also of his escape from there and then also of his subsequent arrest on the charge of escaping. That is not an unusual experience because most people who do escape from prison are rearrested. But this one from Sudbury is different. There is as much human interest in it as we have read about for weeks.

Fred Austin Mullen is the man in question. He says he was arrested in Ottawa for forgery and sentenced to Guelph, although he claims the real culprit in the case was never arrested. When he was in Guelph Reformatory he was visited by his wife who told him she was on relief in Toronto and there was danger of their children being sent to the shelter. Mullen said that was too much for him and at the first opportunity he walked out.

Making his way north Mullen secured a position working in a mine, but found his health was breaking from working underground. He sent for his wife and children, and then turned to building houses. He built and sold three and the fourth he retained as a home for the family. His next move took him to Connaught where he purchased a saw mill, and he was making a success of it, doing well enough—when he was arrested.

That is not the experience of the average man who escapes from prison or who leaves after having served out his time. But the intensely interesting part of this story has not yet been related. It is this: Mullen told court he felt a certain amount of relief when he was arrested because he had always lived in dread of the fact that such a thing was going to take place. Everywhere he went he said he was certain he would meet some individual who knew he had been in jail and that he had run away from it. He was always looking for the officer to come to place a hand on his shoulder and take him into custody and from that feeling he found there was no escape. The Crown Attorney at Sudbury said he did not intend to press for any additional sentence for having escaped from Guelph on account of the reocrd which Mullen had made since leaving the Reformatory. He has still to settle his score with the authorities at Guelph but it would seem advisable that as soon as constiuted law and authority sees fit to do so this man should be returned to civilian life. Apparently his wife and family are his chief concern. But he has never been able to rid himself of that feeling of being wanted and he lived day after day in dread of the moment when he would be discovered. He did well after he escaped but that shadow he could not remove from his path.

ALL ONE WAY

¶ John Joseph works most every day, and he pulls down a goodly pay, and he lives well indeed; and idle days come not to him, nor does he have to carve and trim, nor shorten on his feed.

¶ John Joseph is an active jay, at times he has a lot to say, about the worker's right; he is outspoken on his stand, he tells folk what they should demand, and how they ought to fight.

¶ In fact John Joseph's quite the rage, in speaking on a goodly wage, one higher than before; he gives addresses here and there, and tells the men it is but fair, that they should ask for more.

¶ But when John Joseph goes to buy, he never likes to bid up high, a bargain is his pet; if he needs shoes some time this week, for hours he'll wander forth and seek, the cheapest he can get.

¶ And if he wants a suit of clothes, John Joseph nearly comes to blows, he's harder than a vise; he says the merchant's robbing him, and taking both his bones and skin, he wants a sweat-shop price.

¶ John Joseph likes the goodly pay, that he can pull down every day, he'll take all they will give; but there his vision seems to end, for he will never go and spend—so other folk can live.

The United States Chamber of Commerce estimates that in the period between 1920 and 1929, dwelling houses were built in the United States at the rate of 677,000 a year and that since 1931, however construction has averaged only 165,000 dwelling units, about as many as are annually torn down and destroyed by fire. The boomerang, the strange weapon used by the Australian aborignes is carved out of the hard wood of the desert trees—the two-colored mulga and the "dead finish," a curious prickly shrub continually dying at its tips but one of the hardest and strongest of Australian woods. The boomerang is cut on the bevel as it were and will not lie flat. From the hand of a native it whirls round and round in the air to a great distance and then wheels to return and fall near his feet.

Novel Spear Points.

THE AUSTRALIAN natives used to make their spear tips of stone or obsidian but when the telegraph lines were taken across Australia the aborigines soon discovered that insulators made an excellent material for spear points when properly cut and insulators became few and far between. There was so much stealing indeed that the Government made the theft of insulators a capital offence.

However the natives did not go very long without glass for their spears. They found that wherever the white man went he took bottles with him and the territory along the tracks across the Australian desert was strewn with empty bottles, with all the shine worn off them by the continued abrasion of the sand. Now the black man gets his glass for spear tips very easily. All he needs is a bottle, a piece of cloth and a three-inch nail. With the cloth as protection and the nail as a file, he makes the most symmetrically grooved triangles of glass to suit his purpose.

Will Publicity Help to Prevent War?

John Bull Using Plenty of It to Tell of Armament; Lets the World Know He Is Now Well Prepared

(H. T. F. Franklin, in Cleveland Plain Dealer)

GREAT BRITAIN is advertising her war preparation so widely and so busily that no observer can escape the impression that Downing Street hopes a heavy flow of printer's ink will prevent a flow of blood.

Another inescapable impression is that when so much is told, there must be in reserve a great volume of secrets to be revealed only if the worst comes—and that it is the desire to create exactly that impression on the continent.

Governments manage to keep fairly accurate account of what other governments are doing about armament and all the other arrangements that contribute to making war. But their people do not know what is going on, and they cannot be officially told. Therefore the impression among them as to what their neighbor and possible enemy, is doing, is taken almost wholly from what the neighbor gives out.

One of the things the British government is letting people know about is the weakness of the radio broadcasting system in case of air attack. It was popularly supposed that radio would give warnings of air raids, but the authorities say no, because if the system were in operation the enemy could use its beams as direction finders.

Engineers are trying to take away the radio comfort from a possible enemy, but say they have worked out nothing satisfactory. One idea they say they are considering is that of throwing all stations temporarily into the same wave band. Their confused talk about this subject is a fair indication that they have developed what they believe would be a devastating surprise to enemy fliers.

Further indication that the British understand how vulnerable the airplane has made them is the announced installation, through the country generally, of additional and unusually high-powered fire fighting apparatus, far in excess of peacetime requirements. Their theories of attack and defense have undergone many modifications since 1914.

When Lord Halifax Visited With Hitler

Much Useless Speculation Regarding What Was Said; Correspondents Built Their Reports on Surmise

(By F. D. R. in Brantford Expositor)

THE VISIT of Lord Halifax to Berlin in order to talk matters over with Hitler has led to all kinds of rumors, including that of a Cabinet disruption as Secretary for Foreign Affairs Eden was alleged to have been ignored in connection with the trip.

Surmises of this sort are largely built up by special correspondents who, when they find themselves barred from first-hand information, follow the plan of surmise.

The usually well informed Manchester Guardian says that there are two ways whereby Nazi aspirations can be met (1) by meeting some of the legitimate complaints of Germany and by satisfying her colonial ambitions and (2) by giving Berlin a free hand in Central Europe if a return of colonies is abandoned.

To the last named suggestion the London Times makes the indignant intimation that Great Britain would never agree to any arrangement sacrificing the freedom of others.

For its part the London Mail hails the Halifax visit as "another example of Mr. Chamberlain's vigorous new policy, aimed at a friendly understanding between Britain and Germany. . . . The time appears to favor the Prime Minister's latest effort to bring stability in Europe.

It seems to be certain that a difference of opinion has been aroused among the Government leaders at Westminister but not to the extent of any rupture.

In addition the visit to England of the French Premier and his Foreign Secretary in order to talk matters over confirms the impression that matters are at this writing in the debating stage.

Under the Treaty of Versailles Germany ceded all her overseas colonies to the principal Allied Powers.

She thus lost in Africa the Cameroons with England and France as joint mandatories; Togoland, Great Britain as mandatory; South West Africa, Union of South Africa as mandatory, and East Africa, Great Britain and Belgium as mandatories.

These territories comprise a large total area and in population at the time of relinquishment some eighteen thousand Germans and about thirteen million natives.

In addition Germany gave up in the Pacific, the Marshall Isles, ceded to Japan as mandatory; Samoa, New Zealand as mandatory; New Guinea, Australia as mandatory, and Nauru Island, British Empire as mandatory.

Hitler has made more or less continuous references to his desire for the return of these former possessions in which, by the way, German rule was neither uplifting nor successful.

Recently, however, he made the assertion that their return could not be expected for at least five or six years and a great many people seem to think that the cry for them has been raised for the purpose of winning support for his designs in other directions. Meanwhile, as The New York Times editorially remarks, there is reason to believe that the talk Lord Halifax had with Hitler and the subsequent conversations upon his return with the French representatives in London and members of the Chamberlain Cabinet "may prove very influential, if not decisive, in determining the course of European history in this generation."

So far the outstanding fact is that Great Britain and France are still linked closely together in an identity of purpose on behalf of preserving the peace of Europe upon an equitable basis.

Doris Duke Must Be Worried By Wealth

It is Said She Does Not Know How Much She Has; May Be Ten Millions or Again the Total May Be Eighteen

(From the Ottawa Journal)

DORIS DUKE CROMWELL, heiress to the Duke tobacco fortune, must be feeling a bit confused these days, what with Christmas coming on and a shopping list to be worked off. Mrs. Cromwell was 25 the other day and automatically came into possession of one-ninth of the Duke millions.

But the trouble is nobody seems to know how many millions there are for her, and the best estimate the Chicago Daily News has been able to secure is from ten to eighteen. Apparently, says the News, Mrs. Cromwell won't know for sure "until the wagons grind up the driveway and the man with the shovel comes in to say 'Where do you want it, lady?'"

And that makes it pretty tough. A poor girl going out to buy Christmas presents, and not knowing whether she has eighteen millions or only ten! Must she get her husband a good book, or can she afford that gorgeous dressing gown and a case of matched pipes? Can she send Aunt Maria a ticket for a Mediterranean cruise, or must Aunt Maria be content with a real hand-painted vase? Because after all, the difference between eighteen and ten is wide, eight millions in fact and eight millions can do a good deal of Christmas shopping.

We should like to contribute some useful thought to the problem that may be getting Mrs. Cromwell down, but it seems beyond us. It would seem safer, however, for her to proceed on the assumption that the millions are ten, not eighteen. If she spent eighteen when it turned out there were only ten— well, think of the embarrassment of having bills for eight millions coming in about January 3 and nothing with which to meet them— no money for the iceman and the grocer, either. But if she spends ten and it turns out to be eighteen there's a nice little nest-egg left for her old age and something approaching a certainty that she would never have to go on relief.

HIS LUCID INTERVAL.

(New York Post, Pro-Lewis)

JOHN L. LEWIS gained several cubits in stature as a public figure yesterday.

In one brief interview he did a job of work that should have the most important consequences in capital-labor relationships.

He pleaded for a new co-operation between capital and labor.

He set up the principle that workers cannot make money unless employers make money.

He set up as one objective of the labor movement not lower dividends for investors, but higher dividends.

This is precisely the note of sanity that has been lacking in the fog of discussion concerning the rise of unionism. This is precisely the kind of labor statesmanship that means solid labor progress, more time spent in writing contracts and less time spent in hysterical chatter about labor radicalism.

A Bible Message For To-day . . . .

THE LORD reigneth, he is clothed with majesty; the Lord is clothed with strength, wherewith he hath girded himself: the world also is stablished, that it cannot be moved.

Let us come before his presence with thanksgiving, and make a joyful noise unto him with psalms. For the Lord is a great God, and a great King above all gods. In his hand are the deep places of the earth: the strength of the hills is his also. The sea is his, and he made it: and his hand formed the dry land. O come, let us worship and bow down: let us kneel before the Lord our maker. For he is our God; and we are the people of his pasture, and the sheep of his hand.—Ps xciii: 1; xcv: 2-7.

MAKE THEM ANTE.

(Timmins Daily Press)

YESTERDAY'S nominations in Timmins saw a practice common to all such occasions.

People were nominated who never had been approached and others allowed themselves to be nominated knowing full well they had no intention of standing for election.

Judging by the list, apparently little "mutual nomination cliques" have been formed and these back-patted each other into the public prints.

Which suggests that the most effective means of halting this silly practice would be to make all nominators pay a fee of $1.

$1 would be high enough to stop some of this useless procedure.

$2 might put civic nominations on a still more serious plane.

On second thought, maybe $5 would be a better ante and have it rebated if the nominee qualifies.

CONSUMER PAYS?

(Chatham News)

IN THE last analysis, the consumer pays for advertising—but consider how he pays," said Professor J. Friend Day, of the University of British Columbia, at the Advertising and Sales Bureau of the Vancouver Board of Trade.

"Take the typical case of carborundum. When first discovered, it cost $880 a pound and was used only as a substitute for diamond dust. An extensive advertising campaign was used to popularize it. Due to the advertising, carborundum users increased immensely. The price dropped to $440 a pound, then to $10, and then to 12 cent. Of course the consumer paid every cent of the advertising campaign—but look what he saved in lowered production costs."

There is hardly a square yard of beach on a stretch of coast several miles long which is not covered with seed potatoes, thrown overboard from the Norwegian freighter Aakre to lighten her when she was being refloated after grounding on Temple Ledge.

One Grand Manan man gathered more than he had room to store. He piled the surplus on his lawn and put a sign up: "Help Yourself."

Santa Claus On His Way To Pay Peterborough An Early Visit

white hair and white whiskers, red jacket and trousers and long boots. When he stood up to greet me I felt at home; he made me feel as had been friends for years. And his laugh! Well, he just sort of shook all over and he laughed as though he wanted to laugh. When he spoke his voice was rather low and pleasant. And when he shook hands it made me feel glad enough I had gone so far north to get on this special train headed for Peterborough.

"Sit down! Do sit down!" he said. "I have just been sitting here looking out of the window and I am glad to have some person to talk with. I have never been interviewed before and so I don't know what it is you want to ask of me. I have heard about such things as newspapers but we have none up our way, so I guess you will have to ask me questions, and I will try and answer them."

About His Age

I hesitated about asking this fine old man how old he was, but I had often wondered. He did not look old, so I thought it would be well to just put the question.

"I have often wondered, Santa Claus, just how old you are. Would you mind telling me?"

There came another of those hearty laughs.

"Well, now, let me see. To tell the truth I hardly know myself. I have been just about the same age for a good many years and I never seem to get any older."

"That may be true enough and I do not doubt it for a moment," I replied, "but it is strange. All the people I have ever known get older every year. When they get as old as you seem to be they find it hard enough to get around a great deal. They never would be able to take a trip from the North Pole to Peterborough."

"Perhaps I better explain a little," commenced Santa Claus. "I think it must be the nature of my work that keeps me from getting old."

"But just how does that work out?" I inquired.

"Well, you see I have had so much to do with children, little boys and girls, that it kind of keeps me from thinking about years. One lot of children start to grow up and then there's always another group coming on and I have to live and think and plan for them. Don't you see how it is? Why there are mothers and fathers and grandmothers and grandfathers all over that I knew when they used to send me letters as little children. They have grown up I guess but I don't feel a bit older. It's the blessed little children that keep me young."

About This Chimney Trick

"If you do not object," I ventured, "there is one question I would like to ask."

"Well, by all means let me have it," answered this jolly traveller.

I leaned over a little closer so he would be sure to hear above the noise of the train. "It's just this, Santa Claus, how do you go down the chimneys on the night before Christmas? I know you used to do it for me when I was a little fellow, but I often wondered how it was done. I have heard a good many people say it was something which never took place and which you could not do."

Santa Claus did not answer for a moment and it looked as though the twinkle in his eye had become a little dimmed for the moment. Then he said slowly and deliberately: "Ah, I see you live in a world of doubters, where people are willing to believe only that which they can see and understand for themselves. That is indeed too bad. The greatest things in the world are hard to explain, such as love, kindness, pity and everything like that. And so people are saying that I do not get into homes by going down the chimney and you would like to know how it is done."

"Indeed I would," was my prompt answer.

"Well, I do not believe I am going to tell you just how I do that," replied Santa Claus. "Never to any one, not even my most trusted helpers have I ever told that secret. I have heard it said that there are so many people breaking into other people's homes through doors and windows that I fear if it became known how a house can be entered by way of the chimney they would be trying that too. I do not mind telling you it took me quite a little time before I learned how to do it quickly. You see one has such a little time to work on the night before Christmas that I can take only a jiffy to go down and come up again and then be off to the next house. Even if I did tell you I fear some people would try it without success and perhaps get hurt as well. So if you do not mind we will talk of something else. What shall it be?"

How About the Reindeer?

"I would like to know how you manage with your sled and reindeer and how you drive right over the tops of houses?"

"Ah! Now that is easier to answer. I always have plenty of reindeer in training for that."

"Then it is a fact," I asked somewhat in surprise, "that you actually do drive right up on the house-tops and that the reindeer will remain there while you go popping down a chimney?"

"Why certainly." And that answer was accompanied by another of those great and kindly laughs.

"Surely," continued Santa Claus, his kindly hand patting my knee for emphasis. "Surely people are not beginning to doubt that are they?"

With a bit of sadness of voice which I could not well conceal I admitted such was the case.

"Such a lot of doubting people there must be in the world," declared Santa Claus. "Why I have flocks of reindeer, fine big fellows, some of them have made the trip with me three or four time and I always have plenty more of them on hand, every one of them trained so they do exactly what I want them to do. But tell me, who is doing all the doubting about the reindeer sled — is it the children or those who have grown older with years."

"It is the older ones I am sure," was my answer.

"Just as I suspected," said Santa Claus, "just as I suspected. You see it is the older people who do all the doubting and that is why they part with so much of their youthful joy so early in life. I think I understand. That's why I like children so much better. They do not doubt. They believe. They live in a little world all their own where there are flowers and fairies and they are unspoiled. Too bad your grown-up people drop and forfeit all that. The faith of a child is the greatest thing in the world."

He Makes No Money.

Santa Claus tapped his fingers on the window sill for a moment as though lost in thought. Turning to something new I put another question:

"Do you have to work all the time?"

"Well now and then I take a little time off, but as a rule my hours are long but I enjoy them all. I couldn't think of doing anything else."

"Now do not feel offended at this question," I suggested, "but do you make much money from your work?"

"Money?" asked Santa Claus as though surprised at the idea. "Why no, I do not work for money. I work because I like to give things away to the children. Working for money!" and here again Santa Claus was off on one of his great rollicking laughs. "I begin to understand better just what sort of grown-up people there are in the world. What you have told me has been interesting indeed and it shows just how mistaken a lot of people are. It makes me wish I could talk to some of your grown-up folk instead of spending all my time with the children. Why say, let me tell you the greatest things in the world cannot be bought, no matter how much money you might have. You can't buy the love of a mother or the devotion of a father; you can't buy the sunshine and you can't buy rain. You cannot buy the darkness which comes over the earth at night so that all things can sleep and rest. You could not buy the blue in God's sky any more than you could buy the stars that swing in the great heaven at night. That is one question I can answer for you. I never even thought of working for money. My mission is to make little people happy. I wish you would make that plain in your paper and tell some of your doubting grown-ups that if they would spend a good deal of time trying to make other people happy then they would be happier themselves."

Ever Heard of Peterborough?

"I suppose you have heard of Peterborough?" I suggested.

"Now I am not boasting," said Santa Claus, "but there's not a place I have not heard of. I was in Peterborough long before you were. I have been there every year since they started the place. I know every street in it and every house. Know Peterborough? I should say I do, but this trip down ahead of time is a little different. I seldom have made such trips but I am just going to stay a little while and then be off. The season is busy right now and I get a little afraid when I think how much there is to be done between now and Christmas."

"I understand there will be quite a lot of people out to see you when you arrive this evening," I suggested.

"My, I'm glad you told me that," said this great old man. "I do not know just what to do when there is a crowd as on most of my trips I see no person at all as I travel in the dead of night when every person is sleeping."

"Well, you will have a chance to meet a good many folk when your train gets in at 8.10 at the C.P.R. station. The Mayor will be on hand and bands and children . . ."

"But what and who is a Mayor?" asked Santa Claus.

"He is the head man we elect to govern the city," I replied.

"Oh, I see. I am glad you told me that. You see we have no mayor or anything like that up at my place. We just all work at the same business in the big toy shop and being one happy family we get along splendidly without any rulers."

Quite a distance out of the city Santa Claus was intent at gazing at trees which looked as though they would be about the right size for Christmas purposes. "I would like very much to get out here and take a look at them," he said, "if they would only stop the train."

I found the conductor and told him of the wish of Santa Claus.

"That's all right by me," was his response. "I'll stop or go any place for that traveller, the best I ever met." So the train slowed to a stop and Santa Claus got out and started inspecting the trees. I explained as we parted that I had to hurry back to the office and get the story in today's paper.

"Well I will be looking for you when I get to Peterborough tonight," said Santa as he gave my hand a friendly grip at parting.

"And you can be certain you will not have to look long because I'll be right there waiting for you," I replied.—K.

VETERANS REPORT GOOD YEAR'S WORK

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Dec. 3—The Millbrook ex-Servicemen's Club held its annual meeting in the Armouries on Wednesday night, with the president, William M. Theobald, in the chair.

A report of the year's work was most gratfying, showing many activities successfully undertaken in the initial twelve months of the organization's existence, including the coronation field day, with dance at night; the Poppy Day which netted over $35 to the funds; attendance at public worship, with a service at the cenotaph, the Sunday preceding Remembrance Day; the dance that evening, and other events.

The treasurer, E. H. Barnes, reported all accounts paid and a nice balance still in the bank. The money on hand will be used to assist needy veterans and their families during the winter, as occasion arises.

The slate of officers for 1938 includes: past president, William M. Theobald; president, F. L. Edworthy; secretary, R. Fickling; treasurer, E. H. Barnes.

A social hour was enjoyed at the close, with refreshments served, Mrs. Theobald having prepared the latter, and helping with their service.

KALADAR STORE ROBBED AGAIN

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Dec. 3. — Employed at the lumber camp of Henry Marquardt near Maynooth this week, James Carswell of Maynooth suffered a compound fracture of one leg when a heavy log he had been helping pile slipped, knocking him down and running over him.

For the second time Brydson's store at Kaladar was entered and all available cash in the cash box of the post office was taken while a quantity of merchandise was removed from the store. Chief Clair Hayes of Tweed investigated and stated that he believed the theft to be the work of transients. This is the second time that Brydson's premises have been entered. Dalton Brydson is in charge of the store and hotel during the absence of his brother, Glenn, who plays hockey with the Chicago Black Hawks.

S. A. McArey of the Tweed Creamery, won the silver trophy donated for butter judging at Belleville recently. Mr. McArey was awarded a one hundred per cent. mark in this contest.

In the absence of Magistrate Lloyd of Northbrook, the weekly court session held on Thursday afternoon was in charge of Justice of the Peace C. H. Kerr. The charge of reckless driving in the Village of Tweed, dangerous to the public, brought against Ray Baldwin, was enlarged for one week.

In the second case, Vincent Gartland was charged with being intoxicated in a public place, and fined $10, with costs of $6.35. The case was further enlarged for one week pending a C.S.A. charge.

The third case, that of forging a cheque for ten dollars on a Trudeau Motor Sales, which was brought against Charles Lavalle, was also enlarged for a week.

Nearly half the automobiles in Czechoslovakia are over seven years old.

Travel Made Him Constipated

Salesman Says Kruschen Keeps Him "On His Toes"

"I am a commercial traveller," writes a correspondent, "and due to endless travelling by train and automobile I find that I become constipated if I do not keep myself internally clean. Kruschen Salts is the only thing that will do this effectively and not interfere with my work. I take a large dose of Kruschen every Saturday night and on Sunday, when I have no work to do, the Salts act on me. On weekdays I take a small dose on rising. It is necessary that I be 'on my toes' all through the day, and this is the only way that it possibly can be done."—V.L.

Kruschen Salts is an excellent recipe for maintaining a condition of internal cleanliness. The numerous salts in Kruschen stimulate your internal organs to smooth, regular action. Your inside is thus kept clear of those impurities which, when allowed to accumulate, lower the whole tone of the system. —Advt.

Catarrhal Deafness And Head Noises

TELLS SAFE, SIMPLE WAY TO TREAT AND RELIEVE AT HOME.

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises caused by catarrh, or if phlegm drops in your throat and has caused catarrh of the stomach or bowels you will be glad to know that these distressing symptoms may be entirely overcome in many instances by the following treatment which you can easily prepare in your own home at little cost. Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parmint (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it ½ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. An improvement is sometimes noted after the first day's treatment. Breathing should become easy, while the distressing head noises, headaches, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., should gradually disappear under the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell, taste, defective hearing and mucus dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms which suggest the presence of catarrh and which may often be overcome by this efficacious treatment. It is said that nearly ninety per cent. of all ear troubles are caused by catarrh and there must, therefore, be many people whose hearing may be restored by this simple, harmless, home treatment.

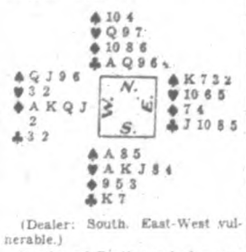
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

DON'T EXPECT A SPLIT

IF TWO discards are needed on a particular suit, there is no point in playing it the way which will give you more discards if it breaks evenly in the opponents' hands, but will block the suit in case it doesn't break properly. A little foresight, including perhaps the ruffing of one round of the suit, may result in setting up enough of it to serve the purposes required.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

North and South reached a contract of 4-Hearts on this deal after an opening bid of 1-Heart by South, 2-Clubs by North, 2-Hearts by South, three by North and four by South.

West cashed the diamond K, diamond Q and diamond A and then switched to the spade Q, which South won with the A. He now drew three rounds of trumps with the expectation of discarding his two losing spades on the long clubs. It developed, however, that the suit was not evenly divided and furnished only one discard, so that South was set one trick.

With only one entry in the dummy outside of clubs, the declarer should have looked ahead a little and drawn only two rounds of trumps. One club ruff would then have provided for a break of 4-2 in that suit, and the trump queen would have enabled declarer to enter the dummy to cash the remaining clubs.

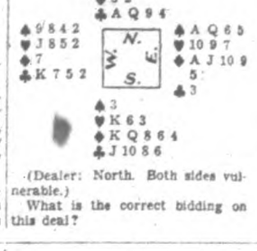
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

What is the correct bidding on this deal?

We Noticed

... That someone at a swanky reception carried a bouquet of bronze-tipped orchids, combined with spray orchids in a pale yellow shade.

... That a two-piece rabbit hair frock in New York was trimmed with contrasting velvet hearts around the hem of the skirt, and down the front of the jacket.

Women's Association Reports Nearly $600 Raised in Past Year

Mrs. Bentley Is Re-elected 'President At Millbrook Organization'

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Dec. 3.—The annual meeting of the Women's Association of St. Andrew's church was held in the school room on Wednesday at 2.30 p.m., with the retiring president, Mrs. P. I. Bentley, in the chair. The Christmas lesson was read by Mrs. F. A. Kidd, and the leader reported one member, Mrs. H. G. Skitch, still seriously ill.

An outline of the convention held in St. James' church, Peterborough, on November 17, was given, Mrs. Sisco reading the paper, prepared by Mrs. (Rev.) Lehigh, of the Lindsay Presbytery, and given by her at the gathering when the Peterborough Presbytery effected its W. A. organization. Mrs. P. I. Bentley, of Millbrook, is the secretary-treasurer.

On motion, it was decided to follow the usual custom of sending Christmas Cheer baskets to sick members of the congregation, and cards to the shut-ins. All those having donations for the waste paper and magazine collection being made by the Association were urged to have their supply left at Bentley's store by the end of this week, or very early in the next, so the sale may be completed.

The secretary, Mrs. Weston Faills, reported eleven regular, and eight special, meetings held during the year, with sixty members on the roll, including new ones; two members had been lost through removal and two by death. Thirteen cards of sympathy had been sent out, and three letters of appreciation.

The treasurer, Mrs. J. McKnight, reported a total of $598.50 raised during the year, with some fees yet to come in that will bring the amount at least to the even $600; total expenditures, which included a thankoffering to the church of $200, and taxes paid on the parsonage of $82.45, were 557.08, leaving a balance in the bank of $100.48.

The pastor, Rev. A. L. Sisco, took the chair for the election of officers, the slate for 1938 being: President, Mrs. Bentley; vice-presidents, Mrs. Percy Stinson and Mrs. H. A. Faills; secretary, Mrs. W. C. Faills; treasurer, Mrs. J. McKnight; pianists, Miss M. Duncan and Mrs. G. O. Faills.

A hearty handclap showed the appreciation of those present for the excellent work accomplished by the officers of the year just closing, and after arrangements had been made to hold the January meeting at the home of Mrs. Stinson, together with announcement that the hot supper scheduled for December will be postponed until some time in January, the pastor closed the meeting with prayer.

Ice-cream and cake were served during the pleasant social hour at the close, a silver collection taking care of the expense involved.

Not included in the amount raised, $598.50 was the balance from last year of $59.06, which enabled the treasurer to report a complete total of $657.56, as the year's receipts.

Young People's Union

Oliver Brock, president, had charge of the Young People's Union for its weekly meeting on Tuesday, intervening events in the community reducing the usual attendance.

The president led in the opening worship period, Phyllis Kidd offering prayer, and the convenor of the citizenship committee, Mr. B. B. Dawson, gave a talk on temperance, which took the form of a lively discussion.

Emphasis was laid upon a full attendance for next week's meeting, December 7, which will be the annual gathering, with reports and the election of officers.

W.M.S. Entertained

Mrs. S. E. Eakins entertained the W. M. S. of Grace Presbyterian church for its December meeting, at her home, Anne street, on Wednesday at 3 pm., the hostess, who is also the president, taking the chair, and reading the lesson.

Mrs. James Kennedy led in the opening prayer, and Mrs. (Rev.) H. R. Williams read a poem, "What we require in a minister." Mrs. Z. Beaton gave a paper on "Sermons", and Mrs. J. R. Thompson called the roll.

Miss Agnes Johnston read a letter from the Glad Tidings which had been contributed by a missionary in Formosa, who is head of a girls' mission school, and the treasurer reported a total of $98.50 sent to the Presbyterial treasurer, leaving a small amount yet to be raised to meet the year's allocation.

The next meeting, in two weeks time will be the annual gathering, and will be held in the church parlors.

Urge B.C Back Birth Control

VICTORIA, Dec. 3 (CP) — Two Co-operative Commonwealth Federation members of the British Columbia legislature advocate government dissemination of birth control information.

The suggestion, made yesterday by Mrs. D. G. Steeves (CCF-North Vancouver) and Dr. J. Lyle Telford (CCF-Vancouver East), brought no comment from government benches.

Mrs. Steeves said birth control information could be obtained now at the Vancouver General Hospital but women in rural areas were "not in an economic position" to obtain it.

"In mental hospitals you find that many women have been driven there through fear of pregnacy." Mrs. Steeves said, "In rural districts commercial interests exploit this fear that women have, very often to the detriment of their health."

Dr. Telford said it was true birth control information was given out at Vancouver General Hospital but "they decide there who should have the advice and who shouldn't and we haven't the right to refuse it to any responsible person."

Banana Milk Shake

Children cheer the necessary glass of milk when it's in a "shake" made with bananas. This is the way it is made: Take one fully ripe banana, one cup cold milk. Slice banana into a bowl and beat with rotary egg beater or electric mixer until creamy . . . or press banana through medium mesh wire strainer with a spoon. Add milk and mix thoroughly. Serve cold. This makes 12 ounces—two medium-size drinks.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

O thriftlessness of dream and guess!
O wisdom which is foolishness!
Why idly seek from outward things
The answer inward silence brings?
—Whittier.

God hath chosen the foolish things of the world, to confound the wise; and God hath chosen the weak things of the world, to confound the things that are mighty.
—New Testament.

Dear Friends:

Did you ever find that when you won you lost? The thing you had been striving so hard for, the thing you had set your heart on, the very thing you thought it was impossible to live without, then you got it, it had lost it's savor.

We are like children with toys, who are not content until we find out what makes it go, so we break them and cannot put them together again. We want illusion, but are not content to leave many things as they are, so that illusion will continue to please us, and feel bitterly disappointed.

And so, when we win we lose, and many times it is a little thing that makes us lose, a little flaw that mars perfection. How many can stand the big problems, but the little ones get them down, and when they do, all the other triumphs count for nothing.

How many men can manage large groups of men, but cannot manage their own family? They have won in the battle of life, but the little things of the home, the varied dispositions of the different members of his own family, make him feel as if he had really lost.

With all the wisdom which we have accumulated through the ages, we are still confounded by a little thing like a cold. With all the courage instilled into us by life, a toothache can make us feel like the very mischief.

Not one of us are stronger than our weakest part. If you are lame, your body, (no matter how strong it may be in all other parts) must accomodate to that lameness.

If you have a good brain and yet are troubled with a sense of inferiority, you must either rid yourself of it, or your brain will take most of its tone from that.

Truly, "God hath chosen the foolish things of the world to confound the wise." Look back over your life. Is it the big noble thing you have done which stand out in your memory? Is it the courage you have shown in time of stress?

Is it your humanity, your generousity, your compassion, your days of labor for the ones you live? No, it is some little weak thing you may have done, the foolish things you have said which stand out so clearly as if they were etched on your brain for all time.

You may know you are doing a good work, but let some half-baked half-wit come along and give you some un-asked criticism, and that little thing will confound you so that you doubt your own ability, and lose joy in whatever you may be doing.

You may go out feeling at peace with the world, dressed so that no remarks need be passed about your appearance, then maybe stumble, or speak to someone by mistake thinking you know them, and lo, the little thing has made your peace fly away, and you are uncomfortable.

And the remedy- Try feeling that you are really made in the image of God, and then realize that all you are, all you have accomplished is due to Him, and the little things of the world will have no power to confound you.

Your Friend.
ROBERTA.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLLE

For Saturday, December 4.

Most propitious auguries for progress and prosperity mark this day, according to the lunar and mutual aspects. Business, finance and all pertaining to writings, publication and promotions should flourish, possibly following some sudden news of importance. However, there will be stubborn obstacles, frustrations and possible postponements to be handled tactfully. The social, domestic and affectional lives also are under a sign of high adventure and pleasurable activity. Treasure a powerful friendship.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of splendid opportunity for promotion, enlarged finances and enchanced popularity and prestige. Both big business and all pertaining to writings and publishing should offer scope for high achievement, despite certain frustration, delays and setbacks. Hasty news may figure in events.

A child born on this day may be versatile, talented, quick and witty, although studious and profound and of sound judgment and responsibility. It may be personally gracious, popular and sentimental.

The opening exercises and business was taken by the president, Mr. Will Johnston after which Mrs. C. Meiklejohn as convenor of the devotional period took charge. She opened the meeting with a sing song of old familiar hymns. After which Miss Madge Cliffe gave a paper of the origin of the hymns sung. A few of the hymns chosen were "Unto the Hills," and "Oh Lord and Master of us all" etc. Miss Helen Black contributed the solo "Teach us to Pray" and Doris Nelson sang the children's hymn, "Can a little child like me." Mrs. Meiklejohn gave a splendid paper on conditions in the Roman church before the Reformation. Miss Eva Weir gave a reading on the same topic. Miss Annie Duncan concluded this part of the program with prayer. The short recreation period followed with a spelling match and the serving of apples and candy brought the meeting to a close.

Raise Your Blood-Count And You'll Feel "In the Pink"

NORMAL BLOOD has a count of 4,500,000 red corpuscles. If your blood count is below this you just can't feel well, because only these tiny cells can carry the necessary nourishment from your food and the energizing oxygen from your lungs to every part of your body. With a low blood count you're bound to be always tired, easily upset, nervous and depressed, without appetite, sleepless, under weight. Everything is drudgery.

You needn't go on in this way! Take Dr. Williams Pink Pills. Originated by a Canadian physician, this tested tonic quickly raises your blood count. You get new energy and vigour, your depression and nervousness disappear, your appetite and normal weight return, you sleep soundly, and your life is worth living again. If this is not your experience your money will be refunded. 50c at all druggists.

Dry, Hacking Coughs A Menace To Health

That dry, hacking cough that sticks to you in spite of everything you have done to relieve it is a source of danger, and the longer the cough sticks the more menace it is to your health.

Don't neglect the hacking cough. Get rid of it by using Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It helps to stimulate, soothe and heal the bronchial tubes, allay irritation, subdue inflammation, loosen the phlegm and mucous, and aid nature to dislodge the morbid accumulations.

MR. ALEXANDER A. SOMM, 84-1st Ave., North Bay, Ont., writes:—"I had a very severe head cold accompanied by a dry, hacking cough. I tried various medicines to get rid of it, but they were useless until a friend told me to take Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. After using one bottle the cold was considerably relieved, and the dry, hacking cough had entirely disappeared."

An Enoch Arden

An Enoch Arden of a long disbanded army—Hallie Daigh, 39—returned to Springfield, Ill., after 20 years. And he found that the bride to whom he said good-by at San Antonio, Tex., in 1917, divorced him, remarried and now is the mother of a 17-year-old son. Daigh was reported missing in action in the war. In reality he was in a German prison camp. Poison gas had clouded his memory. Thus, when released from the hospital in 1920, instead of returning home, he wandered.

eral, who said he was opposed to any measures giving civil servants powers the courts should have.

Attorney-General Arthur Conant made a radical change in the Act to amend the Judicature Act, when on second reading he made the judicial immunity apply only to proceedings under the Succession Duties Act. The original Bill, introduced on Wednesday, applied his immunity to ministers, their representatives and appointees exercising any power by authority of the Legislature.

After Closed Estates

Premier Mitchell Hepburn said the legislation was intended to be of benefit in collecting taxes from closed estates, that is estates that have certificates that all due the treasury has been paid. In the past two years $28,000,000 had been collected from such estates there having been concealment of assets in returns to the treasury, he said.

Two-thirds of the $17,000,008 estimated succession duties in the current budget would come from estates that had been closed by previous administrations, said Mr. Hepburn.

The act to amend the succession duty act passed with little discussion. Chief provision is to transform commissioners named to investigate estates into fact-finders. Under present legislation their findings to what is due the province have the same effect as supreme court judgments.

The section of the act giving effect to these judgments has been attacked in an action arising from the investigation of an Ottawa estate. Counsel for the estate obtained an injunction restraining the commissioner from proceeding until the validity of the act should be determined.

Under the act as it is now being amended by the legislature, the findings of a commissioner will not have the power of a judgment. The government will, if the estate does not settle, proceed to sue in the court. This provision follows the federal and provincial income tax acts.

HAVELOCK BOARD TO PURCHASE SEAL

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Dec. 3.—The Havelock High School Board met on Tuesday evening with Trustees Lancaster, Spencer and Mrs. Rigby present with Chairman Breckenridge officiating.

Principal Goheen addressed the Board, reporting that he had purchased text books and supplies as authorized. He presented a sample diploma of those which will be presented to the successful students at the commencement and suggested that if the Board intended to purchase a High School seal, that they do so before December 10th of this month. Mr. Goheen pointed out that this would be a very opportune time to add to the library due to the low price that suitable books may now be secured. Among other improvements suggested were, wire sheives in science laboratory, and more uniform desks, and that the initials and lettering be removed from the desk tops. He reminded the Board of the High School Commencement to be held on Friday, December 10th and 11th and asked them to appoint persons to present field day awards and graduation diplomas.

On motion of Trustees Lancaster and Spencer the secretary was instructed to secure a proper seal for the High School Board.

Principal Goheen was authorized to outfit the science laboratory as suggested and to supervise repairs to the desks. He was also given a grant of $5 towards the library.

The following accounts were approved and ordered paid on motion of Trustees Mrs. Rigby and Spencer: G. W. Chiles, $5.72; H.E.P.C., light and power, $7.79; Central Scientific Co., $5.35; Ginn & Co., $1.40; Teachers' and caretaker's salaries, $411.09; Mrs. Hay, supply teacher, $15. The meeting was adjourned till December 17th.

The members of the Havelock Badminton Club held a theatre party on Wednesday evening to the Hollywood Theatre at Campbellford. About twenty members were present and a very enjoyable time was had by all. On their return from the show they were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Mathison, where refreshments were served.

VOL. LXXIX, No. 130 — PETERBOROUGH, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1937 — PRICE THREE CENTS

NICHOLLS OVAL OFFERED TO THE CITY

Money Assigned For Upkeep Of Parks Not Sufficient Committee Of Council Told

Capital Expenditures Reduced Amount Held In Trust To $46,000

Nicholls Park trustees offered the Nicholls Oval to the city last night at a meeting of the parks committee of the council with Alderman Stocker presiding.

The proposal was made by a deputation from the Nicholls Parks Board composed of E. H. D. Hall, Dr. J. E. Middleton and Harold Morrow, and was inspired by prospective decline in the revenue from their funds.

Dr. Middleton informed the committee that the money assigned by the late Mrs. Charlotte Nicholls for public parks was $80,000. Capital expenditure for permanent improvements has reduced that amount to $46,000, of which $25,000 was invested in Peterborough debentures at 6 per cent maturing next year. While the money was earning that rate of interest it provided the trustees with sufficient funds to maintain the three Nicholls Parks, the Oval, Inverlea and Jackson Parks, but it is expected that the best return from reinvestment will be around 3 per cent, providing inadequate income for the Board's obligation of taking care of the three parks. For that reason, the trustees suggested that the city assume the spacious and beautiful Oval at its northeastern gate. Public conveniences have been installed in this park during the last two years, and its attractiveness has been enhanced by the provision of improved accommodation.

The proposal was discussed at length by the committee. It was stated that the trustees should turn over part of their assets as a means of enabling the city to continue the maintenance of the Oval for the benefit of the public. To that end and also as matter of essential information, Alderman Dutton moved, seconded by Alderman Wilson, that City Solicitor Corkery be requested to report to the committee on the terms of the Nicholls Park Trust.

Foot Bridge Needed

Mayor Macdonald told the Board of Works the Quaker Oats Company was going to close their London Street dam to the pedestrian public unless a footbridge was strung along it for their special use. The main purpose of the bridge is to afford a C.N.R. crossing over the river and into the Quaker Oats yards. It is regarded as dangerous to people walking on it. Citizens living in the north central section of Ashburnham use the bridge as a short cut down town.

City Engineer Parsons said he had examined the bridge, but had not yet arrived at a decision as to what the council should do. A foot bridge built out from the main structure as was done at the C.P.R. bridge over the river would accumulate ice during the winter from the spray blowing up from the dam. On the upstream side the ice hazard would be less, but there was a difficulty in keeping clear of the stoplog platform, and otherwise avoiding interference with the company's operations.

Dangerous Crossing

The dam problem will have to wait for Mr. Parson's recommendation. It was easier to authorize Alderman Juby, chairman of the Board, and Mr. Parsons to spend about $60 to erect warning signs on both sides of the C.N.E. crossing on Water street north, near Archie Breault's store, the old Allison corner. Ald. Juby said the engineer of the C.N.R. shunter regarded that crossing as one of the most dangerous in the city. A curve in the road to the north increases the danger for southbound traffic, and although the railway trains over that section of the Lakefield spur travel comparatively slowly the Board decided to set up the cautionary signs which cost $36 each.

Petty Vandalism

Mr. Parsons reported that thirteen of the red glass reflectors in the railway signs recently erected on George Street south had been pried off in three days, presumably by boys or men who either wanted them to put on bicycles or were simply actuated by a desire to destroy property. Two days after the signs were placed in position the embossed reflectors were riddled by vandal jimmies or other instruments, and Mr. Parsons said they seemed to be so securely placed that it would be difficult to unloosen them.

Ironworker Stops Duke Smoking

NEWCASTLE ABBEY, Scotland, Dec. 3 (A.P.). — A Scottish ironworker interrupted the Duke of Kent's after-luncheon smoke here yesterday.

The Duke and several members of his party had started puffing cigarettes after a public luncheon at the Adult Education Centre.

Edmund Hughes, chairman of the Students' Committee and an iron foundry employee, arose and said:

"Your Royal Highness, ladies and gentlemen, I beg to remind you no smoking is allowed in the dining-hall."

The Duke smilingly acknowledged the reprimand, and left a few minutes later to finish his smoke in the lounge.

NO PROCLAMATION OF BOXING DAY

Requests to Mayor Macdonald to declare Christmas Monday a public holiday are not likely to have much persuasive effect on him.

Alderman Cotton reminded His Worship last night that it was his prerogative to add another day to the Yule festivities.

"Too many workers really can't afford to lose another day's pay," the Mayor said. "It means three days off in a week, Christmas and New Year's and the Monday in between, and I would not like to be the cause of any man losing a day's pay."

On the other hand the two Saturdays are the equivalent to just one holiday for most workers who ordinarily work only half that day, but at any rate Mayor Macdonald intimated that the third public holiday would probably not be authorized unless, perhaps, factory workers themselves urged him to knock off the day. Even if he did pronounce the holiday, the factory managements are not compelled to observe it.

THREE CONCERTS ARE ASSURED

At a most enthusiastic meeting in the Chamber of Commerce rooms Thursday evening, the Peterborough Branch of the Canadian Concert Association compiled returns on their efforts so far this week.

Their objective is the selling of five hundred memberships to cover three concerts to be given in Peterborough this winter. The artists are: Zimbalist, the world famous violinist; Massue, the brilliant young Canadian tenor, member of the Metropolitan Opera Company, whose wide acclaim and great demand for concert work resulted in a clause being written in his Metropolitan contract to the effect that a certain number of concerts could be given each year in addition to the operatic work. The third concert will find the brilliant two-piano team, Etta Coles and Naomi Yanova, demonstrating their skill and artistry before a Peterborough audience.

The success of this enterprise is now assured, due to the fact that four-fifths of the memberships have been sold. Dr. J. J. Craig, the president, in speaking to The Examiner, said: "It has been most inspiring the way the members of the executive and of the committees which were hurriedly formed a week ago, have taken hold of this thing and put it across." It is expected the list will be closed Saturday night.

Additions to the executive committee are: Mr. Heard and Joseph E. Murphy. Additions to the music committee are: Harry Prevy, C. Searls and Mrs. P. Hooper.

Added to the list of patrons who have signified their deep interest in this movement are: Dr. and Mrs. W. S. Fitzpatrick, Alderman James Hamilton, Right Rev. Bishop O'Connor, Inspector and Mrs. K. S. Wightman, Mr. Alex. Elliott, M.L.A., Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Roche, and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Carlisle.

In connection with the appearance of the above named artists, advice has been received that Nicholas Massue and Etta Coles and Naomi Yanova will give their afternoon recitals to the Collegiate pupils as an educational feature in connection with their appearance here. No definite word relative to the afternoon appearance of Zimbalist, world famous violinist, has been received, but the committee has the assurance of his manager that he is making a personal appeal that he also comply in this regard. The value of these educational concerts to the student body cannot be over-estimated. Last year in Ontario over eight thousand students were privileged to hear the very finest musicians under this arrangement.

TAX PREPAYMENT PLAN DISCARDED

"The idle rich can look after themselves," Alderman Stocker commented Thursday night when the finance committee of the council approved the recommendations of its sub-committee to discard the tax prepayment certificate plan for 1938 and at the same time reduce the penalties on tax arrears during the year.

Decision to change the experiment to easing the penalties was embodied in a resolution by Alderman Cotton, seconded by Alderman Stocker.

Alderman Stocker also asked Alderman Wilson, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, for a report on the accident to Chief Gimblett's car the night of a recent fire in Otonabee. It was agreed that prompt reports should be made in such cases.

A bylaw will be prepared for next Monday night prohibiting heavy trucks to be unloaded on sidewalks. City Engineer Parsons told the Board of Works that often when channels are dug under sidewalks for water, gas and other services, the earth eventually recedes, leaving only the slab of unsupported concrete to carry big trucks that pull up on the sidewalks for unloading coal and other supplies.

BILLED CITY FOR $310

With what seemed like a note of gusto Alderman Stocker moved that no action be taken on a bill from Dr. Herbert Young for itemized services amounting to $310. Alderman Wilson seconded it, and Alderman Dutton suggested "at least as a matter of courtesy" the explanation because the city is not liable.

AN ORCHID FOR APSLEY

A tall young man who knows his pulchritude, judging by the chestnut-haired girl who in a moment of weakness said yes to the "better or worse" questions recited by a parson,—any way this authority on such matters asserts that the proportion of good-looking girls in Apsley is higher than any other place in the district. At that rate Warden Brown has been holding out on the lads.

THURSDAY TRIAL DAY

According to the old timers who cling to weather lore in spite of numerous disappointments Thursday was trial day for winter. The first Thursday of the season is supposed to be the norm for the weather of the sequent three months. No doubt it is an idle and vain conjecture, but just think of Thursday's bland and comparatively balmy atmosphere for December! And the new moon was also due Thursday but it arrived in the afternoon and wasn't visible. If lunar influence means anything the first quarter of the month should be glorious weather. Hence, all the auguries seem complaisant, and although the present delightful brand of early winter is too good to last, it may turn out that Dan Whetung's predictions of a hard winter are going to expose him as a poor, otherwise an inept, guesser.

The services will be under the auspices of the Presbytery of Peterborough, and at the dedication service on Thursday, December 16th, the special preacher for the occasion will be the Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr of St. Paul's, Peterborough. On the Sunday following, December 19th, the services will be in charge of the Rev. Dr. John G. Inkster of Knox Church, Toronto.

POSTMASTER ISSUES WARNING

Stiff penalties are provided for anyone convicted of tampering with mail boxes, Postmaster Charles Lacheur warns. Recently, he said, glass slides in several mail boxes throughout the city were found to have been smashed and the matter has been the subject of a complaint to city police. Anyone caught tampering with mail boxes in any way whatsoever, will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law, the postmaster threatens.

MAGISTRATE'S COURT

Appearing on adjournment with a plea of not guilty to a charge of vagrancy, a local young man was discharged when police decided to offer no evidence. The youth was recently arrested in the early hours of the morning when he failed to give a satisfactory explanation of his movements on being questioned by a police constable. "You are what was called a smart alec in my day," Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., remarked. He warned the young man the police have a duty to perform and are entitled to a civil answer when they have occasion to question any citizen.

Permission to remove his funeral home from the corner of Reid and Charlotte streets to the late George Mather's house, two doors to the west along Charlotte street, was given to N. J. L. Nisbett by the finance committee of the council last night.

LIKE OLD TIMES

Old time rugby fans will be interested in learning that the Collegiate Institute game with Runnymede, Toronto district winners, for the interscholastic championship of Ontario will be staged at Nicholls' Oval tomorrow afternoon. Some of the finest games of football ever played in Peterborough were fought out on the Oval's smooth sward and Peterborough teams won several championships there. Probably the most famous team to appear at the Oval was the All-Star Irish team which toured Canada and which was undefeated in the Dominion.

O.R.F.U. Ordered Game At Riverside

Regarding the awarding of Riverside Park to the Orfuns instead of P.C.I. for a rugby playoff game this Saturday, Mayor George A. Macdonald explained that this matter was not settled by himself nor the Parks Committee of the City Council.

Secretary James Morley of the Orfuns' Club asked the committee last night to wire the O.R.F.U. that Riverside park here would be opened for whichever team—either the Orfuns or P.C.I.—that the O.R.F.U. directed, as President John DeGruchy of the O.R.F.U. asked for official sanction in respect to use of Riverside. Both P.C.I. and Orfuns have playoff games scheduled for Peterborough to-mororw.

Mayor Macdonald, acting for the Parks committee, left the matter entirely up to the Ontario Rugby Footbal Union, advising this body that the park would be opened Saturday to whichever team the O.R.F.U. ordered to play here. The following wire was sent by President DeGruchy to the Mayor to-day: "Have ordered intermediate team to play Dundas in Peterborough Saturday." No partiality was shown to either team, the Mayor said.

Legal To Tell Cop "Where He Can Go" New York Cadi Decides

New York, Dec. 3 (UP)

IT IS O.K. to tell a traffic cop where he can go, Magistrate Mark Rudich ruled today in dismissing a disorderly conduct charge against Miss Margaret Greenberg, who told a traffic cop where he could go.

The traffic cop, Fred Schweyer, complained that when he admonished Miss Greenberg for blowing her automobile horn unnecessarily, she told him, in an annoyed tone, "You can go to hell."

"That is a simple declaration of fact," the Magistrate decided. "In the ordinary course of life and entirely within the realm of our belief, it is quite possible that you can go to hell. Miss Greenberg's remark wasn't a command or a wish but a stenographic statement of fact."

Garbage Collection Report Is Submitted

"We have done our duty, and the council can take whatever action it likes," Alderman Dutton remarked last night in moving that the special report on proposed motorization of the garbage collection department be submitted to the council. Alderman McIntyre presided.

Ald. Dutton read the detailed report which was prepared after extensive enquiries in Toronto and Hamilton, and considerable time spent in observing the operations of garbage collecting systems in both cities.

In the meantime the chairman was authorized to arrange with H. J. Withers for the extension of his present contract for three months in 1938, providing sufficient time for motorization if the council takes that course.

LIKELY SET OVER TRIAL OF WELCH

Postponment of the trial of Textile Union Organizer Alex. Welch on the charge of obstructing an officer during the Bonner-Worth strike riot on August 10 was indicated today in rumors that his counsel will ask to have the case removed from the jury trial list at the General Sessions on Tuesday for trial by a judge without a jury. If such a request by J. L. Cohen, strike legal adviser acting for Welch, is granted by the court, a special date will likely be set.

Three other criminal matters are listed for the attention of the court, Judge D. B. Coleman presiding. William Hanrahan of Douro is scheduled to stand trial on a charge of arson. T. J. Carley, K.C., will defend, V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuting. Hilliard McIlmoyle faces a charge of theft, the Crown alleging he stole logs from James Freeburn and Hilliard Dunsford in Burleigh last June worth $25. The fourth case is that of George Selmes, who was convicted of a serious offence in a non-jury trial here but won a new trial by jury on appeal.

Two civil cases listed for jury trial are:

Margaret Fisher, infant, by her next best friend, Chester Fisher, against Mary E. Sharpe, South Monaghan teacher, for $500 damages for alleged improper treatment at school. Hon. G. N. Gordon, K. C. acting for the plaintiff, T. J. Carley, K.C. acting for the defendant.

Donald Pressick and Harry Pressick of Belmont against Timothy Byrnes and Patrick O'Connor for $500 damages in connection with an automobile accident. W. F. Huycke, K.C., for the plaintiffs and Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., for the defendant Byrnes.

Three cases listed for non-jury trial:

Edward Omer Faux, Asphodel farmer, against Fred Faux and George Lancaster, Asphodel farmers and executors of will of late Annie Faux for order for payment of legacy from the will. Mr. Gordon for the plaintiff and Hall, Hall and Stevenson for the defendants.

Ernest Darling, infant, by Harold Darling of Peterborough, against George Walton of Peterborough for $500, the plaintiffs alleging the defendant responsible for injuries received by the infant plaintiff when struck of his bicycle by a motor car. W. B. Gordon for the plaintiff and T. J. Carley, K.C., for the defendant.

William J. Collins against E. J. Hill for $263.30, the amoutn of a promissory note and interest, the defendant counterclaiming $1,400. Transferred from Division Court. S. T. Medd, K.C., acting for the plaintiff and G. N. Gordon for the defendant.

BARN IS RAISED ON HOOTEN FARM BY 100 HELPERS

Yesterday at a spectacular barn raising bee over one hundred men raising bee over one hundred men from Cavan, Smith, Centreville, Fraserville, North Monaghan and Millbrook, co-operated in erecting the stout wooden framework, leaving only the sheeting and roofing of the structure to be completed. They worked under the capable direction of T. C. Morden, Mount Pleasant, a contractor on such jobs with over thirty years' experience.

When his other barn was destroyed by a fire that resulted from lightning three months ago, along with about six other barns in a radius of eight miles, Mr. Hooten insisted that it should be replaced with the best he could get. On completion the barn will be one of the finest in the entire district, it was stated.

"The barn contains double the amount of material of any barn I have previously built; and I've put up a few barns in my time," Mr. Morden declared.

Purchased through the Scott Coal and Lumber Company only the best of timber was selected by the builders. It includes: hemlock, elm, pine and British Columbia fir. Features of the barn's construction embody about 160 sleepers, carrying the floor, of exceptionally heavy timbers, all gained-in in 12 by 10 fir; several 10 by 12 timbers 36 feet long; seven bents of 10 by 10 timbers and seven top deck bents.

General dimension of the barn are 110 by 36 feet, and provision is made for a metallic roof to be supplied by Pedlar's of Oshawa; and two driveways. There is a horse stable on the west side with accommodation for fourteen head; a cow barn with stall space for twenty head of cattle in addition to box stalls for another twenty head. Hay bins are at the ground level with plans calling for a spacious granary and mows. Stanchions for the cattle stalls and other similar equipment is being supplied by Beatty Brothers of Fergus, Ontario.

Mrs. Hooten who was being assisted by a score or more of her neighbors to prepare supper for the big army of workmen, greeted a representative of The Examiner when he dropped in for the barn raising story.

With quiet sincerity she replied, "No. We didn't, the Lord sent it," when it was suggested, "You have picked a nice day for the barn raising.

Mr. Hooten, long established in Cavan township, is widely regarded as a successful farmer and breeder of Clydesdale horses.

VOL. LXXIX, No. 130 — PETERBOROUGH, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1937 — PRICE THREE CENTS

NICHOLLS OVAL OFFERED TO THE CITY

Money Assigned For Upkeep Of Parks Not Sufficient Committee Of Council Told

Capital Expenditures Reduced Amount Held In Trust To $46,000

Nicholls Park trustees offered the Nicholls Oval to the city last night at a meeting of the parks committee of the council with Alderman Stocker presiding.

The proposal was made by a deputation from the Nicholls Parks Board composed of E. H. D. Hall, Dr. J. E. Middleton and Harold Morrow, and was inspired by prospective decline in the revenue from their funds.

Dr. Middleton informed the committee that the money assigned by the late Mrs. Charlotte Nicholls for public parks was $80,000. Capital expenditure for permanent improvements has reduced that amount to $46,000, of which $25,000 was invested in Peterborough debentures at 6 per cent maturing next year. While the money was earning that rate of interest it provided the trustees with sufficient funds to maintain the three Nicholls Parks, the Oval, Inverlea and Jackson Parks, but it is expected that the best return from reinvestment will be around 3 per cent, providing inadequate income for the Board's obligation of taking care of the three parks. For that reason, the trustees suggested that the city assume the spacious and beautiful Oval at its northeastern gate. Public conveniences have been installed in this park during the last two years, and its attractiveness has been enhanced by the provision of improved accommodation.

The proposal was discussed at length by the committee. It was stated that the trustees should turn over part of their assets as a means of enabling the city to continue the maintenance of the Oval for the benefit of the public. To that end and also as matter of essential information, Alderman Dutton moved, seconded by Alderman Wilson, that City Solicitor Corkery be requested to report to the committee on the terms of the Nicholls Park Trust.

Foot Bridge Needed

Mayor Macdonald told the Board of Works the Quaker Oats Company was going to close their London Street dam to the pedestrian public unless a footbridge was strung along it for their special use. The main purpose of the bridge is to afford a C.N.R. crossing over the river and into the Quaker Oats yards. It is regarded as dangerous to people walking on it. Citizens living in the north central section of Ashburnham use the bridge as a short cut down town.

City Engineer Parsons said he had examined the bridge, but had not yet arrived at a decision as to what the council should do. A foot bridge built out from the main structure as was done at the C.P.R. bridge over the river would accumulate ice during the winter from the spray blowing up from the dam. On the upstream side the ice hazard would be less, but there was a difficulty in keeping clear of the stoplog platform, and otherwise avoiding interference with the company's operations.

Dangerous Crossing

The dam problem will have to wait for Mr. Parson's recommendation. It was easier to authorize Alderman Juby, chairman of the Board, and Mr. Parsons to spend about $60 to erect warning signs on both sides of the C.N.E. crossing on Water street north, near Archie Breault's store, the old Allison corner. Ald. Juby said the engineer of the C.N.R. shunter regarded that crossing as one of the most dangerous in the city. A curve in the road to the north increases the danger for southbound traffic, and although the railway trains over that section of the Lakefield spur travel comparatively slowly the Board decided to set up the cautionary signs which cost $26 each.

Petty Vandalism

Mr. Parsons reported that thirteen of the red glass reflectors in the railway signs recently erected on George Street south had been pried off in three days, presumably by boys or men who either wanted them to put on bicycles or were simply actuated by a desire to destroy property. Two days after the signs were placed in position the embossed reflectors were riddled by vandal jimmies or other instruments, and Mr. Parsons said they seemed to be so securely placed that it would be difficult to unloosen them.

Ironworker Stops Duke Smoking

The Duke and several members of his party had started puffing cigarettes after a public luncheon at the Adult Education Centre.

Edmund Hughes, chairman of the Students' Committee and an iron foundry employee, arose and said:

"Your Royal Highness, ladies and gentlemen, I beg to remind you no smoking is allowed in the dining-hall."

The Duke smilingly acknowledged the reprimand, and left a few minutes later to finish his smoke in the lounge.

NO PROCLAMATION OF BOXING DAY

Requests to Mayor Macdonald to declare Christmas Monday a public holiday are not likely to have much persuasive effect on him.

Alderman Cotton reminded His Worship last night that it was his prerogative to add another day to the Yule festivities.

"Too many workers really can't afford to lose another day's pay," the Mayor said. "It means three days off in a week, Christmas and New Year's and the Monday in between, and I would not like to be the cause of any man losing a day's pay."

On the other hand the two Saturdays are the equivalent to just one holiday for most workers who ordinarily work only half that day, but at any rate Mayor Macdonald intimated that the third public holiday would probably not be authorized unless, perhaps, factory workers themselves urged him to knock off the day. Even if he did pronounce the holiday, the factory managements are not compelled to observe it.

THREE CONCERTS ARE ASSURED

At a most enthusiastic meeting in the Chamber of Commerce rooms Thursday evening, the Peterborough Branch of the Canadian Concert Association compiled returns on their efforts so far this week.

Their objective is the selling of five hundred memberships to cover three concerts to be given in Peterborough this winter. The artists are: Zimbalist, the world famous violinist; Massue, the brilliant young Canadian tenor, member of the Metropolitan Opera Company, whose wide acclaim and great demand for concert work resulted in a clause being written in his Metropolitan contract to the effect that a certain number of concerts could be given each year in addition to the operatic work. The third concert will find the brilliant two-piano team, Etta Coles and Naomi Yanova, demonstrating their skill and artistry before a Peterborough audience.

The success of this enterprise is now assured, due to the fact that four-fifths of the memberships have been sold. Dr. J. J. Craig, the president, in speaking to The Examiner, said: "It has been most inspiring the way the members of the executive and of the committees which were hurriedly formed a week ago, have taken hold of this thing and put it across." It is expected the list will be closed Saturday night.

Additions to the executive committee are: Mr. Heard and Joseph E. Murphy. Additions to the music committee are: Harry Prevy, C. Searis and Mrs. P. Hooper.

Added to the list of patrons who have signified their deep interest in this movement are: Dr. and Mrs. W. S. Fitzpatrick, Alderman James Hamilton, Right Rev. Bishop O'Connor, Inspector and Mrs. K. S. Wightman, Mr. Alex. Elliott, M.L.A., Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Rodlie, and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Carlisle.

In connection with the appearance of the above named artists, advice has been received that Nicholas Massue and Etta Coles and Naomi Yanova will give their afternoon recitals to the Collegiate pupils as an educational feature in connection with their appearance here. No definite word relative to the afternoon appearance of Zimbalist, world famous violinist, has been received, but the committee has the assurance of his manager that he is making a personal appeal that he also comply in this regard. The value of these educational concerts to the student body cannot be over-estimated. Last year in Ontario over eight thousand students were privileged to hear the very finest musicians under this arrangement.

TAX PREPAYMENT PLAN DISCARDED

"The idle rich can look after themselves," Alderman Stocker commented Thursday night when the finance committee of the council approved the recommendations of its sub-committee to discard the tax prepayment certificate plan for 1938 and at the same time reduce the penalties on tax arrears during the year.

Decision to change the experiment to easing the penalties was embodied in a resolution by Alderman Cotton, seconded by Alderman Stocker.

Alderman Stocker also asked Alderman Wilson, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, for a report on the accident to Chief Gimblett's car the night of a recent fire in Otonabee. It was agreed that prompt reports should be made in such cases.

A bylaw will be prepared for next Monday night prohibiting heavy trucks to be unloaded on sidewalks. City Engineer Parsons told the Board of Works that often when channels are dug under sidewalks for water, gas and other services, the earth eventually recedes, leaving only the slab of unsupported concrete to carry big trucks that pull up on the sidewalks for unloading coal and other supplies.

BILLED CITY FOR $310

With what seemed like a note of gusto Alderman Stocker moved that no action be taken on a bill from Dr. Herbert Young for itemized services amounting to $310. Alderman Wilson seconded it, and Alderman Dutton suggested "at least as a matter of courtesy" the explanation because the city is not liable.

AN ORCHID FOR APSLEY

A tall young man who knows his pulchritude, judging by the chestnut-haired girl who in a moment of weakness said yes to the "better or worse" questions recited by a parson,—any way this authority on such matters asserts that the proportion of good-looking girls in Apsley is higher than any other place in the district. At that rate Warden Brown has been holding out on the lads.

THURSDAY TRIAL DAY

According to the old timers who cling to weather lore in spite of numerous disappointments Thursday was trial day for winter. The first Thursday of the season is supposed to be the norm for the weather of the sequent three months. No doubt it is an idle and vain conjecture, but just think of Thursday's bland and comparatively balmy atmosphere for December! And the new moon was also due Thursday but it arrived in the afternoon and wasn't visible. If lunar influence means anything the first quarter of the month should be glorious weather. Hence, all the auguries seem complaisant, and although the present delightful brand of early winter is too good to last, it may turn out that Dan Whetung's predictions of a hard winter are going to expose him as a poor, otherwise an inept, guesser.

The new church, a handsome edifice, in Gothic, replaces the one destroyed by fire last winter. The services will be under the auspices of the Presbytery of Peterborough, and at the dedication service on Thursday, December 16th, the special preacher for the occasion will be the Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr of St. Paul's, Peterborough. On the Sunday following, December 19th, the services will be in charge of the Rev. Dr. John G. Inkster of Knox Church, Toronto.

POSTMASTER ISSUES WARNING

Stiff penalties are provided for anyone convicted of tampering with mail boxes, Postmaster Charles Lacheur warns. Recently, he said, glass slides in several mail boxes throughout the city were found to have been smashed and the matter has been the subject of a complaint to city police. Anyone caught tampering with mail boxes in any way whatsoever, will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law, the postmaster threatens.

MAGISTRATE'S COURT

Appearing on adjournment with a plea of not guilty to a charge of vagrancy, a local young man was discharged when police decided to offer no evidence. The youth was recently arrested in the early hours of the morning when he failed to give a satisfactory explanation of his movements on being questioned by a police constable. "You are what was called a smart alec in my day," Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., remarked. He warned the young man the police have a duty to perform and are entitled to a civil answer when they have occasion to question any citizen.

TRANSFER FUNERAL HOME

Permission to remove his funeral home from the corner of Reid and Charlotte streets to the late George Mather's house, two doors to the west along Charlotte street, was given to N. J. L. Nisbett by the finance committee of the council last night.

LIKE OLD TIMES

Old time rugby fans will be interested in learning that the Collegiate Institute game with Runnymede, Toronto district winners, for the inter-scholastic championship of Ontario will be staged at Nicholls' Oval tomorrow afternoon. Some of the finest games of football ever played in Peterborough were fought out on the Oval's smooth sward and Peterborough teams won several championships there. Probably the most famous team to appear at the Oval was the All-Star Irish team which toured Canada and which was undefeated in the Dominion.

Legal To Tell Cop "Where He Can Go" New York Cadi Decides

New York, Dec. 3 (UP) — IT IS O.K. to tell a traffic cop where he can go, Magistrate Mark Eudich ruled today in dismissing a disorderly conduct charge against Miss Margaret Greenberg, who told a traffic cop where he could go.

The traffic cop, Fred Schweyer, complained that when he admonished Miss Greenberg for blowing her automobile horn unnecessarily, she told him, in an annoyed tone, "You can go to hell."

"That is a simple declaration of fact," the Magistrate decided. "In the ordinary course of life and entirely within the realm of our belief, it is quite possible that you can go to hell. Miss Greenberg's remark wasn't a command or a wish but a simon-pure statement of fact."

O.R.F.U. Ordered Game At Riverside

Regarding the awarding of Riverside Park to the Orfuns instead of P.C.I. for a rugby playoff game this Saturday, Mayor George A. Macdonald explained that this matter was not settled by himself nor the Parks Committee of the City Council.

Secretary James Morley of the Orfuns' Club asked the committee last night to wire the O.R.F.U. that Riverside park here would be opened for whichever team—either the Orfuns or P.C.I.—that the O.R.F.U. directed, as President John DeGruchy of the O.R.F.U. asked for official sanction in respect to use of Riverside. Both P.C.I. and Orfuns have playoff games scheduled for Peterborough to-mororw.

Mayor Macdonald, acting for the Parks committee, left the matter entirely up to the Ontario Rugby Footbal Union, advising this body that the park would be opened Saturday to whichever team the O.R.F.U. ordered to play here. The following wire was sent by President DeGruchy to the Mayor to-day: "Have ordered Intermediate team to play Dundas in Peterborough Saturday." No partiality was shown to either team, the Mayor said.

Garbage Collection Report Is Submitted

"We have done our duty, and the council can take whatever action it likes," Alderman Dutton remarked last night in moving that the special report on proposed motorization of the garbage collection department be submitted to the council. Alderman McIntyre presided.

Ald. Dutton read the detailed report which was prepared after extensive enquiries in Toronto and Hamilton, and considerable time spent in observing the operations of garbage collecting systems in both cities.

In the meantime the chairman was authorized to arrange with H. J. Withers for the extension of his present contract for three months in 1938, providing sufficient time for motorization if the council takes that course.

LIKELY SET OVER TRIAL OF WELCH

Postponment of the trial of Textile Union Organizer Alex. Welch on the charge of obstructing an officer during the Bonner-Worth strike riot on August 10 was indicated today in rumors that his counsel will ask to have the case removed from the jury trial list at the General Sessions on Tuesday for trial by a judge without a jury. If such a request by J. L. Cohen, strike legal adviser acting for Welch, is granted by the court, a special date will likely be set.

Three other criminal matters are listed for the attention of the court, Judge D. B. Coleman presiding. William Hanrahan of Douro is scheduled to stand trial on a charge of arson. T. J. Carley, K.C., will defend, V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuting. Hilliard McIlmoyle faces a charge of theft, the Crown alleging he stole logs from James Freeburn and Hilliard Dunsford in Burleigh last June worth $25. The fourth case is that of George Selmes, who was convicted of a serious offence in a non-jury trial here but won a new trial by jury on appeal.

Two civil cases listed for jury trial are:

Margaret Fisher, infant, by her next best friend, Chester Fisher, against Mary E. Sharpe, South Monaghan teacher, for $500 damages for alleged improper treatment at school. Hon. G. N. Gordon, K. C. acting for the plaintiff, T. J. Carley, K.C. acting for the defendant.

Donald Pressick and Harry Pressick of Belmont against Timothy Byrnes and Patrick O'Connor for $500 damages in connection with an automobile accident. W. F. Huycke, K.C., for the plaintiffs and Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., for the defendant Byrnes.

Three cases listed for non-jury trial:

Edward Omer Faux, Asphodel farmer, against Fred Faux and George Lancaster, Asphodel farmers and executors of will of late Annie Faux for order for payment of legacy from the will. Mr. Gordon for the plaintiff and Hall, Hall and Stevenson for the defendants.

Ernest Darling, infant, by Harold Darling of Peterborough, against George Walton of Peterborough for $500, the plaintiffs alleging the defendant responsible for injuries received by the infant plaintiff when struck of his bicycle by a motor car. W. B. Gordon for the plaintiff and T. J. Carley, K.C., for the defendant.

William J. Collins against E. J. Hill for $263.30, the amount of a promissory note and interest, the defendant counterclaiming $1,400. Transferred from Division Court. S. T. Medd, K.C., acting for the plaintiff and G. N. Gordon for the defendant.

BARN IS RAISED ON HOOTEN FARM BY 100 HELPERS

Yesterday at a spectacular barn raising bee over one hundred men raising bee over one hundred men from Cavan, Smith Centreville, Fraserville, North Monaghan and Millbrook, co-operated in erecting the stout wooden framework, leaving only the sheeting and roofing of the structure to be completed. They worked under the capable direction of T. C. Morden, Mount Pleasant, a contractor on such jobs with over thirty years' experience.

When his other barn was destroyed by a fire that resulted from lightning three months ago, along with about six other barns in a radius of eight miles, Mr. Hooten insisted that it should be replaced with the best he could get. On completion the barn will be one of the finest in the entire district, it was stated.

"The barn contains double the amount of material of any barn I have previously built; and I've put up a few barns in my time," Mr. Morden declared.

Purchased through the Scott Coal and Lumber Company only the best of timber was selected by the builders. It includes: hemlock, elm, pine and British Columbia fir. Features of the barn's construction embody about 160 sleepers, carrying the floor, of exceptionally heavy timbers, all gained-in in 12 by 10 fir; several 10 by 12 timbers 36 feet long; seven bents of 10 by 10 timbers and seven top deck bents.

General dimension of the barn are 110 by 36 feet, and provision is made for a metallic roof to be supplied by Pedlar's of Oshawa; and two driveways. There is a horse stable on the west side with accommodation for fourteen head; a cow barn with stall space for twenty head of cattle in addition to box stalls for another twenty head. Hay bins are at the ground level with plans calling for a spacious granary and mows. Stanchions for the cattle stalls and other similar equipment is being supplied by Beatty Brothers of Fergus, Ontario.

Mrs. Hooten who was being assisted by a score or more of her neighbors to prepare supper for the big army of workmen, greeted a representative of The Examiner when he dropped in for the barn raising story.

With quiet sincerity she replied, "No. We didn't, the Lord sent it," when it was suggested, "You have picked a nice day for the barn raising.

Mr. Hooten, long established in Cavan township, is widely regarded as a successful farmer and breeder of Clydesdale horses.

Seeking Divorce

That the man whose musical wizardry is known all over the world is unable to preserve connubial harmony is indicated in the report from Las Vegas, Nev., that Mrs. Leopold Stokowski (ABOVE) has filed suit for divorce from her musician husband, charging extreme cruelty. The Stokowskis have lived apart for several months and rumors have already linked the name of Greta Garbo with that of the famed conductor.

PRESENT SHIELDS TO LEADING PUPILS AT CAMPBELLFORD

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 3. — The opening night of the annual High School commencement exercises was held on Thursday when the students presented the three-act comedy, "And Mary Did" from the pen of Lawrence Worcester, before a fine audience which nearly filled the auditorium.

Although the play itself probably formed the most important part of the program the choruses which were presented by students between the acts disclosed a degree of training which was remarkable.

The first chorus, "Three Little Maids," in which the leading part was given to a trio consisting of June Burgis, Monica DeCarrol, and Helen Burnam, who were supported by Eleanor Armour, Helen Bertrand, Violet Blakely, Shirley Brisbin, Beatrice Clarke, Margaret Coughlin, Margaret Keating, Rosamond Peloquin, Margaret Robertson.

The task of presenting the general proficiency shields was bestowed on Mayor F. F. Long, who praised the work done by the highly efficient staff at the school, whose record was the envy of the majority of schools in the province.

The shields were presented to students standing highest in their respective forms and remain the property of the school to be hung as a permanent record of the students with the highest grade of proficiency each year.

The awards were as follows:

The J. E. Birks Shield to Florence Ranney, Form I.; the F. F. Long Shield to Madeline Lisle, Form II.; the A. D. Bennett Shield to Elizabeth Free, Form III.; the Booth Economy Store Shield to Marie Hardy, Form IV.; the Hector McArthur Shield to Robert Linton, Form V.

Boys Give Chorus.

Following Act II. of the play, a boys' chorus, "Cheery Song," was presented with the blending of male voices bringing forth a hearty burst of applause. The singers were: Donald Bennett, Jack Beaver, Jack Casan, Donald Goodfellow, Jack Jarvis, Joe Kelly, Thomas Lee, Hector Macmillan, Gerald Nelson, Jack Owen, Ross Richardson, James Robertson, and James Seguire.

To George Free fell the honor of presenting the C. H. Davidson Cup, the F. Rabethge Cup and Field Day cups as follows: James Robertson, winner of the senior boys' section, the C. H. Davidson Cup; Charles Jeffs, the intermediate boys' cup; Robert Curle, the junior boys' cup; Helen McGee, the senior girls' cup; and Margaret Robertson, the junior girls' cup donated by F. Rabethge.

"Seein' Things at Night" was the title of a truly splendid chorus presented by a girls' double quartette, in which several of the names are those of girls who have become familiar soloists at church and young people's functions. They are as follows: Helen Barnum, Celestine Forestell, Ruth McGee, Helen McGee, Helen Nicholson, Mary Murphy, Marian Rowe, Betty Stewart.

C. W. Palliser presented the Literary Society scholarships and the Strathcona Medal awarded by the Strathcona Trust to the best shot in the school. The scholarships were awarded as follows: For general proficiency in Upper School, Robert Linton; for Upper School English, Francis Long; Middle School Ancient History and Chemistry, Marie Hardy; Mathematics, Charles Jeffs; Physics and Canadian History, Allan Kelly. The Strathcona Medal was awarded to Art Rowe.

The cast for the play, which was one of the best amateurs we have seen in several years, and reflects much credit to those in charge of its direction, included Constance McKelvie, Joseph O'Sullivan, Vera Wood, Patricia Cryderman, Arthur Rowe, Dorothy Redden, James Farrell, Marjorie Mills, Madeline Lisle, Merle Black, and J. M. Kelly. Incidental music was supplied by St. Mary's Orchestra, while Charles Allan assisted at the piano during the vocal numbers.

NEW Y.P. CLUB PLANS PROGRAM

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Dec. 3.—The executive of the Young People's Club of Our Lady of Mount Carmel parish, held a meeting Monday evening.

Suggestions regarding the activities of the newly formed club for the winter season were offered by members of the executive after the routine business was completed.

It was decided that at general meetings of the club, to be held after Christmas, programs of an educational value as well as providing entertainment for the members, would be presented.

Suggestions were offered regarding active co-operation with the young people's clubs of the adjoining parishes of Campbellford, Norwood and Warkworth, when possible.

The executive were well pleased with their recent "At Home" held in Lynch's Hall. More than one hundred couples were present. Campbellford, Norwood, Keene, Havelock and Peterborough were well represented.

The opening of the legislature, at which his honor officiated, 24 hours after his appointment, was a special session called by the premier.

New Code Of Procedure Makes First Appearance At Sessions

County Council's Rules of Procedure Published In Book Form

Red jacketed booklets embodying the county council's new code of procedure and decorum as set forth in bylaw 1569, passed last June, were distributed among the members last week, and if they don't become shuffled into the effective discard of pockets or corners of desk drawers they may eventually exert the influence of parliamentary manner that was contemplated in the drafting of the new ordinance.

It probably wouldn't be correct to say that application of the new regulations is something like the throwing of a halter or bridle over the head of a young colt. Peterborough county council has an innate sense of its own dignity as the representatives of the rural and village ratepayers, but in their way of doing things they have always accepted an agreeable latitude and a certain informality in their conduct of business, being more concerned with the substance of their affairs than the form in which they were ultimately signed and sealed. If some member wished to speak twice to a motion, or perhaps three times, well, why not let him? It is frailty of all but the most excellent of parliamentarians, the Kings and Bennetts and Meighens, to forget some of the arguments and observations they originally set out to deliver. And, also, what harm was done if you did interrupt a colleague who had the floor and was saying things to which you objected or which you wished to correct.

No Interruptions

But, from now on the little red book declares—"No member shall interrupt another while speaking to the question, except on a point of order." However, that clause was generally observed without having to put it down in black and white.

On the other hand clause 20 suggested the harness metaphor,—"No Councillor shall leave his place during the sitting of the Council, without turning towards the Chair as he retires and making a bow in such a manner that any member may know his intentions of withdrawing from the Council Chamber."

That restriction caused considerable hesitation and embarassment. Some of the members indicated that they had read the new rules by standing in their places and looking expectantly toward Warden Brown for the nod. Usually they got the gestured permission to retire, but when the president's attention was distracted the standing member waited a few moments in an attitude that suggested slight discomfiture, bowed anyway, and seeming to say 'tellwithit' went on his way without the bow from the chair.

Present Motions in Writing

Then there is clase 30, "Every motion shall be presented to the Chair in writing, with the names of the mover and seconder, written thereon, etc., etc." which was almost invariably honored in the breach. Even the Reeve of Ennismore ignored it, and right out in meeting too. On one occasion it was deliberate and in response to the clerk's parrying challenge. That, at least, was the impression of a reportorial observer. Miss Batten asked Reeve Gifford to submit a certain motion in writing, a tacit reminder that a new order of procedure was in effect, and the ungallant reply of Ennismore's Reeve, of course in a spirit of utmost good humor but evading the unpointed feminine finger toward the little red book and clause 30 was —"Of course if you can't write it,—"

It may be that Reeve Gifford was not balking at the official rules, because as a matter of fact he gives all the evidence of being a disciplinarian and conformer in the conduct of affairs of state; it may have been rather the involuntary, conditioned reflex of a bachelor resenting feminine domination.

Warden Brown was complacent toward such trifles, or they used to be trifles before the council decided last June that they were important and had them printed as a book of forty-nine rules. The attitude of insistence was lacking, possibly as a farewell to the old order, before the new year and dispensation arrived in January when the spirit and letter of bylaw 1569 may be more rigidly evoked against deep rooted misdemeanors of the long and free and easy regime which the aforesaid bylaw implies as being definitely ended.

EX-MINISTER'S SON LAWYER AT COAST HELD AS ROBBER

VANCOUVER, Dec. 3 (CP).—C. H. Cahan, Jr., was under arrest today, charged with the armed holdup of a suburban branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce here Wednesday. He will appear in police court today and probably will be remanded.

The 30-year-old Vancouver lawyer, son of Hon. C. H. Cahan, former Secretary of State, was apprehended on the holdup charge yesterday as he left police court, where he had just been convicted of passing worthless cheques, and remanded to next Monday for sentence.

Cahan has practised here for the past six or seven years, his counsel, Thomas F. Hurley, said, and before that had lived in California.

The bank, in the Dunbar residential district, was held up Wednesday by a lone armed man, who escaped with $79 in small bills. Two of the three bank employees followed him to the street and fired six shots at a car in which the bandit fled.

Police said shortly after the holdup that a man answering the bank employees' description of the bandit had changed a $5 bill in a neighborhood store. They added that other clues included a button torn from a man's coat and picked up in front of the bank and a description of the "getaway" car.

King Sympathizes for Kiddies in Rain As They Cheer His Duchy Tour

Taunton, Somersetshire, Dec. 3

THE King, on a two-day tour of the Duchy of Cornwall, arrived here today and promptly voiced sympathy for the thousands of youngsters who had gathered in pouring rain to welcome him.

After being greeted at the railway station by the Marquess of Bath, lord lieutenant of Somerset, his majesty was cheered to the echo by thousands of youngsters and other onlookers gathered outside the building.

"What bad weather!" the King declared as he acknowledged the greetings. "I am sorry for the children waiting in the rain."

Among the youngsters was a grandson of Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, attending school at Taunton.

King George reviewed war veteran contingents and then entered an automobile to wind up his tour which began yesterday with visits to Devonshire and Cornwall.

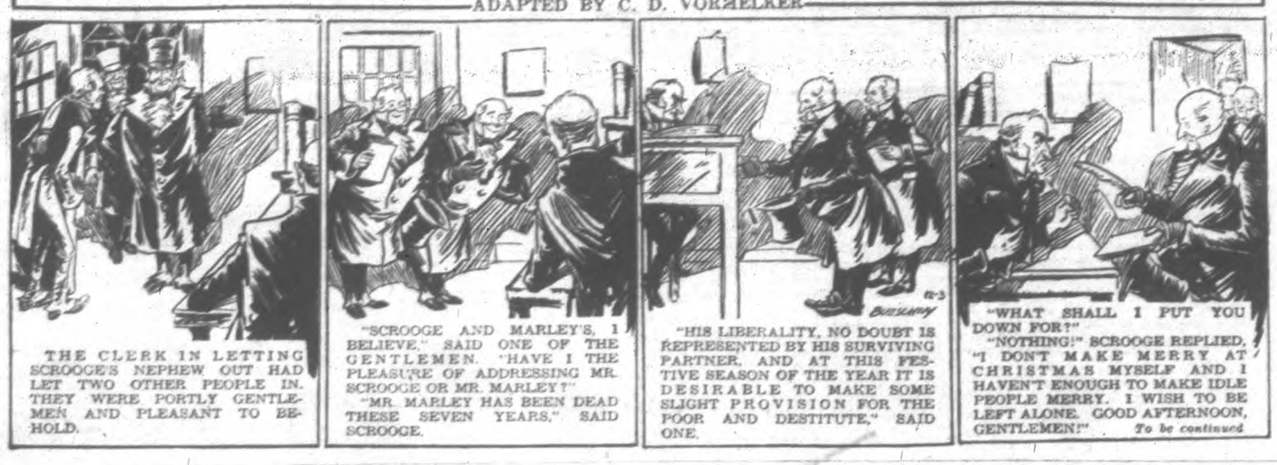
Dickens' Christmas Carol

ADAPTED BY C. D. VORMELKER

Illustrated by Alfred J. Buescher
CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION



THE CLERK IN LETTING SCROOGE'S NEPHEW OUT HAD LET TWO OTHER PEOPLE IN. THEY WERE PORTLY GENTLEMEN AND PLEASANT TO BEHOLD.

"SCROOGE AND MARLEY'S, I BELIEVE," SAID ONE OF THE GENTLEMEN. "HAVE I THE PLEASURE OF ADDRESSING MR. SCROOGE OR MR. MARLEY?"

"MR. MARLEY HAS BEEN DEAD THESE SEVEN YEARS," SAID SCROOGE.

"HIS LIBERALITY, NO DOUBT IS REPRESENTED BY HIS SURVIVING PARTNER, AND AT THIS FESTIVE SEASON OF THE YEAR IT IS DESIRABLE TO MAKE SOME SLIGHT PROVISION FOR THE POOR AND DESTITUTE," SAID ONE.

"WHAT SHALL I PUT YOU DOWN FOR?"

"NOTHING!" SCROOGE REPLIED. "I DON'T MAKE MERRY AT CHRISTMAS MYSELF AND I HAVEN'T ENOUGH TO MAKE IDLE PEOPLE MERRY. I WISH TO BE LEFT ALONE. GOOD AFTERNOON, GENTLEMEN!"

BROKER EMPLOYE'S PRIVATE ACCOUNTS COVERED UP FIRM

TORONTO, December 3—(CP)—Employees of Solloway, Mills Company carried the firm's short position in stocks under their own names to protect the firm against a possible investigation, J. H. Oram, former book-keeper of the brokerage house, testified to-day in the trial of Isaac W. C. Solloway on charges involving more than $2,000,000.

Oram read from a ledger, accounts listed under his own name and the names of other employees.

"I was told the accounts were kept for the purpose of investigation," he said. "If one was held it could be shown that the people whose names were on those accounts were short stocks to the house."

The accounts were used to balance the books, he said.

When customers ordered stocks sold, the short accounts were credited with the purchase of stock while the customer was debited accordingly.

TWO CARS DAMAGED

BRANTFORD, Ont., Dec. 3 (CP)—Two cars were badly damaged and Frank Marcella, Brantford, suffered a gash on the top of his head today in an auto accident. Alfred Marcella, brother of Frank, was driver of one car and John Harris Kirkpatrick, Hamilton, drove the other. Both drivers escaped injury. The Marcella car was thrown on a boulevard and the Kirkpatrick car was turned around and blocked a street car track.

Three Men Buried In Gravel Slide

KITCHENER, Ont., Dec. 3—(CP)—Three workers had a narrow escape from death to-day when they were buried for nearly an hour in a gravel pit near Linwood, 20 miles north of here.

Gordon Sutter and Victor Riehl, both of Gadshill, and Norman Harloff of Rostock, were little the worse for their experience when men armed with shovels dug them out. Only one of the men, Sutter, said he had difficulty in breathing under the seven feet of half-frozen gravel. The men were working with picks when the gravel slid from near the top of the 30-foot exavation and engulfed them.

Neat Sum Raised For C. A. Society

(Examiner Correspondent)

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 3—Thirty-two dollars and fifty cents was raised on Saturday in aid of the Children's Aid Society of Peterborough, when the Lakefield Branch of the Women's Institute held their annual tag day. Tagging was done by eight girls, Misses Jacqueline Morin, Betty Lake, Jean Foster, Theresa McFadden, Elsie Chappell, Jean Orr, Marion Twist and N. Stenner. The committee in charge was composed of Mrs. C. S. Stenner, Mrs. Sydney Hutt, Mrs. C. Lake and Mrs. C. Foster.

At the conclusion of the day the ladies served refreshments to the taggers in the Memorial Hall.

It was felt that the returns, nine dollars of which was given by schools in the district, were very gratifying.

Japs Planned Victory March In Shanghai Said Childish

Surgeon to Join 2 Negro Children

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—John Melvin Bonner and Clara Howard, both negro children, will be joined together surgically within a few weeks.

A Washington surgeon, it was disclosed to-day, plans the operation to restore the girl's skin, burned badly in a shanty fire in North Carolina a year ago.

The surgeon, Dr. Robert E. Moran, will connect the two bodies by an 18-inch tube of skin extending down one side of each. They will remain that way, with their blood circulatory systems connected, for five weeks.

Clara, 13, was so badly burned, a usual skin grafting operation was considered insufficient. She and John, 16, are cousins.

CONDITION IMPROVED

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 3—(CP)—Slight general improvement was noted to-day in the condition of 28-year-old Weston W. Fletcher, Grand Blanc, Mich., one of the two streptococcus viridans sufferers in hospital here, according to his physician, Dr. H. Simpkins. Fletcher is given a 100 to 1 chance to survive.

Condition of 17-year-old Robert Shafer, Windsor, remained unchanged. He is not as seriously ill as Fletcher and is rated a better chance of recovery.

British Will Use No Force To Block Parade But Hope To Bar Street Fight

LONDON, Dec. 3 (CP Cable).—British authorities regard Japan's threatened victory march through the international settlement in Shanghai in the light of a "childish exhibition."

An official advice has been received that the Japanese intend to march "certain troops" through the settlement. How many troops will participate the official advices do not indicate.

Independent advices, however, state six Japanese battalions will be on parade. They will march tomorrow through the principal streets of the settlement, which is choked with 3,000,000 Chinese, many of them homeless refugees.

The British authorities in Shanghai, it is intimated, will not attempt to stop the Japanese by force. But they will do everything in their power to prevent street fighting.

Authorities here, while reticent to express an opinion without closer study, regard Japan's threatened march as a "possible violation" of international agreements. Experts are now studying this feature of the situation. Diplomatic representations at Tokyo are probable.

The international settlement grew from an old area which Great Britain leased from China. First by amalgamation with the United States area and then by co-operation with other powers, it became a self-governing foreign settlement under Chinese sovereignty, administered by a municipal council of 14, of whom Japan now elects two members.

DIVER FIGHTS

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3—(AP).—Georgia Coleman, queen of Olympic divers in 1928 and 1932, mustered a smile to-day and said:

"I'll be out there diving again soon—this can't lick me." She posed, her eyes heavy-lidded, for photographers, then lapsed into a semi-coma.

For days she has been critically ill. This week she was cheered when doctors decided she had not contracted infantile paralysis but was sufefring from pneumonia.

"SALTING" CHARGE IS THROWN OUT

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., Dec. 3.—(CP)—Victor Barber, former jeweller of Cobalt, was acquitted today by Magistrate Atkinson on a charge of fraud laid under the Securities Act. Barber was alleged to have faked samples of the Lois Lake mine.

Magistrate Atkinson said he was making no finding as to whether the mine was "salted" or not. "The evidence of an analyst from Toronto should not have been accepted," he said. "The evidence of an analyst should be subjected to examination and not submitted by certificate."

The magistrate said it was his opinion if "this set of evidence as set out in the information is true," it should be punishable under the criminal code. "I cannot conceive any more fraudulent act than that of deliberately salting samples for the purpose of obtaining money or selling of stock to be later floated on the public.

"I am not saying this is true, but I say it comes under the criminal code and not under the provisions of the Securities Act. The Securities Act does not intend to infringe upon the criminal code.

"I am of the opinion that if such set of evidence were proved against any man it would come under the provisions of the criminal code and would be punishable under the criminal code and for this reason I dismiss the case."

East's Football Teams Turn In Best American Records

Atlantic Seaboard Clubs Have Average of .647 For The Season

NEW YORK (UP) — The East, thanks to Fordham, Pittsburgh and a couple other giants, turned in the best intersectional record of the 1937 football campaign, a United Press survey of major games showed today.

Teams on the Atlantic seaboard regarded as weak sisters in cross-country competition up to a few years ago, won 23 battles with outside elevens, lost 18 and tied 5 for an average of .647.

Next best division on the list was the Southwest, while the Mid-West, once the giant of intersectional competition, slumped to the almost unbelievable average of .324. The South, which produced a Rose Bowl team in Alabama, was only a little better, with .433, while the Pacific Coast finished third in the standings with .466.

In figuring up percentages, only scores of major names, or intersectional games involving one big team were considered.

Fordham and Pittsburg each played four intersectional contests and won all of them. The Rams subdued Texas Christian, Purdue, North Carolina and St. Mary's, while Pittsburg defeated Notre Dame, Nebraska, Duke and Wisconsin to return eight victories for the East.

The standings:

	Won	Lost	Ti	P C
East	23	18	5	.647
Southwest	9	7	1	.563
Pacific Coast	5	6	1	.455
South	13	17	3	.433
Mid-West	11	23	6	.324

The decline in Mid-West fortunes was largely due to failure of Big Ten teams. Teams of that conference played in nine intersectional games and won only three—Ohio State's victory over Texas Christian, Purdue over Carnegie Tech, and Michigan over Pennsylvania. Chicago lost two intersectionals, and Purdue, Iowa, Wisconsin and Ohio State one each.

In the Southwest, Southern Methodist led the way with two intersectional victories and a tie. Texas Christian lost two games and Texas lost one, but others in the Southwest Conference—Baylor, Rice and the Texas Aggies—offset that by winning one each. Texas didn't play any intersectional games. The other wins and losses were accounted for by teams outside the conference.

The Southern intersectional giants were Mississippi, North Carolina, Louisiana State and Vanderbilt. All won two intersectional games each, but North Carolina lost a third, while Mississippi played an intersectional tie.

On the coast, honors were fairly well split. Three conference teams—U.S.C., Washington and U.C.L.A.—each won an intersectional, while U.S.C. and U.C.L.A. each lost one. The other victories and defeats came from teams outside the conference, particularly Loyola of Los Angeles, which lost two and won one.

Sent To Minors

Johnny Sorrell, a wingman with the Detroit Red Wings, has been sent down to the minors due to the general shake-up that Manager Jack Adams has been carrying on in an endeavor to get his club into the winning column. Waivers were asked on Sorrell but the other clubs in the N.H.L. passed up a chance at his services. He is pictured here.

Dundas Club Ordered Play Here Saturday

Following is a statement sent to the press by Secretary James Morley of the Orfuns' Rugby Club, concerning the mixup in playoff games here this Saturday:

"The Orfuns' executive, having been ordered to play here and being unable to make satisfactory arrangements for the use of the park placed the problem in the hands of the O.R.F.U. president, John DeGruchy, with the understanding we would play in Dundas if it be so arranged, or postpone either one of the two games scheduled for Peterborough. The final decision of the O.R.F.U. ordered Dundas to play Orfus here on Saturday.

"The game will be at 2.30 p.m. sharp in Riverside Park. If the Dundas team, the Red Bombers, wear red sweaters, it may be necessary for the local team to change their sweaters. A special train will arrive here from Dundas about noon bringing from 300 to 400 fans."

OLD-TIME HOCKEY STARS PLAY AGAIN EXHIBITION GAME

VANCOUVER, Dec. 3 — Hockey stars of yesteryear stepped out of the record books for a charity game here and thrilled a crowd of nearly 5,000 with all of their old-time skill.

A team of thirteen old-timers led by Fred "Cyclone" Taylor, Mickey Mackay and Moose Johnson trimmed an amateur squad by 5 to 1 and liked it.

The come-back was so successful that Montreal is already talking of an east-west series for the stars of 20 years ago.

When the old-timers got into the swing of it they had the youngsters really baffled. They passed backhanded, they stick-handled with amazing accuracy and they rifled their shots at the goal just as if they hadn't laid off for more than a season.

"Cyclone" panicked the crowd as he weaved his way through the opposition for two goals and an assist. Mickey Mackay scored his goal early and showed more than a trace of the dazzling speed which was his specialty twenty years ago.

Si Griffis and Moose Johnson, who presented Vancouver's stonewall defense in many a world championship contest, were just as hard to get by as ever. Si wore his old toque and Moose had his old elongated stick.

Jack Walker of Seattle, who led the Sound City to the world's championship, foraged for the puck which he usually gave to Bernie Morris or Frank Foyston (who couldn't hit a barn door with it now) while Frank Frederickson, who used to star for Victoria, fed the passes to Mackay and Taylor.

Fred Mac...lough, that old Victoria netminder, was in his finest kicking mood. "Give us two weeks and we'll whip those Coast league upstarts," he said afterwards.

Just to give the show an added kick, Frank Patrick, the old Vancouver maestro who acted as the old-timers' manager, sent five forwards into the fray in the last period. They swarmed all over the youngsters who didn't have a chance.

One of the highlights of the evening, packed with thrills, was "Cyclone" Taylor's facing off with his son Fred. The old boy crouched over his stick, his bald pate gleaming above that of his dark-thatched son, and they went to it.

The youngster soon knew that he was in a real hockey game. "Cyclone" set a dizzy pace and his son just couldn't catch him. The Listowel wonder even skated backward nearly the length of the ice just to make an old legend come true.

P.C.I. RUGBY TILT AT NICHOLLS OVAL

The Runnymede-P.C.I. interscholastic senior final rugby fixture will be played here to-morrow (Saturday) afternoon at 2.15 o'clock in Nicholls Oval. The game, for the championship of Ontario, a sudden-death fixture, was originally billed for Riverside, but will now definitely be staged at the Oval. The level grassy field will be marked out today and goal-posts erected. Rugby has been played previously in the Oval. Those without advance tickets at this tilt will be expected to contribute the 25 cents admission, a collection being taken up, as the Runnymede team has been guaranteed $75.00 to play this important game here. A good crowd of fans is expected.

The probable lineups are:

Runnymede — Flying wing, Puttock; halves, Graham, Plaxton, Coulter; quarter, Paisley; snap, Pruner; insides, Martz, Cable; middles, Wallis, Turriff; outsides, Carty, Hignell; alternates, Lawrence, Needham, Monaghan, Harrison, Hill, Miles, Booth, Hoyle, Hilliard.

P.C.I. — Flying wing, Creighton; halves, Diplock, A. Clark, Thornton; quarter, Leether; snap, Johnston; insides, W. Turner, Ascott; middles, Curtin, Kelly; outsides, Csumrik, Craig; alternates, G. Clark, Northcott, Ward, Parnall, P. Turner, Scriver, and others.

Both are fine teams and will play classy, open rugby in a fighting display.

DUKE AS GOLFER IS GOOD PUTTER

PARIS, Dec. 3 (CP)—As a golfer, the Duke of Windsor has a fault common with many player. He can't keep his eye on the ball.

The Duke is a strong player, and his lithe build enables him to hit the ball hard. After bringing his club back in good form for the drive, he becomes so intent on hitting the ball that he sometimes looks up too soon. And he tops the ball.

On one occasion here he came up to a beautiful follow through but what was his dismay to see the ball still balanced on the little red peg. This misfortune brought forth simply the exclamation, "Mais je ne sais vraiment pas jouer aujourd'hui!" ("Well, I simply can't play at all today!")

But he doesn't miss them very often. The former monarch goes around the longer 18-hole course at St. Cloud (6,663 yards) in 86, compared to the 75 par.

He is accurate in his approaches to the green and seems to be less handicapped by over-intentness on these shorter shots. On the green itself he is at his best, and is known to be a very good putter.

The Duke is a patient player and has never been known to become angry at bad luck. If he misses a shot, however, he upbraids himself audibly.

He wants to be left alone, and be considered as just another player. The Duke sometimes plays the shorter course at St. Cloud, despite his preference for the longer course, merely to remain less conspicuous.

His most constant companion on the fairways is Percy Boomer, 50-year-old English professional at St. Cloud, just outside Paris.

He does not play with the Duchess. She has never accompanied him to St. Cloud. She used to walk around the course with him at the Chateau de Cande, before their marriage, but has not actually played for nearly a year.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd C' prkle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

AND SO tomorrow afternoon we have two championship rugby games played in Peterborough. The senior school sudden-death final between the Runnymede Collegiate and the P.C.I.-ers will be staged at 2.15 in Nicholls Oval. And the O.R.F.U. intermediate "A" final fixture—first of the home-and-home series—will be played at 2.30 in Riverside Park. Yessir, two games for Provincial titles here, and both had to be played on the same day! We wait 30 years for a championship in rugby and now we have an excellent chance of winning two, with two good teams in Ontario finals—and they put both games on in Peterborough on the same afternoon! Of all the blinkety-blankety-this-and-that messes, this takes the arsenic-filled cake! Two grand games come up—aw, nuts. Double nuts.

* * * * * * *

ALL WEEK the trouble has been brewing concerning those tilts. It was the P.C.I. turn for Riverside Park and they made arrangements with Runnymede for a sudden-death scrap here to settle the title. The Orfuns figured on playing Dundas in Dundas or Hamilton, and then back here Dec. 11th. Naturally, Riverside Park is the only closed-in grid field available here. Dundas agreed to this arrangement, provided the O.R.F.U. so notified the Dundas team by such a date. Well, Secretary Bailey of the O.R.F.U. just forgot to do so. Dundas then, figuring the first fixture would be here—as first stated by the O.R.F.U., before the school tilt had been lined up—made arrangements for a special train here, and insisted on playing here this Saturday. And the O.R.F.U. then backed up the Dundas claim.

* * * * * * *

WELL, BOTH local clubs then figured on Riverside Park for this Saturday. There was much ado about something, all right. Frenzied phone calls to the president and secretary of the O.R.F.U. by both clubs, word sent to Runnymede and to Dundas, delegations to the City Council and the Board of Education, etc., etc. Last night, the Orfuns presented their angle to the City Fathers and it wound up with the Council deciding that Riverside Park would be leased tomorrow to whichever local team the O.R.F.U. decided. A wire to this effect was sent by Mayor Macdonald to Secretary Bailey of the Ontario Rugby Football Union. The latter sent back word that the Dundas-Orfuns game would have to be played here. And so Orfuns get Riverside Park for tomorrow.

* * * * * * *

THE P.C.I. gang are burned up about this and insist that their game must be played here, too, since they have guaranteed Runnymede $75 to make it a sudden-death contest in Peterborough this Saturday. And the Runnymede coach sent word this a.m. that his team would be here. So a switch had to be made—the P.C.I. players offered to play on any field in the district whether it be a cow pasture or gridiron—and Nicholls Oval was selected. So the game will be at 2.15 in the Oval. Admish is still a quarter and tickets will be taken and fans without ducats will be asked to drop two bits in the hat at this fray. The Oval is a good piece of level, grassy ground and will be properly marked out today for the sudden-death struggle.

* * * * * * *

AS WE said before—and will say a dozen times through the day—it is about the messiest mess we've run into in sports around this town since Hector was a pup. Here we have two Ontario championship games in Peterborough on the same afternoon. Both are well worth seeing, but who in the name of Uncle Theodore's minted Aunt Mary Ann can see both contests in full? Not only are the clubs burned up like the bride's first batch of biscuits, but fans around town will be plenty peeved at this news. They wait three decades to see a Provincial football pennant come here, and then there is a ball-up (and the O.R.F.U. is mainly responsible for it) and the two biggest games of the year—of many years, in fact—are ordered here the same day. A rotten mess all the way through.

* * * * * * *

WE ARE sitting squarely on the fence in this matter—taking no sides whatsoever. Since the O.R.F.U. balled it up—as they nearly did here two weeks ago by ordering Toronto and Orfuns to play when a school game was listed for Peterborough—the local clubs, Orfuns and P.C.I., aren't feeling too friendly to each other. Or so we imagine. We would like to see both games by all means, and that's why we're mad. Coach Bamforth of P.C.I. said this a.m. that he had no grudge against the Orfuns' players (many of 'em ex-P.C.I. gridders) and he wished them all kinds of luck. Yeah, it is too bad. Two grand games, and now both gates will be out down a great deal. The Orfuns are badly in need of finances for the return-trip to Dundas next week and P.C.I. have to raise $75 for their guarantee to Runnymede. Fans will just have to take their choice—go to the Oval for the school final, or to Riverside for the O.R.F.U. final. And don't ask us for any advice.

* * * * * * *

WE WILL give a few lines to each team. The school playoff should see two smart squads of senior collegians play a bang-up wide-open tilt here, with the Ontario title at stake. Coaches Bamforth and Brown are both looking for a hard battle. The P.C.I. team should be at full strength but for Duncan, who is out with an injured shoulder. The lineup will likely be: Flying wing, Creighton; halves, Diplock, A. Clark, Thornton; quarter, Leether; snap, Johnston; insides, W. Turner, Ascott; middles, Curtin, Kelly; outsides, Csumrik, Craig; alternates, G. Clark, Northcott, Parnall, Ward, P. Turner, Scriver and a few others. Runnymede will bring a strong squad of Toronto and suburban district champs here, and it will be a game well worth seeing.

* * * * * * *

DUNDAS RED Bombers rubbed out Sarnia in semi-finals whilst our Orfuns were ousting Toronto, and these two strong teams should dish up a real battle here. The Bombers are reported to have a big, sloughing line and a very fast backfield, led by Cahill. He starred in the Sarnia series with Smilley, Gurney, Mountain and Donald. The team comes on a special train, along with over 300 fans, arriving about noon tomorrow. Coach Bill Turnbull has his Orfuns in grand shape and ready for a rousing fight. Points count in this series and Orfuns hope to cop the nod and get a good lead tomorrow. It will be a game well worth seeing.

* * * * * * *

HITHER AND yawn: Cobourg scribe puts Loucks, Hendren and Gerow of Orfuns on his district all-star grid squad . . . Yet gives three spots to the poor Eastsides team! . . . MATRONS GO IN FOR SNOWSHOES

BOSTON, Dec. 3 (CP) — Elderly people attracted to winter sports by the enthusiasm of skiing youngsters turn to snowshoes quite often after finding the ski pace a bit strenuous. At least, that is the experience of one salesman here, for he notes with surprise that sales of snowshoes have tripled the past two years.

"Where we used to sell perhaps 30 pairs of snowshoes several winters back," he says, "we sold nearly 300 last season, even though the weather was so bad."

Up With Red Wings

HOWARD MACKIE

In the general shake-up of the Detroit Red Wings, N.H.L. champions for the past two seasons, Howard Mackie, speedy young right-winger from the Pittsburg club, has been called up to fill in on the line with Marty Barry and Rookie Carl Liscombe. The Red Wings have slipped badly this season and the bringing up of Mackie is only part of Manager Jack Adams' plan to try and get the club clicking again.

Hockey's Big 7

(By the Canadian Press)

Paul Thompson of Chicago pushed his way into the National Hockey League's Big Seven last night with a goal and an assist in the 2-1 victory over Rangers, his eighth and ninth scoring points of the season. He stepped into a fourth-place tie with Sylvanus Apps of Toronto, whose club still holds all the top berths. Neil Stewart of Americans, Chuck Conacher and Bill Thoms of Toronto, Harry Barry of Detroit, and Doc Romnes of Chicago still are tied with eight points each.

The leaders:

Drillon, Toronto	8	7	15
H. Jackson, Toronto	7	5	12
Horner, Toronto	2	10	12
Apps, Toronto	2	7	9

ORFUNS TO PLAY RIVERSIDE PARK

Dundas Red Bombers and Peterborough Orfuns clash here to-morrow (Saturday) at 2.30 o'clock in Riverside Park. It will be the first of the home-and-home O.R.F.U. Intermediate A final series, return joust—with total points counting—being at Dundas on December 11. With the first grid title in 30 years liable to come to Peterborough in this series, interest among local fans is high. The Bombers rubbed out Toronto Eastsides and Sarnia in the playdowns, while Arfuns beat Trenton fliers and Toronto City Club in their playdown series. These classy crews should dish up a dandy clash with the Provincial championship at stake. Orfuns will be trying not only to win, but to take a decent lead into the second scrap.

Coach Bill Turnbull expects his team will line up pretty much as it d... in the last two series. The squad is in good shape and has been training hard all week. The locals feel confident they can trim the husky, hard-hitting Bombers, but expect a real battle. Mick Magee may line up with the Orfuns again after being out most of the season with an injured shoulder. The Dundas team, with Ken Long—former ball player here—on the lineup, should be at full strength, except for Rose Craig, injured kicker. The tilt should be a natural, and it rates a good crowd of fans.

U.S. GOLF PROS ARE FOLLOWING BRITONS' LEAD

Following the lead of the British Professional Golfers' Association, the P.G.A. of America has ruled against the time-honor practice of marking a ball on the green in medal play. The British pro organization voted that after Jan. 1, 1938, no ball may be lifted on the putting green.

The rules of golf provide that the player of ball further from the hole may have the ball nearer the hole lifted or played at the option of its owner. Thus the British P.G.A., for the first time in the history of golf, makes a rule, instead of leaving the lawmaking to the British Rules of Golf Committee, which lately has been expanded to take in other than members of the Royal and Ancient of St. Andrews.

In medal play tournaments in the United States the practice of marking has been almost general. Many complained that lifting was overdone, and that there was a wide degree of variance in the care with which the players replaced their ball after lifting it. It is practically impossible, no matter how firm the intention, to replace the ball exactly as it was before lifting.

A lifting incident was the cause of a spirited controversy during the qualifying rounds of the 1937 American Professional Golfers' Association championship, which resulted in the professional association expecting an apology from one of its members who criticized the practice, and apparently with such logic that the British professionals endorsed the protest by making the ruling which the American pros have adopted.

N.H.L. All-Stars

(By The Canadian Press)

Wilf Cude, Canadiens, blanked previously undefeated Bruins 2-0 with superlative goal-tending.

Babe Siebert, Canadiens, scored first goal and led Flying Frenchmen offensively and defensively against Boston.

Paul Thompson, Chicago, contributed tying goal and assist for winning goal as Hawks defeated Rangers 2-1 to gain second position.

Lash Wins Again

Don Lash, Olympic runner from Bloomington, Indiana, splashes through the mud first to take the 41st annual United States A.A.U. cross-country title for the fourth straight year in the race held at Newark, N.J. He thus became the first man to accomplish the feat. His time for the 10,000 metres was 32 minutes 57.4 seconds.

Pete Kelly Waived To Pittsburg Club

DETROIT, Dec. 3 (C.P.) — Pete (Red) Kelly, utility forward on the Red Wing hockey team which brought Detroit two Stanley Cup championships, has been turned over to Pittsburg Hornets, Detroit farm team in the International-American League. Manager Jack Adams said last night. All other National Hockey League clubs waived on Kelly, after having waived on Johnny Sorrell two days ago.

RUGBY FINALISTS ON EVEN FOOTING EXPERTS' OPINION

TORONTO, Dec. 3.—(CP)— Try picking it by any method and it still spells "even-Stephen"—this contest here tomorrow between Sarnia Imperials and Toronto Argonauts for the right to represent the east in pursuit of Canadian football honors.

Probably as good a way as any to try and pick the winner is to take a coin and flip it. That's the way most of the experts figure the clash. But no matter which way victory swings they all believe the east will have a top team to throw in against Winnipeg Blue Bombers, champions of the west.

Argos have gone through a tougher schedule in winning the Big Four title than Imps did in taking the Ontario Rugby Football Union championship giving them probably a better fighting edge for the game. Sarnia last played November 20, crushing Montreal Westmounts 63-0.

But it's also true the Imps have Hugh (Bummer) Stirling, chosen as the outstanding footballer of the season, and Mighty Ormond Beach, the Kansas giant who is an ace line-smasher. There are others of the team, too, who might pick up the mantle of stardom should these two players show signs of dropping it.

Many neutral observers believed Argos can win only if their Bob Isbister matches the booming punts of the bummer—who thinks nothing of hoisting them 60 and 70 yards.

All signs pointed to a near sell-out house viewing the game at Varsity Stadium, which means that more than 16,000 fans probably will be on hand for the game tomorrow. Led by their backfield ace, Pritzie Hanson, they left Winnipeg last night.

Mann Catches Pastor In First

CANUCKS HUMBLE MIGHTY BRUINS WITH 2-0 DEFEAT

TORONTO, Dec. 3 (CP)—When the opposition is willing to fly, Montreal Canadiens can be the Flying Frenchmen of old—perhaps the National Hockey League's most dazzling team.

Canadiens' flock of flyweight forwards don't always revel in close-knit defensive play and heavy bodying. But Cecil Hart's clever cast is in its element against a team willing to wage a speed duel and the going is bound to be spectacular.

Boston Bruins carried a record of eight games without a defeat into Montreal last night and elected to match skating prowess with the Canadiens. They became the league's last team to record a loss when the hurtling Habitants shut them out 2-0 before a crowd of 7,000 that endorsed the wide-open, penalty-less play.

Canadiens stepped into a second-place tie with New York Americans and Montreal Maroons, four points behind Toronto in the Canadian division. Tomorrow night Americans visit Maroons and Canadiens invade Toronto. The Leafs and Maroons have played two more games than their rivals.

Hawks In Second Place

With Paul Thompson and Johnny Gottselig marking the way, Chicago Black Hawks vaulted over the in-and-out New York Rangers into second place, five points behind Boston, by defeating Rangers 2-1 at Chicago. Thompson became the American division's scoring leader by whipping home the first goal and aiding Gottselig in the winning effort.

Wilf Cude and Tiny Thompson waged a goal-tending duel at Montreal as play ranged quickly from end to end, and the nimble Cude emerged winner. As the two goals went by, Thompson slipped behind Earl Robertson of Americans in the netminders' race, the low total of 13 scores against Robertson giving him an advantage of one.

Defencemen Babe Siebert and Cliff Goupille got their first goals of the season and the forwards' frenzied attacks had to go unrewarded. Charlie Sands spun down on Cude three times, only to be out-guessed at the goalmouth, Johnny Gagnon, Pit Lepine and Rod Lorraine led drive after drive on the lone Thompson.

Maintaining the pace through the season and third periods, the teams refused to yield a big opportunity by drawing a penalty and the game drew into the first of the N.H.L. schedule to pass without a sentence. Four minutes from the finish Goupille, playing his first full season in the big league, broke with three forwards from a British mass attack. Toe Blake was stopped by Clapper but Goupille picked up the puck and kept going to lift it by Thompson.

Tight Win For Hawks

The Hawks had to come from behind to subdue Rangers 2-1, after Neil Colville had put the visitors ahead in the first period on Alex Shibicky's pass. When Bryan Hextall drew a minor penalty in the second, Thompson, a member of the first Ranger team and brother of the Boston goalie, began the defeat of his old mates.

Earl Seibert and Gottselig drew assists on the power play that ended in Thompson's counter. And when Phil Watson of Rangers went off late in the third Thompson and Louis Trudel laid down the puck for Gottselig's goal on another big drive.

The 7,500 who attended saw, in contrast to the Montreal game, a small parade of penalties. Lynn Patrick of Rangers and Roger Jenkins of Chicago drew majors in the first for fighting.

NOT BIG WINNER

LIVERPOOL, England — (CP). — In three years' racing Drim, 10-year-old jumper, entered 23 races, covering 51 miles and winning only $985 in stakes. Entered in the $4,150 Becher Steeplechase, he was unplaced.

NEW WOOL FIBRE.

BERLIN, Dec. 2—(CP Havas). — Two Hamburg chemists have manufactured a new type of wool fibre from albumin extracted from fish eggs, marking another stride in the Reich's ever-widening search for "ersatz" (substitute).

Another Marathon

Robert "Scotty" Rankine of Preston, Ont., is the winner for the fifth straight time of the Berwick marathon at Berwick, Pa. Rankine set a new mark of 47.16.8 for the nine miles 286 yards and is first to win the event more than three times in a row. He is pictured here.

Wembley Monarchs Top English Loop

LONDON, Dec. 3 (C.P. Cable). — Wembley Monarchs took over top position in the National Hockey League last night by defeating Wembley Lions, 3 to 0, while Streatham was taking Brighton 5 to 1.

Two Port Arthur players, Jimmy Haggarty and Alex. Sinclair, led the Monarch attack against last year's champions, each scoring a goal. Rene Lortie of Quebec got the other.

Red Stapleford of Watford, Ont., and Bill Woodward of Kitchener, Ont., each scored two goals for Streatham; and Archie Stinchcombe of Windsor, Ont., got hihe fifth. Tom Forgie of Brantford tallied the lone Tiger counter.

SOX DEAL UPSETS HOWLEY'S PLANS FOR MORE PLAYERS

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 3 (Special).—Baseball business boomed Thursday as most clubs showed a willingness to trade old faces for new—but for the third straight day, the name of the Toronto Club failed to figure in any sort of transaction.

Only twenty-four hours away from completion of the annual three-day convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, it appears as though any deals in which the Maple Leafs figure will have to be transacted at Chicago during the major leagues' meeting early next week.

Take it from Dan Howley, this meeting has not been a total "bust." The trouble is that the major league clubs with whom he is dealing don't wish to make any announcement until the Chicago meeting.

Howley Sure of Action

Howley has confided to the extent of naming the players he hopes to get, and a few he is certain to obtain, but premature release of their names might cancel all verbal arrangements. One deal alone, involves a southpaw pitcher and three infielders, while he has other lines out for an outfielder, catcher and two pitchers.

The big deal of the day between Chicago White Sox and Detroit Tigers upset Howley's plans somewhat. Catcher Mike Tresh, who was thrown into the deal by the Tigers, was almost a certainty to bob up in a Toronto uniform next season but now the Leafs will have to look elsewhere for a receiver.

Six Ball Players Swapped By Tigers-Chisox In Deal

Owen, Gerry Walker And Rookie Catcher Will Play For Chicago Next Year

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 3—(AP). — Managers Jimmy Dykes of Chicago White Sox and Mickey Cochrane of Detroit Tigers, two old baseball pals who've long been trying to outsmart each other as "ivory traders," swung one of the biggest player-for-player deals of recent years yesterday.

Putting new life in a minor league meeting which threatened a new "low" in actual major league transactions, the White Sox traded Pitcher Vernon Kennedy, Outfielder Dixie Walker and Infielder Tony Piet to Detroit for Outfielder Gerald Walker, Infield Marvin Owen and Catcher Mike Tresh.

The deal, in which no cash was involved, was announced after a brief conference in the hotel suite of J. Louis Comiskey, White Sox owner. The quick decision to act came after two days of bickering between Dykes and Cochrane.

"I had to bolster my pitching," said Cochrane, "and with Kennedy winning between eighteen and twenty games we will be tough next season, even though I had to sacrifice hitting and defensive strength by letting Gerald Walker and Owen go."

Dykes, who has been after Gerald Walker for three years and who wanted Owen to plug the Sox third-base hole, was elated. He said he long has wanted another "real hitting" outfielder, and described Owen as one "of the finest defensive infielders in the game."

Kennedy won fourteen games and lost thirteen last season, but in 1936 was a twenty-one-game winner.

Dixie Walker, who hit .300 for the Sox, developed into a Sox star after being "sold down the river" by New York Yanks when numerous injuries slowed him down.

Gerald Walker, one-time Detroit "problem child" because of his base-running antics, has been hitting sensationally, batting .335 in 1936 and getting eighteen homers.

Tresh, who caught more than 100 games and hit .271 for Portland in the Pacific Coast League last season, is a young catcher of promise. Piet, utility infielder for the Sox, is expected to strengthen Detroit's infield utility forces.

In Kennedy, who hurled a no-hit game in 1935, Detroit bolsters its pitching staff, weakened by Lynwood Rowe's loss of this 1934 and 1935 form.

The deal, rated as on of $150,000 worth of diamond talent, was the biggest for the White Sox since they bought Dykes, Al Simmons and Mule Haas from Philadelphia Athletics for $75,000 in 1933. The transaction made it a "walking day" for the Walkers. Previously Cincinnati had sold Hub Walker, Gerald's brother, to Nashville.

IN MEMORIAM

DAVIS.—In loving memory of Gertrude, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Davis, Ennismore, who entered into rest two years ago, December 5.

Not dead, but passed beyond
The mist that binds us here;
Into the newer, larger life
Of that unclouded sphere.
Gertrude, we sit and think of you
When we are all alone;
Memory is the only friend
Grief can call its own.
The flowers we place upon your grave
May wither and decay;
But our love for you who sleeps beneath
Will never fade away.

—Ever remembered by Mother, Father, Brother and Sisters.

McCULLOCH.—In loving memory of Mrs. Hugh McCulloch, who passed away two years ago, December 3, 1935.

When the Lord said, "You have finished; Come up higher, Mother, dear;
You have won a crown in Heaven
By your love and kindness here."
We remember well our sorrow
As we stood beside your bed,
Our deep and heartfelt anguish
When we saw that you were dead.
We missed your fond and willing hand.
Your fond and earnest care.
Our home is dark without you, Mother,
We miss you everywhere.

—Ever remembered by Sons and Daughters.

KROGH.—In loving memory of Leif Krogh, who passed away December 3, 1935.

Christ shall clasp that broken chain
Closer when we meet again.
